EFFECT OF COMMITTEE AMENDMENT: No amendment.

BACKGROUND: In 2009, the Oregon State Legislature passed House Bill 3013, establishing a process for evaluation and implementation of marine reserves within Oregon's Territorial Sea. Marine reserves are areas within Oregon's Territorial Sea or adjacent rocky intertidal area that are protected from all extractive and development activities, except as necessary for monitoring or research or to aid in the research and management of ocean habitats and marine plants and animals. Senate Bill 1510 directs state agencies to implement recommended sites and report back to the Legislative Assembly.
