

I have read your letter and agree with your points. I have tenants that I served eviction on before this all started. The Judge talked us into a stipulated order and they had to be out by March 31. They have violated almost all of his stipulations. I have filed at noncompliance with the court and sent them a certified letter of the filing. The continue to disturb the adjoining duplex tenants with excess company and loud music and noise all night long. These 2 issues were in the stipulation. I feel they are thinking we can't get them out right now.
