

What is the purpose of coyote killing? I thought listing a species as "vermin" was an outdated, cruel 19th century mentality. Why is it persisting in modern times? Killing coyotes, for what purpose? And worse, making them into contests, like some shooting gallery? What are the coyotes doing that merits this kind of behavior? Are they attacking livestock animals? What would make such a killing program happen, when we should know better?

I cannot and will not agree to this program. There are other far more humane programs for removing species than this.
