

Sexual preference is a private matter.

How a person chooses to express it is no business of the State.

If there was a vaccine that could be used to make people tolerant of other people's behaviors would it be mandatory for school children to get it? I certainly hope not.