Meeting Date: May 29, 2008

WHAT THE MEASURE DOES: Requires a person on probation or parole, applying to have his or her supervision transferred to another state to the person can move to the other state, pay an application fee. Directs that the money collected be used to pay the costs incurred in retaking offenders who have their supervision transferred and then have violated the terms of their probation or parole.

ISSUES DISCUSSED:

- Amount of fee to be collected
- Whether the fee was variable
- How many of the offenders end up being returned to Oregon

EFFECT OF COMMITTEE AMENDMENT: No amendment.

BACKGROUND: Oregon joined the Interstate Compact for Adult Offenders in 2001. The purpose of the compact is to regulate the supervision of parolees and probationers moving from one state to another. The compact is administered by the Interstate Commission consisting of a representative from each state. The Commission has the authority to adopt rules that have the force and effect of statutory law and are binding on the member states unless a majority of the state legislatures reject the rule. The Commission oversees the interstate movement of offenders.
