WHAT THE MEASURE DOES: Requires the Department of Corrections, beginning in 2012 and every six years thereafter, to conduct a study to determine the actual costs incurred by each county in providing management, support services, supervision and sanctioning of felons under the supervision of the county.

ISSUES DISCUSSED:

- Seventy percent of offenders on probation do not offend
- Community Corrections is cost effective

EFFECT OF COMMITTEE AMENDMENT: No amendment.

BACKGROUND: Pursuant to ORS 423.478(2) Oregon's counties, in partnership with the Oregon Department of Corrections, has responsibility for community-based supervision and sanctioning of offenders convicted of felonies and who are on parole, probation, post-prison supervision or sentences to less than 12 months incarceration. The State of Oregon reimburses the counties for providing these services.
