

Mr. Brennan,

I am informed you are the one to speak to regarding drivers licenses being granted to illegal aliens. Here goes.

I am of the opinion, in this state, that regardless of my aversion to this decision, and to the others I know who are also against this, there is a movement of folks who are decidedly for it. They appear to hold the seats of power.

Where I grew up, citizenship used to mean something. We didn't lie to get it. We didn't steal it. We didn't game the system. We had core principles. Now, we're called haters when we call people out for breaking the law. It's unbelievable. What's worse, our politicians aid and abet the criminals. Non-citizens vote when clearly a non citizen has no vote. This is just plain common sense. I am somehow a racist or a bigot or other popular word of the hour for stating the obvious.

A thief breaks into my home, steals from me, then demands equal voice at my dinner table. I seek government protection and government taxes me for the thieves' newly found standard of living. All is forgiven. Here is your bill. (My tax bill)

I grew up in a mill town/farming community. I worked on farms and in mills and every other little job I could find.

Guess what. Americans do the jobs you say that they don't. As we speak my son is working one now and gets paid crap wages just like his old man did. We have a work ethic in this family and I have known other Americans who do the same.

When the Oregon drivers licenses stopped being issued to illegal aliens, we all noticed the lines at the DMV were noticeably shorter.

The license plates in the parking lots from California, Arizona, Nevada, dwindled dramatically. We were informed these people simply did their fake I.D. business in Washington state.

Illegal aliens used to get Oregon drivers licenses pretty easily to start their new lives in the U.S. They would use five surnames and rotate them whenever they got caught committing a crime. If the law did manage to catch up to them they would simply slip back to their home country. Congress doesn't care. Which makes me question why I'm even writing this to you. This SB833 is likely to pass regardless of a majority of citizens being against it. So how do I feel about it? I consider it rewarding bad behavior.

Todd
