Eastern Promise is a collaboration between Eastern Oregon University,
the InterMountain Education Service District, Blue Mountain and Treasure Valley Community Colleges, and school districts in Eastern Oregon.

The program creates additional opportunities for high school students to participate in college-level courses, as well as earn college credits and/or certificates, while still in high school, a big money savings for families.

Now, thanks to

EASTERN PROMISE,
that's possible!

EASTERN PROMISE

BMCC, TVCC, EOU, IMESD, and Eastern Oregon High Schools partnering to ensure that each student has opportunities to earn college credit

DUAL CREDIT

Taught by high school teachers

High school teachers are approved to teach college credit course by appropriate college/university faculty. High school faculty must hold a discipline-specific Master's degree (or be provisionally approved with a discipline-specific Bachelor's degree and a Master's degree - non discipline-specific). In addition, they must have at least three years' teaching experience, students must achieve an 80% success rate on assessments, and teachers must participate in professional learning communities.

Students participate in dual credit courses with the objective of obtaining college credit toward an Associate of Arts degree (including Associate of Arts Oregon Transfer - AAOT), Certificate, or courses appropriate for the Oregon Transfer Module (OTM).

EXPANDED OPTIONS

(Also known as Dual Enrollment)

- Taught by college instructors
- Required by law to be offered to students
- Targets college credit not available at high schools

AP TESTS

College credit awarded based on AP test score and college awarding credit

CREDIT BY PROFICIENCY

Students will achieve college credit by displaying their proficiency through an assessment developed by Professional Learning Communities of Eastern Promise university, college and high school faculty. These assessments will be a part of a structured learning environment (high school class, online class, etc) where the student prepares to demonstrate their proficiency through successful completion of the assessments.
