EFFECT OF COMMITTEE AMENDMENT: No amendment.

BACKGROUND: In 1975, Congress amended the Voting Rights Act by adding Section 203, noting that "through the use of various practices and procedures, citizens of language minorities have been effectively excluded from participation in the electoral process....The Congress declares that, in order to enforce the guarantees of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the United States Constitution, it is necessary to eliminate such discrimination by prohibiting these practices." Section 203 provides that whenever any state or political subdivision provides registration or voting notices, forms, instructions, assistance, or other materials or information relating to the electoral process, including ballots, it shall provide them in the language of the applicable minority group as well as in the English language. Covered jurisdictions are determined based on data from the most recent census by the Director of the Census when the number of United States citizens of voting age is a single language group within the jurisdiction is: a) More than 10,000 or more than five percent of all voting age citizens; b) Population on an Indian reservation, exceeds five percent of all reservation residents; and c) illiteracy rate of the group is higher than the national illiteracy rate. House Bill 3506-A establishes the Task Force on Minority Language Voting Materials charged with determining the best way to ensure that members of large language-minority communities receive necessary voter materials in the applicable minority language. The types of voting materials that could be provided in other languages include, but are not limited to, registration forms, ballots, instructions for how to cast a vote, and voters' pamphlets.
