4 “SECTION 1. ORS 758.015 is amended to read:

5 “758.015. (1) When any person, as defined in ORS 758.400, providing electric utility service, as 6 defined in ORS 758.400, or any transmission company, proposes to construct an overhead trans-
7 mission line which will necessitate a condemnation of land or an interest therein, it shall petition
8 the Public Utility Commission for a certificate of public convenience and necessity setting forth a 9 detailed description and the purpose of the proposed transmission line, the estimated cost, the route
10 to be followed, the availability of alternate routes, a description of other transmission lines con-
11 necting the same areas, and such other information in such form as the commission may reasonably 12 require in determining the public convenience and necessity.

13 “(2) The commission shall give notice and hold a public hearing on such petition. The commis-
14 sion, in addition to considering facts presented at such hearing, shall make the commission’s own
15 investigation to determine the necessity, safety, practicability and justification in the public interest 16 for the proposed transmission line and shall enter an order accordingly. Except for petitions for 17 a proposed transmission line for which the petitioner also seeks approval from the Energy
18 Facility Siting Council for the same transmission line, the order shall be subject to review as 19 in other cases. Orders on petitions for a proposed transmission line for which the petitioner
20 also seeks approval from the Energy Facility Siting Council for the same transmission line
21 are subject to judicial review in the same manner as an order in a contested case as set forth
22 in section 3 of this 2013 Act. In any proceeding for condemnation, a certified copy of such order
23 shall be conclusive evidence that the transmission line for which the land is required is a public use 24 and necessary for public convenience.

25 “(3) This section shall not apply to construction of transmission lines in connection with a 26 project for which a permit or license is otherwise obtained pursuant to state or federal law.

27 “(4) As used in this section and ORS 758.020, ‘transmission company’ means a person or entity
28 that owns or operates high voltage transmission lines and is subject to the jurisdiction of the Fed-
29 eral Energy Regulatory Commission. ‘Transmission company’ does not include a cooperative organ-
30 ized under ORS chapter 62.

31 “SECTION 2. Section 3 of this 2013 Act is added to and made a part of ORS chapter 758.

32 “SECTION 3. (1) Any party to a contested case hearing related to the application for a 33 certificate of public convenience and necessity under ORS 758.015 for a proposed trans-
34 mission line for which the petitioner also seeks approval from the Energy Facility Siting
35 Council for the same transmission line may appeal the Public Utility Commission’s grant or

1 denial of the application. Issues on appeal shall be limited to those raised by the parties to 2 the contested case hearing before the commission.

3 “(2) Jurisdiction for judicial review of the commission’s approval or rejection of an ap-4 plication for a certificate of public convenience and necessity under subsection (1) of this 5 section is conferred upon the Supreme Court. Proceedings for review shall be instituted by 6 filing a petition in the Supreme Court. The petition shall be filed within 60 days after the date
7 of service of the commission’s final order. Date of service shall be the date on which the 8 commission delivered or mailed the final order in accordance with ORS 183.470.

9 “(3) The filing of a petition for judicial review may not stay the order, except that a party
10 to the contested case hearing may apply to the Supreme Court for a stay upon a showing 11 that there is a colorable claim of error and that the petitioner will suffer irreparable injury.

12 “(4) If the Supreme Court grants a stay pursuant to subsection (3) of this section, the 13 court:

14 “(a) Shall require the petitioner requesting the stay to give an undertaking in the amount 15 of $5,000.

16 “(b) May grant the stay in whole or in part.

17 “(c) May impose other reasonable conditions on the stay.

18 “(5) The review by the Supreme Court shall be the same as the review by the Court of 19 Appeals described in ORS 183.482. The Supreme Court shall give priority on its docket to a 20 petition for review under this section and render a decision within six months of the filing 21 of the petition for review.

22 “(6) The following periods of delay shall be excluded from the six-month period within 23 which the court must render a decision under subsection (5) of this section:

24 “(a) Any period of delay resulting from a motion properly before the court; or

25 “(b) Any reasonable period of delay resulting from a continuance granted by the court 26 on the court’s own motion or at the request of one of the parties, if the court granted the 27 continuance on the basis of findings that the ends of justice served by granting the contin-
28 uance outweigh the best interests of the public and the other parties in having a decision 29 within six months.

30 “(7) No period of delay resulting from a continuance granted by the Supreme Court under 31 subsection (6)(b) of this section shall be excluded from the six-month period unless the court 32 sets forth, in the record, either orally or in writing, the court’s reasons for finding that the 33 ends of justice served by granting the continuance outweigh the best interests of the public 34 and the other parties in having a decision within six months. The factors the court shall 35 consider in determining whether to grant a continuance under subsection (6)(b) of this sec-36 tion are:

37 “(a) Whether the failure to grant a continuance in the proceeding would be likely to 38 make a continuation of the proceeding impossible or result in a miscarriage of justice; or

39 “(b) Whether the case is so unusual or so complex, because of the number of parties in-40 volved or the existence of novel questions of fact or law, that it is unreasonable to expect 41 adequate consideration of the issues within the six-month period.

42 “(8) No continuance under subsection (6)(b) of this section shall be granted because of 43 general congestion of the court calendar or lack of diligent preparation or attention to the 44 case by any member of the court or any party.

45 “SECTION 4. ORS 756.610 is amended to read:

1 “756.610. (1) Except as provided in [subsection (2)] subsections (2) and (3) of this section, final
2 orders of the Public Utility Commission are subject to judicial review as orders in contested cases
3 under the provisions of ORS 183.480 to 183.497.

4 “(2) ORS 183.482 (3) does not apply to judicial review of an order of the Public Utility Com-
5 mission. At any time after filing a petition for judicial review of a final order of the commission, the 6 petitioner may apply to the Court of Appeals for a stay of the order until the final disposition of the 7 appeal. The court may grant a stay for cause shown. As a condition of granting a stay, the court
8 may require a bond or other security, or impose such other conditions as the court deems appro-
9 priate. A stay may be granted only after notice to the commission and opportunity for hearing. Any 10 bond required by the court must be executed in favor of the commission for the benefit of interested 11 persons, and may be enforced by the commission or by any interested person.

12 “(3) An order of the Public Utility Commission related to the petition for a certificate of 13 public convenience and necessity under ORS 758.015, where the petitioner also seeks approval
14 from the Energy Facility Siting Council for the proposed transmission line, is subject to ju-
15 dicial review as provided in section 3 of this 2013 Act.

16 “SECTION 5. Section 3 of this 2013 Act and the amendments to ORS 756.610 and 758.015
17 by sections 1 and 4 of this 2013 Act apply to petitions filed with the Public Utility Commission
18 under ORS 758.015 on or after the effective date of this 2013 Act.”.
