

As gas became more and more scarce in coastal towns, people started siphoning gas from destroyed cars.