BACKGROUND: Public bodies in Oregon include state government organizations, local governments, and special government bodies, such as school districts, educational service districts, community colleges and universities with governing boards, and public corporations. Public bodies have access to a wide variety of confidential information including health records and school records.

Senate Bill 670 requires the Department of Justice to work with the Department of Human Services, the Oregon Health Authority, the Housing and Community Services Department, the Employment Department, the Department of Revenue, and other public bodies to develop and implement a course for employees who have access to confidential information on the laws surrounding confidentiality and privacy. The course must be implemented by January 1, 2017 and is required to be attended by employees every two years. The measure also requires the development of a work group to develop a standardized confidentiality release form and a legislative proposal for the 2017 session to modify existing statute to facilitate better communication between public bodies.
