BACKGROUND: The Uniform Commercial Code (UCC) was developed by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws (NCCUSL) and the American Law Institute (ALI) and has been adopted in some form by all 50 states. States may adopt the Code as it is written, or it may make specific changes. The UCC governs commercial transactions and has 9 sections, or Articles. Article 9 governs secured transactions and its Oregon statutory counterpart can be found in Chapter 79 of Oregon Revised Statutes.

ORS 79.0502 provides the information required on a financing statement: the name of the debtor, the name of secured party, and the collateral covered by the financing statement. To sufficiently provide the name of an individual debtor, the financing statement must either reflect the individual name of the debtor or the surname and first personal name of the debtor, or the name on an un-expired state-issued identification card or driver license. The names of debtors and priority liens associated with those debtors are catalogued on the Secretary of State's searchable database.

Senate Bill 462 requires the name as it appears on an unexpired driver license or state-issued identification card for perfection of filing a financing statement. If there is no current driver license or identification card, the debtor may be named with the use of the surname and first personal name.
