

To whom it concerns,

More ridiculous laws from government. As usual this proposal will only impact those who care about following laws. It will tie the hands of those who are normally careful and attentive and do absolutely nothing to curb crime. It is dilusional to think someone hellbent on killing cares what "minor" laws he breaks on the path to murder. This proposal purposely aims to attack the rights of those who have never, and will never, commit a crime more heinous than speeding.

Laws only affect law-abiding citizens. Last time I checked murder and assault are already illegal and piling on more laws will not stop those who ignore them.
