BACKGROUND: A "school nurse" (ORS 342.455) is a Registered Nurse certified by the Teacher Standards and Practices Commission (TSPC) as qualified to conduct and coordinate the health service programs of a school. Schools do not have to hire TSPC certified nurses. School nurses help manage students with chronic conditions (diabetes, food allergies, asthma, obesity), provide injury and illness care and prevention, mental health support, case management and emergency care. Due to the impact of health on education, school nurses influence attendance, achievement and graduation rates. The Oregon Department of Education reported that for the 2013-2014 school year, 267 full-time nurses were employed in schools (35 licensed practical nurses and 232 registered nurses), and there was a ratio of one registered nurse to 2,119 students. The goal of school districts is to have one registered nurse for 750 students by 2020. The 2007 Legislature passed House Bill 2773 to establish a task force to study school nurses in Oregon. The task force recommended the creation of a permanent school nurse consultant to support the successful implementation and sustainability of expanding school nursing services.
