

This is just another bill that will do nothing. There are already enough laws on the books that cover guns. People that leave a gun laying around so that a child can get it and then accidently shoot somebody should should be held accountable regardless of the seriousness of the shooting. We are becoming a nanny state where liberals think laws are the answer to every problem that come along instead of holding everyone responsible for their own actions.

Thank You
Jim Ammons