

Make the existing Oregon State Police voluntary private gun background check system that is currently in place for buyers/sellers into a new required law. The new law would require that the seller or buyer call in the purchase from where ever their location is at. The law is going to work when Oregonians can call from the point of sale. If you make people travel to ffl dealers the law is largely going to be ignored especially in rural areas where ffl's are few and far between and citizens have to travel extended distances to find one. In order for a law such as this to work it has to be practical.
