INTRODUCTION

The booklet you are about to read is an English paraphrase of a Red Communist "textbook" used both in Russia and in America to train Communist agents in the art of deceiving non-communists with words and with false precepts.

This "textbook" spells out methods which secret communists use to "alter the loyalties" of American citizens and then use those citizens, especially those in government positions, to take control of the nation. It describes these ingenious and effective methods of "mind control," called "psychiatry" and "psychology," which are promoted as forms of "mental healing." Needless to say, the Reds do not want Christian Americans to know these are false sciences by which they gain "control of the minds of the people."

However, in the 1950's, a disenchanted communist published this paraphrased version that you will read here and distributed several thousand copies to American Christians. Secret American Reds immediately ridiculed him and the book and tried in many ways to prevent its distribution. That former Communist died in the 1970's and this reprinting is made to carry on his attempt to warn the American people.

Americans have heard of this "art" of mind control by the term "brain-washing," a term coined by Ed Hunter, the famous war correspondent. Ed Hunter wrote a number of books in the 1950's on the methods used by Communists to capture whole nations by mental subversion. However, Ed Hunter's books, as this book, had very little distribution in America and perhaps only a few thousands Americans really understood his warnings about mind control.

In Ed Hunter's book, "Black Book on Red China," he showed that the secret processes used by the Red Chinese to capture that nation of 400 million people were identical to the secret techniques being used in America and in Europe on the people of the Christian West! In his books and in his lectures in America in the 50's and 60's, Ed Hunter told his audiences that the only defense against "brainwashing" was to know how it is done. He argued convincingly that any person who understands the technique of "brain-washing" cannot be "brain-washed." He said, "Knowledge of brain-washing is vaccination against, it." This book now in your hands will give you knowledge of that brain-washing.

A great, and almost secret, war is being waged by Red Communists against Christians and Christianity. A Red author once wrote, "Books are weapons in the war of ideas." The lectures and studies in this book are of two weapons, psychiatry and psychology, that secret Red Communists use against us in our own country. You may have already realized that the pseudo-sciences of psychiatry and psychology are ruining millions of American lives. What you may not have known, is that such ruination is deliberate.

I pray that your reading of this, their own "textbook" on these two weapons, will not only neutralize their "mind weapons" against you, but that you, in turn, will use this book to warn others in America of these hidden methods the Reds are using in their war to destroy Christianity.

Jesus Christ told His followers, "The servant is not greater than his lord. If they have persecuted Me (they did), they will also persecute you." (They have, and they are.) Jesus also said, "In the world ye (Christians) shall have tribulation: but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world."

The age is drawing to a close. The Red world system is spewing forth its last desperate attempt to destroy Christianity. Read the following editorial note by Col. Gordon (Jack) Mohr, and the 1936 speech by Laventia Beria, the Jewish head of the Soviet Secret Police, as he confidently predicted the Communists would eventually "have dominion over the minds and bodies of every important person" in America and then would bring about the "quiet Communist conquest of the nation."

Then read the rest of the book for the details of that plan of "quiet" conquest and look at the America of today, a half century after Beria's speech.

Don't waste another minute. Turn the page and keep on reading. And may God have mercy on America, in Christ,

Pastor Emry

FOOTNOTE:

Here are a few warnings from the Holy Bible that antichristians would use lying words to deceive and to destroy Christians:

"The wicked plotteth against the just (the justified or Christians), and gnasheth upon him with his teeth (with his words)."

"Yea, and all that will live godly in Christ Jesus (Christians) shall suffer persecution (from the wicked)."

"Through covetousness (desire for gain) shall they (the wicked) with feigned (deceitful) words make merchandise of you (sell or betray Christians for money)."

"For many deceivers (non-Christians) are entered into the world, who confess not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh. This is a deceiver (of Christians) and an antichrist."

EDITORIAL NOTE

The synthesis of this Communist textbook was originally written by Rev. Kenneth Goff. Brother Goff, who recently passed away, was a dues-paying member of the Communist Party from May 2, 1936 to October 10, 1939, operating under the alias of John Keats. In 1939, Kenneth Goff voluntarily appeared before the House Un-American Activity Committee in Washington, D.C., which was chaired at this time by Congressman Martin Dies; his testimony can be found in Volume 9 of the 1939 Congressional Report.

During this period when Rev. Goff was a member of the Communist Party, he attended their indoctrination school located at 113 East Wells St., Milwaukee, Wisconsin, then being operated under the name of the Eugene Debs Labor School. It was here that American Communists were trained in all phases of psychological and physical warfare for the defeat and destruction of Capitalist society and Christian civilization.

One portion of this study went thoroughly into the matter of psychopolitics. This is the art of capturing the minds of a nation through "thought control" and fake mental health — the subjugating of whole nations of people to Communist rule by capturing their minds.

During the period since the Korean War in 1953, I have noted with increasing horror and concern the use of psychological warfare on the American people, through the media, the Church, and especially in our public schools. This first became evident in the "brainwashing" of our boys who were taken prisoner in Korea. It was my privilege to work with these men when they returned through Panmunjom in 1953. Later, because of this work, I wrote and taught the first classes given to the Army in the Military Code of Conduct.

Because of personal interest in this subject, I became aware of pressures of psychological warfare, as it was crammed down the throats of gullible people. It became evident in the military during the infamous "Pro-Blue" persecution of General Edwin Walker in Germany, and the equally infamous Fullbright Memorandum which effectively gagged any American servicemen who desired to expose this evil.

The drive to influence the public became evident during this same period in well-financed drives of mental health propaganda by left-wing pressure groups. Many of our states passed bills which could be used by the enemies of America to torture and imprison these men and women of courage, who still preach the Gospel of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ, and who believe Christians MUST oppose the menace of anti-God Communism.

A careful study of the Alaska Health bill will show you how this plan has been implemented in that state and how Alaska could be quickly turned into a gigantic prison camp, under the guise of mental health, for anyone who dares oppose Communism in America, and who dares to oppose the hidden government which operates this nation.

I have been a friend of Kenneth Goff for many years and, although I did not always agree with him, I had a great deal of admiration for his courage. I believe he would want this manual reproduced for this generation, showing the evils of this enemy of mankind which he so diligently opposed.

This book, used in underground schools throughout the United States, contains the welcoming address by Laventia Beria to American university students attending Lenin University prior to 1936. The text of this book in general was taken from the Communist Manual of Instruction for Psychological Warfare and was used in the United States in the training of Communist cadre. The only revision is in the summary, which was added after the atom bomb had been dropped in Japan at the end of World War II. In its contents you can see the diabolical plot of the enemies of Christ and America, as they seek to subvert and conquer our nation by subjugating the minds of our people to their will.

This manual needs to be in the hands of every loyal American, especially those who claim Christ as Savior, so that they may realize that nations are not always conquered by "force of arms alone."

This is an appeal to all concerned Americans to "learn the truth, that they may remain free." I do not believe we will lose our freedoms in America some dismal morning, when the enemy knocks on our door and hauls us away to a concentration camp; rather, we will lose it when we see things happening in our schools, churches, and government, which we know are wrong but we fail to take action to stop them. When enough good Americans fall down in their duty to God and Country, we will have to bury America and write on her headstone this epitaph: "America died because the American people didn't want to be bothered."

There are those who will claim the original synthesis by Kenneth Goff was a fake. I will not attempt to answer this accusation. I merely ask you to notice how these plans, written over 40 years ago, are now being implemented.

The added notes and underlining are my thoughts and emphasis.

(Given to hand-picked American students who were sent to Moscow for indoctrination)

American students at the Lenin University, I welcome your attendance at these classes on Psychopolitics.

Psychopolitics is an important if less known division of Geo-politics. It is less known because it must necessarily deal with highly educated personnel, the very top strata of "mental healing."

By psychopolitics our chief goals are effectively carried forward. To produce a maximum of chaos in the culture of the enemy is our first most important step. Our fruits are grown in chaos, distrust, economic depression and scientific turmoil. At last a weary populace can seek peace only in our offered Communist State, at last only Communism can resolve the problems of the masses.

A psychopolitician must work hard to produce the maximum chaos in the fields of "mental healing." He must recruit and use all the agencies and facilities of "mental healing." He must labor to increase the personnel and facilities of "mental healing" until at last the entire field of mental science is entirely dominated by Communist principles and desires.

To achieve these goals the psychopolitician must crush every "home-grown" variety of mental healing in America. Actual teachings of James, Eddy and Pentecostal Bible faith healers amongst your misguided people must be swept aside. They must be discredited, defamed, arrested, stamped upon even by their own government until there is no credit in them and only Communist-oriented "healing" remains. You must work until every teacher of psychology unknowingly or knowingly teaches only Communist doctrine under the guise of "psychology." You must labor until every doctor and psychiatrist is either a psycho-politician or an unwitting assistant to our aims.

You must labor until we have dominion over the minds and bodies of every important person in your nation. You must achieve such disrepute for the state of insanity and such authority over its pronouncement that not one statesman so labeled could again be given credence by his people. You must work until suicide arising from mental imbalance is common and calls forth no general investigation or remark.

With the institutions for the insane you have in your country prisons which can hold a million persons and can hold them without civil rights or any hope of freedom. And upon these people can be practiced shock and surgery so that never again will they draw a sane breath. You must make these treatments common and accepted. And you must sweep aside any treatment or any group of persons seeking to treat by effective means.

You must dominate as respected men the fields of psychiatry and psychology. You must dominate the hospitals and universities. You must carry forward the myth that only a European doctor is competent in the field of insanity and thus excuse amongst you the high incidence of foreign birth and training. If and when we seize Vienna you shall have then a common ground of meeting and can come and take your instructions as worshippers of Freud along with other psychiatrists.

Psychopolitics is a solemn charge. With it you can erase our enemies as insects. You can cripple the efficiency of leaders by striking insanity into their families through the use of drugs. You can wipe them away with testimony as to their insanity. By our technologies you can even bring about insanity itself when they seem too resistive.

You can change their loyalties by psychopolitics. Given a short time with a psychopolitician you can alter forever the loyalty of a soldier in our hands or a statesman or a leader in his own country, or you can destroy his mind.

However you labor under certain dangers. It may happen that remedies for our "treatments" may be discovered. It may occur that a public hue and cry may arise against "mental healing." It may thus occur that all mental healing might be placed in the hands of ministers and be taken out of the hands of our psychologists and psychiatrists. But the Capitalistic thirst for control, Capitalistic inhumanity and a general public terror of insanity can be brought to guard against these things. But should they occur, should independent researchers actually discover means to undo psychopolitical procedures, you must not rest, you must not eat or sleep, you must not stint one tiniest bit of available money to campaign against it, discredit it, strike it down and render it void. For by an effective means all our actions and researches could be undone.

In a Capitalistic state you are aided on all sides by the corruption of the philosophy of man and the times. You will discover that everything will aid you in your campaign to seize, control and use all "mental healing" to spread our doctrine and rid us of our enemies within their own borders.

Use the courts, use the judges, use the Constitution of the country, use its medical societies and its laws to further our ends. Do not stint in your labor in this direction. And when you have succeeded you will discover that you can now effect your own legislation at will and you can, by careful organization of healing societies, by constant campaign about the terrors of society, by pretense as to your effectiveness make your Capitalist himself, by his own appropriations, finance a large portion of the quiet Communist conquest of the nation.

By psychopolitics create chaos. Leave a nation leaderless. Kill our enemies. And bring to Earth, through Communism, the greatest peace Man has ever known.

Thank you.

Note: In the Aesopian language of Communism, "Peace" means all cessation of hostility against Communism.

CHAPTER I

THE HISTORY AND DEFINITION OF PSYCHOPOLITICS

Although punishment for its own sake may not be entirely without recompense, it is, nevertheless, true that the end and goal of all punishment is the indoctrination of the person being punished with an idea, whether that idea be one of restraint or obedience.

In that any ruler has, from time beyond memory, needed the obedience of his subjects in order to accomplish his ends, he has thus resorted to punishment. This is true of every tribe and state in the history of Man. Today, Russian culture has evolved more certain and definite methods of aligning and securing the loyalties of persons and populaces, and of enforcing obedience upon them. This modern outgrowth of old practice is called Psychopolitics.

The stupidity and narrowness of nations not blessed with Russian reasoning has caused them to rely upon practices which are, today, too ancient and out-moded for the rapid and heroic pace of our time. And in view of the tremendous advance of Russian Culture in the field of mental technologies, begun with the glorious work of Pavlov and carried forward so ably by later Russians, it would be strange that an art and science would not evolve totally devoted to the aligning of loyalties and extracting the obedience of individuals and multitudes.

Thus we see that psychopolitical procedures are a natural outgrowth of practices as old as Man, practices which are current in every group of men throughout the world. Thus, in psychopolitical procedures there is no ethical problem, since it is obvious and evident that Man is always coerced against his will to the greater good of the State, whether by economic gains or indoctrination into the wishes and desires of the State.

Basically, Man is an animal. He is an animal which has been given a civilized veneer. Man is a collective animal, grouped together for his own protection before the threat of the environment. Those who so group and control him must then have in their possession specialized techniques to direct the vagaries and energies of the animal Man toward greater efficiency in the accomplishment of the goals of the State.*

*Note: [Gen. 2:7 — "The Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul."]

Psychopolitics, in one form or another, have long been used in Russia, but the subject is all but unknown outside the borders of our nation, save only where we have carefully transplanted our information and where it is used for the greater good of the nation.

The definition of Psychopolitics follows.

Psychopolitics is the art and science of asserting and maintaining dominion over the thoughts and loyalties of individuals, officers, bureaus, and masses, and the effecting of the conquest of enemy nations through "mental healing."

The subject of Psychopolitics breaks down into several categories, each a natural and logical proceeding from the last. Its first subject is the constitution and anatomy of Man, himself, as a political organism. The next is an examination of Man as an economic organism, as this might be controlled by his desires. The next is classification of State goals for the individual and masses. The next is an examination of loyalties. The next is the general subject of obedience. The next is the anatomy of the stimulus-response mechanisms of Man. The next is the subjects of shock and endurance. The next is categories of experience. The next is the catalyzing and aligning of experience. The next is the use of drugs. The next is the use of implantation. The next is the general application of Psychopolitics within Russia. The next is the organization and use of counter-Psychopolitics. The next is the use of Psychopolitics in the conquest of foreign nations. The next is psychopolitical organizations outside Russia, their composition and activity. The next is the creation of slave philosophy in an hostile nation. The next is countering anti-psychopolitical activities abroad, and the final one, the destiny of psychopolitical rule in a scientific age. To this might be added many subcategories, such as the nullification of modern weapons by psychopolitical activity.

The strength and power of Psychopolitics cannot be overestimated, particularly when used in a nation decayed by pseudo-intellectualism, where exploitation of the masses combines readily with psychopolitical actions, and particularly where the greed of Capitalistic or Monarchical regimes has already brought about an overwhelming incidence of neurosis which can be employed as the groundwork for psychopolitical action and a psychopolitical corps.

It is part of your mission, student, to prevent psychopolitical activity to the detriment of the Russian State, just as it is your mission to carry forward in our nation and outside it, if you are so assigned, the missions and goals of Psychopolitics. No agent of Russia could be even remotely effective without a thorough grounding in Psychopolitics, and so you carry forward with you a Russian trust to use well what you are learning here.

CHAPTER II

THE CONSTITUTION OF MAN AS A POLITICAL ORGANISM

Man is already a colonial aggregation of cells, and to consider him an individual would be an error. Colonies of cells have gathered together as one organ or another of the body, and then these organs have, themselves, gathered together to form the whole. Thus we see that man, himself, is already a political organism, even if we do not consider a mass of men.

Like the "individual" man, the State is a collection of aggregations. The political entities within the State must, all of them, co-operate for the greater good of the State lest the State itself fall asunder and die, for with the disaffection of any single distrust we discover an example set for other districts, and we discover, at length, the entire State falling. This is the danger of revolution.

Look at Earth. We see here one entire organism. The organism of Earth is an individual organism. Earth has as its organs the various races and nations of men. Where one of these is permitted to remain disaffected, Earth itself is threatened with death. The threatened rebellion of one country, no matter how small, against the total organism of Earth, would find Earth sick, and the cultural state of man to suffer in consequence. Thus, the putrescent illness of Capitalist States, spreading their pus and bacteria into the healthy countries of the world would not do otherwise than bring about the death of Earth, unless these ill organisms are brought into loyalty and obedience and made to function for the greater good of the world-wide State.

As the average individual is incapable, in an unformed and uncultured state, as witness the barbarians of the jungle, so must he be trained into a co-ordination of his organic functions by exercise, education, and work toward specific goals. We particularly and specifically note that the individual must be directed from without to accomplish his exercise, education, and work. He must be made to realize this, for only then can he be made to function efficiently in the role assigned to him.

The tenets of rugged individualism, personal determinism, self-will, imagination, and personal creativeness are alike in the masses antipathetic to the good of the Greater State. These willful and unaligned forces are no more than illnesses which will bring about disaffection, disunity, and at length the collapse of the group to which the individual is attacked.

The constitution of Man lends itself easily and thoroughly to certain and positive regulation from without of all of its functions, including those of thinkingness, obedience, and loyalty, and these things must be controlled if a greater State is to ensue.

While it may seem desirable to the surgeon to amputate one or another limb or organ in order to save the remainder, it must be pointed out that this expediency is not entirely possible of accomplishment where one considers entire nations. A body deprived of organs can be observed to be lessened in its effectiveness. The world deprived of the workers now enslaved by the insane and nonsensical idiocies of the Capitalists and Monarchs of Earth, would, if removed, create a certain disability in the world-wide State. Just as we see the victor forced to rehabilitate the population of a conquered country at the end of a war, thus any effort to depopulate a disaffected portion of the world might have some consequence. However, let us consider the inroad of virus and bacteria hostile to the organism, and we see that unless we can conquer the germ, the organ or organism which it is attacking will, itself, suffer.

In any State we have certain individuals who operate in the role of the virus and germ, and these, attacking the population or any group within the population, produce, by their self-willed greed, a sickness in the organ, which then generally spreads to the whole.

The constitution of Man as an individual body, or the constitution of a State or a portion of the State as a political organism are analogous. It is the mission of Psychopolitics first to align the obedience and goals of the group, and then maintain their alignment by the eradication of the effectiveness of the persons and personalities which might swerve the group toward disaffection. In our own nation, where things are better managed and where reason reigns above all else, it is not difficult to eradicate the self-willed bacteria which might attack one of our political entities. But in the field of conquest, in nations less enlightened, where the Russian State does not yet have power, it is not as feasible to remove the entire self-willed individual. Psychopolitics makes it possible to remove that part of his personality which, in itself, is making havoc with the person's own constitution as well as the group with which the person is connected.

If the animal man were permitted to continue undisturbed by counter-revolutionary propaganda, if he were left to work under the well-planned management of the State, we would discover little sickness amongst Man, and we would discover no sickness in the State. But where the individual is troubled by conflicting propaganda, where he is made the effect of revolutionary activities, where he is permitted to think thoughts critical of the State itself, where he is permitted to question of those in whose natural charge he falls, we would discover his constitution to suffer. So certain is this principle that when one finds a sick individual, could one search deeply enough, he would discover a mis-aligned loyalty and an interrupted obedience to that person's group unit.

There are those who foolishly have embarked upon some spiritual Alice-in-Wonderland voyage into what they call the "subconscious" or the "unconscious" mind, and who, under the guise of "psychotherapy" would seek to make well the disaffection of body organs, but it is to be noted that their results are singularly lacking in success. There is no strength in such an approach. When hypnotism was first invented in Russia it was observed that all that was necessary was to command the unresisting individual to be well in order, many times, to accomplish that fact. The limitation of hypnotism was that many subjects were not susceptible to its uses, and thus hypnotism has had to be improved upon in order to increase the suggestibility of individuals who would not otherwise be reached. Thus, any nation has had the experience of growing well again, as a whole organism, when placing sufficient force in play against a disaffected group. Just as in hypnotism any organ can be commanded into greater loyalty and obedience, so can any political group be commanded into greater loyalty and obedience should sufficient force be employed. However, force often brings about destruction and it is occasionally not feasible to use broad mass force to accomplish the ends in view. Thus, it is necessary to align the individual against his desire not to conform.

Just as it is a recognized truth that Man must conform to his environment, so it is a recognized truth, and will become more so as the years proceed, that even the body of Man can be commanded into health.

The constitution of Man renders itself peculiarly adapted to re-alignment of loyalties. Where these loyalties are indigestible to the constitution of the individual itself, such as loyalties to the 'petit bourgeoisie,' the Capitalist, to anti-Russian ideas, we find the individual body peculiarly susceptible to sickness, and thus we can clearly understand the epidemics, illnesses, mass-neuroses, tumults and confusions of the United States and other capitalist countries. Here we find the worker improperly and incorrectly loyal, and thus we find the worker ill. To save him and establish him correctly and properly upon his goal toward a greater State, it is an overpowering necessity to make it possible for him to grant his loyalties in a correct direction. In that his loyalties are swerved and his obedience cravenly demanded by persons antipathetic to his general good, and in that these persons are few, even in a Capitalist nation, the goal and direction of Psychopolitics is clearly understood. To benefit the worker in such a plight, it is necessary to eradicate, by general propaganda, by other means, and by his own co-operation, and self-willedness of perverted leaders. It is necessary, as well, to indoctrinate the educated strata into the tenets and principles of co-operation with the environment, and thus to insure to the worker less-warped leadership, less craven doctrine, and more co-operation with the ideas and ideals of the Communist State.

The technologies of Psychopolitics are directed to this end.

CHAPTER III

MAN AS AN ECONOMIC ORGANISM

Man is subject to certain desires and needs which are as natural to his beingness as they are to that of any other animal. Man, however, has the peculiarity of exaggerating some of these beyond the bounds of reason. This is obvious through the growth of leisure classes, pseudo-intellectual groups, the 'petit bourgeoisie,' Capitalism, and other ills.

It has been said, with truth, that one tenth of a man's life concerned with politics and nine-tenths with economics. Without food, the individual dies. Without clothing, he freezes. Without houses and weapons, he is prey to the starving wolves. The acquisition of sufficient items to answer these necessities of food, clothing, and shelter, in reason, is the natural right of a member of an enlightened State. An excess of such items brings about unrest and disquiet. The presence of luxury items and materials, and the artificial creation and whetting of appetites, as in Capitalist advertising, are certain to accentuate the less-desirable characteristics of Man.*

The individual is an economic organism, in that he requires a certain amount of food, a certain amount of water, and must hold within himself a certain amount of heat in order to live. When he has more food than he can eat, more clothing than he needs to protect him, he then enters upon a certain idleness which dulls his wits and awareness, and makes him prey to difficulties which, in a less toxic state, he would have foreseen and avoided. Thus, we have a glut being a menace to the individual.

It is no less different in a group. Where the group acquires too much, its awareness of its own fellows and of the environment is accordingly reduced, and the effectiveness the group in general is lost.

The maintaining of a balance between gluttony and need is the province of Economics proper, and is the fit subject and concern of the Communist State.

Desire and want are a state of mind. Individuals can be educated into desiring and wanting more than they can ever possibly obtain, and such individuals are unhappy. Most of the self-willed characteristics of the Capitalists come entirely from greed. He exploits the worker far beyond any necessity on his own part, as a Capitalist, to need.

Note: [It is interesting to note that it is all right for the Communist leaders to live in luxurious villas, with hordes of servants and the most sumptuous food. It is only bad for the proletariat.]

In a nation where economic balances are not controlled, the appetite of the individual is unduly whetted by enchanting and fanciful persuasions to desire, and a type of insanity ensues, where each individual is persuaded to possess more than he can use, and to possess it even at the expense of his fellows.

There is, in economic balances, the other side. Too great and too long privation can bring about unhealthy desires, which, in themselves, accumulate if left action, more than the individual can use. Poverty, itself, as carefully cultivated in Capitalist States, can bring about an imbalance of acquisition. Just as a vacuum will pull into it masses, in a country where enforced privation upon the masses is permitted, and where desire is artificially whetted, need turns to greed, and one easily discovers in such states exploitation of the many for the benefit of the few.

If one, by the technologies of Psychopolitics, were to dull this excessive greed in the few who possess it, the worker would be freed to seek a more natural balance.

Here we have two extremes. Either one of them are an insanity. If we wish to create an insanity we need only glut or deprive an individual at long length beyond the ability to withstand and we have a mental imbalance. A simple example of this is the alternation of too low with too high pressures in a chamber, an excellent psychopolitical procedure. The rapidly varied pressure brings about a chaos wherein the individual will cannot act and where other wills then, perforce, assume control.

Essentially, in an entire country, one must remove the greedy by whatever means and must then create and continue a semi-privation in the masses in order to command and utterly control the nation.

A continuous hope for prosperity must be indoctrinated in to the masses with many dreams and visions of glut of commodity and this hope must be counter-played against the actuality of privation and the continuous threat of loss of all economic factors in case of disloyalty to the State in order to suppress the individual wills of the masses.

In a nation under conquest such as America, our slow and stealthy approach need take advantage only of the cycles of booms and depressions inherent in Capitalistic nations in order to assert of more and more strong control over individual wills. A boom is as advantageous as a depression for our ends for during prosperity our propaganda lines must only continue to point up the wealth the period is delivering to the selected few to divorce their control of the state. During a depression one must only point out that it ensued as a result of the avarice of a few and the general political incompetence of the national leaders.

The handling of economic propaganda is not properly the sphere of psychopolitics but the psychopolitician must understand economic measures and Communist goals connected with them.

The masses must at last come to believe that only excessive taxation of the rich can relieve them of the "burdensome leisure class" and can thus be brought to accept such a thing as income tax, a Marxist principle smoothly slid into Capitalistic framework in 1909 in the United States. This even though the basic law of the United States forbade it and even though Communism at that time had been active only a few years in America. Such success as the Income Tax law, had it been followed thoroughly could have brought the United States and not Russia into the world scene as the first Communist nation. But the virility and good sense of the Russian peoples won. It may not be that the United States will become entirely Communist until past the middle of the century but when it does it will be because of our superior understanding of economics and of psychopolitics.

The Communist agent skilled in economics has as his task the suborning of tax agencies and their personnel to create the maximum disturbance and chaos and the passing of laws adapted to our purposes and to him we must leave this task.* The psychopolitical operator plays a distinctly different role in this drama.

The rich, the skilled in finance, the well informed in government are particular and individual targets for the psychopolitician. His is the role of taking off the board those individuals who would halt or corrupt Communist economic programs. Thus every rich man, every statesman, every person well informed and capable in government must have brought to his side as a trusted confidant a psychopolitical operator.

The families of these persons are often deranged from idleness and glut and this fact must be played upon, even created. The normal health and wildness of a rich man's son must be twisted and perverted and explained into neurosis and then, assisted by a timely administration of drugs or violence, turned into criminality or insanity. This brings at once some one in "mental healing" into confidential contact with the family and from this point on the very most must then be made of that contact.

Communism could best succeed if at the side of every rich or influential man there could be placed a psycho-political operator, an undoubted authority in the field of "mental healing" who could then by his advice or through the medium of a wife or daughter by his guided opinions direct the optimum policy to embroil or upset the economic policies of the country and when the time comes to do away forever with the rich or influential man, to administer the proper drug or treatment to bring about his complete demise in an institution as a patient or dead as a suicide.

Planted beside a country's powerful persons the psychopolitical operator can also guide other policies to the betterment of our battle.

The Capitalist does not know the definition of war. He thinks of war as attack with force performed by soldiers and machines. He does not know that a more effective if somewhat longer war can be fought with bread or, in our case, with drugs and the wisdom of our art. The Capitalist has never won a war in truth. The psychopolitician is having little trouble winning this one.

CHAPTER IV

STATE GOALS FOR THE INDIVIDUAL AND MASSES

Just as we would discover an individual to be ill, whose organs, each one, had a different goal from the rest, so we discover the individuals and the State to be ill where goals are not rigorously codified and enforced.

There are those who, in less enlightened times, gave Man to believe that goals should be personally sought and held, and that, indeed, Man's entire impulse toward higher things stemmed from Freedom. We must remember that the same peoples who embraced this philosophy also continued in Man the myth of spiritual existence.*

All goals proceed from duress. Life is a continuous escape. Without force and threat there can be no striving. Without pain there can be no desire to escape from pain. Without the threat of punishment there can be no gain. Without duress and command there can be no alignment of bodily functions. Without rigorous and forthright control, there can be no accomplished goals for the State.

Goals of the State should be formulated by the State for the obedience and concurrence of the individuals within that State. A State without goals so formulated is a sick State. A State without the power and forthright wish to enforce its goals is a sick State.

When an order is issued by the Communist State, and is not obeyed, a sickness will be discovered to ensue. Where obedience fails, the masses suffer.

State goals depend upon loyalty and obedience for their accomplishment. When one discovers a State goal to be interpreted, one discovers inevitably that there has been an interposition of self-willedness, of greed, of idleness, or of rugged individualism and self-centered initiative. The interruption of a State goal will be discovered as having been interrupted by a person whose disloyalty and disobedience is the direct result of his own mis-alignment with life.

It is not always necessary to remove the individual. It is possible to remove his self-willed tendencies to the improvement of the goals and gains of the whole. The technologies of Psychopolitics are graduated upon the scale which starts somewhat above the removal of the individual himself, upward toward the removal only of those tendencies which bring about his lack of co-operation.

*Note: [Their first attack against Christianity.]

CHAPTER V

AN EXAMINATION OF LOYALTIES

It is not enough for the State to have goals. These goals, once put forward, depend for their completion upon the loyalty and obedience of the workers. These, engaged for the most part, in hard labors, have little time for idle speculation, which is good. But, above them, unfortunately, there must be foremen of one or another position, any one of whom might have sufficient idleness and lack of physical occupation to cause some disaffecting independency in his conduct and behaviour.

Psychopolitics remedies this tendency toward disaffection when it exceeds the common persuasions of the immediate superiors of the person in question.

If loyalty is so important in the economic and social structure, it is necessary to examine it further as itself.

In the field of Psychopolitics, loyalty means simply 'alignment.' It means, more fully, alignment with the goals of the Communist State. Disloyalty means entirely mis-alignment, and more broadly, mis-alignment with the goals of the Communist State.

When we consider that the goals of the Communist State are to the best possible benefit of the masses, we can see that disloyalty, as a term, can embrace Democratic alignment. Loyalty to persons not communistically indoctrinated would be quite plainly a mis-alignment.

The cure of disloyalty is entirely contained in the principles of alignment. All that it is necessary to do, where disloyalty is encountered, is to align the purposes of the individual toward the goals of Communism, and it will be discovered that a great many circumstances hitherto distasteful in his existence will cease to exist.

The technologies of Psychopolitics adequately demonstrate the workability of this.

While it is not borne out that electric shock has any therapeutic value, so far as making the individual more sane, it is adequately brought out that its punishment value will create in the patient a greater co-operative attitude. Brain surgery has no statistical data to recommend it beyond its removal of the individual personality from amongst the paths of organs which were not permitted to co-operate. These two Russian developments have never pretended to alter the state of sanity. They are only effective and workable in introducing an adequate punishment mechanism to the personality to make it cease and desist from its courses and egotistical direction of the anatomy itself. It is the violence of the electric shock and the surgery which is useful in subduing the recalcitrant personality, which is all that stands in the road of the masses or the State. It is occasionally to be discovered that the removal of the preventing personality by shock and surgery then permits the regrowth and re-establishment of organs which have been rebelled against by that personality. In that a well-regulated state is composed of organisms, not personalities, the use of electric shock and brain surgery in Psychopolitics is clearly demonstrated.

The changing of loyalty consists, in its primary step, of the eradication of existing loyalties. This can be done in one of two ways. First, by demonstrating that previously existing loyalties have brought about perilous physical circumstances, such as imprisonment, lack of recognition, duress, or privation, and second, by eradicating the personality itself.

The first is accomplished by a steady and continuous indoctrination of the individual in the belief that his previous loyalties have been granted to an unworthy source. One of the primary instances in this is creating circumstances which apparently derive from the target of his loyalties, so as to rebuff the individual. As part of this there is the creation of a state of mind in the individual, by actually placing him under duress, and then furnishing him with false evidence to demonstrate that the target of his previous loyalties is, itself, the course of the duress. Another portion of this same method consists of defaming or degrading the individuals whose loyalties are to be changed to the target of his loyalties, i.e., superiors or government, to such a degree that this target, at length, actually does hold the individual in disrepute, and so does rebuff him and serve to convince him that his loyalties have been misplaced. These are the milder methods, but have proven extremely effective. The greatest drawback in their practice is that they require time and concentration, the manufacture of false evidence, and a psychopolitical operator's time.

In moments of expediency, of which there are many, the personality itself can be rearranged by shock, surgery, duress, privation, and in particular, that best of psychopolitical techniques, implantation, with the technologies of neo-hypnotism. Such duress must have in its first part a defamation of the loyalties, and in its second, the implantation of new loyalties. A good and experienced psychopolitical operator, working under the most favorable circumstances, can, by the use of psychopolitical technologies, alter the loyalties of an individual so deftly that his own companions will not suspect that they have changed. This, however, requires considerably more finesse than is usually necessary to the situation. Mass neo-hypnotism can accomplish more or less the same results when guided by an experienced psychopolitical operator. An end goal in such a procedure would be the alteration of the loyalties of an entire nation in a short period of time by mass neo-hypnotism, a thing which has been effectively accomplished among the less-usable states of Russia.

It is adequately demonstrated that loyalty is entirely lacking in that mythical commodity known as 'spiritual quality.'* Loyalty is entirely a thing of dependence, economic or mental, and can be changed by the crudest implementations. Observation of workers in their factories or fields demonstrates that they easily grant loyalty to a foreman or a woman, and then as easily abandon it and substitute another individual, revulsing, at the same time, toward the person to whom loyalty was primarily granted. The queasy insecurity of the masses in Capitalistic nations finds this more common than in an enlightened State such as Russia. In Capitalistic states, dependencies are so craven, wants and privations are so exaggerated, that loyalty is entirely without ethical foundation and exists only in the realm of dependency, duress, or demand.

It is fortunate that Communism so truly approaches an ideal state of mind, for this brings a certain easiness into any changing of loyalties, since all other philosophies extant and practiced on Earth today are degraded and debased, compared to Communism. It is then with a certain security that a psychopolitical operator functions, for he knows that he can change the loyalty of an individual to a more ideal level by reason alone, and only expediency makes it necessary to employ the various shifts of psychopolitical technology. Any man who cannot be persuaded into Communist rationale is, of course, to be regarded as somewhat less than sane, and it is, therefore completely justified to use the techniques of insanity upon the non-Communist.

In order to change loyalty it is necessary to establish first the existing loyalties of the individual. The task is made very simple in view of the fact that Capitalistic and Fascistic nations have no great security in the loyalty of their subjects. And it may be found that the loyalties of the subjects, as we call any person against whom psychopolitical technology is to be exerted, are already too faint to require eradication. It is generally only necessary to persuade with the rationale and overwhelming reasonability of Communism to have the person grant his loyalty to the Russian State. However, regulated only by the importance of the subject, no great amount of time should be expended upon the individual, but emotional duress, or electric shock, or brain surgery should be resorted to, should Communist propaganda persuasion fail. In a case of a very important person, it may be necessary to utilize the more delicate technologies of Psychopolitics so as to place the person himself, and his associates, in ignorance of the operation. In this case a simple implantation is used, with a maximum duress and command value. Only the most skilled psychopolitical operator should be employed on such a project, as in this case of the very important person, for a bungling might disclose the tampering with his mental processes. It is much more highly recommended, if there is any doubt whatever about the success of an operation against an important person, to select out as a psychopolitical target persons in his vicinity in whom he is emotionally involved. His wife or children normally furnish the best targets, and these can be operated against without restraint. In securing the loyalty of a very important person one must place at his side a constant pleader who enters a sexual or familial chord into the situation on the side of Communism. It may not be necessary to make a Communist out of the wife, or the children, or one of the children, but it might prove efficacious to do so. In most instances, however, this is not possible. By the use of various drugs, it is, in this modern age, and well within the realm of psychopolitical reality, entirely too easy to bring about a state of severe neurosis or insanity in the wife or children, and thus pass them, with full consent of the important person, and the government in which he exists, or the bureau in which he is operating, into the hands of a psychopolitical operator, who then in his own laboratory, without restraint or fear of investigation or censor, can, with electric shock, surgery, sexual attack, drugs, or other useful means, degrade or entirely alter the personality of a family member, and create in that person a psychopolitical slave subject who, then, on command or signal, will perform outrageous actions, thus discrediting the important person, or will demand, on a more delicate level, that certain measures be taken by the important person, which measures are, of course, dictated by the psychopolitical operator.*

Usually when the party has no real interest in the activities or decisions of the important person, but merely wishes to remove him from effective action, the attention of the psychopolitical operator need not be so intense, and the person need only be passed into the hands of some unwitting mental practitioner, who taught as he is by psychopolitical operators, will bring about sufficient embarrassment.

When the loyalty of an individual cannot be swerved, and where the opinion, weight, or effectiveness of the individual stands firmly in the road of Communist goals, it is usually best to occasion a mild neurosis in the person by any available means, and then, having carefully given him a history of mental imbalance, to see to it that he disposes of himself by suicide, or by bringing about his demise in such a way as to resemble suicide. Psychopolitical operators have handled such situations skillfully tens of thousands of times within and without

*Note: [Have you ever wondered when children of important people discredit their parents?]

Russia.*

It is a firm principle of Psychopolitics that the person to be destroyed must be involved at first or second hand in the stigma of insanity, and must have been placed in contact with psychopolitical operators or persons trained by them, with a maximum amount of tumult and publicity. The stigma of insanity is properly placed at the door of such persons' reputations and is held there firmly by bringing about irrational acts, either on his own part or in his vicinity. Such an activity can be classified as a partial destruction of alignment, and if this destruction is carried forward to its furthest extent the mis-alignment on the subject of all loyalties can be considered to be complete, and alignment on new loyalties can be embarked upon safely. By bringing about insanity or suicide on the part of the wife of an important political personage, a sufficient mis-alignment has been instigated to change his attitude. And this, carried forward firmly, or assisted by psychopolitical implantation can begin the rebuilding of his loyalties, but now slanted in a more proper and fitting direction.

Another reason for the alignment of psychopolitical activities with the mis-alignment of insanity is that insanity, itself, is a despised and disgraced state, and anything connected with it is lightly viewed. Thus, a psychopolitical operator, working in the vicinity of an insane person, can refute and disprove any accusations made against him by demonstrating that the family itself is tainted with mental imbalance. This is surprisingly effective in Capitalistic countries where insanity is so thoroughly feared that no one would dream of investigating any circumstances in its vicinity. Psychopolitical propaganda works constantly and must work constantly to increase and build up this aura of mystery surrounding insanity, and must emphasize the horribleness and hopelessness of insanity in order to excuse non-therapeutic actions taken against the insane. Particularly in Capitalistic countries, an insane person has no rights under law. No person who is insane may hold property. No person who is insane may testify. Thus, we have an excellent road along which we can travel toward our certain goal and destiny.

Entirely by bringing about public conviction that the sanity of a person is in question, it is possible to discount and eradicate all of the goals and activities of that person. By demonstrating the insanity of a group, or even a government, it is possible, then, to cause its people to disavow it. By magnifying the general human reaction to insanity, through keeping the subject of insanity, itself, forever before the public eye, and then, by utilizing this reaction by causing a revulsion on the part of a populace against its leader or leaders, it is possible to stop any government or movement.

It is important to know that the entire subject of loyalty is thus as easily handled as it is. One of the first and foremost missions of the psychopolitician is to make an attack upon Communism and insanity synonymous. It should become the definition of insanity, of the paranoid variety, that "A paranoid believes he is being attacked by Communists." Thus, at once the support of the individual so attacking Communism will fall away and wither.*

Instead of executing national leaders, suicide for them should be arranged under circumstances which question their demise. In this way we can select out all opposition to the Communist extension into the social orders of the world, and render populaces who would oppose us leaderless, and bring about a state of chaos or mis-alignment into which we can thrust, with great simplicity, the clear and forceful doctrines of Communism.

The cleverness of our attack in this field of Psychopolitics is adequate to avoid the understanding of the layman and the usual stupid official, and by operating entirely under the banner of authority, with the oft-repeated statement that the principles of psychotherapy are too devious for common understanding, an entire revolution can be effected without the suspicion of a populace until it is an accomplished fact.

As insanity is the maximum mis-alignment, it can be grasped to be the maximum weapon in severance of loyalties to leaders and old social orders. Thus, it is of the utmost importance that psychopolitical operatives infiltrate the healing arts of a nation marked for conquest, and bring from that quarter continuous pressure against the population and the government until at last the conquest is affected. This is the subject and goal of Psychopolitics, itself.

In rearranging loyalties we must have a command of their values. In the animal the first loyalty is to himself. This is destroyed by demonstrating errors to him, showing him that he does not remember, cannot act or does not trust himself. The second loyalty is to his family unit, his parents and brothers and sisters. This is destroyed by making a family unit economically non-dependent, by lessening the value of marriage, by making an easiness of divorce and by raising the children wherever possible by the State. The next loyalty is to his friends and local environment. This is destroyed by lowering his trust and bringing about reportings upon him allegedly by his fellows or the town or village authorities. The next is to the State and this, for the purposes of Communism, is the only loyalty which should exist once the state is founded as a Communist State. To destroy loyalty to the State all manner of forbiddings for youth must be put into effect so as to disenfranchise them as members of the Capitalist state and, by promises of a better lot under Communism, to gain their loyalty to a Communist movement.

Denying a Capitalist country easy access to courts, bringing about and supporting propaganda to destroy the home, creating and continuous juvenile delinquency, forcing upon the state all manner of practices to divorce the child from it will in the end create the chaos necessary to Communism.*

Under the saccharine guise of assistance to them, rigorous child labor laws are the best means to deny the child any right in the society. By refusing to let him earn, by forcing him into unwanted dependence upon a grudging parent, by making certain in other channels that the parent is never in other than economic stress, the child can be driven in his teens into revolt. Delinquency will ensue.

By making readily available drugs of various kinds, by giving the teen-ager alcohol, by praising his wildness, by stimulating him with sex literature and advertising to him or her practices as taught at the Sexpol,  the psychopolitical operator can create the necessary attitude of chaos, idleness and worthlessness into which can then be cast the solution which will give the teen-ager complete freedom everywhere — Communism.

Should it be possible to continue conscription beyond any reasonable time by promoting unpopular wars and other means the draft can always stand as a further barrier to the progress of youth in life, destroying any immediate hope to participate in his nation's civil life.

By these means the patriotism of youth for their Capitalistic flag can be dulled to a point where they are no longer dangerous as soldiers. While this might require many decades to effect, Capitalism's short term view will never envision the lengths across which we can plan. If we could effectively kill the national pride and patriotism of just one generation we will have won that country. Therefore there must be continual propaganda abroad to undermine the loyalty of the citizens in general and the teen ager in particular.

*Note: [Current efforts to take very young children from parental care and place in govt. run day-care centers. See Feb. 1976 House Bill #2966 and Senate Bill #626.]

The role of the psychopolitical operator in this is very strong. He can, from his position as an authority on the mind, advise all manner of destructive measures. He can teach the lack of control of this child at home. He can instruct, in an optimum situation, the entire nation in how to handle children — and instruct them so that the children, given no control, given no real home, can run wildly about with no responsibility for their nation or themselves.

The mis-alignment of the loyalty of youth to a Capitalistic nation sets the proper stage for a realignment of their loyalties with Communism. Creating a greed for drugs, sexual misbehavior and uncontrolled freedom and presenting this to them as a benefit of Communism will with ease bring about our alignment.

In the case of strong leaders amongst youthful groups, a psychopolitical operator can work in many ways to use or discard that leadership. If it is to be used, the character of the girl or boy must be altered carefully into criminal channels and a control by blackmail or other means must be maintained. But where the leadership is not susceptible, where it resists all persuasions and might become dangerous to our Cause, no pains must be spared to direct the attention of the authorities to that person and to harass him in one way or another until he can come into the hands of juvenile authorities. When this has been effected it can be hoped that a psychopolitical operator, by reason of child advisor status, can, in the security of the jail and cloaked by processes of law, destroy the sanity of that person. Particularly brilliant scholars, athletes and youth group leaders must be handled in either one of these two ways.

In the matter of guiding the activities of juvenile courts, the psychopolitical operator entertains here one of his easier tasks. A Capitalistic nation is so filled with injustice in general that a little more passes without comment. In juvenile courts there are always persons with strange appetites whether these be judges or police men or women. If such do not exist they can be created. By making available to them young girls or boys in the "security" of the jail or the detention home and by appearing with flash cameras or witnesses one becomes equipped with a whip adequate to direct all the future decisions of that person when these are needed.

The handling of youth cases by courts should be led further and further away from law and further and further into "mental problems" until the entire nation thinks of "mental problems" instead of criminals.* This places vacancies everywhere in the courts, in the offices of district attorneys, on police staffs which could then be filled with psychopolitical operators and these become then the judges of the land by their influence and into their hands comes the total control of the criminal, without whose help a revolution cannot ever be accomplished.

By stressing this authority over the problems of youth and adults in courts one day the demand for psychopolitical operators could become such that even the armed services will use "authorities on the mind" to work their various justices and when this occurs the armed forces of the nation then enter into our hands as solidly as if we commanded them ourselves. With the slight bonus of having thus a skilled interrogator near every technician or handler of secret war apparatus, the country, in event of revolution, as did Germany in 1918 and 1919 will find itself immobilized by its own Army and Navy fully and entirely in Communist hands.

Thus the subject of loyalties and their re-alignment is in fact the subject of non-armed conquest of an enemy.

*Note: [The current drive to convince us that criminals are not responsible for their crimes.]

should eschew private practice whenever possible, since this gives him the greatest number of human beings to control to the use of Communism. When he does act in private practice, it should be only in contact with the families of the wealthy and the officials of the country.

CHAPTER XII

THE SMASHING OF RELIGIOUS GROUPS

You must know that until recent times the complete subject of mental derangement, whether so light as simple worry or so heavy as insanity, was the sphere of activity of the church and only the church.

Traditionally in civilized nations and barbaric ones the priesthood alone had in complete charge the mental condition of the citizen. As a matter of great concern to the psychopolitician this tendency still exists in every public in the Western World and scientific inroads into this sphere have occurred only in official and never in public quarters.

The magnificent tool welded for us by Wundt would be as nothing if it were not for official insistence in civilized countries that "scientific practices" be applied to the problem of the mind. Without this official insistence or even if it relapsed for a moment, the masses would grasp stupidity for the priest, the minister, the clergy when mental condition came in question. Today in Europe and America "scientific practices" in the field of the mind would not last moments if not enforced entirely by officialdom.

It must be carefully hidden that the incidence of insanity has increased only since these "scientific practices" were applied. Great remarks must be made of "the pace of modern living" and other myths as the cause of the increased neurosis in the world.* It is nothing to us what causes it if anything does. It is everything to us that no evidence of any kind shall be tolerated afoot to permit the public tendency toward the church its way. If given their heads, if left to themselves to decide, independent of officialdom, where they would place their deranged loved ones the public would choose religious sanitariums and would avoid as if plagued places where "scientific practices" prevail.

Given any slightest encouragement, public support would swing on an instant all mental healing into the hands of the churches. And there are Churches waiting to receive it, clever churches. That terrible monster the Roman Catholic Church still dominates mental healing heavily throughout the Christian world and their well schooled priests are always at work to turn the public their way. Among Fundamentalist and Pentecostal groups healing campaigns are conducted, which, because of their results, win many to the cult of

*Note: [Many articles on mental health indicate that insanity is caused by social stresses.]

Christianity. In the field of pure healing the Church of Christ Science of Boston, Massachusetts excels in commanding the public favor and operates many sanitariums. All these must be swept aside. They must be ridiculed and defamed and every cure they advertise must be asserted as a hoax. A full fifth of a psychopolitician's time should be devoted to smashing these threats. Just as in Russia we had to destroy, after many, many years of the most arduous work, the Church, so we must destroy all faiths in nations marked for conquest.

Insanity must be made to hound the footsteps of every priest and practitioner. His best results must be turned to jibbering insanities no matter what means we have to use.

You need not care what effect you have upon the public. The effect you care about is the one upon officials. You must recruit every agency of the nation marked for slaughter into a foaming hatred of religion. You must suborne district attorneys and judges into an intense belief as fervent as an ancient faith in God that Christian practice which might devote itself to mental healing is vicious, bad, insanity-causing, publicly hated and intolerable.

You must suborne and recruit any medical healing organization into collusion in this campaign. You must appeal to their avarice and even their humanity to invite their cooperation in smashing all religious healing and thus, to our end, care of the insane. You must see that such societies have only qualified Communist-indoctrines as their advisors in this matter. For you can use such societies. They are stupid and stamper easily. Their cloak and degrees can be used quite well to mask any operation we care to have masked. We must make them partners in our endeavor so that they will never be able to crawl from beneath our thumb and discredit us.

We have battled in America since the century's turn to bring to nothing any and all Christian influences and we are succeeding. While we today seem to be kind to the Christian remember we have yet to influence the "Christian world" to our ends. When that is done we shall have an end of them everywhere. You may see them here in Russia as trained apes. They do not know their tether is long only until the apes in other lands have become unwary.

You must work until "religion" is synonymous with "insanity." You must work until the officials of city, county and state governments will not think twice before they pounce upon religious groups as public enemies.*

*Note: [One of the main reasons for persecution of Fundamentalist church groups.]

Remember, all lands are governed by the few and only pretend to consult with the many. It is no different in America. The petty official, the maker of laws alike can be made to believe the worst. It is not necessary to convince the masses. It is only necessary to work incessantly upon the official, using personal defamations, wild lies, false evidences and constant propaganda to make him fight for you against the church or against any practitioner.

Like the official the bona-fide medical healer also believes the worst if it can be shown to him as dangerous competition. And like the Christian, should he seek to take from us any right we have gained, we shall finish him as well.

We must be like the vine upon the tree. We use the tree to climb and then, strangling it, grow into power on the nourishment of its flesh.

We must strike from our path any opposition. We must use for our tools any authority that comes to hand. And then at last, the decades sped, we can dispense with all authority save our own and triumph in the greater glory of the Party.

Former Male Porn Star = Trafficking Victim

(<http://actjustlylovesmercy.tumblr.com/post/33438571527/former-male-porn-star-trafficking-victim>)

I was a slave. I understand now that I was sex trafficked as a minor.

(This post is from thepinkcross.org (<http://thepinkcross.org>) - for full article see link at bottom)

My name is Sal and this is my story.

I grew up in the porn capitol of the world: the San Fernando Valley. My mother gave birth to me when she was 12 and I never knew my dad. My mom was a single mother.

My mother later died in a drunken driving accident and now I am left with no family.

The Valley has more street gangs than any part of Los Angeles and that's what I grew up in. I was raped three different times by two male gang members when I was six years old. They threatened me not to say anything or they would kill me. In the lifestyle that I grew up there was a lot of sex, drugs and parties.

I was never the same after the rapes and at eight years old I began to look for gay porn on the internet. The only thing I knew about sex was men raping me. My life totally changed after me getting rape. I was afraid of people and had a lot of anger inside of me.

By age 16, I needed money so a family member began shopping me around to gay porn filmmakers to get me into gay porn. I was told to take diet pills and Crystal meth to lose weight so I could look more feminine for gay and transsexual jobs. My mom's family (her brother and sister) stopped talking to me because I was homosexual and because I was getting myself into the adult industry.

I began performing in gay porn at age 16. It took me five years to build my name. I did gay and transsexual porn for nine years as well as stripping and escorting with both male and female clients. If a client paid me an extra $300 I would let the client not use condoms on me. I also stripped at top strip clubs and because guys thought that I was a girl, they would have sex with me.

Being in gay porn was very risky. A lot of producers and directors don't like using condoms and not everyone in gay porn is regularly tested for STDs. I have known porn actors who also alter their test. About 80% of gay performers are HIV-positive. I was under a very well-known straight adult star who used to own an adult talent agency, her and her husband used to make me do crystal meth so I would be skinnier and they used to tell me that if I didn't have sex with them that they wouldn't get me any jobs. They used me in their scam for about 2 years. They also had 50 other girls under their agency and they were doing the same thing to

My name is Calli and I am currently working on my PhD in Criminology & Criminal Justice. I'm passionate about a variety of justice issues but the main one is human trafficking.

I started this blog as an assignment for a study abroad photojournalism class in SE Asia (Singapore, Cambodia & Indonesia to be exact) back in 2010 and have kept it going since then. I'll cover a variety of topics and issues that directly impact our nation and world in both positive and negative ways. The main focus of my blog is to raise awareness about issues you might not see in the news everyday that I believe are important to know about such as; human trafficking, incarceration, genocide, abortion, child abuse, addictions, pornography, oppressive or unjust laws and more.

I am a lover and follower of Jesus and believe no matter how bad things in the world get, He will have the final victory and bring justice to the earth. He is the hope for a better world. them as well. At the Northridge mansion we would have orgies and everybody would be doing drugs. And if we didn't attend their parties they would go looking for us and bring us even if we didn't want to go.

I was a slave. I understand now that I was sex trafficked as a minor.

It is also common for straight male performers to do bisexual porn or cross over and do gay porn since it pays more money. When I was in gay porn I worked with over 14 straight performers. Most try to keep it a secret.

I got hooked on drugs at age 18 so I had barely been in the biz two years before I started doing drugs. It's nearly impossible not to! There are crazy parties and a lot of straight and gay porn stars smoke crack or do crystal meth before a scene. I know because I was one of them! I used to spend hundreds of dollars on meth. Or pornographers gave me drugs.

Both the gay and straight porn industry is rife with drugs and alcohol.

I have seen a lot in the nine years I've been in this business. I did a lot of straight photo shoots with very famous female porn stars and they are hooked on drugs, too. I have done photo shoots with some of the world's most popular female porn stars and they, too, have to do drugs to get through a scene. Behind the scenes they are not happy. All of us adult stars hide our persona when we are on camera but when the camera is done filming, we go home and we are miserable.

I'm just really sick of the drama and drugs in porn. I will no longer spread my legs for the porn industry. I want out and I want to live a normal life. I want to find out who I really am without porn. I don't want to be that porn character anymore. And I really feel if I don't get out soon, that I will die.

I know God has something better for me.

I know God has chosen me to be a better person.

I hope my story helps you if you are considering doing porn. Porn has done nothing for me except destroy my life and I have nothing to show for my years in porn except a lot of pain.

I thank God for the Pink Cross Foundation and to Shelley for all of their love, support and prayers. I also want to thank Victory Outreach SFV for all of their love, support, prayers and for not giving up on me. Thank you Shelley and I love your friendship. I am proud to say that I am an Ex porn star thanks to the Pink Cross Foundation and especially to God and His Son Jesus Christ.

The story of one. Trafficked Boys: Vandalized innocence hidden in plain sight

by Jerome Elam - Sep 20, 2014

WASHINGTON, September 20, 2014 – It was August of 1970 and the heat of a summer’s day in the Deep South refused to relinquish its grip as night descended like a dark curtain. The sweat had pooled in the middle of my back and my hair lay tangled and matted across my damp forehead as I lay face down on the small couch.

The hollow thud of the camper door being slammed shut pulled me temporarily back into reality. The couch I was laying on creaked and groaned as the bald and overweight man stood fastening his belt. The drug-induced haze of cocaine mixed with alcohol had a strong grip on me, but there were times I could almost taste the dust and grit of the world outside.

Since the age of five I had been trafficked sexually by a pedophile ring. It was now three years later and I was a well known and popular “date” for the sexual predators that my “owners” sold me to on a regular basis.

READ ALSO: Hollywood pedophile parties: Symptom of a rampant disease feeding on innocent children

Suddenly the loud roar of an engine boomed outside. It was a bookmark for my life because I knew exactly how the night would unfold. That night I was being trafficked along the amateur stock car racing circuit and customers had traveled great distances to satisfy their twisted sexual appetites.

My life had fallen into a dark abyss early on as domestic violence; alcoholism, childhood sexual abuse and divorce dominated my world.

Following my mother's divorce from my biological father, her life began a downward spiral that left me abandoned and alone, vulnerable to those who prey upon the innocent. My mother's world existed at the bottom of a bottle and when she met a man who began to molest me, alcohol facilitated her complete escape from the reality of what was happening to me. My mother eventually married the man and before long he shared me with the pedophile ring he belonged to. Soon I was being trafficked sexually, trapped by threats of violence against my mother and forced to take cocaine and alcohol.

For seven long years I was trapped in a hell no one deserves. I was nothing more than a shell of a human being enduring suffering and torture at the hands of psychopaths and sociopaths as the world looked on. I attended school, and from the outside appeared to be a "normal child" but I was being trafficked in plain sight. I was often pulled out of school to "service" clients and after school, holidays and weekends were all just a never-ending nightmare for me. All of the signs were there but no one cared enough to look or had the training or education to realize my bruises and lengthy illnesses were all red flags for a child suffering endless abuse.

The Department of Justice estimates that between 100,000 and 300,000 children are at risk of being trafficked in this country right now. Human trafficking is a $9.5 billion a year business in the U.S. according to the United Nations and within the first forty-eight hours of leaving home, a runaway child will be approached by a human trafficker. Human trafficking is second only to the drug trade as the largest criminal enterprise according to the Justice Department. The National Center for Missing and Exploited Children (NCMEC) reports that pimps can make from $150,000 to $200,000 per year for each child. The NCMEC also reports a pimp has an average of four children and the Polaris Project, an anti-trafficking non profit, reports the average victim of sex trafficking is forced to have sex 20-48 times a day.

These numbers are shocking and part of a tragedy that is actively swallowing America's children. The life of a child being trafficked is brutal. Drugs, alcohol, beatings and death threats are used as tools to keep innocent children as slaves to the depths of depravity. The Federal Bureau of Investigation reports the average life span of a child being trafficked is seven years. The drugs, alcohol and abusive lifestyle wither the fragile spirit of a child leaving them to die in the shadow of hope.

Our children are being thrown into the darkest abyss of humanity and some have been lost in a broken system. In 2010, Los Angeles officials reported that 59 percent of juveniles arrested for prostitution were in the foster care system. In addition, the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children reported that of the children who are reported missing, who are also likely sex trafficking victims, 60 percent were in foster care or group homes when they ran away.

In July of 2013, the FBI rescued 105 children who were forced into prostitution in the United States, and arrested 150 pimps in a series of raids in 76 American cities. The campaign, known as "Operation Cross Country," was the largest of its type and conducted under the FBI's "Innocence Lost" initiative. It all took place in just 72 hours. The youngest victim recovered was just 9 years old. (Reuters).

Historically, women have been identified as the overwhelming majority of victims of human trafficking but recent studies have shown male victims of trafficking have been severely overlooked. In a 2008 study by the John Jay College of Criminal Justice, of those who were sexually exploited in New York, fifty percent of victims were found to be boys from the United States, being trafficked domestically. Until now anti-trafficking organizations have been focused on female victims but that tide is now starting to turn. A 2013 study by the organization ECPAT discovered males are more likely to be arrested for shoplifting or other petty crimes even though they are being trafficked sexually.

READ ALSO: Dating violence, abuse, sexual assault and human trafficking: A critical connection

One of the great myths about male victims of sex trafficking is that they are predominantly homosexual. The truth is the majority of trafficked youths are not gay, according to Steven Pricopio from the organization Surviving Our Struggle, a center for young male trafficking victims. Most are trapped in a life of sexual servitude through threats of violence against their families or themselves. "They don't see them as victims ... It's not an issue of sexual orientation, it's an issue of right circumstances which bring you to exploitation or the vulnerability that brings you into being sexually exploited." Pricopio says.

Also included in the John Jay study was the fact that forty percent of male victims were forced to service female clients. The lens through which we currently view human trafficking has to change and we need acknowledge that this scourge defies gender, race, and socioeconomic status. Instead of viewing victims of trafficking as either a male or female problem we have to now examine the expanse of its scope and treat it as a human problem.

The path to becoming a victim of sex trafficking is similar for both males and females. Income is not the sole determining factor in assessing the vulnerability of children. Traffickers have no limitations on the methods they will use to lure victims into an inescapable trap. Human trafficking has also infiltrated our schools.

Traffickers will hand pick a child to be a recruiter, typically one who has formed a trauma bond with their trafficker and place them in a school. The recruiter will wear nice clothes and jewelry and drive a nice car. When the other kids compliment the recruiter on their clothes or car the recruiter will say, "I can show you how to have all this and more.” It doesn’t take long before the trafficker has the new child trapped with threats of violence against their family and friends.

There are factors that do make a child more vulnerable, and one of the most common risk factors among victims is a dysfunctional family environment. Alcoholism, drug abuse, domestic violence and childhood sexual abuse all create a chasm in the self-esteem of a child. Traffickers actively target these children and soon they are lost to the darkness few survive.

My escape from the world of human trafficking came at a high cost. I had tried to tell at least ten people that I was being trafficked and my reward for this was among other things having three of my ribs broken. My life had become an abyss of worthlessness and pain and at the age of twelve, I stood in my mother’s rose garden, a bottle of sleeping pills in one hand and a bottle of vodka in the other. As the agents of my demise tumbled down my throat chased by the warmth of the vodka, I felt a sense of peace wash over me. I felt a peace I had never felt before. I had finally escaped the nightmare and I was no longer afraid.

Suddenly, I awoke in the emergency room to a group of wide-eyed doctors who had witnessed me depart this world for a total of three minutes. God, it seems, had other plans for me as I was placed under the supervision of the county and finally free of my nightmare. I sincerely believe it is through God’s intervention that I am here today as a survivor of human trafficking and not a casualty. I stand here today not only as a survivor but as a living testament that there is always hope and a light inside all of us that no one can extinguish.

Please join me in the fight to end human trafficking and save the next child before they are sentenced to a vandalized childhood with a lifetime of broken hopes and dreams. what steps are taken by the agency? Is there verifiable statistical data that these victims are getting out?

Im curious. because mv little boy at 5 v.o. disclosed multi-victimization and inter-familial sexual abuse, and I did everything in my power to help him.....

and the opposition I faced, almost cost me my life. Truly.

my son was expeditiously forced back to his abuser despite repeated er visits for injury from S.A.

and taken from me. and his brother. by the very system in place to protect children.

So...while i identify with and applaud your effort...I can tell you with irrefutable evidence to back it up....

It is nearly impossible to rescue/protect children from sexual exploitation,

The people in place to protect kids...are doing just the opposite - and the general public needs to know.

THE SYSTEM IS NOT BROKEN - IT WAS DESIGNED THIS WAY.

for the record..still spending every possible moment fighting for him.....

to rescue him from his father.....if you were the judge....would you think this was in a childs best interest?

would any person allow their child to even be alone with my sons father?

Wow. God bless you Jerome. I'm so sorry that the world betrayed you.

I'm going to change the world.

For you, for my son, and every child who has been forsaken.

This is the most important conversation of the millennium.

What is one thing people can do to rescue children?

So devastated to read this, my thoughts and prayers for you though we are of different religions. You endured such a terrible childhood at such a young age that no child should ever have to go through. I hope your life will be blessed after enduring such a horrifying experience and I truly hope you will succeed in your battle against human trafficking for the sake of all the children out there.

You wrote: "I had tried to tell at least ten people that I was being trafficked and my reward for this was among other things having three of my ribs broken."

Thank you for sharing your story, which is gut wrenching, so that people may learn the truth.

The failure of these 10 regular decent people to stop the trafficking, probably including teachers and councilors with a duty to report, is particularly disturbing to me, and I believe that it represents a systematic and illegal discrimination against boy and man victims. I urge you to consult with a federal civil rights attorney.

Boys and men who are victims of human trafficking, domestic violence, and sexual abuse should be aware that they have a fourteenth amendment civil right to equal access to services for victims, and their civil rights are protected under the nondiscrimination clause of the 2013 VAWA reauthorization. They should read the USDOJ VAWA Civil Rights FAQ and the reddit Men's Rights FAQ. They can also join us in fighting for equal access to the justice system for all victims by visiting our mractivism forum and responding to action opportunities.

I don't know what type of biological father you have, because it's not clear, but this is also an example of an abusive mom and step father, where the child's father appears to have zero access to protect

If you read the timeline here, you will see that this happened nearly 50 years ago. Sadly, teachers and counselors didn't have a duty to report. It's due to brave people like the author and good legislators that we now have better laws to work with. As the author says, it's not a male or female issue - it's a human issue.

just curious - does the system work where you live?

What I see, is the opposite. Now that the DOE has taken over the US education, reporting child abuse is discouraged/prevented.

also....good legislation? like erins law?

I doesn't matter. None of it does because USDOJ and Center for State courts refuses to allow prosecution.

no point in having laws that don't work.

I have researched this exhaustively for 20 months.

what I find - would rock your core. Our current system does not protect children. It victimizes them. the system is not broken. It was designed this way.

Im grateful that you point this out.

i do notice anti-establishment comments disappear on this thread.

I want you to look up these key words - cognitive dissonance

government funded/supported pedophile rings

DOE/DOJ response to the epidemic of child pedophilia group homes-adoption-foster care

non-profit companies connection to pedophilia

if you look at a demographic - children - you find a govt agency - follow the money...you will find the people who are selling our children-with no consideration of the costs.

support for pedophiles- (we MUST address this issue-a tough one...yet worthwhile)

convictions for intra-familial child sexual abuse protective parents of sexually abused children - how does the system respond?

what we know- 1 in 4 girls/ 1 in 6 boys are sexually assaulted in the US.

why do the #'s from Child Protective Services tell a much different story.

I'm sorry for your son.

ok, my advice. If you actually have evidence of it and it's being ignored I suggest you follow the money, the father wouldn't be able to trespass the law like this without paying someone for it.

if you can show to the NRS that some illegal financial transaction is taking place they will do the rest place they will do the rest.

Thank you for sharing. The world cannot protect us and it is very sad that our homes lack the protection we need as well. I cannot agree with you more when you said that "no one cared enough to look or had the training or education to realize my bruises and lengthy illnesses were all red flags for a child suffering endless abuse." I only learned about human trafficking 3 yrs ago. Since then I have been volunteering in any way that I can. Now I would like to open a Home for these victims. But without a business education, I am moving at snails pace. It will happen. By God's grace, it will.

Powerful article and thank you. As a huge support of ant-human trafficking efforts I am appalled by the trafficking statistics. However, I did want to point out an error in your story where you said "Polaris Project, an anti-trafficking non profit, reports the average victim of sex trafficking is forced to have sex 20-48 times a day." I think the statistic as you can quote below is 24-48 hours a day until $$$ quota not 20-48 times a day. As David Batstone of Not for Sale once said, "The numbers are horrific enough. . . we need to make sure our stats are accurate. Again, thanks for your excellent article . . . I am sorry for what you had to endure, but you are making a difference by coming forward with your story.

In Washington, DC, for example, the domestic sex trafficking victims whom we serve are forced to meet nightly quotas that average around $500 dollars. There are women and girls right now as I speak who have these quotas held over their heads and will have to meet them tonight in our Capitol city. To meet the quota, women and children as young as 12 years old must engage in numerous commercial sex acts with customers each night, in locations such as hourly hotel rooms, apartments, alleyways, and parked cars. The punishment for not meeting a quota on a given night is a severe beating, starvation, rape, or torture by a pimp, or being forced to continue to provide commercial sex for upwards of 24-48 hours until the quota is met.

From the Polaris Project website:

Human trafficking victims in residential brothels are often forced to provide commercial sex to high volumes of men daily. In certain sex trafficking networks, women and girls commonly "serve" as many as four men per hour (every 15 minutes), totaling 48 men in a given 12 hour day.

What Terry Bean's Arrest Means for the Gay Rights Movement

Friday, November 21, 2014

Joanna Evoniuk, GoLocalPDX Contributor

Facebook Twitter LinkedIn Email to a friend Permalink Like

The arrest of prominent gay activist Terry Bean has made headlines and given new ammunition for anti-gay rights groups. Some political experts believe the scandal won't hurt the LGBT movement and activists say their mission can outshine allegations leveled at any one individual.

The Bean scandal comes at what would appear a triumphant moment for the gay right movement nationally. Montana and South Carolina recently joined the District of Columbia and 33 other states in legalizing same-sex marriage.

But the arrest of Terry Bean and Kiah Lawson for sexually assaulting a juvenile male has put a black mark on one of the nation's most significant LGBT activists.

Bean was a leading figure and fundraiser for gay-rights in the U.S. He is perhaps best known for co-founding the largest LGBT group in the nation, Human Rights Campaign in 1980. He also helped establish the Gay and Lesbian Victory Fund, an organization that supports openly gay politicians.

Michelle Obama, Terry Bean, Bobby Iwasaki, President Obama

"It's always embarrassing when someone prominent with an organization gets arrested for committing a terrible crime, but that should not diminish the work the organization is doing," Julie Novkov, Chair of the Political Science Department at the University of Albany, said about Bean's arrest and the gay rights movement.

The Opposition's Reaction

His arrest for sexually abusing a minor has already given ammunition to anti-gay rights groups.

"Groups that make money for the other side are going to be talking to donors, saying 'hey we were right [about homosexuals]—send money,'" Political Consultant Craig Bergman of RGM Consulting Firm said. "All the marriage and family value groups are going to make a couple $100,000."

Dr. Paul Cameron, chairman of the pro-family organization Family Research Institute, said he was not surprised when he heard the news about Bean's arrest. He said the case will serve as an example supporting his organization's research against homosexuality.

Bean is not the first prominent gay rights activist to be involved in a sex scandal. Larry Brinkin, former commissioner for the San Francisco Human Rights Commission and famous gay rights activist, was convicted for child pornography in March 2014. Bergman said the case and others like it failed to influence the momentum of the LGBT movement.

Some political officials Bean supported may give back funds he donated, depending on the verdict of Bean's case, Dan Pinello, a political science professor at the John Jay College of Criminal Justice in New York City, said.

So far, no current politicians backed by Bean have made a public comment.

The Portland gay and lesbian community has not officially spoken out about Bean's arrest. GoLocalPDX contacted the Equity Foundation, Basic Rights Oregon, and The Q Center, all organizations that worked with Bean. They would not comment.

The lack of comment from political and social figures so far is concerning to Randy Thomasson, president of the conservative group SaveCalifornia.com.

"It's callousness and a lack of love for children," Thomasson said. "These people should at least be speaking out against the sexual conquest of children and speaking in favor of consent laws. It's proving corruption."

However, experts doubt the charges against Bean will impact public opinion of the LGBT movement.

"The public is aware that social movements are on the one hand and individuals are on the other," Pinello said. "Just as they wouldn't say that a heterosexual person who is accused of assault with minors would be representative of society across the board."

Pinello said that the public usually doesn't pay attention to these situations, especially if guilt has yet to be proved.

Recent Sexual Assault Cases

Other sexual assault accusations against illustrious personalities have surfaced over the last few months. Bill Cosby was recently accused by five women of sexual assault, after he refused to talk about previous accusations in a November 6 interview with the Associated Press.

In October, investigations began into CBC radio star Jian Ghomeshi for sexually assaulting two women on different occasions.

The aftermath of Bean's arrest could leave a hole in funding and support for gay right activists, but Novkov thinks the movement will continue to grow.

"I think organizations that have been depending on his work will have to find new people to step up and fill that role, but the agenda [of LGBT rights] is about equality and that message is sure to get out there," Novkov said.

Bean lobbied for a gay rights ordinance in Eugene that would have prohibited discrimination based on sexual orientation in housing, public accommodation and employment. The push for an ordinance provoked anti-gay rights backlash and ended in a signature drive that sent the measure to the ballot where it lost 2-1. Bean led the campaign to support the referendum.

WILMINGTON, Del.

The former headmaster of an elite Delaware prep school founded by members of the du Pont family was sentenced Friday to 50 years in prison for dealing in child pornography.

Christopher Wheeler showed no emotion and declined to speak. His attorney plans to appeal.

Wheeler, 55, waived his right to a jury trial last year after a judge denied a defense motion to suppress evidence seized during a search of his home and office at Tower Hill School, whose graduates include DuPont Co. CEO Ellen Kullman, U.S. Sen. Chris Coons and television personality Dr. Oz.

Wheeler was convicted by Judge Eric Davis in December after rejecting a plea bargain under which he could have received as little as four years behind bars.

While limiting his sentencing to the mandatory minimum of two years on each of 25 counts, Davis told Wheeler he had betrayed the public trust and shown a lack of remorse.

"It's just so wrong," Davis said. "You should not have placed yourself in the position ... where temptation faces you every morning as you shake hands with children."

Davis denied a defense motion to have the sentences run concurrently.

Defense attorney Thomas Foley argued that the mandatory sentencing for dealing in child pornography was draconian and disproportionate compared with other cases.

"It's obscene. It's outrageous," he said.

Foley also argued that law that does not require actual dissemination of child pornography in order to be convicted of dealing in it. Instead, he suggested, simply clicking on an image online could get somebody two years behind bars for dealing, whether it's a child predator or simply a socially awkward teenager.

Prosecutor Abigail Layton noted that Wheeler's sentence works out to about nine days for each of the 2,000 images of child exploitation.

"In those pictures, kids are being raped and violated, and it's captured on film for the rest of their lives," Layton said after the hearing.

Tower Hill officials released a statement saying none of Wheeler's conduct that was the subject of the case involved students at the school.

An accomplished musician and composer who flew his own airplane, Wheeler was hired at Tower Hill in 2004 after 14 years at Lake Forest Academy near Chicago, where he was assistant headmaster and wrestling coach. He previously worked at St. Paul's School in Garden City, New York.

Tower Hill officials have said Wheeler was extensively vetted before being hired, but court records suggest he hid a darker side.

In a letter to a Pennsylvania man who asked him about making amends for alleged child sexual abuse, Wheeler wrote: "I did those things. I am the one responsible."

Wheeler has never been charged with sexually abusing anyone, despite allegations leveled by the Pennsylvania man and his younger brother, who came forward in the wake of the Jerry Sandusky scandal at Penn State University. Wheeler's own adopted son also has accused him of abuse.

Prompted by those allegations, Delaware investigators searched Wheeler's home and office and found child pornography.

WATCH: Obama Bundler, HRC Founder Terry Bean Arrested on Sex Crimes Charges

By Diane Anderson-Minshall

Editor's note: This article was updated to include a quote from HRC's Fred Sainz.

No individual in Oregon raised more money for President Obama's election than Terrence "Terry" Bean, a Democratic Party bigwig and gay rights champion. Obama even thanked Bean in a speech soon after. But now Bean, a 66-year-old real estate developer who is a founder of the Human Rights Campaign, has been arrested on sex crimes charges in Lane County, Ore., according to the Portland Tribune.

The arrest centers around a 15-year-old boy he allegedly had sex with in 2013, and police say that charges will include two felony charges of third-degree sodomy and one count of third-degree sex abuse. Bean's ex-boyfriend Kiah Lawson, 25, was also arrested. According to Maxine Bernstein of The Oregonian, "Portland police tracked down the 15-year-old boy whose testimony helped lead to the sex abuse indictment against prominent Democrat Terrence P. Bean and his former boyfriend, Kiah L. Lawson, after Lawson gave police the teen's phone number, according to Lawson's former lawyer."

Police allege that Lawson and Bean set up the encounter with the teen through the hookup app Grindr, and having sex with him at a hotel in Eugene, Ore. Bernstein reports that Jeffrey Dickey, Lawson's former attorney, said, "The surprising thing to me is Kiah was indicted in this case because it was Kiah who helped authorities find this kid. If someone is going to cooperate and be helpful for the police there should be some kind of reward for that. It could have a chilling effect on others coming forward."

Kristen Winemiller, Bean's attorney, issued a statement saying Bean was actually a victim of extortion and he had been cooperating with police on the matter. She wrote: "Terry Bean is a highly respected community leader who has devoted his life to bettering our community. Over the course of several months in 2013-14, Terry was the victim of an extortion ring led by several men known to law enforcement. This current arrest is connected to the ongoing investigation of that case in which Mr. Bean has fully cooperated. No allegations against Terry Bean should be taken at face value. We look forward to the opportunity to clear his name."

In addition to co-founding HRC, Bean also helped found the Gay and Lesbian Victory Fund, is a member at-large of the Democratic National Committee, and has raised money for Al Gore, Bill Clinton, Obama, and several other prominent Democrats.

Local LGBT leaders and gossip watchers have followed the Bean-Lawson breakup and aftermath for months. Dickey told Bernstein that the relationship faltered after Lawson discovered Bean had a hidden camera in the bedroom of his home and was "surreptitiously videotaping his sexual encounters with Lawson and a handful of other men." The two men got restraining orders against each other, Bean attempted to evict Lawson from a condo he owned (public records report that Bean set Lawson up in a condo soon after they met and paid him $400 a week). Lawson traveled extensively with Bean (including to meet President Obama at the White House).

Bean's lawyer denies the claims, saying the cameras were simply for security, and he went to police and the local district attorney accusing Lawson of trying to extort $40,000 from Bean in exchange for returning the images Lawson took from Bean's iPad. Winemiller told Willamette Week, "We went to the police bureau because Lawson and his associates are dangerous men who were, and almost certainly still are, preying on gay men of all ages and walks of life."

Lawyers for the 15-year-old at the center of this case filed a motion in Eugene for a protective order of his identity, which was granted, according to KOIN. Lori Deveny, the teen's attorney, told KOIN, "He's been traumatized and he'll be living with that trauma. It's important that the two adults involved be held to account for that. Something like this can follow a victim for their life. As we go to electronic court records, everything becomes searchable."

KOIN reported that "Lawson was also ordered not to use the name of the alleged victim in any future postings on social media, and Lawson agreed."

Bean is out on bail; Lawson is being held on bail. But their supporters are weighing in online already.

Bean's supporters have told others to "heed the advice of his lawyer" to learn the facts of the case and remember that Bean is entitled to the presumption of innocence and a vigorous defense. Many LGBT and DNC leaders say they don't believe the accusations against the man who helped found two of the country's most powerful LGBT political organizations.

HRC's vice president of communications, Fred Sainz told The Advocate this morning, "Terry Bean has taken a voluntary leave of absence from the HRC board until his issues are resolved. Bean is just one of 80 board members, none of whom have daily oversight or responsibility for any of our programs. Every day HRC does tremendous work to make America a more just and equal nation. This week alone, we released the 2015 Corporate Equality Index and fought the so-called National Organization for Marriage. That work is vital and is bigger than any one individual."

Lawson's mother, Tim Nouanemany, was interviewed on KOIN 6 News, telling reporters that her son never had contact with the teen, that Bean alone arranged the encounter, and that Lawson is also a victim, a "pawn" used to "get young kids." Nouanemany said Bean used Lawson to "groom" other young gay men, and that "Bean gave her son alcohol and Viagra as part of the grooming process to entice the teen."

And antigay activist Matt Barber used the arrest to link to a misquoted study on gay men and pedophilia, sending out early morning tweets, letters, and an op-ed to media that hysterically argued, "Whether it's boy-raping 'gay' priests, or boy-raping 'gay' activists, the problem is systemic. Homosexual predators are targeting our boys."

GoFundMe Bans Christians from Trying to Help Other Christians!

Here at Eagle Rising we've documented the wealth of trouble that Melissa and Aaron Klein of Oregon ran into when they chose to stand by their religious convictions and not bake a cake for a gay wedding. The Klein's chose not to make a cake for a gay wedding (the couple was willing to supply baked goods of any other sort). Instead of simply going to another bakery, the gay couple sued the bakery and thus began a terrible odyssey for the Christian owned bakery. The Klein's were forced to shut down their bakery after a concerted assault by gay fascists who forced vendors not to do business with the couple. Then, to add insult to injury, the state of Oregon decided against the Klein's as well, and just this past week a judge decided to fine the couple for $135,000 in damages due to "emotional distress" that they caused the gay couple.

(I'm not sure how the gay couple could have possibly suffered more "emotional distress" than the Klein's, but noone is accusing the state of Oregon or the judge in question of having any common sense.)

In an effort to help the Klein's, some intrepid folks set up a Go Fund Me page to help them defer their legal fees. Sadly, the gay fascist lobby couldn't have that, so they inundated Go Fund Me with complaints about the fundraiser, and now Go Fund Me has decided to close the Klein's page! The reason given by Go Fund Me is as maddening as the story itself –

The website GoFundMe said in a statement Saturday that it took down the page because the campaign violated the policy against raising money “in defense of formal charges of heinous crimes, including violent, hateful, or sexual acts.”

“The campaign entitled ‘Sweet Cakes by Melissa’ involves formal charges. As such, our team has determined that it was in violation of GoFundMe’s Terms & Conditions,” said GoFundMe in an email statement.

Again, the hateful act that the Klein's committed was declining to make a wedding cake. This is what passes for justice in America today, and if you read the rest of the article on the subject at the Washington Times, you'll see just how hateful and vindictive the gay activists are in their efforts to extract a pound of flesh from the Klein family.

But take heart, dear readers! There is still a way for you to get involved and help the Klein family through this rough patch. The wonderful people at Samaritan's Purse Ministries have set up their own fundraising page to help the Klein family survive the horrible legal judgment.

Samaritan's Purse is raising funds to help the Kleins pay their fine and meet other expenses. “They have taken a stand for the Word of God, and they should not have to stand alone,” Samaritan's Purse President Franklin Graham said. “I believe that Christians across our nation will rally around Aaron and Melissa and their five children.

“Please pray for Aaron and Melissa, and pray for our nation. When our judges are punishing Christians for practicing what they believe, that's persecution, plain and simple.”

If you want to help Aaron and Melissa and other Christians deal with blatant discrimination, make a donation to our “Persecuted Christians—USA” fund below.

How many other bakeries there were in the town and why was this one targeted!! If a gay couple can find another bakery, church, venue, or photographer within a 50 miles or so radius....there is no question that the business is being targeted and gays are full of hypocrisy and intolerance! Pot calling the kettle black!

Gofundme is DEAD WRONG!

It's NOT the bakery that is targeting anybody, it's the gays who opted to sue instead of find a bakery that would cater to them.

Gays don't want equal rights. They want more rights. And they can't understand why people want nothing to do with them. What can possibly be accomplished by financially destroying someone for the rest of their lives other than personal revenge? I wonder what these gays want to be when they grow up?

Video Testimonies Homosexuals Don't Want You to See

If a person is born to be a homosexual, then there is no changing it. Period. Since some people claim they can't change their sexual "orientation," so the argument goes, then a person who engages in same-sex sexuality deserves to be protected by anti-discrimination laws in the same way that blacks are protected because of their skin color and genetic makeup.

Sexual behavior and skin color are not in the same category. The Bible actually has something to say about this in Jeremiah 13:23:

Can the Ethiopian change his skin or the leopard his spots?

The obvious answer is no. What people choose to do sexually is a choice. People make sexual choices every day. Millions of people resist temptation to cheat on their spouses.

There are people who have urges to engage sexually with people of the same sex. And guess what? They resist the urge. Those pushing the same-sex sexuality agenda don't want to hear contrary evidence that there are people who resist such urges, and there is such evidence, and it's growing.

200 EXhomosexual Video Testimonies

[There is] a growing video anthology of living witnesses — representing many nations — who have left homosexuality, bisexuality and lesbianism to follow Jesus Christ.

And Jesus, walking by the Sea of Galilee, saw two brothers, Simon called Peter, and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea; for they were fishermen. Then He said to them, “Follow Me, and I will make you fishers of men.” They immediately left their nets and followed Him. Matthew 4:18-20 KJV

Jesus yet calls us to forsake everything we have been to follow him.

Those who have left their past life behind stand as witnesses to the radical love of God and his great mercy to all sinners who come to Him by faith. Their stories are of hope, confidence and promise that God is who he said he is (a deliverer) and he will do what he said he will do (deliver from all our sins).

These testimonies tell the stories of believers who in their own way, with their unique voices and through their own desire seek to inspire others to pursue freedom in Christ. Some are more “polished” than others, some are shorter than others, some are more detailed than others, but all are for the glory of our beloved redeemer Jesus Christ.

Would GoFundMe Have Shut Down MLK's Account?

As reported in a previous article, GoFundMe shut down an account that was raising money for Sweet Cakes by Melissa because her bakery refused to bake a cake for a same-sex wedding and an agent of the state government fined the owners $135,000.

What argument did the folks at GoFundMe used to cancel the account? In a written statement, GoFundMe claimed that it was "because the campaign violated the policy against raising money 'in defense of formal charges of heinous crimes, including violent, hateful, or sexual acts.'"

Actually, the cancellation came when pro-homosexual groups pressured GoFundMe. These groups were incensed that Memories Pizza received more than $800,000 in funding in a similar fund raising campaign.

So where is the violation? The owners of the bakery stood up for their personal beliefs, a First Amendment right that includes freedom of religion and speech. Article 1, Section 3 of the Oregon Constitution states the following:

Freedom of religious opinion. No law shall in any case whatever control the free exercise, and enjoyment of religious [sic] opinions, or interfere with the rights of conscience.—

Here's the wording of Article 1, Section 8:

Freedom of speech and press. No law shall be passed restraining the free expression of opinion, or restricting the right to speak, write, or print freely on any subject whatever; but every person shall be responsible for the abuse of this right.—

There was no violence, hate, or sexual acts done by Sweet Cakes by Melissa. The owners of the bakery simply refused to assent to someone else's "expression of opinion" with an opinion of their own.

The irony here is thick. It was wrong for a bakery ^{not} to bake a cake for a same-sex couple out of principle, but it's OK for GoFundMe to deny the service of its company to that same bakery.

How is it possible for someone who followed what Hillary Clinton and President Obama believed just a few short years ago be now considered hateful?

Yes, there were "formal charges," but the charges are being appealed. A person is innocent until proven guilty, and one way to prove innocence is through the legal process which requires funding.

The pro-homosexual sycophants at GoFundMe have put the folks at Sweet Cakes by Melissa in an inextricable Catch-22.

Let's go back to the 1960s when Martin Luther King, Jr. was leading marches for full civil rights for blacks. King and others were in direct violation of the law. Rev. King even spent time in jail. On April 10, 1963 Circuit Judge W. A. Jenkins issued an injunction against "parading, demonstrating, boycotting, trespassing and picketing."

King and his associates decided that it was just to disobey an unjust law. In his famous "Letter from a Birmingham Jail," King wrote:

"One has not only a legal but a moral responsibility to obey just laws. Conversely, one has a moral responsibility to disobey unjust laws."¹

Fining a bakery $135,000 for not baking a cake for a same-sex wedding is an unjust sanction that is "cruel and unusual punishment." The Eighth Amendment specially states "excessive fines" shall not be "imposed."

The question is, would GoFundMe have shut down an appeal for funds to get Rev. King out of jail and to give him an opportunity to make his case through the courts? Given what GoFundMe did with Sweet Cakes by Melissa, to be consistent, it would have to, but it wouldn't because ideology trumps what is just.

Forcing a business to perform work for what is believed to be an immoral act is unjust, and "one has a moral responsibility to disobey unjust laws."
