BACKGROUND:

“Rap back” is a notification process that informs an employer or other designated entity of any subsequent arrests when an individual has already undergone a background check and their fingerprints were retained in a repository.

House Bill 2228-A creates a limited rap back program in Oregon. It requires the Oregon State Police (OSP) to establish a voluntary fingerprint retention program through which OSP retains fingerprint cards and facsimiles of fingerprints received from the Federal Bureau of Investigation, or created during a state criminal records check, for the purpose of providing to agencies and districts subscribing to the fingerprint retention program. House Bill 2228-A states that participation in the program is voluntary, may not be a condition of employment, and requires that certain notifications be provided to participants. The bill exempts information from public disclosure. House Bill 2228-A mandates that the Department of Administrative Services adopt rules for the administration of the program and permits OSP to adopt a fee to subscribe to the program. The bill limits the purposes for which collected information may be used. House Bill 2228-A also permits individuals to cease their voluntary participation in the program.
