ISSUES DISCUSSED:*EFFECT OF COMMITTEE AMENDMENT: No amendment.

BACKGROUND: Arizona, Colorado, Louisiana, Michigan and Missouri enacted Right-to-Try laws in 2014. Right-to-Try laws generally permit a patient to have access to an experimental drug after it has passed through Phase 1 of a clinical trial, which is the initial trial testing where a drug is given to a small group of people to evaluate its safety and side effects. Proponents state that only about three percent of the sickest Americans qualify for or have access to clinical drug trials approved by the United States Food and Drug Administration. Right-to-Try legislation that has been developed by the Goldwater Institute states that insurers are not required to cover the costs of the drug or other services related to its use.
