ISSUES DISCUSSED:

- The affect of the bill on the Northern Oregon Regional Correctional Facilities (NORCOR)
- Currently there are eleven juvenile detention centers in the state of Oregon
- Only one facility (Roseburg) has a youth care center
- State School Funding will shift from the Roseburg School District to the JDEP providers

EFFECT OF COMMITTEE AMENDMENT:

No amendment.

BACKGROUND:

In juvenile detention facilities, there are two funding streams for education, based on the type of placement: one funding stream is for youth placed in detention, and one funding stream is for youth placed in youth care centers within detention facilities. Education for youth in detention, is the responsibility of a provider under contract with the Oregon Department of Education; and for those in youth care centers, education is the responsibility of the local school district where the detention facility is located. Juveniles in detention facilities are not otherwise segregated for the provision of services. Senate Bill 475 provides for educational services to all juveniles in detention facilities via the Juvenile Detention Education Program.
