BACKGROUND:

ORS 329.045 regulates academic content standards for core courses, including mathematics, science, English, history, geography, economics, civics, physical education, health, the arts and world languages. Non-core courses are courses for which the State Board of Education has not adopted academic content standards, including career and technology educational courses in science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) programs. House Bill 3166-A requires TSPC to administer a pilot program for purpose of identifying non-core courses and alternative authorization requirements, with the general goal of enabling qualified industry professionals to more easily be licensed or permitted to teach CTE and STEM classes in their areas of expertise.
