10 (b) Oregon courts have identified the following factors in determining whether personal
11 property is a fixture:

12 (A) Whether the personal property is physically annexed to the real property;

13 (B) Whether the personal property is specifically adapted to the property; and

1 homeowners association, or a declarant in lieu of the association, shall approve a completed appli-
 2 cation within 60 days after the owner submits the application unless the delay in approving the

5 (a) May require an owner to submit an application before installing a charging station.

6 (b) May require the charging station to meet the architectural standards of the planned com-

8 (c) May impose reasonable charges to recover costs of the review and permitting of a charging

 22 related responsibilities of the owner under this section.

 24 in the planned community attributable to the installation and use of charging stations requires the 25 installation of additional infrastructure improvements to provide the planned community [with] a
 26 sufficient supply of electricity, the association may assess the cost of the additional improvements
 27 against the lot of each owner that has installed, or will[,] install, a charging station.

 37 association, negotiate a different outcome:

38 (a) A charging station installed under this section is deemed to be the personal property
 39 of the owner of the lot with which the charging station is associated; and

 43 all rights and responsibilities that apply to the charging station under this section.

44 [(8)] (9) In any action between an owner and a homeowners association to enforce compliance
 45 with this section, the prevailing party is entitled to an award of attorney fees and costs.

4 charging station by a unit owner in a condominium for the unit owner's personal residential 5 use.

6       (b) Oregon courts have identified the following factors in determining whether personal
7 property is a fixture:

8       (A) Whether the personal property is physically annexed to the real property;

9       (B) Whether the personal property is specifically adapted to the property; and

10       (C) Whether the person attaching the personal property objectively intended the personal 11 property to become part of the real property when attached.

12       (c) Oregon courts have identified the objective intent of the annexer, described in para-
13 graph (b)(C) of this subsection, as the most important of the three factors.

15 association, have negotiated a different outcome, an electric vehicle charging station in-
16 stalled under ORS 100.627 on or before the effective date of this 2015 Act is deemed to be the 17 personal property of the unit owner of the unit with which the charging station is associated.

18       SECTION 6. ORS 100.627 is amended to read:

19       100.627. (1) Notwithstanding contrary provisions of a declaration or bylaws of a condominium:

29       (2) When the unit owner complies or agrees to comply with the requirements of this section, an
30 association of unit owners, or a declarant in lieu of the association, shall approve a completed ap-
31 plication within 60 days after the unit owner submits the application unless the delay in approving 32 the application is based on a reasonable request for additional information.

7 in the condominium attributable to the installation and use of charging stations requires the in-
8 stallation of additional infrastructure improvements to provide the condominium with a sufficient
9 supply of electricity, the association may assess the cost of the additional improvements against the 10 unit of each unit owner that has, or will, install a charging station.

11 (7)(a) A pedestal, or similar, charging station that is hard-wired into the electrical system must 12 be a certified electrical product, as defined in ORS 479.530.

13 (b) If a charging station, other than one described in paragraph (a) of this subsection, is not a 14 certified electrical product, the unit owner shall:

26 rights and responsibilities that apply to the charging station under this section.

27 [(8)] (9) In any action between a unit owner and an association of unit owners to enforce com-
