Kristen and Ruchi, attached is a media release the utilities have put out about the energy legislation we've been talking about. We may get called by reporters about the bill. We will say the following:

1. We (the OPUC) were shut out of the discussions. We think also industrial customers, consumer owned utilities, independent power producers, and community solar advocates were shut out. We believe that no one on the group that crafted the bill represented the public interest in the discussion.
2. If carbon reduction is the goal of this legislation, this agreement is not the most efficient or effective way to achieve a goal of carbon reduction.
3. Regarding the content of the bill, the legislation requires us to reverse or revisit Commission decisions made through the OPUC's thorough and open public processes. It shifts risk from utility shareholders to consumers, it tends to protect the utilities from current competitive pressures, and the "coal-to-clean" aspect of the bill will have little to no carbon reduction benefit while driving up customer rates.
4. We intend to hold a public meeting later in January to ask the utilities to describe the plan and its impacts on customers.

Please advise if you have issues with the content of these comments.
