

Dear Chairperson Jennifer Williamson,

Regarding "National Popular Vote" bills (SB 823, 824, 825, HB 2731, and 2927): It would be unjust to change the way national voting is done. The present system allows for less populated states and minorities to have a say in filling national offices. Letting states like New York and California tell the other states who should be president and vice president would be a terrible miscarriage of justice.
