

Dear Chair Jennifer Williamson and Committee Members:

I understand legislation for the National Popular Vote will have a hearing. I believe the Electoral College counting system works just the way it was intended to work. Changing it is not a good idea. The current system makes every State important, even Oregon with its 7 Electoral Votes. It should be not be made into a System where candidates confine their campaigning in States with large numbers of Electoral Votes such as Texas and New York.

If anything is done, I would be more in favor of the Maine system where Electoral Votes in Oregon are awarded according the majority vote of each Congressional District.

Sincerely,
Ronald B. Glynn
