

The National Popular Vote will finally give Oregon a say in who becomes President of the United States. During the 2016 national presidential campaign, there were only 11 states visited by the two candidates as those were the so-called swing states. If the National Popular Vote compact were in place, then every vote in every state would matter. Candidates would need to visit all 435 Congressional districts to ask for votes. Small states not only wouldn't be hurt, they would have a voice because every vote would matter.

Let the people decide who becomes President. I want my one vote to matter. Please vote yes on HB 2927.

Thank you.
