

I support an adjustment in the voting rules to allow states to direct their electors to vote for the national popular vote winner. The president, for example, is the president of the nation and should have a true national voter support. Dell Goldsmith