

Restore farmer's rights. In 2013, the Oregon legislature took away the right of local government to regulate agriculture. Since then the legislature has failed to provide any meaningful statewide regulations to protect family farmers from the risks of genetically modified (GMO) crops.

This is a very important issue to me since I used to be an organic farmer and choose to only eat organic food. We are messing with Mother Nature and she doesn't like it. I believe that humans will be the next extinction and I'm sure that the planet will be better of without us!
