

Oregon exports a great amount of nursery goods around the world. Recently some farmers crops were not acceptable to the farmers customers because they were contaminated with GMO. That should not happen and Oregon must stop it. The people who sowed the GMO seeds must be made financially responsible for problems like this. If the GMO companies cannot guarantee the seeds will not germinate they must not be allowed to plant them and if they do, then they are responsible for the farmers loss. Thank you.

Judy Stufflebeam