APD	Centralized Abuse Management System	House Bill 4151 requires the state of Oregon and DHS as its agent, to standardize its processes and technology related to abuse of vulnerable adults. Oregon's current environment for tracking, reporting, analyzing and investigating incidents of adult abuse relies on accessing information from ten (10) distinct systems or data sources. Additionally, local offices have created their own one-off mechanisms for supporting the abuse investigation processes, further complicating and decentralizing information. Existing systems limitations include the inability to search across program populations, inhibiting the ability to track perpetrators and/or victims over time and between populations. This heightens the risk of not capturing all abuse allegations. This POP requests state funds to complete implementation efforts started in the 2015-17 biennium, for an integrated solution which meets HB 4151 criteria and helps protect vulnerable Oregonians. Not funding this POP will limit Oregon's ability to achieve the capabilities and efficiencies of the proposed integrated solution. The Other funds in this request are carryover Q-Bonds sold in spring of 2017 and is a one time request for limitation. The General fund is the best current estimate of costs of the ongoing operations and maintenance of the new system.	1,920,186	2,207,072	215,911	4,343,169	4	2.83		102
IDD	Stable and competent workforce for I/DD	Perpetually low wages from an outdated rate model for the I/DD provider workforce has created a record level of turnover and a critical shortage of direct support professionals (DSPs). DSPs provide support for people with I/DD to live and work in a safe and healthy manner as members of their communities. DHS and stakeholders created the existing rate structure based on 2007 fiscal data. This model needs to be updated to align with current economic realities; new minimum wage requirements; new DOL Overtime Rule, and expectations around service quality, safety and competency/training requirements. A stable and well trained workforce is critical to the ability of I/DD provider network to providing high quality of services to individuals and assuring their health and safety. Provider rate structure needs to reflect these requirements and provide adequate compensation to assure that individuals with I/DD are served by competent workers. This POP will: Ensure adequate DSP wages that are above minimum wage to reflect DHS' longstanding policy that DSP work is not minimum wage work; address compression effect of minimum wage increases on wages of house managers and supervisors; address cost impact of new DOL requirements around overtime pay for workers earning less than $913 a week ($47,476 a year); provide financial incentives for providers to ensure their staff achieves highest level of training and competency and by making available College of Direct Support training to Oregon DSPs and provide one FTE for ODDS to coordinate provider training requirements and programs.	22,281,720	-	49,045,426	71,327,146	1	1.00		105
CW	Family Foster Care Rate Reimbursement	Reimbursement rates for Family Foster Care have not been adjusted to the cost of living for a decade. In 2009 rates were adjusted to 90% of the cost of care based on a 2007 rate methodology. In 2011, these rates were reduced by an additional 10% due to department budget cuts. Families coming forward to provide foster care has continued to diminish over the last 5 years in part due to the low reimbursement rates. The current daily rate is $18.90 per day for a child under age 5 years old or $24.36 per day for a teenager. This is intended to cover the costs of food, shelter, clothing, school supplies, extracurricular activities, etc.... Based on the methodology created in 2009 Oregon is currently providing only 40-46% of the actual cost of care. Other states have been sued due to the low rate of family foster care payments and Oregon continues to increase the risk of a class action lawsuit.	7,926,190		4,857,987	12,784,177	-	-		108
CW	BRS rates	Update the rate model for Behavioral Rehabilitation Services (BRS) program to pay contracted providers for costs increases above inflation. Rates directly impact state agencies access to these programs. The BRS rate model has not been kept current since first established in 1998. Simply adding inflation to the previous biennium rate has not kept pace with significantly increasing costs. Some of the most heavily used programs have closed over the past two biennia. More programs have signaled if they don't receive more financial support from the state they will have to close soon. This package is most importantly about child and youth safety as well as maintaining access to this essential part of the system serving Oregon's most needy children. Without increases to the rate state agencies will continue to have pressure on the BRS system as provider costs increase and the rate remains inadequate.	2,116,547		3,823,804	5,940,351	-	-		109
CW	Legal Representation in Child Welfare	Historically, DOJ's billable hour model has been considered cost-prohibitive in juvenile dependency cases and has been a deterrent to DHS accessing and utilizing DOJ for full representation—including attendance at all hearings, regular case consultation, impromptu legal advice, and regular participation in case worker training, meetings, and staffing. A block grant model will allow DOJ to manage cases according to a workload method of case assignment with each DOJ attorney carrying a consistent number of weighted cases. In this model, each dependency case is assigned to an attorney who handles it from petition to permanency. This case assignment method will provide DHS caseworkers with continuous representation which, in turn, will promote attorney-caseworker collaboration, improve caseworker job satisfaction and retention, avoid the risk for unlawful practice of law by case workers, and improve the overall efficiency and cost-effectiveness of the system. This POP assumes a total fund block grant funding model of $45 million TF for full representation and assumes the exception to DHS representation in these cases is lifted. If the representation exception is continued DHS is still short $4.5 million GF in order to meet projected CW AG costs in 2017-19.	6,916,041		12,957,561	19,873,602				110

HR DHS/OHA	Background Check Unit Workload	Steadily increasing numbers of background checks per year and growing complexity of work combined with stagnant or decreased staffing for the Background Check Unit (BCU) over the last few biennia have resulted in mounting backlogs and processing timelines for background checks. Groups for whom BCU completes checks include but are not limited to home care workers, personal support workers, subsidized child care providers, child caring agencies, System of Care and SPRF providers, and staff and volunteers from residential care, nursing, and adult foster home facilities. The staff requested in this policy option package would meet currently required needs to maintain timely background checks for all regulated groups handled by BCU, and meet projected needs due to program growth and new federal and state statutes implementing during the 2017-2019 biennium. The result would be faster background checks to assist regulated Oregon employers in meeting their required staffing levels while maintaining health, safety and financial wellness for vulnerable Oregonians through quality background checks. In addition, Department of Human Services (DHS) has identified a variety of expansion options to current background check criteria for DHS and OHA providers whose fitness determination is completed by the Background Check Unit (BCU). These options would provide more intensive background checks by accessing a variety of DHS, state and federal information regarding health, safety, abuse and fraud not currently utilized. The result would be increased health, safety and financial wellness for vulnerable Oregonians. The BCU has authority to charge fees but does not currently do so. A fee for service model is an option to cover some or all costs of the BCU.	6,118,266	7,251,800	1,221,826	14,591,892	22	11.00		205

Program Name: Oregon Adult Abuse Prevention and Investigations (OAPPI)
Policy Option Package Initiative: N/A
Policy Option Package Title: Implementing Centralized Abuse Management (CAM) System
Policy Option Package Number: POP 102
Related Legislation: N/A
Program Funding Team: Safer, Healthier Communities

Summary
Statement:

House Bill 4151 requires the state of Oregon and DHS as its agent, to standardize its processes and technology related to abuse of vulnerable adults.

Oregon's current environment for tracking, reporting, analyzing and investigating incidents of adult abuse relies on accessing information from nine distinct systems or data sources. Additionally, local offices have created their own one-off mechanisms for supporting the abuse investigation processes, further complicating and decentralizing information. Existing systems limitations include the inability to search across program populations, inhibiting the ability to track perpetrators and/or victims over time and between populations. This heightens the risk of not capturing all abuse allegations.

This POP requests state funds and requests carryover of Q bond funds to implement additional enhancements that will build upon the capabilities of a base system implemented in the 2015-17 biennium, for an integrated solution, which meets HB 4151 criteria and helps protect vulnerable Oregonians. Additional enhancements, anticipated to be complete by 12/31/2017, will fulfill the scope of the CAM project. Not funding this POP will limit Oregon’s ability to achieve the capabilities and efficiencies of the proposed integrated solution.

1. WHAT WOULD THIS POLICY OPTION PACKAGE (POP) DO AND HOW WOULD IT BE IMPLEMENTED?

This POP supports multiple DHS programs by funding the full implementation of an integrated solution for tracking, reporting and supporting investigations of adult abuse. Program areas include: Aging and People with Disabilities, Developmental Disabilities and Child Welfare.

Funding will support the second release of the system, which will realize efficiencies by enhancing capabilities to include reporting functionality, provide document management capability, enable notifications, interface with other Oregon systems and provide ongoing risk management while leveraging the base functionality planned for implementation in the 2015-17 biennium.

Activities this POP will fund include:

- Implementation costs for enhancements in order to fully realize the capabilities of the CAM system including state staff costs, professional services and quality assurance.
- Licensing costs for the full 2017-2019 biennium
- Operations and maintenance costs for the full 2017-2019 biennium

2. WHY DOES DHS/OHA PROPOSE THIS POP?

This POP provides the funding necessary to complete full implementation of a centralized abuse management system and funds software licensing through the full 2017-19 biennium and ongoing maintenance and support post-implementation.

3. HOW DOES THIS FURTHER THE AGENCY’S MISSION OR GOALS? HOW DOES THIS FURTHER THE PROGRAM FUNDING TEAM OUTCOMES OR STRATEGIES?

In 2014, almost 750,000 Oregonians belonged to one of the nine Oregon populations supported by OAAPI and its program partners that receive and process reports of abuse. During that same year OAAPI and its program partners received more than 38,000<sup>1</sup> allegations of abuse of these individuals, resulting in 18,185<sup>1</sup> investigations.

According to the 2014 OAAPI Annual Report dated July 2015, “In 2014, there was a 10% overall increase in the number of investigations conducted (compared to 2013).” During the next 10 years the number of allegations received and screened by OAAPI and its program partners is expected to increase nearly 60%. This assessment increases the projected 50,414 allegations in 2015 to more than 78,500 allegations in 2024, based on current and predicted growth of vulnerable populations. OAAPI is projecting 30,800 investigations by 2024, a nearly 63% increase from the 2015 level of 19,000 investigations. This growth in the number of abuse referrals and investigations, typical of previous years, is one of the reasons that OAAPI was formed, to ensure a coordinated and consistent response to an increasing number of abuse referrals across all vulnerable populations. Abuse can’t be undone. Abuse carries with it lifelong impacts to a person’s life in regard to health, emotional well-being and a person’s ability to benefit from available services.

The need for a stable Centralized Abuse Management System becomes ever more critical as Oregon faces an aging population, a significant annual increase in abuse referrals and an increased need for services across all demographics.

An improved system for abuse data collection, from the time of screening through investigation, case closure and referral, is essential to better protect vulnerable Oregonians and to more accurately and efficiently produce meaningful abuse data and outcomes to the Legislature, DHS leadership and the public. This system must be focused on abuse across programs, not simply added on to the various existing, disconnected program databases.

The full implementation of such a system would directly contribute to the DHS Policy Outcome of “Improving our Human Services Systems” by addressing a long standing gap in data collection and analysis and leading to a more efficient and effective state response to the reported abuse of vulnerable Oregonians.

Additionally, the implementation of a Centralized Abuse Management System is in alignment with the DHS/OHA Strategic Technology Plan (STP) including progress in pursuit of automating business workflows, decision-making, and business rules while reducing manual, paper-based processes. A Centralized Management System moves the state closer to providing a comprehensive view of a client and makes progress towards the goal of a “360 degree view of a person.” The project will provide workers connectivity to a real-time system to perform their work anytime and anywhere. Through the reduction of data duplications and entry into multiple systems, CAM will make advancements in providing a trusted source for abuse and investigation data. The implementation of a SaaS (software as a service) solution will allow responsiveness to quickly evolving business needs.

4. IS THIS POP TIED TO A DHS PERFORMANCE MEASURE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE PERFORMANCE MEASURE. IF NO, HOW WILL DHS MEASURE THE SUCCESS OF THIS POP?

Yes, this POP is directly tied to the following process measures and outcome measures outlined on the DHS Fundamentals Map:

“Protection and Intervention” (OP1) Process Measures:

- % of completed investigations coded “unable to determine” or “inconclusive”
- % of calls assigned for field contact that meet policy timelines
- % of investigation reports completed within policy timelines

“Safety” (O1) Outcome Measures:

- Re-abuse rate
- Abuse rate

As of the fourth quarter of 2015, DHS and OHA were not meeting most of the Adult Abuse Quarterly Business Review (QBR) – Key Performance Metrics (KPMs) for Adult Abuse.

5. DOES THIS POP REQUIRE A CHANGE(S) TO AN EXISTING STATUTE OR REQUIRE A NEW STATUTE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE STATUTE AND THE LEGISLATIVE CONCEPT.

No, this POP supports HB 4151.

6. WHAT ALTERNATIVES WERE CONSIDERED AND WHAT WERE THE REASONS FOR REJECTING THEM?

Oregon considered three alternatives:

1. Maintain the status quo

Under this alternative there would be no additional investment in abuse tracking system automation. Improvements to current processes would be limited to those that arise naturally through the Department’s continuous improvement program.

- The department would continue with ineffective, disconnected automated and manual systems that are difficult to oversee and analyze.
- The requirements and recommendations made by HB 4151, SB 1515, and various reports and audits would not be met in the foreseeable future.

2. Implement a Custom Build Solution

- Under this alternative the department would design, develop, test and deploy a custom solution built from the ground up for APS, HS, DD, CW and OSH Centralized Abuse Management needs. This alternative would allow a tailor-made solution that would meet all the functional, technical and organization requirements.

- The costs to develop a custom system are substantially higher than procuring the Salesforce CRM, with commensurate risks and a timeline that is more than a year longer to implement compared to implementing a Salesforce solution.

7. WHAT WOULD BE THE ADVERSE EFFECTS OF NOT FUNDING THIS POP?

- Continued risk of not identifying cases of cross-population abuse or victims
- Inability to fully achieve the efficiencies of the base SaaS solution being implemented in 2015-17. The planned second release to expand on the base solution to include reporting, interfaces with other Oregon systems, notifications, document management (attachment of documents in the system), ongoing risk management (for Adult Protective Services clients) would not be completed, leaving workers with an incomplete and inefficient tool to support their abuse investigations.
- OAAPI frequently encounters the need for manual data mining and collection to respond to public or media inquiries, to perform effective oversight of local offices and investigators and also to provide basic quality assurance or monitor statutory compliance. In the current state, the department loses productivity when workers run semi-automated processes to link data between different databases in order to produce metrics. Many hours are lost during the process of exchanging, checking and interpreting data from the various systems. Unfortunately, this is valuable staff time that could be put to better use performing quality assurance and data analysis to identify the causes of abuse in community and facility settings and then to work to mitigate those causes.

Other agencies affected by this POP include OAAPI's Program Partners and those with a business needs for abuse data or investigation reports, such as:

- Background Check Unit (BCU)
- DHS Case Management (APD & DD)
- Child Welfare (CW)

- The Office of Licensing & Regulatory Oversight (OLRO)
- The Oregon Health Authority / Addictions and Mental Health Licensing

These agencies would experience a change in how they receive abuse data and reports from OAAPI and from community programs. Agencies access to abuse data would be based on business need and established using a role-based security protocol.

9. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES, PROGRAMS or STAKEHOLDERS ARE COLLABORATING ON THIS POP?

Oregon Adult Abuse Prevention and Investigations (OAAPI), on behalf of the Department of Human Services, Aging and People with Disabilities, Developmental Disabilities, and Child Welfare and multiple county partners including Multnomah County, champion this POP. All of these entities are stakeholders in protecting vulnerable Oregonians and will benefit from full implementation of an integrated tracking and reporting solution for adult abuse.

10. WHAT IS YOUR EQUITY ANALYSIS?

Abuse data systems currently in use do not capture the racial and ethnic identifiers needed for an analysis of service equity in the abuse investigation process. As a result, it is currently impossible to analyze the service equity in the provision of abuse response and investigation. The fully-implemented CAM system will incorporate such identifiers and allow for in-depth analysis of service equity in the delivery of abuse investigations and protective services.

11. WHAT ASSUMPTIONS AFFECT THE PRICING OF THIS POP?

Implementation Date(s):

Release 1.0 will be complete by June 30, 2017 and will implement the base functionality using a software as a service solution. Release 2.0 will be complete by December 31, 2017 providing the remaining key functionality necessary to support notifications, reporting and fully-developed investigations across populations.

End Date (if applicable):

The transition to maintenance and operations is expected to start January 1, 2018 and be fully realized by March 2018. Licensing fees for the full biennium, estimated at roughly $600,000 a year as well as operation and maintenance fees for the full biennium, estimated at $100,000 a year are included in the pricing of this POP.

a. Will there be new responsibilities for DHS? Specify which Program Area(s) and describe their new responsibilities.

Interface data from existing disparate systems into the CAM system will require engagement and support of program and policy resources for DHS as well as OIS resources supporting the back-end systems.

b. Will there be new Shared Services impacts sufficient to require additional funding? Specify which office(s) (i.e., facilities, computer services, etc.) and describe how it will be affected.

None identified at this time.

c. Will there be changes to client caseloads or services provided to population groups? Specify how many in each relevant program.

No changes anticipated.

d. Will it take new staff or will existing positions be modified? For each classification, list the number of positions and the number of months the positions will work in each biennium. Specify if the positions are permanent, limited duration or temporary.

Resources supporting the current project through the 2015-17 biennium will be needed to support this effort into the 2017-19 biennium. This includes subject matter experts from various program areas who will need to provide input to refine requirements and test the usability of the solution for accuracy before implementation.

The level of continued core project staffing is modest because the majority of the integration work is expected to be supported by the Systems Integrator. No new staffing will be needed, the project anticipates utilizing current state staff to be allocated to the project as needed.

e. What are the start-up costs, such as new or significant modifications to computer systems, new materials, outreach and training?

For 2017-19, the primary costs are to support the implementation of the remaining capabilities and are estimated at approximately $3.4 million total cost with a state general fund cost of $1.4 million. Training of staff and other end users will be necessary and communications, including new materials, will be needed to support adoption and business process changes to fully leverage the new solutions.

f. What are the ongoing costs?

Ongoing costs include licensing fees estimated at approximately $600,000 a year and operation and maintenance fees estimated at $100,000 a year.

g. What are the potential savings?

DHS will have the potential to sunset several systems or portions of systems. This will ultimately yield savings and enable utilization of the technical staff who support those systems to be leveraged in support of the new systems.

h. Based on these answers, is there a fiscal impact?

Yes.

Department of Human Services 2017-19 Policy Option Package

Agency Name: Department of Human Services
Program Area Name: Office of Developmental Disability Services
Program Name: Office of Developmental Disability Services
Policy Option Package Initiative: Stable and competent workforce for I/DD services
Policy Option Package Title: Stable and competent workforce for I/DD services
Policy Option Package Number: 105
Related Legislation: N/A
Program Funding Team: N/A

Statement:

Perpetually low wages from an outdated rate model for the Intellectual/Developmental Disabilities (I/DD) provider workforce has created a record level of turnover and a critical shortage of direct support professionals (DSPs). DSPs provide support for people with I/DD to live and work in a safe and healthy manner as members of their communities. The Department of Human Services (DHS) and stakeholders created the existing rate structure based on 2007 fiscal data. This model needs to be updated to align with current economic realities; new minimum wage requirements, and expectations around service quality, safety and competency and training requirements. A stable and well-trained workforce is critical to the ability of the I/DD provider network to provide high quality services to individuals to ensure their health and safety. Provider rate structure needs to reflect these requirements and provide adequate compensation to ensure that individuals with I/DD are served by competent workers.

This POP will provide a percentage provider rate increase to:

1. Start addressing low DSP wages and maintain them above minimum wage to reflect DHS' longstanding policy that DSP work is not a minimum wage work.
2. Address compression effect of minimum wage increases on wages of house managers and supervisors.
3. Provide financial incentives for providers to ensure their staff achieves highest level of training and competency and by making available College of Direct Support training to Oregon DSPs.
4. Provide one FTE for the Office of Developmental Disabilities Services (ODDS) to coordinate provider training requirements and programs.

The estimated cost of these measures is $71,327,146.

1. WHAT WOULD THIS POLICY OPTION PACKAGE (POP) DO AND HOW WOULD IT BE IMPLEMENTED?

In order to address the critical workforce situation and record high turnover rates within I/DD service delivery system, ODDS is planning to engage in a rate setting process to ensure that provider service rates adequately reflect work requirements, qualifications, quality standards, and deliverables expected, while ensuring workforce stability and start moving in the direction of providing adequate reimbursement for Direct Support Professionals (DSPs). The new rate structure will incorporate the following cost drivers:

1. Adequate DSP wages that are above minimum wage
2. Compression effect of minimum wage increases on wages of house managers and supervisors Another strategy for workforce development and retention proposed in this POP is implementation of a rigorous training program that supports a skill-based career ladder for DSPs and incentives to providers to support workers in achieving highest level of competency and training. As part of this strategy, ODDS will partner with Direct Course to provide credentialing through the College of Direct Support to make training available. College of Direct Support (CDS) content is developed through a consortium of academic institutions, including leading experts in the field of intellectual and developmental disabilities. The College of Direct Support Board is comprised of subject matter experts who review and contribute to the development of curriculum to ensure that every course for direct support professionals offers leading insight and nationally recognized best practices. The College of Direct Support curriculum and training programs assist in building a permanent, verifiable records of training for every member of a state's direct support workforce. ODDS, through the rate structure, will provide adequate resources to providers to incentivize their workforce to achieve high levels of competency through this, or other equivalent training. The POP will include one FTE for ODDS to coordinate tracking of providers and DSPs.

2. WHY DOES DHS PROPOSE THIS POP?

Adequate reimbursement of provider agencies delivering services to individuals with I/DD is critical to maintain a high quality and stable network of providers. A stable workforce is critical to serving children and adults with I/DD because it provides an ability to train and retain skilled DSPs who are committed to their work, ensure health and safety of individuals served, and are able to support individuals in achieving full lives in their communities.

Inadequate reimbursement rates contribute to high turnover rates, worker shortages, and high competition for workforce within the industry and with other industries that require similar qualifications and provide similar or better pay. Other outcomes of staff instability and shortages are potential risks to the health and safety of individuals served, low quality of services to individuals, gaps in critical services and inability to meet needs of individuals with high level of needs due to staffing shortages, often resulting in placement in higher cost settings.

In January, 2015, RTI International produced a report on Wages, Fringe Benefits, and Turnover for Direct Care Workers Working for Long-Term Care Providers in Oregon. “Direct care workers, such as certified nurse assistants, home health aides, and personal care aides, are the backbone of the formal long-term services and supports delivery system. These workers often receive low wages. In addition, direct care workers often receive little in the way of fringe benefits. Advocates for direct care workers argue that low wages and lack of fringe benefits have adverse consequences in terms of turnover and quality of care.”

According to the RTI report, average annual turnover among direct care workers was 64% a year, with wide variation across provider types. Residential care facilities for adults with I/DD had the highest turnover rates at 90% per year. Lower wages paid to direct care workers were listed among top four variables that were statistically significantly associated with higher turnover rates.

Direct Support Professionals perform vital tasks that require a higher level of skill than required for minimum wage jobs. With the increase in minimum wage to support workers in those positions, additional challenges have resulted for I/DD provider agencies. The difference between the state’s estimated rate for DSP wages used in ODDS rate models and minimum wage is now smaller, adding to the challenge of providers being able to recruit and retain high quality DSPs. ODDS recognizes that DSP wages must be above minimum wage to ensure adequate and fair compensation, stability and continuity of workforce to minimize turnover.

An additional outcome of the new minimum wage requirements is the compression effect on the entire provider rate structure that puts upward pressure on wages of supervisors and managers within the system. To allow for adequate management and supervision, the rate model must maintain a wage separation between the DSP and their manager or supervisor. As a result, additional rate increases will be necessary to adequately reflect compensation across all levels of work needed to deliver services to individuals with I/DD.

3. HOW DOES THIS FURTHER THE AGENCY’S MISSION OR GOALS? HOW DOES THIS FURTHER THE PROGRAM FUNDING TEAM OUTCOMES OR STRATEGIES?

This POP directly addresses issues around Agency Vision (“Safety, health and independence for all Oregonians”) and multiple agency goals, including:

1. People are safe and living as independently as possible – POP ensures that I/DD provider agencies have stable and qualified workforce to ensure quality and continuity of services, individuals’ health and safety, and maximum independence and integration into the community.
2. Highly qualified, effective, valued workforce – POP provides ability to recruit, train and retain qualified workers who are adequately compensated and incentivized to continuously advance their competencies.
3. In meeting the spirit of providing service equity to clients, the POP will assist in recruitment and retention of a linguistically and culturally diverse workforce.

4. IS THIS POP TIED TO A DHS PERFORMANCE MEASURE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE PERFORMANCE MEASURE. IF NO, HOW WILL DHS MEASURE THE SUCCESS OF THIS POP?

- Key Performance Measure 15 – Abuse of people with intellectual and developmental disabilities: stable, well-trained, adequately compensated workforce should result in increased health and safety of individuals served and reduced rates of abuse.
- New proposed Quarterly Business Review measure: DSP turnover rate per National Core Indicators Staff Stability Report. This POP is expected to reduce current turnover rates by providing adequate compensation to DSPs, training and career ladder opportunities and incentives to advance competencies for staff.

5. DOES THIS POP REQUIRE A CHANGE(S) TO AN EXISTING STATUTE OR REQUIRE A NEW STATUTE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE STATUTE AND THE LEGISLATIVE CONCEPT.

No.

6. WHAT ALTERNATIVES WERE CONSIDERED AND WHAT WERE THE REASONS FOR REJECTING THEM?

Alternative to this POP would be for DHS to continue with an outdated rate structures that is currently resulting in record high turnover rates among DSPs, loss of qualified workers, inability to provide adequate staffing for individuals with complex needs, increased risk to health and safety of individuals with all levels of need, closure of group homes and the inability to increase capacity in residential services providers to meet the demand for residential placements and growing wait lists to high cost SACU placements. The DSP turnover rates also impact individuals' ability to work and live as members of their communities.

7. WHAT WOULD BE THE ADVERSE EFFECTS OF NOT FUNDING THIS POP?

- Loss of qualified workforce to other industries, which would destabilize the lives of Oregonians with I/DD and their ability to work and live as members of their communities.
- High turnover rates among DSPs leading to lower quality of services, risks to health and safety of individuals in services, instability and gaps in services resulting in negative outcomes for Oregonians with I/DD.
- Inappropriate placements of individuals in higher cost settings such as SACU due to inability to appropriately staff supports.
- Less trained and experienced workers leading to higher level of abuse incidents and increased risk to health and safety of individuals.
- Lack of linguistically and culturally diverse workforce to meet the needs of communities needing services.

8. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES (STATE, TRIBAL AND/OR LOCAL GOVERNMENT) WOULD BE AFFECTED BY THIS POP? HOW WOULD THEY BE AFFECTED?

Other agencies will not be affected by this POP.

9. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES, PROGRAMS or STAKEHOLDERS ARE COLLABORATING ON THIS POP?

Provider agency associations include: Oregon Rehabilitation Association; Community Provider Association of Oregon; and the Developmental Disabilities Coalition.

10. WHAT IS YOUR EQUITY ANALYSIS?

This POP is an equity initiative. Through it, state agencies and service providers will increase the ability of people with intellectual and developmental disabilities to access needed services through provider agencies, including in rural and frontier areas. The POP will provide adequate reimbursement to providers so that they in turn can ensure fair pay for all Direct Support Professionals. The intent is to address disproportionately high turnover rates in I/DD agency provider service delivery system, provide stable qualified workforce and ensure quality of services to individuals with I/DD. The POP will also help with recruitment and retention of linguistically and culturally diverse workforce to meet the needs of diverse I/DD population, including non-English speaking workers to address shortages in multi-lingual DSPs.

Department of Human Services 2017-19 Policy Option Package

Agency Name: Department of Human Services
Program Area Name: Child Welfare
Program Name: Child Well-Being Program
Policy Option Package Initiative: Safe, Healthier Communities
Policy Option Package Title: Family Foster Care Rate Reimbursement
Policy Option Package Number: 108
Related Legislation: N/A

Statement:

Reimbursement rates for Family Foster Care have not been adjusted to the cost of living for a decade. In 2009 rates were adjusted to 90% of the cost of care based on a 2007 rate methodology. In 2011, these rates were reduced by an additional 10% due to department budget cuts. Families coming forward to provide foster care has continued to diminish over the last 5 years in part due to the low reimbursement rates. The current daily rate is $18.90 per day for a child under age 5 years old or $24.36 per day for a teenager. This is intended to cover the costs of food, shelter, clothing, school supplies, extracurricular activities, etc. Based on the methodology created in 2009 Oregon is currently providing only 40-46% of the actual cost of care. Other states have been sued due to the low rate of family foster care payments and Oregon continues to increase the risk of a class action lawsuit.

The amounts for this increase assume a 6 month phase in with updated rates effective 1/1/2018.

1. WHAT WOULD THIS POLICY OPTION PACKAGE (POP) DO AND HOW WOULD IT BE IMPLEMENTED? This policy option package would bring the basic family foster care rate up to 60% of the actual cost of care to raise foster children. This is intended to be Phase I of a three Phase legislative process to bring the Family foster care rates back to the actual cost of care. The three phases would be intended to gain a portion of the actual costs of care per biennium until 2021-23 which would then have the family foster care rates equal to the actual cost of care to raise foster children. (Increase to 60% in 2017-19, 80% in 2019-21, and 100% in 2021-23).

2. WHY DOES DHS PROPOSE THIS POP?

The Department must bring the family foster care rates back into parity with the cost of raising a foster child due to the fact that families can no longer afford to provide family foster care due to the department’s low rate of reimbursement. The department has experienced a continual decline (see chart) in the total numbers of families making themselves available to provide family foster care. A total of 826 fewer families providing foster care in 2015 than in 2010.

In addition, the wider the gap grows between actual cost of providing care and the departments actual reimbursement rate (projected as 63.1% below the actual cost of care) the department increases the risk of a lawsuit and/or federal sanction for failing to provide a reasonable maintenance payments to cover the cost of providing family foster care.

42 U.S.C. §§ 675(4) (A).

The term "foster care maintenance payments" means payments to cover the cost of (and the cost of providing) food, clothing, shelter, daily supervision, school supplies, a child's personal incidentals, liability insurance with respect to a child, reasonable travel to the child's home for visitation, and reasonable travel for the child to remain in the school in which the child is enrolled at the time of placement. There have been a few lawsuits in various states to enforce this federal standard. The State of California and The State of Washington to name a few.

Having a strong and well supported family foster care system is critical to provide safe, nurturing and available family foster care for children in need of care. Family foster care is the primary tool in which to provide temporary safe placement for children. Over 11,000 children are served through family foster care each year in Oregon. The lower rate of available family foster care maybe attributed to reduced safety, increased placement instability, or increased workload for staff who are searching for appropriate placements for children.

The department (and children) has experienced poor outcomes for children in placement stability, placement matching, and turnover rates of foster parents. These become poor performance measures for federal reporting.

Additionally, the cost of overtime for staff working long hours seeking placements for children, and staff burnout due to stress and lack of resources for children must also be factored into the department outcomes.

4. IS THIS POP TIED TO A DHS PERFORMANCE MEASURE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE PERFORMANCE MEASURE. IF NO, HOW WILL DHS MEASURE THE SUCCESS OF THIS POP?

Indirectly this POP is associated with performance measures for Safety in Foster Care and Placement Stability in foster care, and Diligent Recruitment for Children. Having available and appropriately supported family foster care is crucial to the safety and stability of children in foster care.

5. DOES THIS POP REQUIRE A CHANGE(S) TO AN EXISTING STATUTE OR REQUIRE A NEW STATUTE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE STATUTE AND THE LEGISLATIVE CONCEPT.

No statute change is necessary.

6. WHAT ALTERNATIVES WERE CONSIDERED AND WHAT WERE THE REASONS FOR REJECTING THEM?

This POP is one which has been attempted to be moved forward each biennium but has not been prioritized for the department since 2009. Other priorities for the department have been moved forward; Differential Response, SB964, Data supports, staff positions (OBI, OCI, Lean, etc.). Not moving all or a significant portion of this POP forward will continue to decline the resource pool for children, increase vulnerability of safety for children, over load foster families, and decline in staff retention.

7. WHAT WOULD BE THE ADVERSE EFFECTS OF NOT FUNDING THIS POP?

The department will continue to be challenged to recruit a sufficient number of foster families to care for children to provide safe and supported family foster care placements. Not funding this POP will increase the gap between the department’s rates and the actual cost of care which increases the risk of lawsuits which has been brought forward in other states.

8. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES (STATE, TRIBAL AND/OR LOCAL GOVERNMENT) WOULD BE AFFECTED BY THIS POP? HOW WOULD THEY BE AFFECTED?

The other state agencies that provide a family foster care system for children with reimbursement are DHS- Developmental Disability and Oregon Youth Authority. Both of these state agencies reimburse at a rate higher than the current DHS-Child Welfare rate and even with this requested increase Child Welfare will still be below the other two state agencies.

Other Oregon Foster Care Programs	Monthly Rate (comparison for teenager)
DHS Developmentally Disabled	$1500 plus+ (individual rate assessment)
Oregon Youth Authority	$1003
Private Foster Care Agencies (BRS)	$1500
DHS Child Welfare	$ 741 (26-50% less than other agencies)

9. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES, PROGRAMS or STAKEHOLDERS ARE COLLABORATING ON THIS POP?

- Oregon Foster Parent Association is acutely aware of the deficit of reimbursement by DHS.
- Oregon Foster Youth Connection is another entity who is invested in adequate support for family foster care to ensure children and youth are afforded all opportunities in the community and need well supported and financially supported family foster families.
- Oregon Alliance of Children Program continues to advocate for rates for therapeutic foster families which are impacted by the department Child Welfare rates.

10. WHAT IS YOUR EQUITY ANALYSIS?

Family foster care reimbursement rates are the same across the state regardless of geography, race, or socio-economic status of the foster family. There is a different rate reimbursement based on the age of the child but that is consistent across the state as well. It should be addressed that there is an over-representation of children of color in foster care which is also a factor in that the number of foster families of color does not equate to the over-representation of children of color.

11. WHAT ASSUMPTIONS AFFECT THE PRICING OF THIS POP?

Summary Statement:

Update the rate model for Behavioral Rehabilitation Services (BRS) program to pay contracted providers for cost increases above inflation. Rates directly impact state agencies access to these programs. The BRS rate model has not been kept current since first established in 1998. Simply adding inflation to the previous biennium rate has not kept pace with significant cost increases. Some of the most heavily used programs have closed over the past two biennia. More programs have signaled if they don't receive more financial support from the state they will also have to close soon.

This package is most importantly about child and youth safety as well as maintaining access to this essential part of the system serving Oregon's most vulnerable children. Without increases to the rate state agencies will continue to have pressure on the BRS system as provider costs increase and the rate remains inadequate.

1. WHAT WOULD THIS POLICY OPTION PACKAGE (POP) DO AND HOW WOULD IT BE IMPLEMENTED?

This POP is a three State Agency initiative and must be moved forward as a consistent package; Oregon Health Authority, Oregon Youth Authority and Department of Human Services.

The policy option package updates the model for an accurate relief factor, staff and proctor/foster home training due to turnover and training for all staff keeping current on new standards trauma informed, developmentally appropriate, gender and culturally responsive programs.

This policy option package updates the rate model as follows:

1. Update the relief factor included in the rate model. The rate model includes a relief factor for direct care/front line staff. The relief factor provides the additional staff in the model needed to cover supervision of children/youth when staff call in sick, schedule vacations, take holidays, and attend training. The relief factor is updated to meet current staffing standards. (Comprehensive Workgroup recommendation #3)
2. Update the rate model for costs to continually train new staff and proctor/foster homes. The turnover rate for direct care/front line staff and proctor/foster homes is significant for these programs. The training investment and costs for providers is significant. The model update includes 33% turnover rate and provides additional resources necessary to continually reinvest and train these essential front line staff and proctor/foster homes. (Comprehensive Workgroup recommendation #4)

3. Update the rate adding resources for all staff to receive training so staff remain current on new standards and expectations for trauma informed, developmentally appropriate, gender and culturally responsive programs. (Comprehensive Workgroup recommendation #5)

These updates will all be factored into an increase in the daily rate per child served.

2. WHY DOES DHS PROPOSE THIS POP?

OYA, DHS and OHA participate in the Medicaid State Plan Behavior Rehabilitation Services program. The updates to the rate model included in the policy option package were based on work completed through a joint effort of the three state agencies, providers and child advocates. A 2011 lawsuit filed by providers and settled in 2014 included a requirement for a comprehensive review of the program including eligibility, program standards, design and rates. The settlement agreement stipulated State Agencies shall seek “approval to pursue additional funding for BRS programs during the 17-19 budget cycle.” BRS is a Medicaid program and Foster Care Title IV-E program used by OYA, DHS and OHA. County Juvenile Departments access the federal match for BRS through contracts with OHA.

A subgroup of the larger BRS review committee spent a year reviewing the rate model. The subcommittee made a number of recommendations. Some of those changes were included current service level. This POP includes only recommendations; 3, 4, and 5 as noted above.

3. HOW DOES THIS FURTHER THE AGENCY’S MISSION OR GOALS? HOW DOES THIS FURTHER THE PROGRAM FUNDING TEAM OUTCOMES OR STRATEGIES?

Adequate and appropriately funded training is essential if Oregon is to meet its obligation in protecting and caring for the most vulnerable children and youth.

1. Child and Youth safety will be improved.
2. The number of programs closing will be eliminated or significantly reduced to one to two programs.
3. State agencies will be able to recruit more providers expanding the geographically locations in Oregon.

4. Increase the number of regularly contracted beds enhancing state agencies ability to place some of the state's most challenging children.
5. Improve the quality of the programs through enhancing training resources.

4. IS THIS POP TIED TO A DHS PERFORMANCE MEASURE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE PERFORMANCE MEASURE. IF NO, HOW WILL DHS MEASURE THE SUCCESS OF THIS POP?

DHS must provide safe and therapeutic services for children in need. DHS does this through the Medicaid funded program for BRS. OYA, DHS and OHA participate in the Medicaid State Plan Behavior Rehabilitation Services program. During this past 3 years these agencies have worked to bring parity among the state agencies in the rates (Oregon Administrative Rules), it is imperative the three state agencies remain committed to the same rate structure.

5. DOES THIS POP REQUIRE A CHANGE(S) TO AN EXISTING STATUTE OR REQUIRE A NEW STATUTE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE STATUTE AND THE LEGISLATIVE CONCEPT.

No Impact.

6. WHAT ALTERNATIVES WERE CONSIDERED AND WHAT WERE THE REASONS FOR REJECTING THEM?

The department has already been experiencing the alternative of doing nothing with some providers giving their contracts back and ending their service due solely to their lack of ability to provide supplemental funding for this program. The department has been struggling to recruit and retain quality programs for children.

The department has moved forward in the Comprehensive Review process as a result of a Settlement Agreement from the original lawsuit which began in 2011. Failure to move forward may result in a new lawsuit.

7. WHAT WOULD BE THE ADVERSE EFFECTS OF NOT FUNDING THIS POP?

The department will continue to experience programs ending their service due to financial reasons and it is likely the remaining programs will bring forward a lawsuit once again due to the lack of funding.

Oregon Youth Authority
Oregon Health Authority

9. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES, PROGRAMS or STAKEHOLDERS ARE COLLABORATING ON THIS POP?

Oregon Alliance for Children Programs
Oregon Foster Youth Connection
Youth M.O.V.E Oregon
Disability Rights of Oregon
Coalition of Advocates for Equal Access for Girls

10. WHAT IS YOUR EQUITY ANALYSIS?

The BRS comprehensive review committee sought to be as inclusive as possible from varying perspectives of service recipients, advocacy groups, private agencies and state agencies. Collectively these groups moved forward the recommendations for system reform and system financing,

Summary Statement:

Historically, DOJ's billable hour model has been considered cost-prohibitive in juvenile dependency cases and has been a deterrent to DHS accessing and utilizing DOJ for full representation—including attendance at all hearings, regular case consultation, impromptu legal advice, and regular participation in case worker training, meetings, and staffing. A block grant model will allow DOJ to manage cases according to a workload method of case assignment with each DOJ attorney carrying a consistent number of weighted cases. In this model, each dependency case is assigned to an attorney who handles it from petition to permanency. This case assignment method will provide DHS caseworkers with continuous representation which, in turn, will promote attorney-caseworker collaboration, improve caseworker job satisfaction and retention, avoid the risk for unlawful practice of law by case workers, and improve the overall efficiency and cost-effectiveness of the system. This POP is in addition to the above the legal representation POP that will provide DHS sufficient resources to cover current estimated AG billings. This POP assumes a total fund block grant funding model of $45 million TF for full representation and assumes the exception to DHS representation in these cases is lifted.

	General Fund	Other Funds	Federal Funds	Total Funds
Policy Option Package Pricing:	$6,916,041	$0	$12,957,561	$19,873,602

1. WHAT WOULD THIS POLICY OPTION PACKAGE (POP) DO AND HOW WOULD IT BE IMPLEMENTED?

This POP would change require that the Department of Justice represent the Department of Human Services Child Welfare Program from the point of petition to case closure, and all things in between. In addition, this POP would change the financial relationship from hourly billing to a “Block Grant”.

2. WHY DOES DHS PROPOSE THIS POP?

There are a number of reasons that this POP is being proposed at this time. The primary issue is that it support the work of the Oregon Task Force on Dependency Representation that was established by Senate Bill 222 during the 78th Oregon Legislative Assembly. In addition, Oregon statutes require that “any action, suit, or proceeding may be prosecuted or defended by a party in person, or by attorney, except that the state or a party that is not a natural person appears by attorney in all cases, unless otherwise specifically provided by law.” Under most circumstances, the Attorney General is the legislatively mandated attorney for the state. An exception to this legislative requirement is in place for the DHS in dependency proceedings. Temporary legislation passed in 2014 and extended by Senate Bill 222 in 2015 currently provides that DHS “may appear without the Attorney General at: (1) Any hearing held after the hearing required under ORS 419B.305 has been held; and (2) Any proceeding where the district attorney represents the state, provided the positions of the department and the state are not in conflict with respect to issues raised for consideration or determination in the proceeding.”<sup>i</sup> This Legislation sunsets in 2017.

3. HOW DOES THIS FURTHER THE AGENCY’S MISSION OR GOALS? HOW DOES THIS FURTHER THE PROGRAM FUNDING TEAM OUTCOMES OR STRATEGIES?

Currently the agency is in a position of creating savings from an already distressed workforce. If this program is funding at 100% we could reduce the vacancy rate of Child Welfare and be better able to respond to and meet the Safety, Permanency, and Well Being needs of children and families.

4. IS THIS POP TIED TO A DHS PERFORMANCE MEASURE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE PERFORMANCE MEASURE. IF NO, HOW WILL DHS MEASURE THE SUCCESS OF THIS POP?

This POP is expected to impact the following measures:

Performance Measure	Indicator	National documents that recommend this performance measure	Is this collected/ reported?
Outcome Measures

Performance Measure	Indicator	National documents that recommend this performance measure	Is this collected/ reported?
	Reunification <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Median Months to Reunification (FO.02.1)</li> <li>• Percent of cases where permanency found through reunification</li> </ul>	Indicators of Success; Toolkit Measures	Currently Collected and Reported by DHS
	Adoption <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Median Months to Adoption (FO.02.2)</li> <li>• Percent of cases where permanency found through adoption</li> </ul>	Indicators of Success; Toolkit Measures	Currently Collected and Reported by DHS
	Guardianship <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Median Months to Guardianship</li> <li>• Percent of cases where permanency found through guardianship</li> </ul>	Indicators of Success; Toolkit Measures	Currently Collected by DHS

Performance Measure	Indicator	National documents that recommend this performance measure	Is this collected/ reported?
Parent and Child Contact	Visitation Between Parents & Children <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Type</li> <li>• Location</li> <li>• Supervision</li> </ul>	Louisiana Child Attorney Quality Assurance Indicators (“LA Indicators”) <sup>iv</sup>	Currently Collected by DHS
Timeliness of Hearings	Continuances and set overs <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Number</li> <li>• Person requesting</li> <li>• Reason</li> </ul>	National Center for State Courts CourTools (with regard to hearings/trials) <sup>v</sup>	Not currently collected
*Although the total percentage of children achieving permanency may increase, it is important to note that permanency outcomes may not necessarily all improve together. Getting more children reunified and into guardianships, for example, might lead to a reduction in the percentage of children who are adopted, nonetheless, this scenario would still be an improvement in overall permanency outcomes.

5. DOES THIS POP REQUIRE A CHANGE(S) TO AN EXISTING STATUTE OR REQUIRE A NEW STATUTE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE STATUTE AND THE LEGISLATIVE CONCEPT.

No, however the Task Force recommends, if adopted, would eliminate a pending Leg Concept pertaining to Continued Legal Representation.

6. WHAT ALTERNATIVES WERE CONSIDERED AND WHAT WERE THE REASONS FOR REJECTING THEM?

Continue the current suspension of legislation that allows Child Welfare staff to appear in court without legal representation and continue the practice of delaying the hiring of staff to generate the savings necessary to pay for the nearly $12 million of DOJ expenses in excess of current budget authority. This consideration is currently occurring and is impacting the department's ability to respond to and adequately manage the safety, permanency, and well-being of children.

7. WHAT WOULD BE THE ADVERSE EFFECTS OF NOT FUNDING THIS POP?

The Department would continue to absorb the cost which impacts our ability to respond to and adequately manage the safety, permanency, and well-being of children which impacts our ability to meet federal performance expectations, resulting in substantial loss of IV-E Funding.

8. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES (STATE, TRIBAL AND/OR LOCAL GOVERNMENT) WOULD BE AFFECTED BY THIS POP? HOW WOULD THEY BE AFFECTED?

The Department of Justice, Attorney General's Office, would be effected. They would need to manage the entirety of Child Welfare legal representation within legislatively established budget.

9. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES, PROGRAMS or STAKEHOLDERS ARE COLLABORATING ON THIS POP?

By way of their participation in the Oregon Dependency Representation Task Force the composition of the Task Force included:

- Two members of the Oregon Senate appointed by the President of the Senate;
- Two members of the Oregon House of Representatives appointed by the Speaker of the House;
- Two Department of Human Services (DHS) representatives appointed by the Governor;
- Two District Attorneys (DAs) appointed by the Governor;
- Three attorneys who provide legal defense services to children and parents in the dependency system appointed by the Governor;

- Three judges with juvenile court experience appointed by the Chief Justice of the Oregon Supreme Court;
- One Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA) appointed by the Chief Justice of the Oregon Supreme Court;
- One person representing the Citizen Review Board (CRB) appointed by the Chief Justice of the Oregon Supreme Court; and
- Two representatives from the Attorney General’s Office.

10. WHAT IS YOUR EQUITY ANALYSIS?

Not available at this time.

11. WHAT ASSUMPTIONS AFFECT THE PRICING OF THIS POP?

The primary assumption affecting this POP is that that recommendations from the Oregon Dependency Representation Task Force will be accepted as is.

2017-19 Policy Option Package

Agency Name: Department of Human Services / Oregon Health Authority
Program Area Name: Program Design Services
Program Name: Information Technology Business Supports
Policy Option Package Initiative: DHS Integrated Eligibility Project
Policy Option Package Title: Integrated Eligibility
Policy Option Package Number: 201
Related Legislation: N/A

Summary Statement:

This POP will provide resources to support the continuation of the Department’s Integrated Eligibility Project during FY17-19 resulting in a single eligibility determination system for Non-MAGI Medicaid, Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP Food Stamps), Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF Cash Assistance), and Employment Related Day Care (ERDC Child Care subsidies).

This POP would further the design, development, and implementation period for the Integrated ONE System – jointly shared by DHS and OHA for the purposes of Eligibility Determination work. DHS plans to put the system into pilot in the summer of 2018, followed by a four month implementation roll-out. This POP takes advantage of enhanced federal funds across two separate federal agencies. Without funding, DHS will not be able to continue its project in a timely manner, resulting in increased state general fund cost for work after the A87 Cost Allocation exception process expires.

This POP also has a corresponding POP at DAS Enterprise Technology Services for support of DHS’ business needs, and is related to the Legacy System Project that DHS is undertaking to ensure that functionality not assumed into the IE system from legacy systems will still be available for DHS business usage.

Policy Option Package Pricing Total:	$11,959,788	$29,037,599	$101,794,707	$142,792,094

OHA (DHS Sister POP)	$0	$10,762,599	$0	$10,762,599

1. WHAT WOULD THIS POLICY OPTION PACKAGE (POP) DO AND HOW WOULD IT BE IMPLEMENTED?

This POP will provide resources, primarily in the form of federal fund limitation, XI Q-Bond financing proceeds, and position authority) to support the continued work of the DHS Integrated Eligibility Project and its transition into maintenance and operations.

DHS has engaged with system integrator, Deloitte Consulting, in a transfer project to expand the functionality of the OregONEligibility system for MAGI Medicaid, known as the ONE system. DHS seeks to bring the human service financial eligibility determination functionality from Kentucky’s Benefind system to Oregon, resulting in a single system that Oregonians can apply for and receive benefits from OHA or DHS in Medicaid, SNAP, TANF, or ERDC program areas. By the conclusion of the 15-17 biennium, the Department will have completed the Fit/Gap phase of the project, and begun the design, development, and implementation phase. Using iterative development, DHS will have completed all of the design, and development activities should be underway. The first DHS testing activities are scheduled to occur in May 2017.

This POP continues those efforts, and sees the project through complete implementation and transition to maintenance & operations of the system. Implementation activities should be completed by December of 2018, followed by a warranty period and the beginning of maintenance and operation by June 30, 2019, resulting in the roll-out of the Integrated ONE system which will be used by both OHA and DHS.

2. WHY DOES DHS PROPOSE THIS POP?

DHS wishes to maximize the increased federal funding associated with this system project, by utilizing the A87 Cost Allocation Exception process, which allows for CMS 90/10 funding to be used for any system functionality that benefits Medicaid recipients. This increased federal funding greatly exceeds the amount of federal funds available from either USDA Food & Nutrition Services in support of SNAP system enhancements or Administration on Children & Families in support of TANF or ERDC system enhancements. This reduces the amount of state general fund necessary to support the technology upgrade off of legacy, mainframe based eligibility determination systems.

It will also enhance the potential for better care coordination for Oregonians by having all financial eligibility information in a singular system of record. It sets a common platform for both OHA and DHS eligibility, allowing for a systematic approach to further work to bring in additional programs and fully transition to a single eligibility system over the coming years.

3. HOW DOES THIS FURTHER THE AGENCY'S MISSION OR GOALS?

The project will assist Oregonians to achieve wellbeing and independence by providing timely and efficient eligibility determinations for the Department's programs. It will allow Oregonians to self-service by applying through the applicant portal at times that are convenient for them, minimizing time needed in DHS field offices to complete the process. The system will also generate notices in seven languages and in five alternate formats, helping to reduce barriers for traditionally underserved populations. It will also gather and store applicants preferred race and ethnicity values allowing for culturally competent care.

4. IS THIS POP TIED TO A DHS PERFORMANCE MEASURE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE PERFORMANCE MEASURE. IF NO, HOW WILL DHS MEASURE THE SUCCESS OF THIS POP?

This POP supports clients accessing our services and measurements around outreach and quality of services.

5. DOES THIS POP REQUIRE A CHANGE(S) TO AN EXISTING STATUTE OR REQUIRE A NEW STATUTE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE STATUTE AND THE LEGISLATIVE CONCEPT.

No

6. WHAT ALTERNATIVES WERE CONSIDERED AND WHAT WERE THE REASONS FOR REJECTING THEM?

No new alternatives were considered as this is an extension of previous investment.

7. WHAT WOULD BE THE ADVERSE EFFECTS OF NOT FUNDING THIS POP?

Failure to fund this POP would result in the IE project coming to a halt; and increased general fund cost to bring it to its eventual completion.

APD Non-MAGI Medicaid eligibility determination, SSP eligibility determination for SNAP, TANF, ERDC.

All department clients of programs in (a) above, including aged and disabled adults, people living nearest to poverty line.

(c) What providers would be affected?

Medicaid providers, CDDPs/Brokerages (for financial eligibility only) and child care providers potentially

Enhanced federal funding for the project runs out on December 31, 2018.

N/A

Timely and correct eligibility determinations and redeterminations for Non-MAGI Medicaid, SNAP, TANF, ERDC

8. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES (STATE, TRIBAL AND/OR LOCAL GOVERNMENT) WOULD BE AFFECTED BY THIS POP? HOW WOULD THEY BE AFFECTED?

OHA is impacted because POP enhances their current system.

DAS is impacted because equipment and services at ETS are required to support POP.

DOJ is impacted because DHS system will need to interface with new Child Support system.

OED is impacted because DHS system will have interface with Employment Department.

ODE is impacted because DHS system will interface with system that makes payments to Early Learning Division Child Care Providers.

9. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES, PROGRAMS or STAKEHOLDERS ARE COLLABORATING ON THIS POP?

None

10. WHAT IS YOUR EQUITY ANALYSIS?

DHS System will be able to support notice generation in seven languages and five alternate formats. It will gather applicants preferred written and spoken language as well as race and ethnicity to help department providers provide culturally competent care. This will bring us into compliance with REAL+D work, and allow another way for communities and individuals in Oregon to interact with DHS.

11. WHAT ASSUMPTIONS AFFECT THE PRICING OF THIS POP?

Implementation Date(s): July 1, 2017 (ongoing-continuing 15-17 Investment)

End Date (if applicable): June 30, 2019

b. Will there be new Shared Services impacts sufficient to require additional funding? Specify which office(s) (i.e., facilities, computer services, etc.) and describe how it will be affected. See Addendum A – Shared, OIS and Central Offices Services LC/POP Impact Questionnaire.

Yes – OIS and ITBS.

There will be additional costs associated with facilities for staffing.

c. Will there be changes to client caseloads or services provided to population groups? Specify how many in each relevant program.

No, however, through the process of updating the system Oregon may find some of our eligibility criteria or work around determining benefits may not have been accurate and have subsequent changes to eligibility. We don't expect any substantial changes from this at this time and cannot model or predict beyond anecdotal assumptions.

d. Will it take new staff or will existing positions be modified? For each classification, list the number of positions and the number of months the positions will work in each biennium. Specify if the positions are permanent, limited duration or temporary.

Yes.

1.50 FTE of PEM G for 24 months (LD) (DHS)
1 Pub Affairs Specialist 3 for 24 months (LD) (DHS)
16 OPA3 for 18 months (LD) (DHS)
1 Office Mgr 2 for 18 months (LD) (DHS)
2 TDS 2 for 18 months (LD) (DHS)

10 ISS8 for 18 months (LD) (OHA)
3 PM2 for 18 months (LD) (OHA)
3 PM3 for 18 months (LD) (OHA)

These limited duration positions are being requested to allow program to backfill individuals that come onto the project. As part of our solutions for success, this project is bringing key subject matter experts from our field structure and from policy and business support to participate throughout the process. We want these individuals to come with their knowledge, so we will utilize the limited duration authority to allow program to fill behind key individuals while they are on the project.

1 PEME for 24 months (Perm) (DHS)
1 PEME for 24 months (Perm) (OHA)
6 OPA3 for 9 months (Perm) (DHS)
1 OPA4 for 24 months (Perm) (DHS)
1 OPA 4 for 24 months (Perm) (OHA)
2 TDS2 for 9 months (Perm) (DHS)

4 HSS4 for 24 months (Perm) (DHS)
2 PA1 for 24 months (Perm) (DHS)

There are also a PEM H and ESS2 who are work charging towards the IE project from DHS. 9 ISS8, an ISS7, FA3, PM1, PM3, PEM F, and PEM E dedicating time to this project from OIS.

There are 4 positions (2 OPA3 and 2 OPA4) from ITBSU who are on Modernization positions and working on this project. They will NOT be charging to IE, their time will be charged to ITBSU where the budget sits for their positions.

There are 9 positions from OIS who are on Modernization positions and working on this project. They will NOT be charging to IE, their time will be charged to the Shared Services Budget where their budget sits for those positions.

Additional modernization positions continue to support the original infrastructure that exists even with the implementation of Integrated ONE. OHA and DHS will continue to evaluate these positions and in subsequent releases and updates to the system, as legacy systems are sunset, these positions may be reallocated to Integrated ONE support. These positions continue to support the totality of the Modernization goal, in which Integrated ONE is the first step in setting the platform realization of that goal.

e. What are the start-up costs, such as new or significant modifications to computer systems, new materials, outreach and training?

There may be additional infrastructure costs, such as servers or costs to ETS, but these are being developed and projected into this POP.

f. What are the ongoing costs?

There are ongoing costs associated with maintenance and operations of the system, and is included in the cost projections.

g. What are the potential savings?

None.

h. Based on these answers, is there a fiscal impact?

Yes.

Department of Human Services / Oregon Health Authority

2017-19 Policy Option Package

Agency Name: Department of Human Services / Oregon Health Authority
Program Area Name: Shared Services Human Resources Center
Program Name: Background Check Unit (BCU)
Policy Option Package Initiative: N/A
Policy Option Package Title: Background Check Unit Workload
Policy Option Package Number: 205

Summary Statement:

Steadily increasing numbers of background checks per year and growing complexity of work combined with stagnant or decreased staffing for the Background Check Unit (BCU) over the last few biennia have resulted in mounting backlogs and processing timelines. BCU completes checks for a variety of groups including but not limited to:

- Home Care Workers (HCWs);
- Personal Support Workers (PSWs);
- Subsidized child care providers;
- Child caring agencies (CCAs) staff, volunteers, and proctor foster parent applicants;
- System of Care (SOC) and Strengthening, Preserving and Reunifying Families (SPRF) providers;
- Staff and volunteers from residential care, nursing, and adult foster home facilities;
- Department of Human Services (DHS) and Oregon Health Authority (OHA) employees, volunteers, and contractors.

The staff requested in this Policy Option Package (POP) would meet currently required needs to maintain timely background checks for all regulated groups handled by BCU, and meet all Supplies & Services needs and a majority of projected staffing needs due to program growth and new federal and state statutes to be implemented during the 2017-19 biennium if fully funded for the 24 months of the biennium.

The result would be faster background checks to assist regulated Oregon employers in meeting their required staffing levels while maintaining health, safety and financial wellness for vulnerable Oregonians through quality background checks.

In addition, DHS has identified a variety of expansion options to current background check criteria for DHS and OHA providers whose fitness determination is completed by the Background Check Unit (BCU).

These options would provide more intensive background checks by improving communication about adverse actions on providers across unit and program lines, and increasing use of child protective service (CPS) information across the DHS provider community. The result would be increased health, safety and financial wellness for vulnerable Oregonians.

1. WHAT WOULD THIS POLICY OPTION PACKAGE (POP) DO AND HOW WOULD IT BE IMPLEMENTED?

WORKLOAD-RELATED INCREASES

Steadily increasing numbers of background checks per year and growing complexity of work combined with stagnant or decreased staffing for the Background Check Unit (BCU) over the last few biennia have resulted in mounting backlogs and processing timelines for background checks.

Examples of how task complexity will have shifted from 2012-2017 are:

- 2012 • For almost all 2012 checks BCU only acquired Oregon criminal history records and sent those records to Qualified Entities (QEs) for fitness determination. By the end of 2012, to improve consistency of determinations and broaden depth of checks, BCU centralized fitness determination with BCU.
- 2013-14 • In addition to running criminal history, BCU began evaluating that history, court and police records, abuse records, counseling and treatment records, weighed safety and risk factors, and documented and sent fitness determination to QEs.
- 2015-16 • Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) required mandatory fingerprinting of all “high risk” roles.
  - Increasing requirements for FBI checks from new legislative programs. FBI and other national checks using out-of-state history are more difficult.
  - New review criteria for specific Adam Walsh programs.
  - CMS requirements necessitated a January 2016 rule change for many DD providers that previously did not require recertification. In 2015, 23,819 or 77.8% of DD providers did not require recertification but will now be on a two-year cycle.

- Changes in how FBI information was provided via LEDS requires due diligence fingerprinting in cases where an out-of-state identifier code is not present. Expected to increase fingerprinting and related workload by 15% or more.
- 2017 • As of October 2017 new Child Care Development Fund Block Grant (CCDFBG) requirements will add mandatory FBI and national child protective service (CPS) checks of all child care providers and household members (12,000+ individuals). Currently:
  - Only 5.7% of child care cases currently require FBI checks.
  - Only Oregon CPS checks are now required.

The staff requested in this policy option package would meet currently required needs to maintain timely background checks for all regulated groups handled by BCU, and meet projected needs due to program growth and new federal and state statutes implementing during the 2017-19 biennium.

Regulated groups for whom BCU completes background checks include but are not limited to home care workers, developmental disability and mental health personal support workers, subsidized child care providers, Child Caring agencies, Traditional Health Workers, System of Care (SOC) and Strengthening, Preserving and Reunifying Families (SPRF) providers, and staff and volunteers from residential care, nursing, and adult foster home facilities. BCU also handles background checks for employees, volunteers and contractors of the Department of Human Services and Oregon Health Authority.

The result of increased staffing would be faster background checks to assist regulated Oregon employers in meeting their required staffing levels while maintaining health, safety and financial wellness for vulnerable Oregonians through quality background checks.

Implementation would require the following staff:

- +15 POS/14.40 FTE permanent Administrative Specialist 1 (Fitness Determiner) positions

These positions are to handle 2017 and 2018 growth in complexity and volume, including work from new federal CCDBG out-of-state child protective service checks and other exclusion list checks effective 10/2017, and changes from the Centers of Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS).

Please note: These positions at 24 month funding are insufficient to match workload increases through 2019. Consequently even at 24 months DHS anticipates some backlog at the end of the biennium due to projected increases in complexity and numbers over the biennium. Reduced to only 12 months of funding commencing July 2018, between July 2017 and June 2018 the backlog will increase to approximately 6.78 weeks. Permanent staff placed after July 2018 will not be sufficient to reduce that backlog, nor sufficient to hold the backlog steady.

- +1 POS/0.88 FTE permanent Principle Executive/Manager C (BCU Supervisor) positions

The PEM-C position would be added for the 2017-19 since staff additions would bring the total BCU classified staff to 58 (a 1:19 staffing proportion; without the position, the staffing ratio would be 1:29).

Managers provide crucial clinical supervision of fitness determination, hearings and policy staff, and improve consistency, manage audit and review processes, and maintain quality customer service in background check processes supporting client safety, security and health.

Current 2015-17 costs in Services & Supplies are expected to increase to a total $8,842,569 for the 2017-19 biennium. These additional costs are itemized as:

- +$5,335,316 from Oregon State Police and FBI fingerprint processing fees
- +$37,739 total for Adam Walsh and Child Care out-of-state CPS check costs.
- +$12,000 total for background check research site costs.
- +$307,514 total for agency-paid fingerprint capture for DHS and OHA employees and volunteers, Criminal Justice Information Services (CJIS) clearance, and Child Welfare foster and adoptive parents.
- +$50,000 for annual maintenance on the Criminal Records Information Management System (CRIMS).

These Services & Supplies costs are expected to increase due to the following factors:

- Increased statutory requirements for fingerprinting.

For example, the federal Child Care Development Block Grant Act of 2014 (CCDBG) requires mandatory fingerprinting for all child care providers by October 2017. This alone will require fingerprinting on approximately 11,000 more background checks for DHS child care providers per year.

- Steadily increasing numbers of background checks. Fingerprinting averages over 40% in non-mandatory programs and 100% fingerprinting when mandatory.

In 2012, BCU completed 111,538 background checks across all DHS and OHA programs served. By 2015 that number had grown to 157,038, a 41% increase. These numbers are anticipated to increase +80% by the end of the 2017-19 biennium, resulting in approximately 207,654 checks in 2019, of which approximately 170,812 would require fingerprinting.

- To comply with FBI requirements, a reduced amount of FBI information is being presented in Oregon's Law Enforcement Data System (LEDS) checks, requiring increased fingerprinting for due diligence on potential out-of-state history.
- New CCDBG requirements for out-of-state child protective service checks on child care providers. Many states charge fees for these checks; the average is $17 per check.

Remaining S&S costs would be consistent with trends from the 2015-2017 biennium.

BACKGROUND CHECK EXPANSION

DHS has identified a variety of expansion options to current background check criteria for DHS providers whose fitness determination is completed by the Background Check Unit (BCU). These include home care workers, personal support workers, subsidized child care providers, private licensed agencies, System of Care and Strength, Preserving and Reunifying Families (SPRF) providers, and staff and volunteers from residential care, nursing, and adult foster home facilities.

Each of these expansions will necessitate the following to implement:

- Permanent rules changes to allow use of the selected expansions as potentially disqualifying conditions.
- Additional permanent staffing to handle the increased workload per expansion option.
- Training on selected expansions for veteran background check staff and new staff.

The selected expansions are as follows, in order of DHS-recommended priority for implementation:

1. Establish a comprehensive process for sharing adverse actions and terminations taken by one unit with another (i.e. Provider Relations Unit, Office of Licensing and Regulatory Oversight and other licensing units, Direct Payment Unit and Background Check Unit).

This communication would allow separate units to review other units' adverse actions and terminations for fraud, health or safety concerns and apply that information to their provider enrolment processes where statute or rule allows.

Implementation would require one (1 POS/0.88 FTE) Administrative Specialist 1 to coordinate the information sharing at a total cost of $146,319 per biennium.

2. Provide child protective service (CPS) checks on all Aging and People with Disabilities (APD), Intellectual/Developmental Disability (I/DD), and mental health (OHA Health Systems) providers, regardless of whether they directly serve children.

BCU currently does CPS checks on all DHS and OHA employees and volunteers, all child care providers and their household members, Child Welfare provider (SOC, SPRF, etc.) determinations, Adam Walsh determinations, and various other positions serving children through other programs. Child Welfare (CW) foster and adoptive parents have CPS checks completed by branches as part of CW evaluation process. Most APD, DD and mental health (OHA Health Systems) providers have not received CPS checks.

Implementation requires four (4 POS/3.52 FTE) Administrative Specialist 1 positions to perform CPS research and fitness determination at a total cost of $585,276 per biennium. It would also require one (1 POS/0.88 FTE) Compliance Specialist 2 position to handle increases in hearing requests based on increases in abuse-related denials at a total cost of $180,912 per biennium. Permanent rules were published December 1, 2016 to allow information from this option to be considered as potentially disqualifying conditions.

Please note that projected numbers of these checks would require an additional +2.87 FTE Administrative Specialist 1 to maintain staffing-to-workload by 2019. Consequently at the requested staffing level there is anticipated to be some backlog from this expansion by the end of the biennium.

Limited duration staff are currently in place to implement this expansion effective December 2016 in order to improve child safety. However if this expansion is chosen for continuance into the 2017-19 biennium at a prospective 12-month staffing level, any workload-related backlog will be increased by approximately +1.42 weeks.

Another recommendation would be the use of the placement on the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) Office of the Inspector General (OIG) Fraud List for Medicaid and Medicare, and other states' exclusion lists as potentially disqualifying conditions for all long term care-related subject individuals handled by the Background Check Unit. The CMS OIG and other states' exclusion lists may hold currently unconsidered information that reveal past history of abuse or fraud. The addition of these exclusion list checks to long term care background checks is a requirement of the CMS National Background Check Program (NBCP) grant for which DHS was approved by the Oregon Legislature in 2013.

However, implementation of the CMS exclusion lists across required programs would require additional staffing beyond this request, and based on the current level of funding, further expansion into CMS grant requirements would be impossible without incurring considerable backlogs.

FEE-FOR-SERVICE

Currently the Background Check Unit (BCU) does not charge background check fees to subject individuals or Qualified Entities of DHS and OHA; the costs for regulatory checks are currently paid by the DHS and OHA programs BCU serves. ORS 181.534 (9) (g) grants authority to charge fees for criminal history portions of checks but is not currently doing so. Fee-for-service is a potential manner of acquiring additional funds for criminal history portions of each check. Statutory changes to ORS 181.534 (9)(g) would be required to charge fees for costs from labor, research, and out-of-state fees related to providing protective service checks for Adam Walsh and the Child Care Development Block Grant Act of 2014.

Each fingerprinted background check requires $28 in processing fees to the Oregon State Police. In addition, as of October 2016 the FBI charges $10.75 for volunteers or $12.00 for employment/licensing/certification in processing fees per check.

If only fingerprint processing fees are charged to subject individuals or Qualified Entities when fingerprints are required for a check, at approximately 207,654 subject individuals fingerprinted during the course of 2017-19, BCU could gain back $8,330,203 in funds to offset Services and Supplies costs.

Other options, including a set background check fee based on average costs, are possible. BCU could work with DHS Budget to establish an appropriate fee-for-service schedule if the Legislature determined fee-for-service was the most appropriate funding mechanism for the Background Check Unit.

2. WHY DOES DHS PROPOSE THIS POP?

From 2012-2015, BCU has experienced a 41% increase in the total number of background checks. Workload complexity, as measured by the average time required to perform various tasks resulting in a fitness determination and annual background checks per year, has increased in the same period 51% due to new federal and state requirements. During that time BCU underwent a 15% decrease in total permanent staffing. As of 2017, complexity will have increased 95% over 2012.

Numerous process improvements have been attempted without success in stemming growing backlog. As of March 2016 DHS has partially met this workload gap by hiring an additional fifteen (15) limited duration AS1 positions and one (1) PEM-C position for the 2015-17 biennium. However these positions meet only the workload needs of BCU through the 2015-17 biennium.

Due to ongoing program growth and federal statutory changes implementing in the 2017-2019 biennium, BCU workload complexity is expected to increase 159% over 2012 numbers by 2019. Without sufficient permanent staffing increases for 2017-19, delays in processing background checks will begin increasing again.

The following chart relates increasing complexity from 2012 through 2025 based on current background check growth and known federal and state program changes occurring during the 2017-19 biennium. This chart does not include complexity per background check added by the expansion options. It does include the effects of process improvements such as the Long Term Care Registry.

In terms of the expansion portion, each option increases the depth of the background check provided for each subject individual, thereby increasing the likelihood of identifying past history that might affect the health and safety of vulnerable Oregonians. In addition, as noted, the CMS exclusion lists are a requirement of the CMS National Background Check Program grant.

Comprehensive background checks promote the following:

- Safety and independence of those aging, disabled and intellectually/developmentally disabled Oregonians receiving services from DHS and OHA.
- Safety and wellness for children and youth served by DHS and OHA providers.
- Qualified staff and volunteers successfully passing background checks are able to support themselves and their families as providers through stable living wage employment.

Timely background checks due to matching workload versus staffing means that:

- Vulnerable Oregonians receiving care services from DHS and OHA acquire safe care and support more quickly, improving quality of life for especially those Oregonians requiring emergent in-home services.
- Employers of facilities are able to maintain staffing levels and provide better care to vulnerable Oregonians receiving care and support in facilities.
- Employers in residential care, nursing, adult foster home, skilled nursing, and child care facilities and centers are able to attract and keep top recruits due to faster hiring processes. In addition, they are able to meet licensing requirements for staffing more easily.
- Many licensing and certification processes are affected, thereby extending their timelines. Such processes include but not limited to licensing of facilities for APD, DD and mental health, and certification of home care workers and personal support workers, Traditional Health Workers, and exempt and subsidized Child Care centers and providers.

- Oregonians who may be seeking employment, licensure or certification for their own or their family's independence and quality of life are able to acquire jobs faster.

4. IS THIS POP TIED TO A DHS PERFORMANCE MEASURE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE PERFORMANCE MEASURE. IF NO, HOW WILL DHS MEASURE THE SUCCESS OF THIS POP?

Quality Service Engagement – increased speed of quality of background checks performed on providers in support of effective, safe employment, certification and licensing processes for vulnerable Oregonians and Oregon employers.

Safety – Re-abuse rates reduced through more timely identification of provider history.

People Living as Independently as Possible – Faster quality checks on in-home providers leading to safer care, more independence, and better support of Oregonians receiving in-home services. Enhanced checks on in-home and other long term care providers leading to safer care and better support of Oregonians receiving in-home services.

5. DOES THIS POP REQUIRE A CHANGE(S) TO AN EXISTING STATUTE OR REQUIRE A NEW STATUTE? IF YES, IDENTIFY THE STATUTE AND THE LEGISLATIVE CONCEPT.

N/A.

6. WHAT ALTERNATIVES WERE CONSIDERED AND WHAT WERE THE REASONS FOR REJECTING THEM?

A variety of internal solutions to meet service delivery agreements have been attempted by BCU to match increases in raw numbers and workload complexity.

- Ongoing work with IT vendor Tailored Solutions and the Oregon State Police (OSP) to achieve numerous process improvements via technology solutions. While useful in automating many time-consuming manual tasks it did not eliminate time spent on core fitness determination work.

- Day-long background check ‘events’ where all teams in the unit contribute to processing background checks. Assisted fitness determination work, but caused backlogs in Hearings, Compliance and Fingerprint teams’ processes.
- Consistent monthly overtime work from October 2014 to August 2016. During that period BCU staff worked 1407.5 overtime hours and processed 25,227 background checks.

To maximize the quantity processed, BCU staff working overtime focused on “cleans”, background checks that had no criminal or abuse history. Cleans are the quickest and easiest checks to complete. Useful in eliminating cleans, but did not address the core fitness determination work of the majority of cases requiring careful research and evaluation of criminal and abuse history.

- Implemented the Long Term Care Registry (LTCR) in January 2015.

To become active on the LTCR, a provider of long term care must pass an LTCR-related background check. Active status avoids redundant background checks between employers as subject individuals change roles within or between LTCR-covered facilities throughout Oregon.

Since implementation, 73,961 providers of long term care have achieved active status. As of December 2016, employers have been able to bypass over 33,000 redundant background checks.

In addition to savings of time for employers and clients in need of services, the LTCR has saved BCU approximately $1.478 million as of December 2016 in labor and fingerprint processing costs for duplicative background checks.

The LTCR is expected to create a 17% reduction on long term care-related checks. However, per DAS population statistics, the long term care population in Oregon will have exceeded 18% growth between 2014 and 2018, eliminating that gain by 2019.

Despite these efficiencies, background check numbers and complexity have continued to increase beyond what staffing and process improvements could complete, leading to growing backlogs.

The final alternative is to not expand background check staffing despite backlogs. This alternative has been rejected for the following reasons:

1. Potential health and safety factors from vulnerable Oregonians not receiving support from vetted, safe providers sooner.
2. Providers already on the job with new, unreported history not being caught earlier due to delayed recertification background checks.
3. Employers being unable to meet license-related staffing requirements established to maintain client safety and wellbeing.
4. Employers having staffing delays or losing quality candidates due to delays in background check processing.
5. Potentiality of increased tort claims due to compromised health and safety, and financial abuse

For the background check expansion options, the alternative is to not expand background check criteria. This alternative was rejected for potential health and safety factors to those receiving DHS and OHA providers.

7. WHAT WOULD BE THE ADVERSE EFFECTS OF NOT FUNDING THIS POP?

Adverse effects of not funding the workload-related section of this POP are as follow:

1. Without timely background checks, vulnerable Oregonians requiring emergent in-home care or facility-provided care may not have providers hired or facilities staffed sufficiently nor quickly for their health and safety needs.
2. Without timely review of background checks for currently working providers, providers with new, unreported history may not be removed from work for extended periods of time. Such an extension of review periods may lead to ongoing or repeated abuse and neglect of vulnerable clients, and causing harm or sometimes death.
3. Employers requiring certain staffing levels for licensing purposes may encounter licensing problems which affect the health, safety and wellness of the vulnerable clients they serve, and the financial security of the employees and their families who depend on the viability of the facility or center being licensed.

4. Employers serving DHS and OHA clients may lose highly competitive candidates to other facilities or centers that are not regulated by the Background Check Unit (i.e., facilities not serving Medicare and Medicaid-dependent clients) due to delays in background check processing.
5. Potentially escalating tort claims due to compromised health and safety, and financial abuse.

Adverse effects of not funding the background check expansion sections of this POP are as follow, by recommended expansion option:

1. Without sharing adverse actions and terminations between DHS units, providers terminated for health, safety or fraud concerns in one provider unit may successfully transfer to another provider unit without communication of the circumstances of the initial adverse action. This may in turn affect the health, safety or financial wellness of vulnerable Oregonians.
2. While BCU utilizes APS information when completing fitness determinations for all APD, DD, and addictions and mental health providers, some providers from those groups have not historically received CPS checks per agreements with Oregon community stakeholders initiated by the HB2175 (2007) Workgroup.

This gap affects over 100,000 background checks per year performed by BCU, each check representing a subject individual serving at least one if not multiple vulnerable Oregonians. Not funding this option will continue this gap for increasing numbers of long term care providers.

8. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES (STATE, TRIBAL AND/OR LOCAL GOVERNMENT) WOULD BE AFFECTED BY THIS POP? HOW WOULD THEY BE AFFECTED?

Other agencies may be affected as necessary to create intergovernmental agreements in support of information sharing on adverse actions.

Currently providers certified by the Office of Child Care (Department of Education) are able under rule, interagency agreement and state plan can bypass our background check process. There have been ongoing concerns with this process. The Office of Child Care also automatically approved providers under age 18 while DHS will background check providers age 16 and older. Office of Child Care providers also do not have the requirement to report new abuse substantiations or criminal history.

9. WHAT OTHER AGENCIES, PROGRAMS or STAKEHOLDERS ARE COLLABORATING ON THIS POP?

Adults and People with Disabilities Program
Child Care Unit
Child Welfare Program
Intellectual/Developmental Disabilities Program
Human Resources
Office of Adult Abuse Protection and Investigation
Office of Licensing and Regulatory Oversight

10. WHAT IS YOUR EQUITY ANALYSIS?

Timely background checks provide greater equity of:

1. Care and service to vulnerable Oregonians;
2. Hiring for Oregon employers;
3. Employment, licensure or certification for Oregonians employed or seeking employment in BCU-regulated programs.

11. WHAT ASSUMPTIONS AFFECT THE PRICING OF THIS POP?

Implementation Date(s): 22 staff July 1, 2018

End Date (if applicable): Permanent

a. Will there be new responsibilities for DHS? Specify which Program Area(s) and describe their new responsibilities.

| <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> APD/DD                                       |  |

The majority of new responsibilities will lie with the Background Check Unit.

For the cross-communication portion of the POP, APD/DD Provider Relations Unit, OLRO, CCU, DPU, APD/DD, OAAPI and Child Welfare may all have new cross-reporting duties.

b. Will there be new Shared Services impacts sufficient to require additional funding? Specify which office(s) (i.e., facilities, computer services, etc.) and describe how it will be affected.

Background Check Unit will receive the majority of impacts. Currently BCU's facilities are at maximum occupancy. New facilities and work stations will be required for current and additional staff. Training will be required for veteran and new staff on administrating the new background check options. Updates to the Criminal Records Information Management System may be necessary to implement all additions.

Additional positions for Background Check Unit will increase impact for Records, FMLA/OFLA, Recruitment, Human Resource Analyst and Payroll units.

There will also be workload for Facilities and the Office of Information Services.

- c. Will there be changes to client caseloads or services provided to population groups? Specify how many in each relevant program.

No changes to client caseloads or direct client services.

However DHS, OHA, Allied Agencies on Aging, DD Brokerage, and other direct service staff assisting clients to find qualified, safe providers or assisting providers with enrollment processes will be beneficially affected by faster turnaround on background checks. Enrollment processes dependent on background checks will be completed more quickly leading to faster connections of clients with needed service providers.

- d. Will it take new staff or will existing positions be modified? For each classification, list the number of positions and the number of months the positions will work in each biennium. Specify if the positions are permanent, limited duration or temporary.

The staff required for permanent positions (24 months per biennium) are as follow:

- Workload-Related: 5.00 FTE permanent Administrative Specialist 1 (Fitness Determiner) and 1.0 FTE permanent Principle Executive/Manager C (BCU Supervisor) positions
- Communication Option: 1.00 FTE permanent Administrative Specialist 1
- CPS Expansion Option: 4.00 FTE permanent Administrative Specialist 1 (Fitness Determiner) and 1.00 FTE Compliance Specialist 2 (Hearings Representative) positions

The staff required for permanent positions (21 months per biennium) are as follow:

- Workload-Related: 10.00 FTE permanent Administrative Specialist 1 (Fitness Determiner) positions

Additional positions for Background Check Unit will increase impact for Records, FMLA/OFLA, Recruitment, Human Resource Analyst and Payroll units. There will also be workload for Facilities and the Office of Information Services.

e. What are the start-up costs, such as new or significant modifications to computer systems, new materials, outreach and training?

Training would be required for all new staff.

Automatic URL access of OIG, SAM, and out-of-state exclusion lists by state(s) required for CMS grant-related checks will require one-time IT costs.

f. What are the ongoing costs?

Current 2015-17 costs in Services & Supplies are expected to increase to a total $8,842,569 for the 2017-19 biennium. These costs are expected to increase due to the following factors:

- +$5,335,316 from Oregon State Police and FBI fingerprint processing fees
- +$37,739 total for Adam Walsh and Child Care out-of-state CPS check costs.
- +$12,000 total for background check research site costs.
- +$307,514 total for agency-paid fingerprint capture for DHS and OHA employees and volunteers, Criminal Justice Information Services (CJIS) clearance, and Child Welfare foster and adoptive parents.
- +$50,000 for annual maintenance on the Criminal Records Information Management System (CRIMS).

Remaining S&S costs would be consistent with trends from the 2015-2017 biennium.

g. What are the potential savings?

Potential savings from timely, quality background checks are based on reductions in risks to health and safety for vulnerable Oregonians served by DHS and OHA. There are savings for clients who receive more timely care, thereby preventing additional medical or support costs that might be incurred. By increasing health, safety and wellness, money will also be saved through prevention of investigations, hearings, and potential tort claims.

Employers will receive savings due to more timely hiring processes, fewer qualified staff lost due to waits on background checks, and potential fines or other licensing problems for not retaining statutorily-mandated staffing levels.

Approved subject individuals seeking work will be employed more quickly, which may preclude those who are currently unemployed from continuing to receive unemployment benefits or other State-provided support services.

h. Based on these answers, is there a fiscal impact?

Yes.

What are the sources of funding and the funding split for each one?

For purposes of this analysis, the cost allocation and fund splits for DHS/OHA are based on the 15-17 Cost Allocation model where we have applied the aggregate DHS/OHA fund splits of GF, OF and FF. Available revenue sources are based on Grants which are entitlement grants that are matched and grants that are not federally capped and are available to program or office within DHS/OHA.

Department of Human Services Affirmative Action Report

This report summarizes the progress the Oregon Department of Human Services (DHS) has made in accomplishing its affirmative action goals for the 2015–2017 biennium, and identifies DHS’s goals for 2017–2019.

July 1, 2015, to June 30, 2017

Accomplishments toward Affirmative Action Goals

DHS continues to work to create a diverse and multicultural organization. The agency will continue to build upon our successes to achieve a more culturally competent work force, create culturally appropriate and effective programs and service delivery systems, develop quality improvement strategies with a focus on diversity and create welcoming environments for our diverse client base and staff. The DHS Affirmative Action Plan is a key component of the department’s ongoing diversity development efforts. These serve to enhance the diversity of our work force, provide equal employment opportunities, provide guidelines for organizational change, increase participation by diverse constituencies in agency operations, and guide leadership management by eliminating institutionalized and individual illegal discrimination in the workplace. Our diverse culturally competent work force assists the department to better understand and respond to clients’ and customers’ needs.

DHS EEO-4 Job Group Utilization<sup>1</sup>

The following chart reflects the DHS/OHA work force makeup between July 1, 2014, and the most current available department totals on June 30, 2016. The total includes parity figures; parity is defined as a condition achieved in an organization when the protected class composition of its work force is equal to that in the relevant available labor force. The Governor’s Equity Office establishes parity goals for each agency.

Progress made or lost since the previous biennium

“Achieve an increase in the recruitment and retention of employees with disabilities and employees of color in all job categories.”

The data presented above as the EEO-4 job category utilization demonstrates that DHS has met or exceeded parity in most job categories for employees that identify as people of color. DHS has historically met or exceeded parity for women in almost all job categories. DHS also improved parity in almost all job categories for employees that identify as people with disabilities. This may be due in part to conducting an agency wide request for updated self-identification this biennium. In addition, an employee resource group for employees or allies for employees with disabilities was created this biennium. This may have helped with retention efforts. Finally, the agency’s internal American with Disabilities Act Reasonable Workplace Accommodations procedure has been updated and provisionally implemented to facilitate quicker and easier access to accommodations for employees.

It should be noted that utilization is initially calculated by grouping employees as “minorities.” However it is appropriate to separate these employees by race to determine if underutilization may be masked by the overall number. Once this analysis was completed for DHS job categories, the data indicated the following:

1. Officials and Administrators has a larger underutilization of employees identifying as Black or Asian<sup>3</sup> and some underutilization of employees identifying as Hispanic.
2. Professionals had a significant underutilization of employees identifying as Asian and people with disabilities.

<sup>3</sup> DHS employees have several options to identify their race, but those that identified as Pacific Islander has to be grouped with Asians to match EEOC race categories.

3. Technicians had some underutilization for employees that identify as people of color and people with disabilities.
4. Paraprofessionals also had an underutilization of employees identifying as Asian.
5. Service Maintenance Workers had underutilization of women and all races/ethnicity except employees that identified as Black.

While not required by the state, we have included utilization rates for self-identified veterans. Analysis of the data indicates there is an underutilization of veterans in the following job categories: Officials and Administrators, Professionals, Paraprofessionals, Technicians and Administrative Support. Since this is the first time measuring utilization, this provides insight into how to improve our recruitment, retention and promotion rates.

July 1, 2017, to June 30, 2019

Goals, strategies and timelines for DHS Affirmative Action Plan

DHS will continue to emphasize focused initiatives to:

- Developing and updating training for management and non-management staff focused on supporting career development, organizational growth and providing equitable client services.
- Continue active and targeted recruitment efforts to increase the number of qualified women, people of color and people with disabilities on our applicant lists for job openings by working with the Office of Human Resources Recruitment Unit to maximize the E-Recruit system. This system is a tool for monitoring and ensuring equal employment opportunity by identifying adverse effect or unnecessary barriers to entry.

- Expand partnerships with local, state and regional community-based organizations, particularly those with ties to people with disabilities.
- Continue to encourage and support the development of employee resource groups (ERG) throughout the agency.

Goals

Overall, the emphasis for the Department of Human Services will be to achieve an increase in the retention of employees with disabilities in all job categories and retain employees of color and veterans in underutilized job categories.

Department of Human Services Audit Response Report

1. DHS and OHA: Statewide Single Audit Including Selected Financial Accounts and Federal Awards for the Year Ended June 30, 2013, audit # 2014-09, (dated April 2014)

- We recommend department management improve controls in the Receipting Unit to ensure all checks are safeguarded, properly tracked and accounted for in the financial records.

The agency appropriately segregates the duties of handling checks in its Salem facility. Under the current system, checks received by mail are sorted by category, recorded by count and delivered to the staff member who is responsible for that category. The item count can be reconciled from the online deposit system reports to an excel spreadsheet created by the unit.

The count and amount of checks received through this process is a small portion of the total revenue recorded by the Receipting unit.

We have strengthened internal controls on the handoff of checks by including, in addition to a count of checks, the dollar amount, reconciliation, and a check redistribution log.

As of June 2015, the OFS Receipting unit has overhauled the check scanning process and now images checks into OED (On-Line Electronic Deposit) immediately. There is no longer a reconciliation of a manual process. This finding is complete.

- We recommend department management align policies and procedures with governmental accounting standards to record expenditures in the proper period and we recommend management provide training to staff to ensure that prior period adjustments are utilized when appropriate.

We disagree with the materiality of the finding, although we agree that the operational controls can be improved. Each year the agency records regular, routine transactions to refinance revenue and expenditures related to lagged receipt of various revenue sources. As mentioned in the audit finding, these are normal transactions that occur as part of our regular business process.

In 2009, due to the large dollar amount of these transactions, the agency asked for advice from the Department of Administrative Services, Statewide Accounting and Reporting Services (SARS) on the proper use of prior period adjustments for these transactions. In response, SARS stated, “it’s not appropriate to incorporate a prior period adjustment into a routine practice. Prior period adjustments should be reserved for (those infrequent) corrections of errors.” This advice was consistent with both the Oregon Accounting Manual (OAM) 15.85.00.PO and related governmental accounting standards outlined in Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) circulars.

During the 2013 statewide financial audit, auditors again recommended prior period adjustments for routine transactions. On December 3, 2013, the agency, Secretary of State Auditors and SARS met again to discuss the issue. At the meeting, SARS leadership agreed with the auditors that these transactions could, most likely, require prior period adjustments. The agency stated their belief that use of prior period adjustments for routine transactions was contrary to the OAM and GASB.

To ensure that the agency was not in violation of OAM, the agency stated that it would change the practice of recording prior period adjustments (to include material routine transactions) if the OAM was updated to reflect the change. On December 5, 2013, SARS updated OAM 15.85.00.PO to include new language on when to record a prior period adjustment for these types of transactions.

Since the change in language in the OAM, the unit has started reviewing all adjustments that occurred during fiscal year 2014 to see if prior period adjustments needed to be done. Clarification to staff of the change in the OAM occurred through the use of Office of Financial Services newsletter, training information shared with the Grant Accounting unit, and a process update to improve ability to capture data that would need prior period adjustments.

- We recommend department management review and revise accrual methodologies for revenues and expenditures, as necessary, and perform periodic retrospective comparisons of accruals to actual amounts to ensure the accrual methodologies are reasonable.

Due to an error during year-end reporting, the healthcare provider tax (HPT) revenue, drug rebate revenue and Medicaid Management Information Systems, expenditure accrual estimates were based on a 60-day rather than a 90-day availability period. This accounted for three of the four audit comments in this finding.

As a corrective action, beginning in fiscal year 2014, the Statewide Financial Reporting unit modified its processes to ensure all governmental fund accrual calculations were based on the 90-day availability period. If actual HPT revenues were not known during month 13 financial adjustment periods, the agency used estimates such as trends and projections based on Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (GAAP). The estimates are compared to actuals for reasonableness.

Statewide financial reporting timelines require agencies to record accrual estimates within approximately 30 days after the end of the fiscal year even though the accrual period doesn't end until 90 days after the end of the fiscal year. This timeframe produces variances between the estimates and actuals. The fiscal year 2013 variances were partially due to the inherent nature of using estimates. The $17.4 million and the $7.5 million variances seem high, but only make up 6.4% and 2.8% of the total accrual of $270 million.

Although variances of actuals and estimates are expected, the agency agrees that accrual amounts should be compared to actuals, and future accrual modifications should be implemented as needed. Therefore, as a corrective action, beginning in 2014 the Statewide Financial Reporting unit implemented a yearly review of its operating statements to document variances and adjust accruals if needed.

Clarification to staff of the change in the OAM occurred through the use of OFS newsletter, training information shared with Grant Accounting unit, and a process update to improve ability to capture data that would need prior period adjustments. The Statewide Financial Reporting unit has reviewed and updated accrual methodologies as appropriate.

- We recommend department management timely estimate and properly record liabilities in the department's financial records. We also recommend department management implement adequate internal controls to ensure all liabilities are appropriately reported in the financial statements.

We agree that the existing year-end review process for liabilities can be improved.

The estimate cited in the finding from August 2013 was from a rough range estimate by an IT project staff person and was not based on a clear, appropriate methodology and was not detailed enough to estimate the impact by fund. The complexity of the analysis resulted in an actual estimate that was provided to leadership and validated by financial staff in January 2014, after the close of the financial reporting period. It is not the normal practice of the agency to place estimates of liability on the financial statements that do not meet GAAP standards.

When the agency had an adequate remediation estimate, it followed the appropriate process and provided the Department of Administrative Services, Statewide Accounting and Reporting Services the following subsequent event disclosure:

The Department of Human Services has initiated a data remediation project to correct data conversion issues in OR-KIDS related to eligibility and payment records. Subsequent to completion of the financial statements, the agency developed a methodology to estimate the potential financial impact of the remediation. A rough estimate of the magnitude is $20 million refinancing from state general fund to various federal grants. The remediation methodology was approved on January 15, 2014.

Statewide Financial Reporting Unit follows a year-end checklist for liability review as part of the year-end process.

- We recommend department management review user access to OR-Kids, ensure services are coded correctly in OR-Kids, review Adoption Assistance and Foster Care cases to verify eligibility is correct in OR-Kids, and ensure overpayment adjustments process correctly. We also recommend department management reimburse the federal agency for unallowable costs.

The Child Welfare Systems Innovations Manager managed an effort to review and improve the partner access agreements, determine appropriate level of access, specific user roles and procedures to ensure compliance. The Federal Compliance Unit worked with Office of Business Intelligence (OBI), Office of Financial Services (OFS), Office of Information Services (OIS) and OR-Kids System Analysts to mitigate eligibility conversion issues whether through Data Remediation or manual clean-up. The Post Adoption Services Manager worked with OFS, OIS and OR-Kids System Analysts to correct the technical issues causing incorrect closure of Title IV-E eligibility on the Adoption Assistance cases, to identify all cases affected, and to correct the eligibility on the affected cases. The non-recurring services will be corrected and any inappropriate claims will be resubmitted to correct the claim on the CB-496 report.

The service coding corrections and reimbursement adjustments were to be completed by June 1, 2014. A change request was submitted to address the incorrect processing of overpayments that involved an Enhanced Supervision rate. The completion date of this request was based on availability of programmers and the prioritization of work to be completed by OIS.

The Federal Compliance Unit (now called Federal Policy, Planning and Resources) worked with the Office of Business Intelligence to create Eligibility Status Reports. These reports have been used by the field

Eligibility Specialist to complete the manual clean-up of any outstanding converted eligibility data issues. The final clean-up was completed in June 2015.

- We recommend department management identify and correct data conversion issues and repay the federal government for the duplicate claims.

On January 30, 2014, the Office of Financial Services posted a remediation estimate in the accounting system in the amount of $23.3 million, thereby refunding payment amounts due to the federal government. The Office of Financial Services, Office of Information Systems, OR-Kids System Unit and the Federal Compliance Unit analyzed the conversion issues and determined the most appropriate action to take to remediate the financial conversion issues.

The department has applied the data fix necessary to address the data conversion issues that caused the duplicate claims. In addition, the department has made accounting adjustments related to the refinancing issues. These final adjustments were completed during the first part of January, 2015 with an effective date of December 31, 2014.

- We recommend department management make appropriate corrections and adjustments to the accounting records to prevent the department from requesting federal reimbursement for expenditures incurred outside the period of availability.

The federal draws were reconciled at the end of each quarter to the total federal expenditures reported to Administration for Children and Families (ACF). The IVE reports have been revised dating back to the September 30th, 2011 report and all adjustments were included in the June 30th, 2015 report. All SFMA entries were completed by September 30th, 2015.

Change requests have been written to correct the OR-Kids system issues identified in this finding. These changes will prevent the application of trust money to payments with service dates prior to January 1, 2008, prevent workers from being able to end a placement as “opened in error” when that placement has dates prior to January 1, 2008 and not allow reimbursement greater than two years in the past.

- We recommend department management ensure CB-496 reports are complete, accurate, and adequately supported.

The Office of Financial Services (OFS) has modified its query process to ensure that all costs for the entire grant are reported on the correct line in the 496 report. OFS will also ensure all documentation used to support the federal report will be kept with the report.

Corrective action was taken so that all documentation is retained with the report. The IVE reports have been revised dating back to the September 30th, 2011 report and all adjustments were included in the June 30th, 2015 report. All SFMA entries were completed by September 30th, 2015.

- We recommend department management ensure all required documentation is completed, reviewed and maintained, and that certification dates in OR-Kids are supported by corroborating documentation. We also recommend department management reimburse the federal agency for costs paid to providers who were not certified at the time of payment.

The department issued an Informational Memorandum on April 1, 2014 providing clarification on the documentation of the certification dates to record for a Certificate of Approval issued. The Informational Memorandum covers the initial and any subsequent Certificate of Approval. The department has also updated the OR-Kids Business Process Guides to clarify the documentation of certification dates in OR-Kids and filing of the Certificate of Approval in the OR-Kids online file cabinet.

The department corrected the eligibility in June 2015 and the inappropriate claims were adjusted on the CB-496 Quarter Ending June 30, 2015. The corrective action required a service desk ticket and a rebuild of the child’s eligibility and caused a delay in the completion date. The department submitted the Program

Improvement Plan to the Administration for Children and Families and it was approved on June 24, 2015. The department must submit quarterly updates, and the final report was submitted July 22, 2016.

An Action Transmittal was sent out to the field on June 15, 2016 with detailed processes the field and other agencies must follow until the OR-Kids modifications are implemented. The Title IV-E specialists received a training (via a conference call) in which the Action Transmittal was reviewed on June 16, 2016.

- We recommend department management ensure CB-496 reports are complete, accurate, and adequately supported. We also recommend management implement processes to ensure the numbers reported for the average number of children assisted are accurate.

For line items on the report which have no expenditures, OFS confirmed with program this information is correct. Adjustments are completed as necessary to ensure all expenditures are reported on the correct line.

The counts of children with non-recurring Adoption Assistance administrative expenses are calculated using OR-Kids expenditure data for those Adoption Assistance services with “non-recurring” in their title. An error was made when the service types were set up in OR-Kids, such that one service that should have been designated as “non-recurring” was not. On March 12, 2014, that service type title was corrected in OR-Kids. Counts for children receiving this service will be included in the Title IV-E Non-Recurring Administrative Cost Expenses line in future CB-496 reports.

The IVE reports have been revised dating back to the September 30th, 2011 report and all adjustments were included in the June 30th, 2015 report. All SFMA entries were completed by September 30th, 2015.

- We recommend department management ensure verification of income with IEVS screens is clearly documented in client case files when determining client eligibility.

TANF program policy requires Self-Sufficiency workers to verify and document eligibility. Staff are also required to use the information from the IEVS screens, as well as other documentary evidence (oral or written), in determining and verifying financial and non-financial eligibility. This is consistent with federal guidance.

While the department agrees that verification of financial and non-financial requirements must be adequately documented when determining client eligibility, the department disagrees that the use of IEVS-related screens must be independently and specifically documented for every client. In fact, some partners such as the Social Security Administration that provide information used in screening applications require in our state agreement with them that we do not document that we obtained specific information from their screens.

However, the department agrees with the need to reinforce the importance of narrating that relevant information on income was verified using the IEVS screens. The department will continue to reinforce the importance of narrating when issues with narrating this factor are identified through the current Quality Assurance and Quality Control reviews.

On February 20, 2015, a TRACS change release was implemented to include the “IEVS checked” checkbox. This change eliminates the need for workers to narrate “all IEVS screens checked” when determining eligibility for SNAP, ERDC and TANF.

- We recommend department management strengthen controls to ensure projected hours of participation appropriately reflect the client’s employment status, reported activity participation reflects actual hours, and data entered into the automated data processing system is accurate and complete.

The department identified that one of the reasons for the work hour inaccuracies is due to how the weeks are programmed in the TRACS system. The department has already begun to make programming changes to correct the automated week calendar so that it aligns with the federal report.

With respect to the errors in projected hours and client employment status, the department plans to strengthen controls and build upon current efforts to maximize accuracy in the reporting of data. Work Verification Plan reviews are currently conducted annually. This internal control process reviews for compliance with the federal participation requirements for the TANF and SSP-MOE data reports, validating accuracy of data and documentation. In addition to statewide communication on best practices as well as error trends, the department has identified point persons in each district who will help communicate to staff the correct coding of participation related information.

Quality Assurance reviews have recently begun on TANF cases across the state as a means to strengthen controls for TANF case management accuracy in the Self Sufficiency programs. These reviews will continue as resources allow, providing a review of participation practices. The elements of acting on reported changes to update projected hours accurately, as well as ensuring documented hours are input into TRACS accurately, will be specifically called out and added to the review tool. In addition, case management training materials will be reviewed to provide clear expectations for coding the employment status, projecting hours and accurately reporting the participation hours related to employment on Self Sufficiency TANF cases.

In April 2014, the department made programming changes to correct the automated week calendar so that it aligns with the federal report. This change affected federal data transmissions from May 2014 forward.

In the spring of 2013, the TANF program identified point persons in each district who help communicate to staff the correct coding of participation related information.

Work verification JOBS audits are conducted every year. In January 2014, a summary of audit results was shared statewide. The results included acting on reported changes to update projected hours accurately, and ensuring documented hours are input into TRACS accurately. In the spring of 2014, some areas of the state with lower accuracy received an additional review, training and coaching. Lead staff from many field branches were included so that they could help disseminate the information associated with best practices and error trends.

In February 2014, case management training materials and staff tools were reviewed and revised. Other online guides were revised in June 2014 and posted in the “staff tools” website. These tools provide expectations for coding the employment status, projecting hours, and accurately reporting the participation hours related to unsubsidized work on Self Sufficiency TANF cases.

In the summer of 2014, the TANF program created a TANF Federal Participation Toolkit and made it available to all staff. The toolkit was shared at statewide program manager and line manager meetings. It includes several guides to help improve upon the accuracy of work participation data and to maximize federal participation hours for the state. Several districts began conducting case reviews for the purpose of engaging families in JOBS or other activities and to check to ensure that those families are still eligible for TANF. These reviews include ensuring the case plan activities are accurately coded in the TRACS system. In addition, TANF program staff visited a few areas of the state in the fall of 2014 to provide training and consultation on the JOBS Activity Guidelines.

Work Verification Plan reviews (also known as the JOBS Audits) are currently conducted annually. A summary of audit results is shared statewide. The department plans on continuing these audits and building in more opportunities for coaching and mentoring for branch leadership, staff and partners. This will allow for further guidance on the correct use of JOBS activity codes, correct use of attendance tracking documents (including treatment, education and job readiness hours), and accurate counting toward participation hours. The JOBS Activity Guidelines (JAG) will be used as the curriculum of this targeted effort. The JAG will be adjusted and updated to ensure compliance with the Work Verification Plan as needed. Field audits were conducted during the fall and winter of 2015, the review summaries are available.

The TANF policy unit will gathered an internal Federal Data group to research the errors and identify root cause(s), with the intent to establish corrective actions to focus on either preventing or detecting and correcting processing errors. This team drafted a plan in November 2016.

Our cross-functional TANF program integrity group will continue to identify ways to train, coach, and review field staff work related to the calculation of work hours. Special attention will be focused on conversion of hours based on pay schedules, which resulted in two of the six errors cited.

Work Verification Plan training is updated in the training that is provided to staff and includes information on JOBS hours and how to calculate and enter information on TRACS. Monthly emails are being developed to share with field staff through local meetings and staff huddles, however this information has not yet been distributed.

The department's usage of the Electronic Document Management System along with the standardized filing method, implemented in phases beginning October 2015, has reduced the potential for lost documentation.

The department submitted a revised Work Verification Plan with an effective date of July 1, 2016. During the month of July 2016, a workgroup consisting of policy and program staff from around the state met to discuss a complete overhaul of the Work Verification Plan to be effective October 1, 2016. The new format will include more details around matters of benefit conversion and ongoing eligibility documentation. In addition to increased documents and published tools for staff, the policy unit staff now send regular emails several times each month focusing on participation issues that has been identified as needing further explanation. These emails are distributed to the front-line staff and leadership as a means to help guide conversations in the field in regards to participation and program accuracy. The topics for the emails are identified through case reviews, questions submitted to the policy unit, and questions frequently asked during training.

- We recommend department management prioritize the correction of OR-Kids coding errors and completion of monitoring reports to ensure the benefit threshold of $25,350 is not exceeded and re-determinations are completed timely.

The corrections to the seven clients who exceeded the $25,350 limit were corrected and adjustments completed to TANF in February 2014. A total of $470,530.40 was refinanced to another funding source from TANF.

Analysis determined the five clients where re-determinations were not completed timely had the re-determinations completed prior to when the sample was pulled. For these clients, their TANF eligibility ended because their re-determinations were not completed. However, the last of these client re-determinations was completed July 9, 2013. This resulted in the need to make funding adjustments in the quarters in which re-determinations were made. The current report workarounds are helping identify TANF clients that need a re-determination and they are being completed. The Federal Compliance Unit has been completing internal audits and providing findings to the Federal Revenue Specialist and Supervisor for corrective action. Information from audit findings and daily technical assistance is used to develop topics for bi-weekly conference calls between the Federal Compliance Unit and Federal Revenue Specialists. The Federal Compliance Unit also provides quarterly one-day trainings to the Federal Revenue Specialists and Supervisors to review policy and procedure.

The Federal Compliance Unit worked with the Office of Business Intelligence, Office of Information Services and OR-Kids to prioritize critical reports to ensure Federal Revenue Specialists have the tools they need to manage their workload and complete TANF re-determinations timely and accurately. The report to notify staff of instances where the $25,350 TANF reimbursement limit has been met, has been completed. This report was available in a User Acceptance Testing environment for several months and was moved to production in November 2014. This report is the EL-3008-S TANF $20K Summary Report. This report lists any client whose reimbursement of services paid for by TANF funds is greater than or equal to $20,000 over the past 365 days. In addition, a detail report was added so that a user can get all the transaction records that make up the noted amount for the client.

- We recommend department management ensure complete and accurate client information is used to compile the quarterly data reports.

The department agrees that the data populating the ACF-199 and ACF-209 reports need to be as accurate and complete as possible. Currently, a team of Office of Information Services (OIS), Office of Business Intelligence (OBI), Self-Sufficiency Business Analysts, and Self-Sufficiency Program (SSP) staff meets weekly to address known or presenting data quality issues for these federal reports. Significant progress has been achieved over the past year to increase the data accuracy and completeness of these reports. This includes resolving several of the items listed in this audit findings report. DHS recognizes that a continued effort is still necessary in order to resolve known data quality and data completeness issues.

The inaccurate reporting of Maintenance of Effort (MOE) clients in the ACF-199 TANF Data Report was corrected in May 2013 with a change to the selection criteria for each federal report. In addition, an alert report process was implanted to notify financial staff of clients needing to have their funding source changed. Unfortunately, the updated data was not incorporated in time for the Federal Fiscal Year (FFY) 2012 file resubmissions. This data was correctly reported for the FFY 2013 quarters.

The department started correctly reporting cases exempted from the federal time limit due to living in “Indian Country” to the Administration for Children and Families (ACF) federal reports in FFY 2013. The department implemented these changes in April 2013. Unfortunately, the updated data was not incorporated in time for the FFY 2012 file resubmissions. For FFY 2013 and forward this data will be correctly reported.

The specifics for the reported hour inaccuracies issue was investigated in early 2014. The error that was identified was that the TRACS application had a week that started counting hours from Saturday through Friday, while the data extraction coding had an alternate start day, resulting in a mismatch of hours reported for a week. This system issue was corrected April 2014.

TANF-funded child welfare cases continue to be excluded from the ACF-199 report due to the child welfare system coding issues. A corrective action to this known issue is being actively worked. There is a team consisting of a Child Welfare Business Analyst, Office of Business Intelligence (OBI), and Self-Sufficiency Business Analyst staff who are working to refine the requirements and data extraction coding for the data needed from the Child Welfare case management system. Progress has been made to correctly identify the population needed in the federal reports from the child welfare system, though complete data accuracy has not yet been achieved.

The TANF Policy Unit and other team members continue to work with the OBI, OIS, the Self-Sufficiency Business Analyst Team to prioritize critical data and coding changes needed to ensure accurate and complete reporting in the ACF-199 and ACF-209 federal reports.

Child Welfare cases are now being included in TANF federal reports. Corrective action has been taken on all categories identified in this finding including the duplicate case issue identified in the data submitted on the ACF-209 and the inclusion of TANF-funded child welfare cases in the ACF-199. Programming changes to address the problem with reporting duplicate cases were made and the changes were incorporated with the data submitted for FY 2014 forward. Also, as of June 2015, Child Welfare cases are now being included in the TANF federal reports.

- We recommend department management coordinate resources to better maintain and more readily provide sufficient application documentation.

The department has developed a business case for an electronic case document storage system. We believe that a coordinated and consistent process for electronic case document storage will provide more readily accessible application documentation. This effort involved training, archiving and transfer agreements, business process development, communication plans, and technology installs.

- We recommend the department seek additional guidance from the federal government to ensure five-year time limit monthly exemptions are being appropriately applied in accordance with federal regulations.

The department was interpreting the “Indian Country” provisions of time limits according to the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) designation of “service area”. The TANF program, in coordination with the department’s Tribal Affairs Director, sent an inquiry on June 2, 2014 to the U.S. Department of the Interior requesting which areas in Oregon constitute “Indian Country.” The Department of the Interior sent a response to DHS on August 1, 2014 which included that the Department of Interior is unable to honor the request of DHS for three main reasons: (1) an undertaking analyzing all lands in Oregon that meet the definition of Indian Country provided in 18 U.S.C. § 1151 would be quite large; (2) the Bureau of Indian Affairs has previously responded indicating they do not use the section 1151 in their administration of social programs , rather, the term Service Area is used; and (3) the Department of Interior’s provision of legal advice is limited to the interests that affect one of their client agencies followed by a request from the agency. The Department of the Interior recommended DHS consult with the Tribes affected by the program.

DHS consulted with Oregon Tribes. There was formal opposition from the Confederated Tribes of Siletz Indians, the Confederated Tribes of Coos, Lower Umpqua, and Siuslaw Indians, as well as the Klamath Tribes.

On March 31, 2015 ACF issued a decision on this finding which directed the department to provide a methodology and timeline for utilizing the definition of “Indian Country” consistent with federal regulation. The department again consulted with Oregon Tribes through the Department of Justice on a way to address their concerns.

On August 28, 2015 the department sent ACF a question and proposed a clarification on a way to achieve compliance with TANF regulations while also recognizing the Tribes’ restoration acts. The plan also incorporated Oregon’s proposed clarification. The extension to the plan of correction was subsequently obtained on October 1, 2015.

The department has now completed the consultation process with Oregon’s recognized tribes and ACF. The planned implementation date for all changes is January 1, 2017. Tribes were notified October 7, 2016 about the changes that will be implemented the last week of November. Staff will received training in November and December of 2016 and the full implementation of all changes will be January 1, 2017.

- We recommend department management strengthen controls to ensure all documentation supporting a provider’s eligibility determination is retained. For current providers with missing documentation, we recommend the department verify they are eligible to provide services.

Through the avenue of agenda items at Aging and People with Disabilities (APD) Supervisors Quarterly Meetings, APD Program Managers meeting, articles in the newsletter “In the Loop”, and a training module at the 2013 Regional meetings, APD has worked to remind managers and staff of the policies and documentation required to support a provider’s eligibility and forms that must be retained within the provider files. Provider Relations Unit will also provide resources and education for the Developmental Disability program providers. The APD offices have obtained the missing documentation for most of the providers listed.

Of the 17 providers who needed data base checks, we were able to satisfactorily complete all of the checks.

For three of the providers, the department could not locate the enrollment agreements, two providers were terminated, and we were able to locate the enrollment for the third application.

For the provider that did not have a criminal background check, we were able to verify that the check was completed.

For the six providers where we were unable to locate provider files, we have since documented the criminal background check and provider enrollment documents.

The department’s Aging and People with Disabilities (APD) and Office of Developmental Disability Services (ODDS) Provider Relations Unit has taken steps to require the submission of provider enrollment agreements and other items necessary to ensure provider eligibility determination when processing new, reenrolling, and revalidating providers. There are exceptions for some specific providers where the provider eligibility documentation is maintained in the field and only a portion of the provider validation is completed by the Provider Relations Unit. For those specific providers with documentation maintained in the field, APD and ODDS management continue to work with local office managers to communicate the necessity to retain the provider eligibility documentation within their provider files. The record retention requirements have been communicated to the management of the field offices responsible for retaining provider eligibility documentation not otherwise submitted to the Provider Relations Unit.

APD continues to remind field staff of the importance of gathering and maintaining all required documentation for provider eligibility, including the completion of all relevant database checks. This topic is covered at District/Program Manager meetings, supervisor meetings, and through articles in the APD newsletter. Gathering of specific documentation related to the findings was completed in August 2016.

- We recommend department management document procedures for completing annual reviews and strengthen the process for conducting desk reviews to include reviewing and making adjustments that could affect the annual payment rate. We also recommend department management ensure full reviews are completed and adequately documented and evidence of supervisory review and approval is retained.

Documentation was provided on which facilities were audited and how those facilities were selected for this audit cycle. APD shared the number of facilities reviewed and draft procedures that APD will use for performing future reviews.

Department management has made significant changes to the Nursing Facility Cost Review process. The department hired a Program Analyst 4 (PA4) to assist on these reviews. The PA4 and an Operations and Policy Analyst 3 are working on the process. In addition, the department has implemented and documented management review of this process. Draft procedures were completed in early 2014 to document the process and finalized in June 2014. These procedures are reviewed periodically to make necessary revisions.

- We recommend department management strengthen controls to ensure sufficient documentation is maintained to demonstrate compliance with federal requirements, and ensure the client liability is calculated accurately.

Through the avenue of agenda items at Aging and People with Disabilities (APD) Supervisors Quarterly Meetings, APD Program Managers meeting, articles in the newsletter, "In the Loop," APD has worked to remind managers and staff of the policies and documentation required to support a client's eligibility and forms that must be retained within the client files. APD is also working to implement scanned client files for field offices so that all documentation will be readily available. For the two clients where errors occurred in determining the client's liability, one of the clients is in a nursing facility and another is deceased. Information was sent to the Estate Recovery Unit to determine if these questioned costs were eligible for estate recovery. The department will continue working within our programs to ensure these requirements are shared with staff and continue to be followed appropriately.

- We recommend department management correct the transactions processed with this incorrect coding. We also recommend department management ensure system coding is appropriately updated to allow only current FMAP rates to be used.

The department has implemented a process change related to Program Cost Account (PCA) structure. The Office of Financial Services (OFS) now enters an 'effective end date' on PCA's to prevent a PCA from being used on a transaction after the grant period has closed.

The four identified transactions have been corrected in the accounting system with balance transfers. Additional research is being done to ensure there are no additional documents that need adjustment. The change in process was implemented March, 2014.

- We recommend management develop a plan based on current resources to ensure the timely completion of provider health and safety standard surveys for nursing facilities.

Oregon has a long history of meeting the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) performance standards related to surveying facilities in fewer than 15.9 months. The Nursing Facility Licensing Unit is dedicated to bringing our CMS performance standard back into compliance. Over the past four years various staffing resource issues, such as the position freeze and mandatory furloughs, have significantly affected our ability to complete our work timely. In fact, our vacancy rate for surveyors reached 34% by the end of the freeze. Implementation of the Quality Indicator Survey (QIS) also contributed to our failure to meet the CMS performance standards. In addition to the general difficulties inherent of a new process and system, this new federally mandated survey process has increased our required survey team size (particularly for small facilities), increased training requirements, and lengthened total survey time.

Over the past few years we have implemented several continuous improvement activities that have resulted in efficiency gains to the survey process, in turn reducing the amount of time it takes to survey a provider. Those efficiencies have resulted in a significant reduction in new surveyor training time. We have made efforts to minimize survey related travel and made reductions in report writing time. We have implemented an Electronic document workflow process, streamlined our report review process to facilitate a faster turnaround time between surveys, and provided provider training on how they can prepare for the new QIS process. Additionally, since July 2013 we have hired a significant number of new surveyors. This has been offset by a number of retirements and staff resignations.

During the last few years, we also assessed the survey and training teams to optimize production, optimized survey and surveyor turnaround time, evaluated utilization of CMS approved survey contractor to help us complete surveys and evaluated our surveyor recruitment process to enable us to reach better and more qualified applicants. We have also brought retired and resigned surveyors back on a temporary basis to perform surveys.

All surveys conducted were less than 15.9 months since August 15, 2015, in compliance with the federal requirement.

- We recommend authority management develop a security plan that addresses all federally required components, develop and implement a formalized risk analysis program, and ensure system security reviews are conducted timely for all applicable systems involved in the administration of the Medicaid program.

We agree the Department of Human Services and Oregon Health Authority have not completed all the elements of a formal ADP risk analysis and security review of the Medicaid systems. However, as we have previously communicated, the agencies have traditionally relied on third-party assessments such as SOC 1, Type 2 reports, audits from Office of Inspector General, Secretary of State, and the Enterprise Security Office's Annual Information Systems Business Risk Assessment report to provide this information. Security control assessment is included in these assessments. Vulnerability assessment scans of the MMIS system software are periodically performed at least every three years or whenever major changes are made to the system. The last vulnerability assessment took place in September 2016.

We use these audits and reports, as well as leveraging reports from the Privacy and Incident Response section, to assist in that determination. While not strictly a formal risk assessment per se, it does provide an analysis of controls from both a system as well as program perspective. In addition, Information Security and Privacy Office (ISPO) staff have conducted physical security walk-throughs of the State Data Center where the MMIS production servers are located.

An information security risk assessment was conducted by the Information Security and Privacy Office (ISPO) on the Provider Services and Provider Enrollment units of Division of Medical Assistance programs (DMAP), which administers the Medicaid program for the State of Oregon. The risk assessment was completed in March 2015. In January 2015, the Oregon Health Authority began an agency-wide restructure. As a result of this major restructure and transitional projects, further ISPO-conducted risk assessments were postponed. We also agree that we need to develop a formal risk assessment and security review program based in industry standards and best practices that assesses risks for programs as a whole and not on a system-by-system basis.

- We recommend department management ensure branch offices are aware of and follow the established procedures for securing EBT cards.

DHS developed a Financial Desk Training for Aging and People with Disabilities (APD) and Self Sufficiency Program (SSP) staff, whose duties involve financial business process, and field managers. The Financial Desk Training includes a section on the established procedures for Electronic Benefit Transfer (EBT) card security. The Field Business Procedures Manual and the Business Review Tools are used as a basis for the training curriculum. SSP Office and Business Managers received the financial desk Electronic Benefit Transfer (EBT) Card Security section of the training prior to June 2014, along with expectations for complying with EBT card security and inventory procedures. In addition, a communication was sent to office leadership in June 2014, regarding the importance of securing EBT cards and following the policy outlined in the Field Business Procedures Manual for monthly inventory.

Financial Manager Training webinars, including a section on established procedures for EBT card security, were held on December 23, 2014; February 11, 2015; and February 12, 2015 and has been converted to a webinar and posted in the Learning Center on May 19, 2015.

There were 19 sessions of the Financial Desk Training that took place in various locations across the state between September 23, 2015 and November 9, 2015. This training will be offered as needed for new staff in the future.

As with other findings, APD has also addressed this topic through agenda items at APD Supervisors Quarterly Meetings, APD Program Managers meeting, and articles in the newsletter, “In the Loop”. Through these efforts APD has worked to remind managers and staff of the policies and documentation needed in effective management of the EBT card security.

APD has monitored the Financial Desk Training course and determined that all APD and AAA branches have completed the training. Self Sufficiency has taken corrective action and completed branch office monitoring at the end of July 2016.

2. Temporary Assistance for Needy Families: High Expectations, Stronger Partnerships, and Better Data Could Help More Parents Find Work, audit #2014-08 (dated April 2014)

- We recommend the Department of Human Services:

Improve case management

- Use additional case managers to increase the amount of client contact and set an expectation that each client will progress toward self-sufficiency;
- Prioritize additional work supports as funds become available, particularly subsidized child care that allows more parents to participate in work activities;
- Develop procedures for self-sufficiency offices to better assess new and returning clients and connect clients to needed medical care;
- Create detailed case plans that include strengths and interests, progress milestones, and meaningful activities;
- Track progress, build time limits into case planning, and conduct intensive reviews at key intervals, such as 24 and 48 months;
- Work with case managers and supervisors to address their concerns about the sanctions process and ensure they consistently hold clients accountable;
- Increase discussion of client progress during re-certifications and routine client contacts;
- Improve services to clients with barriers by including work-related activities in case plans when appropriate, monitoring progress made in treatment, and following through on disability analyst recommendations;
- Require some level of participation before fully sanctioned clients are allowed to reinstate their TANF benefits;
- Develop a process to identify top performing TANF workers and share best practices among case managers and regional offices.

Expand partnerships

- Build connections with Coordinated Care Organizations so clients can receive thorough assessments, referrals, and appropriate medical treatment;
- Increase collaboration with other organizations that provide crucial services to TANF clients, including GED instruction, rehabilitation, apprenticeships, community support and employment services;
- Work with university researchers to help assess program effectiveness, as other states have done.

Use data to drive improvements

- Assess which client interventions work best and direct limited resources to proven programs;
- Continue developing data capabilities to track client progress, assist case management and improve agency wide operations.

Ensure compliance with federal requirements

- Work with the federal government to determine if time-limit extensions for economic hardship were appropriate and if the Indian Country exemption is too broad.

We recommend that DHS management work with the Legislature and Governor to:

- Consider revisiting budget and program decisions made during the recession that decreased client services and increased the number of TANF clients, using improved data on program performance and client needs;
- Study the costs and benefits of raising the income limit for TANF clients who find work;
- Consider allowing case managers more flexibility when re-engaging clients and administering sanctions;
- Consider authorizing extended benefit holds as an initial step when clients fail to participate, reducing the use of the cumbersome and punitive disqualification process;
- Explore alternatives to Oregon's state clock policy that could be less administratively burdensome.
- Consider adding small-scale participation incentives.

We recommend that Congress and the Department of Health and Human Services consider modifying federal regulations to:

- Allow clients more time and credit for pursuing GED certificates and higher education while working or looking for work;
  - Allow clients with barriers to employment to receive more participation credit for documented progress in activities, such as health care, addiction treatment and vocational rehabilitation, that help them address their barriers;
  - Give credit for partial participation in work-related activities, such as unpaid work experience and community service, particularly for clients with documented barriers.
- We recommend that federal auditors further review federal TANF regulations that limit participation credit for clients who pursue education, health care, addiction treatment and other activities that help them address their barriers to work.

The Secretary of State's Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) audit largely confirms weakness in program structure that the Department has been actively discussing with policy makers and stakeholders since the recession began in 2008. Third party validation by qualified auditors is always welcome and valuable.

We appreciate the accurate portrayal of the challenging economic circumstances in Oregon and the many consequences for the state TANF program as described in the audit report. Additionally, the agency agrees with the findings that improvements can and should be made in terms of employment outcomes and client engagement in the TANF program.

While the audit points out that Oregon's TANF program does not lack for vision or ambition, it is regrettable that it largely ignores the dual purpose of the program: Safe and stable families, as well as employed parents.

In 2007, through House Bill 2469, the Oregon Legislature codified and funded a comprehensive TANF program designed to achieve the dual purposes of the TANF program. Data shows that in the first year of implementing the HB 2469 model, the program was starting to achieve the expected results. Unfortunately, the recession forced even more families out of work and into the TANF program. It also forced difficult decisions about resources for the TANF program. Because jobs were in short supply for even the most qualified job-seekers, the Legislature chose to prioritize TANF's family stability side. It left the cash assistance side of the program in place as part of a safety net for children and drastically reduced employment supports and services for adults in the program.

The report recognizes that the TANF program during the audit period was not structured to prepare people for jobs that did not exist during the recession. Still, the audit spends considerable time on the issue of accountability, both with respect to DHS staff holding individuals accountable, and individuals on TANF taking responsibility to get back to work. That discussion perpetuates the traditional conversation about this program and the people it serves, rather than recognizing the structural challenge of the disincentives for work that are part of Oregon's safety-net.

Compounding those structural issues -- specific to poverty and the TANF program itself during the audit period -- were the overarching challenges for all job seekers during the recession. Those challenges are underscored by the fact that the Unemployment Insurance program (which, like TANF is also intended to be temporary) has been extended multiple times since the recession began (and, at the time of this audit report release, six years later, the U.S. Congress is considering another extension).

That being understood, the agency agrees that best practice involves engaging clients fully in case planning, supporting those plans with the appropriate services, and holding clients accountable for full participation in plans and services. The TANF program already has begun seeing improvements in these areas as the result of the Legislature supporting the redeployment of staff and a small expansion of the JOBS program budget for employment services in the 2013-15 Legislatively Adopted Budget (LAB).

Next Steps:

The Department takes the results of the TANF audit seriously, particularly in the spirit of improving outcomes for Oregon's children and families. Following is a summary of the audit recommendations DHS has implemented:

Additional Case Management

The department hired additional case managers in January 2014. There were a total of 167 Human Services Specialists 3's converted to 162 Case Managers. The first phase released 128 positions to fill in October 2013 and the second phase released 34 positions in December 2013.

Self-Sufficiency Expectation

The JOBS Participation Project outlined the following strategies on December 18, 2014:

- Establish clear statewide requirements through protocols for administering JOBS program.
- Establish clear understanding of current and ongoing performance per district.
- Recommend ongoing management of participation through use of performance reports developed at the state level e.g. Snapshot, TRACs, attendance tracking tools etc.
- Assist each district in identifying successes and barriers to success in order to develop implementation and sustainability plans for JOBS participation.

Implementation began in January 2015 by teams from the Office of Continuous Improvement supporting each district with development of localized implementation of the participation protocols targeting consistent process to engage participants of all employment readiness levels. Sustainability of the work in each district was completed by June 2015. An expectation that each client will progress toward self-sufficiency by engaging in a plan to move forward will result in increased work participation rates.

Prioritize Work Supports as Funds Become Available

The JOBS program budget for 2013-15 included a small expansion. There was $1.4M set aside to cover increased child care rates and up to $1.8M additional for support services that could include child care expenditures for participating clients.

Rule 461-190-0211 was amended on July 1, 2013 to increase flexibility with contracted and support services. The changes include:

- Additional JOBS services such as life skills, family stability services, GED supports for adults, up to 12 months in vocational training, and other activities that support family stability and employment efforts; and*
- Support services changes that allow child care for two-parent families as determined on a case by case basis, and support services for more activities such as life skills, on the job training, and SS application appointments.*

Policy Transmittal SS-PT-13-026 was issued on June 26, 2013. It included a Jobs Activities and Support Services quick reference guide which provides a list of available activity codes and guidance for JOBS support services. The guide was made available in the TANF Employment Staff Tools intranet page.

The Policy Transmittal, SS-PT-14-032 issued in December 2014, amended rule 461-190-0211 on January 1, 2015 increasing flexibility with contracted and support services to allow a JOBS exempt individual to volunteer for the JOBS program if the reason for their exemption is due to having a dependent child under the age of six months. Since making these changes, more parents have had access to contracted activities and support services that include child care.

Procedures to Assess New and Returning Clients

A workgroup was convened to modify the up-front assessment during the spring and summer of 2014. In August 2014, the My Self-Assessment Tool was created. During the pilot testing, it was determined that additional changes needed to be made.

The department consulted with the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities (CBPP) while they visited Oregon in October 2014. They shared some assessment tools currently in use by other states. These tools were shared during the October 15, 2014 Program Manager meeting.

In light of the CBPP visit, and the need to get an online version of capturing the elements within the work readiness, guidance, checklists, and tools are being developed for staff to help participants access needed medical/mental evaluations and services. This group has identified the following next steps:

- TANF policy is identifying needed categories and the potential design of an online tool. A draft example is being developed for further conversations between the BA's and the TRACS design team to determine the feasibility and possible timeline associated with this project.*
- Identify field representation to join the planning: to provide the field perspective on where and how this would fit into the process of working with a client and to minimize the time needed to input the data in the system.*

In order to better assess the needs of and provide resource referrals and accommodations to those with disabilities, training has been provided to staff throughout 2014 and 2015. In addition to this training, a document defining the steps for referral for a psychological evaluation was drafted on December 30, 2014, as well as a Psychological Evaluation Checklist on January 26, 2015. These documents provide guidance for usage of the DHS forms 729 series, which are used for requesting evaluations and services.

A project plan was developed to coordinate the many facets of this body of work and to ensure forward motion on implementation of a measureable employment ready assessment tool.

Procedures Connecting Clients to Medical Care

DHS worked with OHA to ensure TANF recipients had medical eligibility determinations fast-tracked to allow access to medical care. This was outlined in Policy Transmittal SS-AR-14-004 which was issued on January 31, 2014. To provide clarification of this process to the branch offices, an FAQ document was issued on April 28, 2014. The Policy Transmittal was updated and reissued in July 2015 SS-AR-15-011.

Detailed Case Plans

With the hiring of additional case managers along with declining caseload, more time has been devoted to case planning. The JOBS Participation Project as well as the TANF pilot initiatives focused on family stability and employment in a variety of ways across the state from October 2013 through December 2014. The JOBS Participation Project has identified successful approaches, which have been shared with staff as the project rolls out.

An investment was made in training specific to focusing on strengths based practices. PSU provided Enhanced Case Management in three distinct modules.

- Module 101 is a 1-day training to outline foundational elements and core concepts including motivational interviewing, assertive engagement, stages of change, culture of poverty and trauma informed practice. As an initial phase, sessions delivered around the state have a priority focus on newly hired case managers. Leadership and/or administrative staff are also encouraged to participate.*

- Module 201 is a 3-day training with a much deeper focus on practice and application. Session attendees would include those that are connected to and or support the specific family work including eligibility workers, case managers, lead workers, supervisors, administrators and other staff deemed appropriate. Content and format was designed to specifically support the unique role the individual plays within the SSP system. Ongoing coaching and support will be offered as a follow up to ensure sustainability and capacity building. All districts are included in a phased rollout of 201 Modules.*

- Module 301 is a 2-day training focused on core skills, qualities and abilities to coach others in the field with attendees including ICCs, lead workers, supervisors, management and other deemed appropriate. Though training sessions are a great way to share concepts and key ideas, true* transformative work occurs at the coaching level. Not only does this approach reinforce concepts from earlier sessions, it also builds capacity at the local level to continue the practice. To foster consistency and sustainability, deliberate strategies have been taken to link and/or align with current leadership training efforts within DHS (Supervisory Quarterly, ICC Meetings, Supervisory Conferences, etc.).

This training began October 2013 and has been held in various locations across the state.

To date portions of each Module (101, 201, and 301) have been incorporated into the training curriculum redesign. Training redesign will offer an ongoing opportunity to incorporate portions into position specific training. Topics such as Trauma informed Care, Understanding Poverty, Empathy, Strengths Based Practice are now part of the Fundamentals training received by all SSP staff. Module 201 is a deeper dive into skills necessary for case managers to connect with families in a meaningful way that facilitates progress towards self-sufficiency and continues to be offered across the state. Module 301 was required for leadership statewide and parts of the curriculum have been imbedded in both Fundamentals and Case Management training courses. These modules have led to changes in engaging families by teaching techniques of assessing written communication to ensure they reflect the philosophical intent, by practicing consulting and coaching approaches, and more welcoming engagement practices that focus on participant strengths, setting goals, and gauging their interest.

Key Interval Reviews

Automatic notifications were implemented to inform individuals when they have reached 48 out of 60 months of TANF receipt. Policy Transmittal SSPT-14-013 was issued on May 15, 2014 providing guidance and awareness of automated 48 month notice and to describe expectations to engage client.

Multiple TANF time limit tools have been provided and made available on the staff tools website (<http://www.dhs.state.or.us/caf/ss/tanf/tanf-time-limits.html>). The 48-month checklist was posted to the site in May 2014. This checklist is used to assess clients status, includes referral resources, long term financial planning, and prioritization of JOBS services.

Statewide reports were modified in January 2015 to assist field managers and staff in identifying families who are close to meeting the 60-month time limit. Policy Transmittal SS-AR-15-001 was issued on January 15, 2015 to provide guidance on working the monthly time limit reports.

The department will continue to improve this process under HB 3535 that was signed into law in July 2015. There currently is a workgroup made up of DHS staff and stakeholders who are making recommendations for implementing the HB 3535 provision, including recommendations on extension criteria and case management at critical points in the 60-month continuum. The workgroup is also reviewing notices and the process flow for time limit extensions. The implementation date for the new policies was spring 2016.

Sanction Process and Accountability

Training on the re-engagement requirements began in 2014. This training was intended to help staff feel more confident in working through the re-engagement process and to build consistency statewide in holding clients accountable.

Disqualification case reviews are conducted every six months and provide an opportunity to coach staff.

A work team explored client accountability recommendations, which resulted in a series of recommended statute changes. HB 3535 was signed into law in July 2015. There currently is a workgroup made up of DHS and stakeholders who will be making recommendations for implementing the new provisions, which include restructuring the sanction amounts. The implementation date for the new policies was in July 2016 which includes a process improvement implementation rollout.

Based on the workgroups recommendations the TANF policy was updated to revise the following rules: OAR 461-190-0231, 461-130-0330, 461-130-0335 and 461-135-0089. A policy transmittal (SS-PT-16-013) was also distributed to staff explaining the new rules and the progressive grant reductions that apply to the whole family grant. Training was also provided statewide on June 28th and July 7th. The Office of Continuous Improvement developed a Re-Engagement protocol which has now been rolled out to all districts to improve the consistency of the process.

Client Progress Discussions

Improvements have been made in this area with the hiring of case managers. As the caseload has been declining, there is more time for case management and for more regular client contact. The number of families who are participating in activities has increased. Discussions about progress result in case plan development. The total number of cases not meeting participation rate requirements due to having no plan dropped from 30.8% in January 2014 to 15.5% in January 2015.

Improving Services to Clients with Barriers

Some improvements have been made in this area with hiring case managers and the declining caseload as it has resulted in additional time for case management.

After consulting with the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities (CBPP) to learn about three examples from other states, the Department has made an effort to improve the assessment tools and data tracking so that gaps in services can be identified.

The State Family Pre-SSI/SSDI (SFP) managers attended a meeting with Self-Sufficiency program managers and a process is being developed to coordinate better with disability analysts to maximize resources. A meeting with Vocational Rehabilitation and TANF program field managers was conducted April 8, 2015 to improve understanding of the different programs and to improve coordination at the local level.

A workgroup composed of disability analysts, field staff, and TANF staff has been meeting to improve current coordination efforts. Recommendations will be made to leadership for implementation; recommendations will include consistent referral processes, identification of external resources, identified training needs, and possible contracted services.

Required Participation before Sanctioning

This option was discussed in a workgroup and recommended to move forward. The department worked on OAR changes that included cooperation periods before TANF benefits are reinstated to an individual after serving a sanction. In July 2016, OAR 461-130-0335 was updated to reflect the changes in cooperation periods.

Sharing Best Practices from Top Performing Workers

Although we will not create a process of identifying top performing TANF workers, we have identified best practices that increase engagement of participants. The development of protocols began in May 2014 in District 11. Statewide protocols are being implemented in each district with the involvement of the DHS Office of Continuous Improvement. The Participation Tool Kit was developed and is maintained on the TANF Staff Tools website, <http://www.dhs.state.or.us/caf/ss/tanf/tanf-time-limits.html>.

Build Connections with Coordinated Care Organizations

The Department started discussions from fall 2013 with CCO's to build a connection with members so field staff can play a role in their medical treatment as part of case management. In order to assist clients with accessing benefits, a process to prioritize medical eligibility for TANF clients was developed in April 2014.

Once priority medical determinations have been made, OHA medical coverage recipients have access to medical, mental health, and alcohol and drug treatment services. The department works with the participant to identify and access necessary services as part of their case plan.

Increase Collaboration with Other Organizations Providing Crucial Services

The passage of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act (WIOA) and the inclusion of TANF as a mandatory partner in the workforce system presented an opportunity to improve the employment prospects of people in TANF. A formalized WIOA implementation workgroup was formed which includes the TANF program as a full participant along with other workforce agency representatives, including Vocational Rehabilitation.

The TANF program is also represented in the State's Workforce Policy Implementation group. The TANF program collaborated with BOLI on an application for a Dept. of Labor Apprenticeship grant. In October 2015, the DOL awarded Oregon a $3 million grant. TANF participants are among the target populations to be served by this grant. The TANF program is represented in a soon to convene implementation committee.

Work with University Researchers

While the TANF Reinvestment package funded data analytics, the 2015-17 department budget did not specifically include funding for contracts with universities. The TANF program has been in discussions with advocate stakeholders on how to partner with universities to help assess program effectiveness.

Direct Limited Resources to Proven Programs

The TANF Reinvestment package included a pot of money for expanding partnerships to help participants maintain employment, prevent re-entry into TANF, and address family stability. The department plans to direct these limited resources to fund innovative project proposals that improve outcomes for TANF participants in the areas mentioned above. Requests for proposals are planned for release by January 2016.

DHS has approved 17 district support service projects (13 of these have fully executed contracts in place for this work) and 5 Community Collaborative Impact grants (4 executed contracts and the final one is awaiting DOJ approval).

Continue Developing Data Capabilities

A “family case progression report” showing the percent of families with monthly progress towards family stability, work readiness, or employment was developed in spring/summer of 2014 and has been made available to field leadership and staff.

Improvements have also been made with respect to other reports containing family case detail (such as the “snapshot report” to be able to do additional follow-up with families. Reports shared with field in fall 2014 accompanied with presentations at Program Managers in September 2014 and line managers in January 2015. TANF Policy and Office of Business

Determine if Economic Hardship Time-Limit Extensions are Appropriate and if the Indian Country Exemption is Too Broad.

The DHS has consulted with the Department of Interior and with Oregon Tribes. On March 31, 2015 ACF issued a decision on this finding, which directs DHS to provide a methodology and timeline for utilizing the definition of “Indian Country” consistent with federal regulation. On August 28, 2015 DHS sent ACF a question and proposed a clarification on a way to achieve compliance with TANF regulations while also recognizing the Tribes’ restoration acts. While still awaiting a response from ACF, DHS requested an extension to the plan submission date. DHS submitted a plan of correction on September 25, 2015 that includes timeframes for achieving basic compliance beginning January 2016 and incorporates Oregon’s proposed clarification. The extension to the plan of correction was subsequently obtained on October 1, 2015.

Tribes were notified October 7, 2016 about the changes that will be implemented the last week of November. Staff received training in November and December 2016 and the full implementation of all changes will be January 1, 2017.

Revisit Prior Decisions Made During the Recession

This audit recommendation was directed at the Legislature and the Governor. The 2015 Legislative Assembly and Governor responded to this audit recommendation by passing HB 3535 and the DHS TANF budget, which together included close to $30 million in investments on behalf of TANF participants.

Study the Cost and Benefit of Raising Income Limits

During the 2015-17 budget development process the department studied the costs and benefits of raising the income limit for TANF participants who find work. HB 3535 along with the DHS TANF budget, both approved in July 2015, funded an increase in the TANF income limit at exit due to employment along with other supports for newly employed families. These policy changes were implemented in April 2016.

Consider More Flexibility when Re-Engaging Clients and Administering Sanctions

DHS worked with CBPP, FSRC, and DOJ to provide recommended statute amendment allowing more flexibility in the engagement and disqualification processes. The TANF Statute Change Briefing Sheet for HB 3535 included an amendment to address this concern. Section 2, Amendment 6 Request states the following:

“Adults in the TANF program will benefit from these statute modifications because the changes coupled with additional training for DHS staff will clarify that the re-engagement process is an opportunity to review whether the participant’s case plan is adequate. This change will also allow DHS to determine sanction levels in rule and provide for adjustments to changing circumstances. This change adds flexibility without losing the protections for clients that are already included in law. Administrative rules, policy, notices, and training will be modified to align with the statute change and the overall intent.”

Consider Authorizing Extended Benefit Holds and Reducing the Use of the Disqualification Process

A benefit hold pilot was conducted in 2013 within branches of D3. The pilot identified JOBS mandatory participants that either did not show to appointments to develop plans to move forward or who did not show to the activities themselves. Timely notices were required to advise participant of change in benefit delivery method, home visits were attempted, and if contact was made or no contact but ten days into the benefit period then benefits were released since a legal reduction/closure notice had not yet been sent. The pilot resulted in increasing the workload for staff and adding complexity to the process with the increased potential for error. It did not show increases in participation nor did it decrease re-engagement efforts. The Department decided to not explore this option further.

Explore Alternatives to Oregon’s State Clock Policy

The Department has worked with staff from Center on Budget and Policy Priorities (CBPP) and Department of Justice to include proposed language to the HB 3535 currently in front of the 2015 Legislative Assembly. In preparation for the HB 3535, many presentations were held with advocates and legislators to ensure full understanding of the policy and intentions being put forth.

The TANF Statute Change Briefing Sheet for HB 3535 included an amendment to address this concern. Section 2, Amendment 7 Request states the following:

“This change will provide more clarity for TANF participants about the number of months they have available in their time limit. This change also aligns with federal law regarding extensions beyond the time limit based on hardship. The extensions occur after 60 months of cash assistance have been provided. This change does not create one federal and state clock for past TANF receipt but provides better consistency of both clocks for new families in the program. In other words - assuming the change happens - there is a greater likelihood from the implementation date forward, of a new family having one single clock for time limit purposes.”

Rules are currently being implemented for April 1, 2016 to carry out the decisions made in HB 3535.

Consider Adding a Small-Scale Participation Incentive

In the summer and fall of 2014 a number of districts provided short-term incentives to help clients increase their engagement in the TANF program activities. Guidance for purchase and use of incentives was written and shared with staff in September 2014. It included items such as: gas vouchers and cards; retail store cards; donated gift certificates; donated detergent or other household needs; donated coffeehouse cards; and teen parent engagement baskets with donated items such as diapers and children's books. While districts reported these incentives showed improved engagement outcomes, this was discontinued due to budget constraints.

3. Child Care in Oregon: Difficult to Afford; New Regulations May Improve Safety but Further Raise Costs, audit #2014-25 (dated December 2014)

- Determine if an administrative rule or statutory change is required to allow ODE licensing staff to monitor unlicensed providers who serve children receiving subsidy and initiate the change process.

The Early Learning Division (ELD) and DHS pursued both statutory and administrative rule changes to allow for onsite monitoring of license-exempt providers who care for children on the subsidy program. Federal law requires that enforcement for monitoring begin no later than December 2016. Statutory authority in the form of a legislative concept was submitted by ELD to the Oregon State Legislature in the 2016 session.

Section 2 of HB 2015 amended ORS 417.728 to allow the Early Learning Division, Office of Child Care (OCC) to conduct on-site inspections for license exempt child care providers. H B2015 enrolled and OR Laws 2015 chapter 698 shows the amendment to ORS 417.728. The bill was signed July 20, 2015.

ORS 329A.505 provides authority for ODE Office of Child Care to conduct on-site inspections of license exempt child care providers required under federal law.

- Monitor and inform the HB 3330 committee of changes in the demand for fingerprinting services among providers to determine whether enough Fieldprint sites are available to meet the demand.

Both ELD and DHS will continue working with the Department of Administrative Services and the fingerprinting contractor to minimize the impact of the new statewide requirement for electronic fingerprints and the related federal rules taking effect in the next two to three years. DHS has representation on the HB 3330 committee and continues to work with the Department of Administrative Services and the fingerprinting contractor regarding availability of electronic fingerprint sites and changes in demand related to federal rules.

- Determine costs associated with the comprehensive background checks, inspections, and posting inspection reports online and develop strategies to minimize the burden on providers and families.

ELD and DHS will continue leading a Child Care Policy Reform Implementation Planning team to comprehensively evaluate and plan for the new rules. This will include determining costs as well as leveraging current efforts underway, such as the overhaul of the child care regulatory information system. This system will include license-exempt providers and the public will be able to access monitoring and compliance history and consumer education. Changes that create a fiscal impact are subject to collective bargaining through the two child care provider unions.

Planning is underway for implementation of background check changes as required by federal regulations beginning January 2017 by both agencies. The Background Check Unit – which is a DHS/OHA shared service – will have a Policy Option Package (POP) to help address processing costs for license exempt providers and reduce out of pocket costs for license exempt providers. ELD will have a POP to help address additional out of pocket costs for licensed providers.

- Consider tracking parents who stop receiving assistance and providers who stop providing care and the movement of providers between different types of regulated care, including those who migrate between licensed and unlicensed care, including those who migrate between licensed and unlicensed care settings.

DHS will consider implementation of a survey system to ascertain whether families stop receiving assistance due to the new regulations. Baseline information is under development. The survey is planned to begin after implementation of monitoring visits and increased health and safety training.

4. Department of Human Services: OR-Kids Financial System Problems, audit #2014-28 (dated December 2014)

This audit focused on one part of the OR-Kids computer system, the financial module, and we wanted to provide some additional context prior to discussing specific issues identified in the audit report.

The OR-Kids project converted data from paper files and seven disconnected systems used by the DHS Child Welfare program into a single Statewide Access Child Welfare Information System (SACWIS). OR-Kids provides important case management and data collection tools to meet Federal reporting requirements, as well as information to inform decision making and support for caseworkers' interaction with children, youth, and families through the life of a Child Welfare case.

This audit report confirmed many of the very issues the agency had been monitoring. In fact, the Oregon legislature, Governor's office and our federal partners were kept fully apprised of status and issues throughout OR-Kids development and rollout.

All complex technology systems have challenges – with data conversion, accuracy, interruptions in service, and other issues (small and large). However, the OR-Kids system itself, especially the child safety and foster care management modules, has allowed caseworkers consistent access to the system since go-live in 2011, with very little downtime – which was not true of the legacy systems it replaced.

Even before the system was launched, the agency was working to identify and prepare for technical and training issues, including those identified in this audit report. As the project rolled out, DHS leadership and project staff continued to closely monitor and adjust to address problems for providers and staff. The agency reallocated resources to address technical and process issues and ensure that corrective action and improvements were put in place.

Today, the OR-Kids system continues to work and provide the important support for child safety and business processes we expected when we launched more than three years ago.

A few of the benefits OR-Kids has delivered are listed below:

- All Child Welfare information is contained in a single state system;
- Workers can better screen reports of child abuse and neglect because more information is linked and can be quickly searched across files;
- OR-Kids has created efficiencies, through automated processes, that allow casework to take less time than in the old systems. Our most recent Workload Survey shows that workers are now spending more time with children and families than doing paperwork and multiple data entry;
- System is generating accurate information for federal and state reporting purposes, as well as for our new public foster care information site;
- More than 43,000 cases are managed each month by 3,200 users; and
- A total of $561 million has been processed and paid to 30,462 providers through the financial module of the OR-Kids system (about 1.5 million payment records).

We accept the recommendations in the audit report, and we have taken (and continue to take) steps to address the issues identified in the recommendations (as discussed below).

- We recommend the Department of Human Services closely review OR-Kids transactions and financial reports to ensure accuracy and appropriateness, and return any amounts owed for federal overcharges.

It should be noted that most of the funding errors occurred during a single data conversion event in which millions of payment records were converted to incorrect accounting codes.

Once the agency received its first comprehensive grant level remediation document (for transactions from August 2011 through December 2012), we put an estimate on the state accounting system to reimburse the federal government $23.3 million. The following two quarters' remediation estimate resulted in an additional $3.4 million adjustment. The final data conversation reconciliation was completed in December 2014, resulting in an approximate $500,000 final adjustment.

In June 2014, the agency also implemented a final permanent data fix on the remaining "untouched" converted cases thereby permanently fixing this data conversion issue. All adjustments related to this issue have now been made.

- We recommend the Department of Human Services make changes to the financial module to prevent it from claiming federal funding outside the two year period.

The OR-Kids system was not designed to disallow federal claiming outside the federal two-year limit. Therefore, the agency has been manually reducing these costs to ensure we do not charge the federal government for claims outside the allowable period.

The agency has a documented system change to resolve this issue and this change is in the queue for action. For now, we will continue to manually remove old transactions so that the federal government does not pay costs outside the two-year limit.

Planned changes will prevent the application of trust money to payments with service dates prior to January 1, 2008, prevent workers from being able to end a placement as "opened in error" when that placement has dates prior to January 1, 2008 and not allow reimbursement greater than two years in the past. A subsequent requirements gathering session occurred in October 2016. Due to the complicated financial information that must be considered, such as each grant requiring different rules and functionality, implementation of this change to production could take over a year. A business process and work around were created regarding placement corrections prior to January 1, 2008, to ensure these types of errors do not occur in the system.

- We recommend the Department of Human Services take steps to ensure a more robust supervisory review of transactions takes place.

The agency expects that the supervisory review of OR-Kids transactions will be a check and balance on potential human errors in working with the system, and we have taken several steps to increase the effectiveness of those reviews.

The Child Welfare program has done communications to case workers, as well as to supervisors and managers, about the importance of accuracy in the system. Those communications were followed up by approval and oversight trainings at the agency's Supervisor Quarterly meetings. As a further safeguard, technical staff placed a monetary cap on approved expenditures by service category to ensure that no large errors could be processed. The Office of Financial Services has also implemented a review of large transactions to ensure they are correct. The Office of Financial Services' process for review was completed July 2014.

Spending Limits were added to the OR-Kids services, causing medium edits to trigger and require manager override, when a payment record exceeds the spending limit for that specified service.

Since these controls were put in place, transaction errors have been better identified and corrected prior to payments being issued.

- We recommend the Department of Human Services address the security recommendations included in the confidential management letter.

The agency agrees with the recommendations in the Confidential Management Letter, and we are taking actions as addressed in our confidential response.

The access control issues were addressed in early 2015. Additional work has now been completed to monitor OR-Kids access.

5. DHS and OHA Statewide Single Audit Including Selected Financial Accounts for the Year Ended June 30, 2014, audit #2015-05 (dated April 2015)

- We recommend department management ensure its internal controls over its check receipting process are sufficient to ensure all checks are safeguarded, properly tracked and accounted for in the financial records.

The agency has implemented a new check receipting and reconciliation process. The OFS Receipting unit has overhauled the check scanning process and now images checks into On-Line Electronic Deposit (OED) immediately.

- We recommend department management implement system changes to OR-Kids to prevent transactions from reimbursing outside the period of availability. We also recommend management make appropriate corrections and adjustments to the accounting records to prevent the department from requesting federal reimbursement for expenditures incurred outside the period of availability.

The federal draws are reconciled at the end of each quarter to the total federal expenditures reported to Administration for Children and Families (ACF). Remediation adjustments were completed in December 2014. Revisions to all federal reports dating back to September 30, 2011 have been included as prior period adjustments on the June 30, 2015 report. Adjustments to the state accounting system were completed by September 30, 2015. We hope to have the OR-Kids system adjustment issue resolved by December 31, 2016.

Planned changes will prevent the application of trust money to payments with service dates prior to January 1, 2008, prevent workers from being able to end a placement as “opened in error” when that placement has dates prior to January 1, 2008 and not allow reimbursement greater than two years in the past. A subsequent requirements gathering session occurred in October 2016. Due to the complicated financial information that must be considered, such as each grant requiring different rules and functionality, implementation of this change to production could take over a year.

- We recommend department management implement and document processes to ensure quarterly CB-496 reports are complete, accurate, and adequately supported by the accounting records.

All documentation is currently being filed with the report, as well as saved electronically. A new reconciliation process is currently in place to ensure quarterly reports reconcile to the state accounting system.

The federal draws are reconciled at the end of each quarter to the total federal expenditures reported to Administration for Children and Families (ACF). Remediation adjustments were completed in December 2014. Revisions to all federal reports dating back to September 30, 2011 have been included as prior period adjustments on the June 30, 2015 report. Adjustments to the state accounting system were completed by September 30, 2015.

- We recommend department management ensure all required documentation is completed, reviewed, and maintained. We also recommend department management reimburse the federal agency for costs paid to the provider who was not certified at the time of payment.

The department participated in a Federal Title IV-E Foster Care review in July 2014. During that review, similar compliance issues were identified. The review required a submission of a Program improvement Plan (PIP). The PIP included changes to OR-Kids to ensure the Title IV-E specialist is able to accurately ascertain all required elements of the certification procedures are completed prior to determining a child is Title IV-E eligible and reimbursable. Federal Policy, Planning and Resources Unit will developed procedures for the Title IV-E Specialists to view criminal background check documentation, certificates and home studies to ensure the Title IV-E eligibility does not begin prior to the first of the month in which all the required certification procedures are completed.

The department submitted the Program Improvement Plan to the Administration for Children and Families and it was approved on June 24, 2015. The department must submit quarterly updates and the final report was submitted July 22, 2016.

The department completed training of the Title IV-E specialists on the proper procedures to view criminal background check documentation, certificates and home studies to ensure the Title IV-E eligibility is determined accurately. This training occurred at the Title IV-E Specialist Quarterly in February 2015. The department corrected the eligibility on the error case, and made subsequent adjustments for other children in the home.

An Action Transmittal was sent out to the field on June 15, 2016 with detailed processes the field and other agencies must follow until the OR-Kids modifications are implemented. The Title IV-E specialists received a training (via a conference call) in which the Action Transmittal was reviewed on June 16, 2016.

- We recommend department management ensure its methodology for allocating administrative costs to the Title IV-E Foster Care program is documented and adequately supported.

The Federal Policy, Planning and Resources (FPPR) manager worked with the Permanency Manager to review develop and document a method for allocating the administrative cost for contracts. The Federal Policy, Planning and Resources (FPPR) manager has identified all the contracts with unique methodology for allocating administrative costs. The FPPR manager completed an analysis to determine the appropriate funding methodology and make the necessary changes through the Office of Contracts and Procurement and the Office of Financial Services. The correct PCA and Index were provided to the support person for all contracts that continue to use an old funding methodology. All adoption contract invoices received after June 2016 should be processed with the correct PCA/Index.

- We recommend department management identify all causes of closed federal eligibility and improve its case management processes to ensure federal reimbursements are received for eligible cases. We also recommend department management re-open federal eligibility for all eligible cases that were incorrectly closed.

The department identified human error as the cause of most of the closed Title IV-E eligibility, and efforts began immediately to correct the eligibility on these cases. The Post Adoptions manager and the Title IV-E coordinator have a monthly report to monitor any new cases where Title IV-E eligibility closes in order to ensure proper federal reimbursement and to continue the analysis on why Title IV-E eligibility is closed. The Post Adoptions manager and Title IV-E coordinator work with OR-Kids business analysts if an OR-Kids deficiency is discovered. If an OR-Kids deficiency is discovered, appropriate actions are taken to fix the system.

The department completed the corrections in April 2015 and the total amount of federal reimbursement retroactively claimed in the 3rd quarter of Federal Fiscal Year 2015 was $4.3 million. The Post Adoptions manager monitors the monthly report for any cases where Title IV-E adoption assistance eligibility is closed when there is an active adoption assistance payment and ensures her staff corrects the eligibility to ensure appropriate and timely reimbursement of federal funds.

The department monitors OR-Kids Eligibility Status reports quarterly to ensure the “no eligibility” records remains low. The “no eligibility” records are errors and need to be corrected.

- We recommend department management continue to correct known applicable child eligibility data issues and develop a consistent process to identify and document applicable child eligibility to ensure data used to estimate the savings in state expenditures is accurate. Also, once clarification is received from the federal agency, department management should ensure applicable child eligibility is applied appropriately to prior cases and make any necessary corrections.

The department worked on cleaning up Adoptions Assistance Applicable Child eligibility based on our interpretation of the federal regulation specific to applicable child; however, based on the questions brought forward during last year's audit, we determined we needed clarification. The department requested assistance from Region X and we were told a program instruction was coming. The department waited to clean up the applicable child eligibility and finalize our methodology for calculating the applicable child savings until after we received this clarification

In May 2015 the department received the Children's Bureau policy instruction (ACFY-CB-PI-15-06), which outlined the requirements for calculating adoption savings related to applicable child eligibility. The PI confirmed that the changes in program eligibility criteria impacts only the number of children who, absent the applicable child criteria, would not be determined as title IV-E eligible for adoption assistance.

The department has opted to use "actual amounts" to track and calculate applicable child adoption savings. Requirements have been finalized for an updated OR-Kids determination that will allow us to track children who are eligible as applicable child only and children who are eligible based on their foster care episode and applicable child criteria. Completion of the new determination was estimated for March 2016. In the interim, we are utilizing the existing adoption assistance determination in the OR-Kids system to track those children who are title IV-E eligible as applicable child only. In June 2015 the department completed redetermination of approximately 1,000 adoption assistance determinations to clean-up data conversion errors impacting applicable child data.

The department has completed a significant manual cleanup of the Adoption Assistance eligibility determinations to accurately capture the children who are eligible for Adoption Assistance due to the "applicable child" criteria only. The FPPR unit is working with OR-Kids business analyst and the Office of Business Intelligence to identify any remaining children whose Adoption Assistance IV-E eligibility does not accurately reflect why the child is eligible for Title IV-E adoption assistance. Based on the data provided by

OR-Kids business analyst, the IV-E specialists and IV-E Program Coordinator completed the clean-up in September 2016.

OR-Kids Business Analysts and FPPR Policy Analysts have designed the necessary changes in order to document that a child is eligible for Title IV-E adoption assistance when they are eligible for by meeting both eligibility criteria (traditional adoption assistance eligibility rules and applicable child rules). Currently the system allows us to document one or the other, therefore we can accurately track and calculate our Adoptions Applicable Child Savings. Due to other competing priorities implementing these changes into the system will be delayed until 2017.

- We recommend department and authority management strengthen controls to ensure sufficient documentation is maintained to demonstrate compliance with federal requirements, support for payment amounts and income is retained, and the client liability is calculated accurately.

The department continues working within our programs to ensure these requirements are shared with staff and continued to be followed appropriately. Since the period of time covered by the audit, DHS Self-Sufficiency field offices have been in the process of moving toward electronic case files as part of our EDMS Expansion project.

As part of this effort, in November 2014 an all-staff transmittal was issued identifying the standardized data capture elements for offices that have moved to electronic case files. This standardization assists in locating documentation in EDMS. Additionally, DHS Self-Sufficiency field offices were also provided with refresher tools on archiving to help in documenting which case files and time frames are shipped to Archives to be scanned.

APD has completed the roll out of the EDMS Expansion and all files are in the process of being converted to electronic format. Training was completed in every field office and AAA throughout the state. It is believed that having files in electronic format will ensure that eligibility documentation is not lost and will be easier to locate when needed.

APD offices have completed training and roll out of the EDMS system for client eligibility documentation. The program continues to remind staff and managers of the importance of maintaining client documentation through staff meetings and “In the Loop” newsletter articles.

- We recommend department management strengthen controls to ensure documentation supporting a provider’s eligibility determination is retained. For current providers with missing documentation, we recommend the department verify they are eligible to provide services.

The department’s Aging and People with Disabilities (APD) and Office of Developmental Disability Services (ODDS) Provider Relations Unit has taken steps to require the submission of provider enrollment agreements and other items necessary to ensure provider eligibility determination when processing new, reenrolling, and revalidating providers. There are exceptions for some specific providers where the provider eligibility documentation is maintained in the field and only a portion of the provider validation is completed by the Provider Relations Unit. For those specific providers with documentation maintained in the field, APD and ODDS management reminded local office managers of the necessity to retain the provider eligibility documentation within their provider files.

The department has completed the database checks on the eleven providers mentioned in the finding. The department also verified the eligibility of the five providers identified with missing provider enrollment agreements. The department has taken the necessary steps to revalidate or close the associated provider numbers. Three of these providers have current provider agreements and are eligible to provide services. Two other providers are no longer providing services. We have made adjustments in our accounting system to return the federal funding for these two providers for the enrollment period.

The Provider Relations Unit has participated in multiple education and outreach sessions addressing the provider enrollment validation process including program manager meetings, licenser trainings, and ODDS plan of care conference calls reminding local staff and managers of the need to retain the provider eligibility documentation within their provider files.

The department's Aging and People with Disabilities (APD) and Office of Developmental Disability Services (ODDS) continues to work within our programs to ensure the provider eligibility documentation held by our field offices is retained. The record retention requirements have been communicated to the management of the field offices responsible for retaining provider eligibility documentation not otherwise submitted to the Provider Relations Unit.

APD continues to remind field staff of the importance of gathering and maintaining all required documentation for provider eligibility, including the completion of all relevant database checks. This topic is covered at District Program Manager meetings, supervisor meetings, and through articles in the APD newsletter. Gathering of specific documentation related to the findings was completed in October 2016.

- We recommend management develop a plan based on current resources to ensure the timely completion of provider health and safety standard surveys for nursing facilities.

Oregon has a long history of meeting the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) performance standards related to surveying facilities in fewer than 15.9 months. The Nursing Facility Licensing Unit is dedicated to bringing our CMS performance standard back into compliance and we anticipate reaching compliance in early 2016.

Over the past four years various staffing resource issues, such as the position freeze and mandatory furloughs, have significantly affected our ability to complete our work timely. In fact, our vacancy rate for surveyors reached 34% by the end of the freeze.

Implementation of the CMS Quality Indicator Survey (QIS) process also contributed to our failure to meet the CMS performance standards. In addition to the general difficulties inherent in a new process and system, it increased our required survey team size (particularly for small facilities) for a period of time, increased training requirements, and lengthened total survey time during the implementation period.

Over the past few years we have implemented several continuous improvement activities that have resulted in efficiency gains to the survey process, in turn reducing the amount of time it takes to survey facilities. Those efficiencies have resulted in a significant reduction in new surveyor training time.

We have made efforts to minimize survey-related travel and made reductions in report writing time. We have implemented an electronic document workflow process, streamlined our report review process to facilitate a faster turnaround time between surveys, and provided provider training on how they can prepare for and assist with the survey process. Since January 2013 we have hired 19 new surveyors. However, we have had 16 surveyors leave in the same time period due to retirements, promotional opportunities, competition with private industry related to salary, and surveyors not demonstrating skills needed to make it through trial service.

During the last few years, we also assessed the survey and training teams to optimize production, optimized survey and surveyor turnaround time, evaluated utilization of CMS approved survey contractor to help us complete surveys and evaluated our surveyor recruitment process to enable us to reach better and more qualified applicants. We have also begun brought retired and resigned surveyors back on a temporary basis to perform surveys.

All surveys conducted were less than 15.9 months since August 15, 2015, in compliance with federal requirements.

- We recommend department management strengthen controls to ensure adherence to department policy and procedure regarding documentation of participation, projection of hours of participation, and to ensure data entered into the automated data processing system is accurate and complete.

Work Verification Plan reviews (also known as the JOBS Audits) are currently conducted annually. A summary of audit results is shared statewide.

Our internal Federal Data group identified two systems issues that contributed to the conflicting data in the findings. Both are being addressed by programmers and business analysts in conjunction with TANF Program. These fixes will be programmed and reflected for FY 2015 data.

The department's usage of the Electronic Document Management System along with the standardized filing method, implemented in phases beginning October 2015, has reduced the potential for lost documentation.

The department submitted a revised Work Verification Plan with an effective date of July 1, 2016. During the month of July 2016, a workgroup consisting of policy and program staff from around the state met to discuss a complete overhaul of the Work Verification Plan to be effective with the October 1, 2016 effective date. The new format will include more details around matters of benefit conversion and ongoing eligibility documentation. In addition to increased documents and published tools for staff, the policy unit staff now send regular emails several times each month focusing on participation issues that has been identified as needing further explanation. These emails are distributed to the front-line staff and leadership as a means to help guide conversations in the field in regards to participation and program accuracy. The topics for the emails are identified through case reviews, questions submitted to the policy unit, and questions frequently asked during training.

- We recommend department management ensure verification of income with IEVS screens is clearly documented in client case files when determining client eligibility.

The department has made great strides to improve the awareness and knowledge of this requirement to field staff.

The department held statewide accuracy and case management summits, at which time this topic was discussed to build awareness. An Action Request Transmittal was sent in October 2014 to clarify expectations and provide guidelines and examples of necessary narrations to support that IEVS screens were indeed checked. The summits were followed up by a policy transmittal in November 2014 of all the Questions and Answers which allowed an additional reminder to be visible statewide. December 2014 allowed the “On Target” to put an article on the front page to keep the importance on the radar.

TANF Quality Assurance reviews revised their criteria in January 2015 to add IEVS as a specific element for review. This raises awareness in a way that requires follow up and corrections to be made.

In February, the department implemented a systems support in the form of an “IEVS checked” box on the TRACS narrative systems and sent a Policy Transmittal in on February 27, 2015.

These cited efforts at education, awareness, and systems support constitute the corrective action plan for this finding.

- We recommend department management ensure complete and accurate client information is used to compile the quarterly data reports.

The department agrees that the data populating the ACF-199 and ACF-209 reports need to be as accurate and complete as possible. A team of Office of Information Services (OIS), Office of Business Intelligence (OBI), Self-Sufficiency Business Analysts, and Self-Sufficiency Program (SSP) staff meets weekly to address known or presenting data quality issues for these federal reports. Significant progress has been achieved to increase the data accuracy and completeness of these reports. This includes resolving several of the items listed in this audit findings report. DHS recognizes that a continued effort is still necessary in order to resolve known data quality and data completeness issues.

It was identified that the programming that applies the data set to the month of assistance was not aligned and caused future codings to reflect as sanctions or programs before their actual effective date. Specifically related to the sanctions, a data collection fix was implemented and will be reflected in data transmitted from March 1, 2015 forward.

Additional errors related to complete hours (including excused and holiday) not transmitting as recorded in TRACS has been identified and should be fixed for FY 2015 data.

A team consisting of Child Welfare Business Analyst, OBI, Self-Sufficiency Business Analysts, Programmers, and Program have been working to refine the requirements and data extraction coding for the data needed from the Child Welfare case management system. Progress was made to correctly identify the population needed in the federal reports.

As of June 2015, Child Welfare cases are included in the TANF federal reports. Action was taken on all categories identified in this finding including the duplicate case issue identified in the data submitted on the ACF-209 and the inclusion of TANF funded child welfare cases in the ACF-199. Programming changes to address the problem with reporting duplicate cases were made and the changes were incorporated with the data submitted for FY 2014 forward.

- We recommend the department seek a conclusion from the federal government to ensure five-year time limit monthly exemptions are being appropriately applied in accordance with federal regulations.

The department agrees that a conclusion should be sought on the time limit exemption associated to Indian Country. The department has followed the advice from the Administration for Children and Families (ACF) by consulting with the local Bureau of Indian Affairs, as well as the Department of Interior, Office of the Solicitor. The department also consulted with Oregon Tribes, three of which submitted letters affirming the State's current interpretation of Indian Country.

The department sought validation from ACF that the current interpretation of Indian Country used by the department for the purposes of time limits falls within the realm permissible by federal law.

On March 31, 2015 ACF issued a decision on this finding which directs the department to provide a methodology and timeline for utilizing the definition of "Indian Country" consistent with federal regulation. The department has been consulting with Oregon Tribes through the Department of Justice on a way to address their concerns.

On August 28, 2015 the department sent ACF a question and proposed a clarification on a way to achieve compliance with TANF regulations while also recognizing the Tribes' restoration acts. While still awaiting a response from ACF, the department submitted a plan of correction on September 25, 2015 that included timeframes for achieving basic compliance beginning January 2015. The plan also incorporated Oregon's proposed clarification.

The extension to the plan of correction was subsequently obtained on October 1, 2015. The department has now completed the consultation process with Oregon's recognized tribes and ACF. The planned implementation date for all changes is January 1, 2017. Tribes were notified October 7, 2016 about the changes that will be implemented the last week of November. Staff received training in November and December of 2016 and the full implementation of all changes will be January 1, 2017.

- We recommend management determine the amount of interest owed to the federal government for Medicaid and CHIP and ensure clearance patterns in the draw calculation spreadsheet are updated annually to reflect any changes in the CMIA agreement.

We determined the amount of interest owed and included it with our interest spreadsheet which was sent to the Oregon Department of Administrative Services on December 1, 2015. The accountant has put on the calendar a reminder to update the check clearance pattern percent and has also put a note in the spreadsheet to update.

- We recommend the department update the cost allocation plans to reflect current practices and ensure future changes are communicated timely.

Historically, the agency submitted biennial updates to the cost allocation plan and submitted changes to the plan annually when significant changes were made. There were no significant modifications to the plan during the last year so an update was not submitted to the Division of Cost Allocation.

The agency agrees that updates to the plan should be submitted annually, even if no changes are made. Further, the agency is currently communicating with the Division of Cost Allocation for guidance on their process for the submission of amendments to the public assistance cost allocation plans regarding mid-year modifications.

Due to changes in the organizational structure of OHA, our update of the OHA PACAP was delayed until July 2016. The current biennium cost allocation plan was submitted for review in July 2016 and is awaiting a response from DCA.

- We recommend department management ensure client's monthly copay is correctly calculated and client's income documentation is maintained.

Four cases were identified for incorrect copay calculation. Two of the cases cited were due to using medical income instead of the calculated child care income (audit sample months were August and October of 2013). During these sample months, workers were calculating income for medical and child care at the same time. We anticipate this will not be an ongoing issue because Self Sufficiency workers stopped determining medical eligibility in December 2013. The remaining two cases cited were due to conversions between TANF and ERDC.

Self Sufficiency field offices are in the process of moving toward electronic case files as part of our EDMS Expansion project. In November 2014, a transmittal was issued identifying the standardized data capture elements for offices that have moved to electronic case files to assist in locating documentation in EDMS.

Program provided a copy of On-Target Newsletter, Policy Transmittal, April Self Sufficiency Supervisor Agenda and May 2015 SSP Field Leadership Update, which addressed the need to correctly determine copays when transitioning from TANF to ERDC.

Additional communications will be sent to department field staff and trainers for the Employment Related Day Care (ERDC) program identifying methods to prevent copay calculation errors. Child care policy staff will work with the Direct Pay Unit staff to develop a process to address situations when a copay is not being met and there are multiple providers involved.

The Self-Sufficiency Program (SSP) field offices were still in the process of moving toward electronic case files as part of our Electronic Document Management System (EDMS) expansion project. This should assist the department in locating documentation in EDMS in the future. A gradual statewide rollout of the new procedures related to electronic document management of customer documents and standardized data capture began in October 2015. By January 2016, all SSP offices completed training and started using the new procedures.

A transmittal was issued June 15, 2016 to inform field staff of the error reasons resulting in incorrect copay calculations and policy reminders/tips to prevent these errors. The transmittal also included additional tips to increase accuracy in the ERDC program.

Child care policy staff continue to work with the Direct Pay Unit staff to develop a process to address situations when a copay is not being met and there are multiple providers involved.

A focused internal review of ERDC cases is planned to improve the accuracy rate. The review team will include ERDC policy analysts, local branch staff, and reviewers from Quality Assurance (QA) and Quality Control (QC). This will help to review a higher number of cases and make corrective actions on any cases found in error.

- We recommend department management ensure branch offices are aware of and follow the established procedures for securing EBT cards.

Self Sufficiency Program Office Managers and Business Experts received the Financial Training for Managers, focusing on Electronic Benefit Transfer (EBT) card security and managing RACF access, in May 2014. In addition, a communication was sent to office leadership in June 2014, regarding the importance of securing EBT cards and following the policy outlined in the Field Business Procedures Manual for monthly inventory.

The Financial Training for Managers was converted to a webinar format and was delivered live to Self-Sufficiency, Child Welfare and Aging and People with Disabilities management on December 23, 2014, February 11, 2015 and February 12, 2015. A webinar, The Financial Training for Manager, was recorded and posted to the Learning Center on May 19, 2015.

There were 19 sessions of the Financial Desk Training that took place in various locations across the state between September 23, 2015 and November 9, 2015. This training will be offered as needed for new staff in the future.

In order to ensure that this training has been implemented throughout all Self Sufficiency, Aging and People with Disability and Area Agency on Aging (AAA) branch offices across the state, Central Office will provide monitoring between April 1, 2016 and July 31, 2016.

APD has monitored the Financial Desk Training course and determined that all APD and AAA branches have completed the training. Self Sufficiency has taken corrective action and completed branch office monitoring at the end of July 2016.

- We recommend department management ensure its review process identifies transactions charged to a grant award outside the period of availability.

The agency has previously reviewed all documents at a detail level except for entries being processed through our cost allocation system. Now, all transactions, regardless of source, are reviewed to ensure expenditures were incurred during the period of availability.

OFS provided evidence to show that adjustments were made to take cost allocation expenditures out of FY 2014 and charge them to the appropriate period.

- We recommend department management improve its review process by considering implementing a more in depth review, ensuring critical formulas cannot be modified and providing training to staff.

The additional check digits were added and training done prior to the original response date. A review of the process found that the review was generally effective. However, protecting critical formulas was problematic. Periodic management or peer reviews to ensure the critical formulas remain in place has been added to the review process.

6. DHS and OHA: Statewide Single Audit Including Selected Financial Accounts and Federal Awards for the Year Ended June 30, 2015, audit #2016-09 (dated April 2016)

- Recommend department management ensure that adequate documentation is retained to demonstrate controls are operating as intended to ensure that expenditures are paid at proper rates.

The Office of Financial Services has developed a “System Update Tracking Sheet” as documentation when federal funding split codes rate changes are updated or modified in systems. The tracking sheet was implemented with the federal rate changes effective October 1, 2015.

- Recommend department management consider the financial statement impact resulting from adjustments or entries made in underlying coding to ensure amounts are properly reported.

To ensure the agency receives the accrual transaction information timely; the Statewide Financial Reporting unit has updated its accrual procedure to include instructions to request the accrual information before July 1 with the year-end task list, and then to check back for this information no later than August 1. To ensure the accrual review will include an analysis of the financial impact, a section has been added to accrual procedures to include review at the comptroller and rollup GAAP object level.

- Recommend department management review OR-Kids transaction processing and make system modifications as appropriate to ensure proper financial reporting of program expenditures. We also recommend department management review prior year and current year transactions and reimburse the federal agency for grant expenditures claimed inappropriately.

Change requests have been written to correct the OR-Kids system issues identified. These changes will ensure the correct split group is selected when refinancing historic transactions, allow placement corrections in a different age group for a child when they've aged into the next age group, change the eligibility batch to consider eligibility dates that occur after the TPR date, and ensure correct PCAs are charged by grant phase so accurate reporting to SFMA of the expenditure of federal funds will occur.

- Recommend department management implement system changes to OR-Kids to prevent transactions from reimbursing outside the period of performance. Recommend management make appropriate corrections and adjustments to the accounting records to prevent the department from requesting federal reimbursement for expenditures incurred outside the period of performance.

Planned changes will prevent the application of trust money to payments with service dates prior to January 1, 2008, prevent workers from being able to end a placement as "opened in error" when that placement has dates prior to January 1, 2008 and not allow reimbursement greater than two years in the past. A subsequent requirements gathering session occurred in October 2016. Due to the complicated financial information that must be considered, such as each grant requiring different rules and functionality, implementation of this change to production could take over a year.

- Recommend department management ensure all required documentation is completed, reviewed, and maintained and ensure client eligibility is terminated timely, as well as clarify and document whether the home study must be signed by the supervisor for a provider to be certified. Also recommend that department management reimburse the federal agency for costs paid related to the ineligible child and provider.

The Federal Policy, Planning and Resources unit provided a refresher training for Title IV-E eligibility specialists on February 25, 2016. This training included an overview of OR-Kids eligibility reports and recommended strategies for utilizing them to manage workload and support timely redeterminations.

The department was required to complete our Program Improvement Plan (PIP). The final PIP report was submitted July 22, 2016. The PIP is the result of a Federal Title IV-E Foster Care review in July 2014, in which Oregon was found not to be in substantial compliance with Title IV-E Foster Care regulations. The majority of the PIP is regarding how to improve the documentation of background check information and implementing a quality assurance process for monitoring certification.

The department submitted a significant design change to the OR-Kids provider module that will require that the home study and all background checks have an approval date prior to the foster care home becoming fully certified. This will be supported by an enhancement to the Foster Care Certification check list in which the OR-Kids functionality on this page will enforce compliance with rule and policy through system edits preventing system approval of a certificate unless required pieces of work have been entered. This will help drive appropriate certification practice. Included as part of the PIP, the department is developing a training plan to ensure successful implementation of the changes in OR-Kids and the certification rules.

The OR-Kids changes are scheduled to be deployed in the end of 2016. In order to be in compliance with the Title IV-E and close Child Welfare's Title IV-E Program Improvement Plan DHS Child Welfare implemented an interim plan to ensure background checks are completed and approved prior to claiming Title IV-E foster care maintenance. Effective June 15, 2016 the background check approvals must be scanned and uploaded to OR-Kids. The Title IV-E eligibility specialist will review the background check approval documentation and will not determine a child eligible for Title IV-E prior to the approval dates. An Action Transmittal was sent out to the field on June 15, 2016 with detailed processes the field and other agencies must follow until the OR-Kids modifications are implemented. The Title IV-E specialists received a training (via a conference call) in which the Action Transmittal was reviewed on June 16, 2016.

Prior year eligibility corrections were completed for the child associated with the payment sample, however the department did not correct the eligibility for other children placed in the provider home during the ineligible period. The department has now corrected eligibility for those additional children.

- Recommend department management ensure its methodology for allocating administrative costs to the Title IV-E Foster Care program is documented and adequately supported, and also ensure that coding is correct and up-to-date in the accounting system. We also recommend department management reimburse the federal agency for unallowable costs.

The department has identified all the contracts with unique funding methodologies for allocating administrative costs and determined the appropriate funding methodology. The Federal Policy, Planning and Resources manager worked with Office of Financial Services to change the funding on the contracts and make the appropriate adjustments. In June 2016, the department changed the funding structure for all Adoptions Unit contracts to be consistent. All of the contracts now report to the Child Welfare design cost allocation funding structure.

- Recommend department management ensure payments are reviewed and approved properly to ensure appropriate payments to providers. Also recommend department management reimburse the federal agency for unallowable costs.

The OR-Kids team will review the transactions in the finding. Once the issue is identified, we will either initiate a change request to resolve the identified issues in the system, or if unrelated to the system, refer the issue to others within the department based on the suspected cause. The agency will review and correct any unallowable costs as necessary.

- Recommend department management document the methodology used to review maintenance payment rates for continuing appropriateness, including a specific, time-limited schedule for review.

The department will institute this requirement into the Oregon Administrative Rules set 413-090-0005 thru 0050. Foster Care Payments for a Child or Young Adult Living with a Certified Family or Living Independently. The intention is to review these rates every two years (odd years) though the department budget preparation processes for Governor's Recommended Budgets, which are due in the fall of the odd number years.

- Recommend department management ensure all required documentation is completed, reviewed, and maintained. Also recommended is that department management reimburse the federal agency for costs paid to the ineligible provider.

The department was required to complete our Program Improvement Plan (PIP). The final report was submitted July 22, 2016. The PIP is the result of a Federal Title IV-E Foster Care review in July 2014, in which Oregon was found not to be in substantial compliance with Title IV-E Foster Care regulations. The majority of the PIP is regarding how to improve the documentation of background check information and implementing a quality assurance process for monitoring certification.

The department submitted a significant design change to the OR-Kids provider module that will require all background checks have an approval date prior to the foster care home becoming fully certified. Another part of the design is an enhancement to the Foster Care Certification check list in which the OR-Kids functionality on this page will support rule and policy, which will help drive appropriate certification practice. As part of the PIP, the department is developing a training plan to ensure successful implementation of the changes in OR-Kids and the certification rules.

The OR-Kids changes are scheduled to be deployed in the end of 2016. In order to be in compliance with the Title IV-E and close Child Welfare's Title IV-E Program Improvement Plan DHS Child Welfare implemented an interim plan to ensure background checks are completed and approved prior to claiming Title IV-E foster care maintenance. Effective June 15, 2016 the background check approvals must be scanned and uploaded to OR-Kids. The Title IV-E eligibility specialist will review the background check approval documentation and will not determine a child eligible for Title IV-E prior to the approval dates. An Action Transmittal was sent out to the field on June 15, 2016 with detailed processes the field and other agencies must follow until the OR-Kids modifications are implemented. The Title IV-E specialists received a training (via a conference call) in which the Action Transmittal was reviewed on June 16, 2016.

- Recommend department management continue to correct known "applicable child" eligibility data issues in OR-Kids to ensure data used to estimate the savings in state expenditures is complete and accurate.

The department had completed a significant manual cleanup of the Adoption Assistance eligibility determinations to accurately capture the children who are eligible for Adoption Assistance due to the "applicable child" criteria only. Prior to the audit sample being pulled, the Federal Policy, Planning and Resources (FPPR) unit was working the eligibility specialists to continue the cleanup of the eligibility data, including the "applicable child" cleanup. The FPPR unit is working with OR-Kids business analyst and the Office of Business Intelligence to identify any remaining children whose Adoption Assistance IV-E eligibility does not accurately reflect why the child is eligible for Title IV-E adoption assistance. Based on the data provided by OR-Kids business analyst, the IV-E specialists and IV-E Program Coordinator completed the clean-up in September 2016.

OR-Kids Business Analysts and FPPR Policy Analysts have designed the necessary changes in order to document that a child is eligible for Title IV-E adoption assistance when they are eligible for by meeting both eligibility criteria (traditional adoption assistance eligibility rules and applicable child rules). Currently the system allows us to document one or the other, therefore we can accurately track and calculate our Adoptions Applicable Child Savings. Due to other competing priorities implementing these changes into the system will be delayed until 2017.

- Recommend department management strengthen controls to ensure documentation supporting a provider's eligibility determination is retained. For current providers with missing documentation, recommend the department verify they are eligible to provide services.

The department's Aging and People with Disabilities (APD) and Office of Developmental Disability Services (ODDS) continues to work within our programs to ensure the provider eligibility documentation held by our field offices is retained. The record retention requirements will be communicated to the management of the field offices responsible for retaining provider eligibility documentation not otherwise submitted to the Provider Relations Unit.

The department verified the eligibility by obtaining a new provider enrollment agreement and I-9 form for the one provider missing both documents. For the three providers only missing their I-9s, the department verified their eligibility by obtaining the I-9 forms. For the one provider missing their background check and the two providers missing evidence of two of the required federal database checks, corrective actions from prior audit responses have been implemented that require verification of criminal history checks and maintenance of the required database checks completed at the time of enrollment, reenrollment and revalidation. All three of these providers were confirmed eligible to provide services.

- Recommend department and authority management strengthen controls to ensure sufficient documentation is maintained to demonstrate compliance with federal requirements and the client liability is calculated accurately.

The department's Aging and People with Disabilities office will remind their managers and staff of the policies, appropriate documentation and retention of applications needed to determine eligibility for our program. These reminders will be agenda items for the APD Program Managers meeting, the APD Supervisors meeting and will be included in an "In the Loop" newsletter article.

The department researched and has taken action on the nine cases with missing applications. For these cases, either an application has been obtained by the office, a current application was found on file, or the client is now deceased. We will also explore best practices to help better document evidence of redeterminations being completed in a timely manner.

In relation to the eligibility coding error identified in the finding, the authority was actively working to renew the individual's benefits. The renewal was completed and benefits closed August 31, 2015. The authority will return the identified questioned costs to the federal government.

The department has returned the federal funds for the one client identified in the finding where the client liability was calculated using an incorrect income.

- Recommend management strengthen controls to ensure only allowable costs are paid for at appropriate federal funding participation rates.

The Office of Financial Services has a process to cross check the documentation provided by program staff to ensure the appropriate transfer has been completed. The agency is also working on a process to automate this transfer within the MMIS system.

A coding matrix was developed to allow users to select the correct coding for the allowable expenditures.

For noted transaction errors corrective action was developed and is in operation at this time. A new agreement is being negotiated. Adjustments were made to ensure correct federal funding.

- We recommend management develop a security plan that addresses all federally required components, develop and implement a formalized risk analysis program, and ensure system security reviews are conducted timely for all applicable systems involved in the administration of the Medicaid program.

We agree the Department of Human Services and Oregon Health Authority have not completed all the elements of a formal ADP risk analysis and security review of the Medicaid systems. However, as we have previously communicated, the agencies have traditionally relied on third-party assessments such as SOC 1, Type 2 reports, audits from Office of Inspector General, Secretary of State, and the Enterprise Security Office's Annual Information Systems Business Risk Assessment report to provide this information. Security control assessment is included in these assessments. Vulnerability assessment scans of the MMIS system software are periodically performed at least every three years or whenever major changes are made to the system. The last vulnerability assessment took place in September 2016.

We use these audits and reports, as well as leveraging reports from the Privacy and Incident Response section, to assist in that determination. While not strictly a formal risk assessment per se, it does provide an analysis of controls from both a system as well as program perspective. In addition, Information Security and Privacy Office (ISPO) staff have conducted physical security walk-throughs of the State Data Center where the MMIS production servers are located.

An information security risk assessment was conducted by the Information Security and Privacy Office (ISPO) on the Provider Services and Provider Enrollment units of Division of Medical Assistance programs (DMAP), which administers the Medicaid program for the State of Oregon. The risk assessment was completed in March 2015. In January 2015, the Oregon Health Authority began an agency-wide restructure. As a result of this major restructure and transitional projects, further ISPO-conducted risk assessments were postponed. We also agree that we need to develop a formal risk assessment and security review program based in industry standards and best practices that assesses risks for programs as a whole and not on a system-by-system basis.

- Recommend management develop a plan based on current resources to ensure the timely completion of provider health and safety standard surveys for nursing facilities.

Oregon has a long history of meeting the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) performance standards related to surveying facilities in fewer than 15.9 months. The Nursing Facility Licensing Unit is dedicated to bringing our CMS performance standard back into compliance and we anticipate reaching compliance in early 2016.

Oregon has a long history of meeting the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) performance standards related to surveying facilities in fewer than 15.9 months. The Nursing Facility Licensing Unit is dedicated to bringing our CMS performance standard back into compliance.

Over the past few years various staffing resource issues, such as the position freeze and mandatory furloughs, have significantly affected our ability to complete our work timely. In fact, our vacancy rate for surveyors reached 34% by the end of the freeze.

Implementation of the CMS Quality Indicator Survey (QIS) process also contributed to our failure to meet the CMS performance standards. In addition to the general difficulties inherent in a new process and system, it increased our required survey team size (particularly for small facilities) for a period of time, increased training requirements, and lengthened total survey time during the implementation period.

Over the past few years we have implemented several continuous improvement activities that have resulted in efficiency gains to the survey process, in turn reducing the amount of time it takes to survey facilities. Those efficiencies have resulted in a significant reduction in new surveyor training time. We have made efforts to minimize survey-related travel and made reductions in report writing time. We have implemented an electronic document workflow process, streamlined our report review process to facilitate a faster turnaround time between surveys, and provided provider training on how they can prepare for and assist with the survey process. Since January 2013 we have hired 19 new surveyors. However, we have had 16 surveyors leave in the same time period due to retirements, promotional opportunities, competition with private industry related to salary, and surveyors not demonstrating skills needed to make it through trial service.

As of August 15, 2015, all surveys conducted were less than 15.9 months and will continue to be less than 15.9 months going forward.

- Recommend department management ensure a client's monthly copay is correctly calculated and a client's application, income and special needs rate documentation is maintained. Additionally, department management should develop a process to identify when the copay is not being met when multiple providers are used.

Communications will be sent to department field staff and trainers for the Employment Related Day Care (ERDC) program identifying methods to prevent copay calculation errors. Child care policy staff will work with the Direct Pay Unit staff to develop a process to address situations when a copay is not being met and there are multiple providers involved.

During this audit period, the Self-Sufficiency Program (SSP) field offices were still in the process of moving toward electronic case files as part of our Electronic Document Management System (EDMS) expansion project. In November 2014 a transmittal was issued identifying the standardized data capture elements for offices that have moved to electronic case files. This should assist the department in locating documentation in EDMS in the future. A gradual statewide rollout of the new procedures related to electronic document management of customer documents and standardized data capture began in October 2015. By January 2016, all SSP offices completed training and started using the new procedures.

A transmittal was issued June 15, 2016 to inform field staff of the error reasons resulting in incorrect copay calculations and policy reminders/tips to prevent these errors. The transmittal also included additional tips to increase accuracy in the ERDC program.

A focused internal review of ERDC cases is planned to improve the accuracy rate. The review team will include ERDC policy analysts, local branch staff, and reviewers from Quality Assurance (QA) and Quality Control (QC). This will help to review a higher number of cases and make corrective actions on any cases found in error.

Child care policy staff continue to work with the Direct Pay Unit staff to develop a process to address situations when a copay is not being met and there are multiple providers involved.

- Recommend department management strengthen controls to ensure adherence to department policy and procedure regarding documentation of participation and projection of hours of participation, and to ensure data entered into the automated data processing system is accurate and complete.

In reviewing the six cited exceptions from this year's audit findings the department will need to focus on systems fixes, increased guidance on calculating verified work hours, and improving our processes for receiving and retaining documentation.

The TANF policy unit will gather an internal Federal Data group to research the errors and identify root cause(s), with the intent to establish corrective actions to focus on either preventing or detecting and correcting processing errors. This team drafted a plan in November 2016. Our cross-functional TANF program integrity group will continue to identify ways to train, coach, and review field staff work related to the calculation of work hours. Special attention will be focused on conversion of hours based on pay schedules, which resulted in two of the six errors cited.

Work Verification Plan training is updated in the training that is provided to staff and includes information on JOBS hours and how to calculate and enter information on TRACS. Monthly emails are being developed to share with field staff through local meetings and staff huddles, however this information has not yet been distributed.

The errors associated with inadequate documentation were due to a lost pay stub from a file transfer between branches and the use of annualizing income based on income tax documentation. The department's usage of the Electronic Document Management System along with the standardized filing method, implemented in phases beginning October 2015, has reduced the potential for lost documentation.

The department submitted a revised Work Verification Plan with an effective date of July 1, 2016. During the month of July 2016, a workgroup consisting of policy and program staff from around the state met to discuss a complete overhaul of the Work Verification Plan to be effective October 1, 2016. The new format will include more details around matters of benefit conversion and ongoing eligibility documentation. In addition to increased documents and published tools for staff, the policy unit staff now send regular emails several times each month focusing on participation issues that has been identified as needing further explanation. These emails are distributed to the front-line staff and leadership as a means to help guide conversations in the field in regards to participation and program accuracy. The topics for the emails are identified through case reviews, questions submitted to the policy unit, and questions frequently asked during training.

- Recommend department management ensure the report accurately reflects the activity of the reporting period.

The department agrees that the data populating the ACF-199 and ACF-209 reports need to be as accurate and complete as possible. Currently, the Federal Data Group meets as needed to review summary reports and any quality issues that have been identified. This group already has programming underway to address all sanction types and to ensure this alignment with sanction and effective date is rectified.

The data used for the transmission of ACF-199 and ACF-209 uses the months on TANF as indicated on an end of month file. Using this data causes the reports to be inaccurate by underreporting time on TANF by one month. The Federal Data group is working on how to capture and align the full months on TANF prior to transmitting the data for the reports.

An identified error in the ACF-209 related to the “type of family for work participation” has been researched by programmers and the available data within CMS and TDRS have been used to their fullest. The need to inform and train staff in regard to coding parent fields is necessary to identify two-parent cases. Trainings and policy have been updated to include the importance of parental coding.

The Federal Data group is still researching ways to ensure duplicate individuals are not included in the reports. This group will develop a corrective action plan with the goal of transmitting the FFY 2016 data without this duplication.

- Recommend the department comply with the directive from DHHS and work with DHHS to resolve the different interpretations of the federal requirements for the TANF program.

The department agrees that working with DHHS to resolve the different interpretations of the federal requirements for the TANF program regarding the interpretation of Indian Country is of most importance.

The department engaged in formal tribal consultations with the individual tribes in order to adhere to tribal consultation policies. The department submitted a request for clarification to ACF in regards to the Indian Country definition as it relates to the Restoration Acts of Oregon tribes.

The department has now completed the consultation process with Oregon’s recognized tribes and ACF. The planned implementation date for all changes is January 1, 2017. Tribes were notified October 7, 2016 about the changes that will be implemented the last week of November. Staff received training in November and December of 2016 and the full implementation of all changes will be January 1, 2017.

- Recommend management ensure staff receive training regarding the proper coding for expenditures and allow ability of expenditures. Additionally, management should ensure documentation is maintained to support expenditures paid. Further, for the specific items identified, management should correct the coding errors and ensure the expenditures are billed to the appropriate program and/or source of funds.

Agency management understands the importance of ensuring staff are trained on proper account coding, documentation, and allowable cost principles. Management will work with the Office of Financial Services to develop tools to assist staff in choosing the proper codes and develop additional quality assurance processes to review for unallowable costs. The identified transactions have been corrected.

- Recommend management update the cost allocation plans for the department and authority to reflect current practices and ensure future changes are communicated timely.

The agency will continue to submit annual cost allocation plan updates and interim updates when there are major changes to allocation methodologies. Due to changes in the organizational structure of OHA, our update of the OHA PACAP was delayed until July 2016. The current biennium cost allocation plan was submitted for review in July 2016 and is awaiting a response from DCA.

- Recommend department management implement a process to verify that branch offices implement the training and follow the established procedures for securing EBT cards.

DHS developed a Financial Desk Training for Aging and People with Disabilities (APD) and Self Sufficiency Program (SSP) staff, whose duties involve financial business process, and field managers. The Financial Desk Training includes a section on the established procedures for Electronic Benefit Transfer (EBT) card security. The Field Business Procedures Manual and the Business Review Tools are used as a basis for the training curriculum. Office leadership communicated the importance of securing EBT cards and following the policy outlined in the Field Business Procedures Manual for monthly inventory.

The Financial Manager Webinar was offered live on February 11, 2015 and February 12, 2015, towards the end of the audit period. There were 96 attendees who completed this first offering. This training was added to the DHS Learning Center on May 19, 2015 as a continual offering.

There were 19 sessions of the Financial Desk Training that took place in various locations across the state between September 23, 2015 and November 9, 2015. This training will be offered as needed for new staff in the future.

In order to ensure that this training has been implemented throughout all Self Sufficiency, Aging and People with Disability and Area Agency on Aging (AAA) branch offices across the state, Central Office will provide monitoring between April 1, 2016 and July 31, 2016. APD has monitored the Financial Desk Training course and determined that all APD and AAA branches have completed the training. Self Sufficiency has taken corrective action and completed branch office monitoring at the end of July 2016.

7. DHS: To Better Achieve its Mission, Vision and Goals, DHS Must Increase Efforts to Address Employees' Concerns, audit # 2016-24 (dated October 2016)

- We recommend DHS management develop and implement a plan to address the seven areas needing improvement: tools and resources, compensation, hiring practices, recognition, professional development, stress and workload, and communication. We recommend DHS management administer a work environment survey at least annually that includes the factors we identified that influence engagement. We recommend management use the future survey results to revise the plan, as needed.

DHS will prioritize recommended actions based on those which are most "in our control" and those which will achieve the greatest positive impact on DHS culture. DHS plans to continue to utilize the workforce related measures in the DHS management system that overlap with the Work Environment Survey (Employee Engagement, Performance Feedback, and Diversity) and determine in what ways the "unique elements" of the Work Environment Survey may augment our established processes.

Executive Summary

Senate Bill 449 was introduced at the 78th Oregon Legislative Assembly during the 2015 Regular Session for the purpose of creating a Commission for Deaf, Deaf-Blind, and Hard of Hearing Services in the Department of Human Services (DHS). This Office would provide a centralized location for members of the public as well as state agencies to obtain assistance to ensure access for individuals who are Deaf, Deaf-Blind, and Hard of Hearing. The Ways and Means committee concluded from the revised SB 449a that a community needs assessment was needed to identify the social, health, and educational disparities experienced by the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities, and $200,000 in General Funds was granted to the Department of Human Services to support this effort. Western Oregon University's (WOU) Regional Resource Center on Deafness (RRCD) was awarded the contract as of May 1, 2016; with the final report due eight months later on December 30, 2016. The contract required the use of surveys, focus groups, and key informant interviews to collect data in nine domains across the state in a culturally appropriate and fully accessible manner. The purpose of this project was to identify for DHS and the Legislature the barriers that make it difficult for members of the Deaf, Deaf-Blind and Hard of Hearing communities to successfully engage in social, educational, and health services and to make recommendations for closing any gaps.

This study's findings support the recommendation that a Commission, such as the one proposed in Senate Bill 449a be funded. Options include expanding the current Oregon Deaf and Hard of Hearing Services providing interpreter referrals into a program with administrator and employees. Another option might be to fund a Commission through the Governor's Office using funding from the taxes on telephone subscribers as other states have done. Either way, the entity could begin the process of addressing the needs of the diverse populations of Oregonians with hearing loss.

The ability to communicate, to understand and to be understood, is the cornerstone of all areas of human development. It may look different from person to person, but without it, everything else is lost. Unfortunately, the general public's perception of hearing loss is not well informed given that untreated hearing loss has recently been discovered to be a public health crisis. The public's view of hearing loss is that it is something that one must just deal with, or is not that big of a deal (people should just try harder), or that hearing aids and cochlear implants will completely alleviate the problem prevents implementation of best practices. It is ill-advised to accept this status quo as a) at some point much of the general public will also become individuals with hearing loss, and b) the general public holds positions as gatekeepers to services, creating a number of access problems for Deaf and hard of hearing individuals. Untreated hearing loss has recently been deemed to be a public health crisis by the National Academy of Sciences (2016). The following is a summary of the findings from surveys, key informant interviews, and focus groups that lead us to this conclusion:

1. The needs of individuals who are Deaf, hard of hearing, deaf-blind, or who have additional disabilities are met in very different ways. The general public and service providers alike often do not recognize this, resulting in a "one size should fit all" mindset. This creates frustration and blame between consumers and service providers. When gatekeepers do not respect the individual's communication needs, discrimination follows.

2. Throughout their lives, literally starting at birth, policies, legislation, enforcement, and gatekeepers (or the lack thereof) impact whether or not Deaf and hard of hearing Oregonians will have the opportunity to participate in their lives to their full potential. Some examples of this include:
  - a. Infant screening: many children are identified at birth with hearing loss because of this important legislation, yet parents still struggle with decisions about the best path for their child. Many do not feel they are provided the information they need regarding communication options or how those needs may change along the way. Indeed, they often must fight to get their children's communication needs met, no matter what the communication preference is.
  - b. Later detection: After birth, identifying hearing loss is much more difficult. It often goes undetected for the years of the birth-to-five window of opportunity for maximal language development. Hearing losses are often mistakenly diagnosed as an attention deficit, developmental delay, or even purposeful bad behavior on the part of the child.
  - c. Personal device coverage: Oregon law requires that if an insurance company will cover a single cochlear implant for a child, it must cover bilateral implantation if so advised. There is no similar requirement for hearing aids, which are extremely costly, often from $5000-$7000 per pair.
  - d. Foster care: Oregon Child Welfare guidelines detail multiethnic placement, but do not have a priority or policy for placing Deaf or hard of hearing children in signing or otherwise hearing-loss aware families, further stressing the child and creating an additional negative impact on the child's development.
  - e. Educational structure: The separate structures of Oregon's educational system for Deaf and hard of hearing children means that when a need for change in the child's educational delivery is recognized, it is slow to be implemented and further precious time is lost. Other states, such as Arizona, offer multiple options in a single location so that children move fluidly between programs as the need arises. This eliminates the need for the child to fail in one system before being able to try another, as well as the resulting toll this takes on the child and the family.
  - f. Options presented: The Oregon School for the Deaf is often presented to parents as a 'last resort,' ignoring the value of Deaf and hard of hearing role models and peers for developing children, and the expertise of the personnel there.
  - g. Preschool policies: Legislation prevents the Oregon School for the Deaf from holding preschool there (they are only able to serve ages 5 and older). Besides providing needed educational intervention, this is a missed opportunity for children and parents to interact with other families living with similar experiences.
  - h. Impact of Language delays: Language delays caused by these issues will follow the individual throughout their lives, reducing educational opportunities, their ability to get and keep jobs, and their earning potentials.
3. Acquired hearing loss, in older children and adults, presents its own challenges. Many people begin their lives with 'normal' hearing, and at some point either gradually or suddenly lose it. It is commonly believed that hearing loss is simply something people must accept, that there is nothing that can be done for it. They withdraw from friends, family, and other social stimulation that is vital to quality of life and maintaining mental health. For others, it is not acceptance but a fact of life as they cannot afford hearing aids and other technology that could help them stay involved and be thriving members of society. That many people with hearing loss, even though they have seen medical professionals about it, are unaware of the array of assistive listening, telecommunication, and alerting devices that keep them active in their lives is unconscionable. Identifying this population in order to inform them of the options available, such as the Public UC's Telecommunications Device Access Program and OVRs services can help them maintain autonomy and quality of life.

4. Deaf and hard of hearing individuals with other disabilities, such as vision loss, cerebral palsy, or other physical or health issues (i.e., DeafPlus) challenge systems that are set up for consumers without hearing loss. Whether it is in a child or an adult service system, most people do not have the training required to facilitate communication with these individuals. Besides a (hearing) interpreter, an additional certified Deaf interpreter may be required. Service providers need to understand basic orientation and mobility issues, have insight into what the individual does and does not have access to through his or her senses and how to accommodate this, and maintain respect for personal choice. While most people do not have these skills, support services providers (SSPs) provide this function as needed for individuals with hearing and vision loss or those who have additional disabilities. They interpret, provide environmental and communication information through touch, and help the individual stay connected and fully functioning in their environment. In addition, they provide basic services like shopping assistance and transportation. The state of Oregon must find a way to fund SSP services for these individuals as this is a population that is least able to purchase this service for themselves.
5. Access to mental health services practitioners who understand the cultural and communication issues involved for all aspects of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities, and who can communicate directly with those consumers, is at a crisis level. Whether it is for crisis counseling, everyday issues, or a psychiatric disability, Oregon does not have the capacity to serve its Deaf and hard of hearing citizens who need these services.
6. Many Deaf and hard of hearing individuals in Oregon who have lived with hearing loss for majority of their lives earn less in wages or are unemployed. Financial barriers to purchasing necessary equipment such as fire alarms with flashing lights is a significant safety issue. High-speed internet or cell phones are critical to reach 9-1-1 emergency services. The state of Oregon must find a way to fund safety related equipment and telecommunication options for individuals with financial barriers.

American Sign Language, interpreters, an array of assistive technology, personal devices such as hearing aids and cochlear implants, captioners and support service providers are key to access for members of the Deaf, hard of hearing, deaf-blind, and DeafPlus communities. As the above list of issues reveals, the challenges these individuals present to service providers who are not familiar with their communication needs or culture are as complex as the solutions are empowering.

Background of Needs Assessment

Senate Bill 449 was introduced at the 78th Oregon Legislative Assembly during the 2015 Regular Session, led by the Oregon Association of the Deaf. It was sponsored by Senator Laurie Monnes Anderson and Representative David Gomberg (Chief Sponsors), and Senators Brian Boquist and Elizabeth Steiner Hayward; and Representatives Lew Frederick and Barbara Smith Warner (Regular Sponsors).

The bill would create an Office of Deaf, Deaf-Blind, and Hard of Hearing Services in the Department of Human Services (DHS). The purpose of this Office would be to provide a centralized location for members of the public and state agencies to obtain assistance to ensure access for individuals who are Deaf, Deaf-Blind, DeafPlus, Hard of Hearing, and persons with hearing loss. After some language changes, the Senate subcommittee hearing passed Senate Bill 449a, but it was held in the Ways and Means committee. The Ways and Means committee concluded that a community needs assessment was needed to identify the social, health, and educational disparities experienced by the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities. The Legislature granted $200,000 in General Funds to the DHS Aging and People with Disabilities Advocacy and Development Office to support a project to collect data via a statewide Community-based Needs Assessment (CNA).

DHS published the Request for Proposals (RFP) in January 2016. The RFP specified that the CNA data would be gathered via surveys, focus groups, and interviews with Oregon's Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities, and that innovative, solutions-based responses were requested. Proposals were due Feb 22. Western Oregon University's (WOU) Regional Resource Center on Deafness (RRCD) submitted a proposal and later progressed to Round 2, held in March. RRCD's proposal was funded as of May 1, 2016; with the final report due eight months later on December 30, 2016. Funding for the project ends April 30, 2017. The total amount of the contract was $199,993.

Study Requirements

The RFP included requirements related to research procedures and data to be collected. This section reviews those requirements briefly.

Methods of Collecting and Reviewing Data

Definition of Population: The RFP section 2.2.2.5 defines the term Deaf Community as “the entire diverse Deaf population, including people who are culturally D/deaf, DeafBlind, Deaf Plus, Hard of Hearing, Late-deafened, hearing aid or cochlear implant users, and those experiencing hearing loss”. However, this is not how the term is used in the field of Deaf Studies; rather, the term ‘Deaf Community’ refers only to those individuals who identify as culturally Deaf. This report then uses the term ‘Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities’ in recognition of the distinct needs, preferences, and perspectives of these groups, and uses procedures to ensure that the voices of all groups are equally represented.

Survey or Questionnaire: The RFP requires the use of surveys or questionnaires to collect information from the diverse community across the state. It does not specify the medium (e.g., paper, on-line).

Focus Groups: The RFP required that the contract recipient conduct a number of focus group meetings to ensure data are collected from across the state from constituents of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities. The contract recipient was to “make every effort to identify individuals from specific parts of the Deaf Community who may be disenfranchised and to reach these low incidence populations to include their voice in the service needs.”

Key Informant Interviews: The goal of these interviews is to determine the challenges public entities face and their satisfaction with the services the entities have been able to provide. Key informant interviews complement the focus groups. Specifically key informant interviews will be conducted with 1) members of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities who are not well represented in the focus groups, and 2) state, county, city, and other personnel involved in the following service domains: Employment, health, mental health, alcohol and drug services, education, housing, transportation, police, fire, courts/legal, and other state, county, or city services.

Community Advisory Board: The RFP requires the contract recipient to develop and work with a Community Advisory Board (CAB), made up of diverse representatives of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities to inform qualitative data analysis; to assist in interpretation and evaluation of data; and to review the processes to ensure the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities are being well sampled. The cost for providing accommodations is included in the budget proposal.

Domains: Nine domains or settings are identified in the RFP. For the purposes of this report, these domains are grouped by: 1) Education, 2) Employment, 3) Socioeconomic identifiers (i.e., Household Income, Safe Housing, Transportation), 4) Access to services (i.e., State, County, City Services; Emergency Responders; the Legal System), and 5) Quality of Life (i.e., health and mental health services, abuse, alcohol and drug treatment).

Cultural Competence: Finally, the RFP required that the recipient of this contract must exhibit cultural competence in the way the data are collected and reported. As it relates to hearing loss, cultural competence begins with understanding the different contingents included in the RFP definition. People who identify as Deaf, deaf, or hard of hearing do so because they hold different perspectives about hearing loss and communication preferences. The term Deaf-blind includes individuals who are totally deaf and blind, as well as individuals who are hard of hearing and experience vision loss, and every combination in between. They, too, vary in their perspectives and communication preferences, and may use spoken English, amplification (or cochlear implants), ASL, Braille, or large print. Support service providers (SSPs) are vital for many people who experience hearing loss and vision loss or additional disabilities to maintain their independence and autonomy, yet the only service provider most people are aware of is ‘interpreter.’

Researchers without in-depth knowledge of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities likely do not even realize the misinformation they function under. This leads to people who are hard of hearing being offered interpreters as an accommodation, culturally Deaf individuals being thought of as less intelligent because they do not use their voices or because their English is imperfect, and questions about barriers created due to one’s hearing impairment, a term that riles many in the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities. To complicate matters more, many people with hearing loss do not claim an associated identity. They do not see themselves as having a disability (i.e., hearing loss), but rather think of themselves as simply not hearing very well. This makes them a difficult group to reach out to.

Areas of Focus

Demographics: The RFP defined demographics as (a) age, (b) county of residence, (c) race, (d) gender, (e) education level completed, (f) socioeconomic status, (g) preferred identification within the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities, and (h) primary or preferred means of communication. They required that data on demographics represent a valid sample size of the entire Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities as listed in the Deaf Community definition. It was required that demographic results be categorized by the description listed in the Demographics definition. The on-line survey was used to collect these data.

Communication Access to Public Services: DHS also required information on the current availability and access to communication in public services, using the following: (1) Qualified or certified interpreters; (2) Computer Assisted Real Time systems; and (3) Assistive Communication Devices. Note: A number of emergency responders were listed in this section of the RFP. In this report they are covered in the section on access to public services. Information here was collected by the on-line survey of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities, key informant interviews of the service providers, and focus groups of community members using these services.

Barriers and Strategies: The purpose of this project was to identify for DHS and the Legislature the barriers that make it difficult for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities to successfully engage in social, educational, and health services and to make recommendations for closing any gaps. The nine domains specified were: (a) graduating from high school or obtaining a General Education Diploma (GED); (b) entering and completing college, or other higher education or vocational training; (c) earning a livable competitive wage; (d) obtaining health and mental health services; (e) keeping safe from abuse; (f) acquiring transportation services; (g) obtaining appropriate, affordable and accessible housing; and (h) accessing government services. In addition, information on accessing a variety of emergency responders services is included in this section. Information here was collected by the on-line survey of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities, key informant interviews of the service providers, and focus groups of community members.

Communication Access: DHS also sought to ensure that the contract recipient used the applicable communication access services when conducting any activities to accommodate the different modes of communication used by members of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities, including: (a) English (spoken) and English (written); (b) tactile or close vision signing; (c) signed English; (d) American Sign Language (ASL); (e) Pidgin Signed English (PSE); (f) non-standard or home sign language; (g) Spanish (spoken) and Spanish (written); and (h) other spoken and signed languages.

Methods

Overview

Once funding was awarded, the research team had eight months to complete the project from start to finish. Three survey protocols first had to be developed along with informed consent forms in order to complete the University's Institutional Review Board (IRB) Protection of Human Subjects Protocol. The academic year ends in mid-June, and the IRB does not generally meet over the summer. This step had to be completed before the project would be able to move forward.

The three surveys were developed (i.e., the on-line survey for members of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities), and the interview protocols for the focus groups and the key informant interviews). The development of the survey for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities was a lengthy process for this project due to the need for a version in American Sign Language (ASL) and Spanish as well as written English. To reach community members across the state, the community survey was to be conducted on-line. The protocols for the focus groups and the key informant interviews were less involved because they were communicated one-on-one and live.

Simultaneously, CAB members and participants had to be recruited. This meant holding town hall meetings, attending events, and developing public relations materials for advertising. It was important to have the CAB established early to get their assistance in recruiting participants and providing recommendations for key informants. Focus group participants were recruited through an additional questionnaire after completing the on-line community survey. It was programmed so that the information it collected was completely separate from the survey responses.

Human Subjects Protections: During June 2016, Western Oregon University's Institutional Review Board (IRB) reviewed and approved the study protocol prior to data collection. The function of the IRB is to ensure that Dr. Thew Hackett (principal investigator) and all other members of the research team protect the privacy of participants. This includes destroying videotapes after they have been transcribed and redacting identifying information from transcripts.

The principal investigator of this proposal, Dr. Denise Thew Hackett, ensured that key informants understand their rights as research participants. In order to protect the privacy of those participating in the Community Needs Assessment (CNA), facilitators of the focus groups or key informant interviews and anyone involved with coding and analysis of data were required to complete the Human Subject Certificate program through the Collaborative Institutional Training Incentives (CITI) Program prior to any review or data analysis. Both the principal investigator and the co-investigators have completed this training.

Providing Communication Access: On-line surveys were developed in several modalities, including American Sign Language, written English, and written Spanish. In some cases, group administrations were used to allow community members without computers and those who are not familiar with computers an opportunity to complete the survey. This also allowed anyone who needed one-on-one support (e.g., with a Deaf interpreter or other service provider) an opportunity to participate.

Key informant and focus group participants were identified in advance to allow for setting up the appropriate accommodations. By nature, the communication modes within focus groups were somewhat homogenous; but requests for other accommodations were honored. All accommodation costs were built into the budget proposal.

Accommodations served the dual purpose of providing access and transcripts for data review. Interviews were audio-recorded, videotaped, and/or transcribed live. CART was provided for all hard of hearing focus groups. Transcripts from the CART output provided data for the study.

Videos of ASL focus groups and interviews, and tape recordings of spoken interviews were all transcribed. Transcription of the ASL videos required the services of transcribers who knew ASL.

Ensuring Participation from All Groups: The research team's process relied on established networks and CAB members to identify and connect with individuals who were members of the different target populations of this study. Specifically, the recruitment strategy focused on reaching individuals from the diverse Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities (including parents), providers and agencies providing services to members of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities, first responders, and communication access providers.

Key Data Collection/Data Checking Components

Community Advisory Board (CAB): CAB members were recruited from each population described in section 2.2.2.5 of the RFP, and include representatives who are cochlear implant users, veterans, parents of deaf and hard of hearing children, deaf and hard of hearing transition students, and senior citizens. Leaders were recruited from consumer and advocacy organizations with members of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities, as well as communication service providers (CART, interpreters, ACDs, ALDs), first responders (e.g. police, fire, emergency medical technicians), and personnel from government agencies and other places of public access. Interested CAB members who completed the CITI training also assisted in some aspects of data analysis.

Online Survey Development: The 135-item survey was developed based on the nine domains specified by the RFP. Survey items, response options, and skip patterns were all programmed into an online survey platform. On-line responses were captured using Qualtrics. Next, the ASL models taped two versions of the items, one that is simply an interpretation of the English, and another that provides additional explanation to incorporate many of the linguistic contexts that are critical to understanding for many ASL users. The video clips were then edited to be included in the questionnaire. After this point, it would not have been feasible to make any changes to the written survey as changing the signed version would have required extensive time and effort, and additional IRB approval. Finally, the survey was translated into Spanish text. Thus, users had the option of viewing the questions in English, Spanish, American Sign Language (ASL), and ASL with additional explanation. These processes were conducted in June and July. Several CAB members reviewed the survey and provided feedback. A final revision of the survey was submitted to the IRB for approval before the survey was launched August 1, 2016. It was available until September 15.

Focus Groups: Once someone completed the on-line survey, they were provided an opportunity to volunteer to participate in a focus group. As the person finished the survey, a screen appeared asking if the respondent would like to participate in a focus group. If the person responded yes, then a separate screen (with data kept separate from the survey) asked for their contact information, along with some demographic information to identify which demographic group they would participate in. Dr. Thew Hackett then sorted the responses by city and category, set up dates in the area, and let people know the focus group logistics. She then waited to hear who was available on the dates to attend. A number of possible participants were lost because they were on vacation on the scheduled days in their areas.

A discussion guide, checklist of topics, and expected order was used to direct the discussion. This discussion guide was developed by Dr. Thew Hackett and reviewed by the CAB. The moderator guided conversation gently through each topic until the discussion appeared to become repetitive. It allowed participants to raise important issues and nuances that researchers often do not foresee. In a focus group, relatively homogeneous groups of participants have the opportunity to stimulate, support, and build on each other's ideas on the topic. Participants discuss the topic in their own framework and terms. As they become more sensitized to the topic and to each other, participants fuel each other to take the discussion beyond the rhetorical or habitual.

Key Informant Interviews: Simultaneous to the focus groups, key informant interviews were conducted by phone with service providers. These service providers included access providers, state agencies, and first responders. All interviews were recorded and transcribed. A Deaf team member conducted many of the key informant interviews over the phone with an interpreter. The interpreter and the speaker were audiotaped for transcription for later review.

Most focus groups included CART service for hard of hearing individuals, and transcripts from these were used for data analysis. Focus groups for American Sign Language (ASL) users were videotaped and transcribed by a company employing individuals who use ASL.

Recruitment: The Oregon Association of the Deaf held several town hall meetings in Eugene, Medford, and Bend in late spring and early summer, and invited Dr. Thew Hackett to participate to explain the project. At least 15 individuals attended each of these town hall meetings. During one meeting in Bend, an individual who is an Accessibility Manager attended and provided valuable contact information for key informants in the Bend and Central Oregon region. Drs. Thew Hackett and Davis presented at the Salem Chapter of the Hearing Loss Association-Oregon meeting held at Capital Manor Retirement Center June 29. Approximately 60 people were in attendance. Plans were made with Capital Manor to hold a Community Survey Event there to assist individuals to complete the survey. Capital Manor has approximately 450 residents with some degree of hearing loss.

As the development of the on-line survey neared completion, activities around ensuring we recruited respondents from all of the demographics ramped up. Individuals, organizations, and news outlets were solicited at both the Information Meeting for the CNA and from the CAB members. Drs. Thew Hackett and Davis reviewed the list for additions. A Graduate Assistant looked up contact information for any that were missing this information. A press release was developed by WOU Public Relations to ensure the information was available to statewide news outlets. At the same time, a website posting updates of the process and announcements was created. The press release and the email announcement included information on how to participate in the survey and the need for focus group and key informant interview participation. We received two requests for radio interviews (one from Lebanon, and one from Coos Bay), which were completed, and are aware of the story being published in several papers. The Oregon Association of the Deaf, the Hearing Loss Association of Oregon, and the Oregon Deaf-Blind Services Task Force assisted the project in sharing announcements through their listservs. Information was also shared through the listservs for the Oregon Association on Higher Education and Disability, public school regional programs, the Oregon Public Utilities Commission Telecommunications for the Deaf Access Program (TDAP) mailing list (which includes over 5000 emails statewide) and numerous others. These organizations also published articles in their newsletters. The announcements were shared extensively through social media. Finally, as word spread, we reached out to school programs to ensure that we included parents of children with hearing loss. The Early Hearing Detection and Intervention (EHDI) program was instrumental in assisting us in recruiting for these groups.

Results

Community Advisory Board

An informational meeting was held in Salem on May 6, 2016. Because of time constraints and the need to have the meeting as quickly as possible, notice was disseminated by email and social media through organizations, including but not limited to the Hearing Loss Association-Oregon, Oregon Association of the Deaf, PUC Telecommunications Device Access Program recipients, Oregon Deaf-Blind Services Task Force, Oregon Association on Higher Education and Disability, Oregon School for the Deaf, and Tucker-Maxon Oral School. Even with the short notice, the meeting was attended by 40 individuals representing the diversity of the Deaf, hard of hearing, and hearing loss communities in Oregon. This meeting provided an overview of the process that brought the CNA to fruition, a description of the planned research project, and information about the CAB and the application process. American Sign Language (ASL) interpreters, certified Deaf interpreters (CDI), computer assisted real-time translation (CART), and assistive listening equipment were provided. The individuals attending represented parents of Deaf and hard of hearing children; teachers of the Deaf; Deaf and hard of hearing individuals, including cochlear implant users; individuals who are DeafBlind and deaf-blind; individuals who are deaf and have additional disabilities; senior citizens; and veterans with hearing loss. Attendees came from the Oregon Coast, Bend, Eugene, and Medford, along with the Portland and Salem areas. Information was collected from these individuals regarding their interest in applying to the CAB, and organizations/institutions to include in our outreach efforts.

An application form along with informational materials about the responsibilities of CAB members was developed by Dr. Thew Hackett. Information was disseminated to attendees of the informational meeting, along with the other listservs and social media outlets described above. Twenty applications were received and reviewed for representativeness of the diversity of the community, geographic area, ability to commit to the process, and ability to contribute to the process. Fifteen initial members were selected, although we continued to accept applications. The members included five individuals from the Portland area, five individuals from the Salem area, one from Eugene, two from Medford, and two from Bend. Each member potentially represented multiple target groups, including eight Deaf, six hard of hearing, five cochlear implant users, one veteran, five senior citizens, one DeafBlind, one deaf-blind, one Deaf plus, one late-deafened, one youth, and two parents.

American Sign Language (ASL) interpreters, certified Deaf interpreters (CDI), computer assisted realtime translation (CART), and assistive listening equipment were provided for each CAB meeting. CAB meeting locations rotated to ensure participation from the most distant members.

CAB meetings were held in June, August, and November. CAB members assisted in identifying locales or demographics where numbers were weaker, and provided suggestions for spreading the word. At the November CAB meeting, members reviewed a data set of all items by identity. The process involved review of output, brainstorming of research questions, evaluation of limitations, and identifying areas of interest or concern. Because of the confidentiality of the data, participants were not allowed to take the printouts with them after the meeting.

Focus Groups

The project held a total of 12 focus groups with hard of hearing participants, with a total of 16 participants (1-2 per group); and 15 focus groups with 35 Deaf participants (1-5 per group). Six additional hard of hearing focus groups were held where the scheduled participants did not show up. Focus groups were held in Salem, Eugene, Roseburg, Klamath Falls, Medford, Bend, and Portland. Three of the one-on-one interviews were conducted over the telephone due to geographic distance (Northern Coast and outside of Central Oregon).

The short timelines of this project required that data be collected over the summer with the fall to analyze it and write up the results. Summer is a challenging time to recruit people to participate in something like a focus group. The Deaf community is well organized around this, and indeed sees it as an opportunity to interact with others who are similarly Deaf. Hard of hearing individuals are not typically eager to discuss their hearing losses. This can be seen in the number of people attending the focus groups.

Multiple attempts were made to host focus groups in Eastern Oregon and Coastal Regions, for both face-to face and tele-meeting (e.g. phone, Skype, videophone) with only two participants willing to participate.

We also found that we needed to alter the way we collected data from parents of children with hearing loss. The Early Hearing Detection and Intervention (EHDI) organization contacted us with feedback saying that they were hearing the survey questions were for the most part not a good fit for children's experiences. Indeed, most items addressed services that would most likely be accessed by adults. As a result, we scheduled five focus groups for the purpose of collecting data from parents and their children.

Key Informant Interviews

A total of 19 key informant interviews were completed, including emergency personnel, legal services for the state of Oregon, disability services providers in higher education, personnel in elder care, and vocational rehabilitation services providers. Key informant interviews were done utilizing the semi-structured interview guides with a focus on systemic issues as a provider or service.

On-line Survey

A total of 1,140 survey responses were collected. During database preparation, 168 responses were deleted as they did not qualify for the survey. An additional 89 responses were deleted as the respondents answered only a few preliminary questions. The final database contains 883 responses. Most respondents took the English version (n=773), another 110 took the on-line ASL version, and an additional 2 took the Spanish version.

Survey support labs were held in multiple locations to assist people who do not have access to computers or who may have disabilities that would impact their ability to respond to the survey.

These labs were held in Salem, Eugene, Roseburg, Klamath Falls, Medford, Bend, and Portland, alongside focus group meetings. There were two to twenty participants in each lab.

There were a few unexpected events during the data collection. First, Google abruptly took the ASL videos down and would not reinstate them. They provided no explanation. One of our editors worked tirelessly to get the videos reformatted and transferred to another system, and the survey was up and running again after a day and a half.

In the process of working with people in completing the surveys during the survey support labs, project staff discovered an interesting interpretation of one of the questions meant to screen out people who were not eligible. The item was: “Do you have a hearing loss?” Senior citizens, sometimes with mild losses, sometimes more severe, often interpreted the question as “Have you lost your hearing?” They reasoned that they still had some hearing, so they would answer “no.” This would immediately exit them from the survey. Although it is impossible to know exactly how many people outside of the labs may have exited the survey because of this interpretation of the question, 99 respondents were exited because they responded ‘no’ to this item. This quirk of interpretation is a perfect example of the challenges of conducting research on a population that often does not embrace a label.

Demographics

Residency

In addition to experiencing hearing loss, in order to participate in the survey, respondents also had to live, work, or use services in Oregon. Nearly all respondents (98.0%; N=865) live in Oregon; 60.2% (N=532) also seek services in Oregon. Seven out of 10 respondents from outside of Oregon (N=18) live in Washington State; one participant was from Idaho, and four live in California.

Not unexpectedly, Marion county and Multnomah county provided larger portions of respondents than other counties (15.5%; N=134 and 19.5%; N=169, respectively).

The population density (number of people per square mile) for each county is listed in the above table. Figure 1 indicates the number of residents in each population zone. Nearly one in three respondents (31.4%; N =277) live in counties with a population density of 121-650 residents. It is also notable that almost 50% of the population lives in areas with 120 persons or less per square mile.

By far, the largest proportion of respondents live in the northwest region (69.3%; N= 612). The southwest region is represented by 18.2% (N=161) of respondents, mimicking the state's population distribution. A correlation of .92 was found between the number of respondents in each county and the county population. This provides further evidence that the survey sampled the state well.

Race/Ethnicity

Almost 85% of respondents self-identify as White (83.9%; N=736). This is identical to the ethnic makeup of Oregon (i.e., 83% <https://suburbanstats.org/population/how-many-people-live-in-oregon>). Because the counts were low in the individual categories of all other racial and ethnic identities, they were combined into ‘Other’ (16.1%; N=141). The largest portion of this category is Hispanic or Latino/a (N=52). The next largest were American Indian or Alaska Native and Black or African American (N=25 and 22 respectively). The other racial and ethnic identity categories had fewer than 20 respondents each.

While the majority (72.0%; N=636) say neither themselves nor their parents were born outside the U.S., a sizable portion (13.7%; N=120) of respondents were. Likewise, 19.4% (N=168) have at least one parent born outside the U.S., while 6.7% (N=59) say both themselves and their parents were born on foreign soil.

Gender

Less than half of respondents (40.1%; N=318) are men; a few (0.8%; N=6) identify as transgender, and 1.1% (N=9) prefer not to provide gender information.

Age

Almost 34% of respondents (N=298) are age 65 and above. Respondents under 18 years of age account for 8.2% (N=71) of the respondents. While this may seem unbalanced compared to ages of individuals in Oregon, it does follow national trends in hearing loss, with 30% or more over the age of 65 experiencing enough of a loss that it interferes with their lives. Although not shown specifically in Table 4, seven children (.8%) were under the age of 5 at the time of the study. Parent comments were collected in focus groups.

Looking at the age groups in extremely general terms, there were 71 (8.1%) respondents under 18 (non-working), 87 (9.9%) in their early working years (18-34), 173 (19.6%) in their middle working years (35-49), 252 (28.7%) in their later working years (50-64), and 298 (33.9%) of retirement age (65 and older).

Age at Hearing Loss

Figure 3 indicates over one in three (35.6%; N=314) were born with hearing loss or deafness; and another one in five (21.7%; N=192) lost their hearing after birth but before the age of 5. This is significant because birth to age 5 is considered to be the prime ‘window of opportunity’ for language development. Over one third of respondents (36.8%; N=314) described their hearing loss as progressive. As the figure below indicates, over 90% of individuals in this study have or will experience hearing loss through their prime education and work years.

Hearing Loss Identity

Respondents were asked how they identified themselves with regard to their hearing loss. Multiple options were provided; indeed, the RFP listed nine different identifiers. Clearly, the majority of respondents (78.6%; N=694) identify with one label, but 22% selected more than one label.

Nearly 37.9% (N=335) identify as hard of hearing. One in four (25.9%; N=229) identify as hearing impaired, and almost 30% (N=262) identify as culturally Deaf. The long list of options was included in an effort to capture as many ways people identify as possible, and as requested in the definitions in the RFP. Clearly, though, labels and identities do not always align as the definitions would predict. At least three individuals indicated in open-ended responses that they also had severe vision losses, even though they did not identify themselves as Deaf-Blind or DeafBlind. Several people identified as both culturally Deaf and hearing impaired. This is unusual because most people who describe themselves as culturally Deaf shun the label hearing impaired. This speaks to the diversity of beliefs and attitudes in the community and may also indicate that some people are not familiar with all of these labels. (See Appendix A for explanations of the labels in Table 5.)

Table 5: Chosen Identity with Regard to Hearing Loss

Communication Preference

Spoken English (both speech and lip-reading) is the preferred communication mode for two-thirds of respondents (67.7%; N=594), followed by American Sign Language (35.3%; N=310). Both writing (28.4%; N=249) and texting (28.5%; N=250) are used by over one in four respondents. Total communication or Sim-Com (14.4%; N=126) or PSE (Pidgin Signed English) (12.6%; N=126) round off the most widely used communication modes. (See Appendix A for explanations of the labels in Table 6.)

Table 6: Communication Modes used by Respondents

Communication Modes Used (Multiple Response) (N=878)	Percent	Count
Spoken English (speech and lip-reading)	67.70%	594
American Sign Language (ASL) only	35.30%	310
Texting	28.50%	250
Writing	28.40%	249
Total communication or Sim-Com (using both sign and speech at the same time)	14.40%	126
PSE - Pidgin Signed English (Some ASL signs with English sentence structure)	12.60%	111
Other spoken language (speech and lip-reading)	1.70%	15
Tactile ASL or other tactile sign language	1.30%	12
Other	1.30%	11
Cued Speech	1.10%	10
Braille	0.70%	6

By evaluating response options of those who had requested interpreters and those who provided information about their communication preferences in other items, participants were reassigned to one of four groups: People using mainly spoken language, those mainly using sign language (without speech), those mainly using a combination of sign and speech, and those with additional communication needs (i.e., individuals with hearing and vision loss, and those with additional disabilities). Half of respondents (49.3%; N=435) prefer speech as their communication mode. Over one in five (23.6%; N=208) prefer to sign; another 21.9% (N=193) prefer a combination of sign and speech. 5.3% (N=47) prefer additional communication needs.

Hearing Aid and Cochlear Implant Use

Among those respondents who indicated they use cochlear implants, three in four (76.3%; N=106) have one (unilateral) implant only. Respondents with hearing aids were more likely to aid each ear (70.5%; N=383). While 93% of respondents (N=820) experience hearing loss in both ears, only half (N=414) aid both ears. Fewer than half with a loss in one ear aid it. Three individuals with cochlear implants indicated they do not use them, as well as 11 individuals with hearing aids. The most common reasons for no longer using hearing aids was that they need new ones and could not afford them.

Figure 6: Use of Hearing Aids and Cochlear Implants by Loss in One or Both Ears

More respondents who use cochlear implants are extremely or very satisfied with their devices than hearing aid users (57.4% vs. 38.2%). Another 16.2% (N=22) are dissatisfied to some degree with their cochlear implants, and 19.7% (N=105) are dissatisfied with their hearing aids. People who were dissatisfied with their cochlear implants were mainly dissatisfied because they did not have the speech perception they desired and still had to rely on speech reading. Although no one listed expense as an issue with cochlear implants, 22 respondents did in the follow-up question related to hearing aids. (Expense is also brought up in several other places in the survey, and in focus group sessions.) Eighteen mentioned problems with hearing in background noise, but 62% (N=186 out of 296) were dissatisfied because of their lack of ability to perceive speech with them. Many use this as a rationale not to replace them as they are perceived to be not worth the expense.

Figure 8 is a revealing glimpse into the communication challenges faced by individuals with hearing loss. Limited to those who are using hearing aids or cochlear implants, respondents were asked about the difficulty of understanding speech and environmental noises in settings with and without background noise. For one on one in a room with noise or on the telephone, close to nine in ten have some level of difficulty understanding either speech or environmental sounds.

Respondents experience difficulty understanding speech in many settings. In most situations, about ninety percent or more experience difficulties understanding. Even in a small group in a quiet room, understanding speech presents difficulties for seven in ten respondents (70.2%; N=425).

A large group in a room with noise means no understanding of speech at all for 44.2% of the respondents (N=265), even using hearing aids or cochlear implants. Over one in four cannot understand speech on the phone (28.0%; N=168) or in public spaces (27.9%; N=167).

A male senior citizen with progressive hearing loss who identifies as hard of hearing and relies on spoken language shared his positive experience with an audiologist who had proper training and shared critical information that he wished many other hearing aid users would benefit from knowing. “One huge help for me was some information that decreased my expectations. And that they said was to aim for 80 percent of normal hearing because if they do it louder, the ambient noise blocks your understanding [of speech and environment sounds]. So you don’t get 20/20 hearing the way you get 20/20 eyesight with glasses. That has been a huge help. I didn’t expect to have normal hearing. I’m just very grateful that it’s better.”

ASL interpreters are most widely used in hearing environments by over two in five respondents (44.8%; N=380). Caption is used by three in ten (31.7%; N=269). Seven percent of respondents use nothing in a hearing environment (7.1%; N=60).

Hearing aids (62.6%; N=550) are the most commonly used devices, with 19% (N=161) using only a hearing aid or a cochlear implant. While many people are not aware of the various assistive technologies (see Appendix A for explanations of the labels in Table 7), some people short-change themselves, as demonstrated by this female hard of hearing participant:

“I have not asked for CART. I figure these are nonprofit organizations with limited budgets. If I was—I’m not contributing enough for them to be able to afford that. That’s my own personal decision.”

A hard of hearing female from Central Oregon shared a common reaction related to technology, “I think for some people – it is sort of frightening to use technology. So again, somebody to walk them through it, get them comfortable with technology would help.”

Accommodations in Public Settings

The common theme of accommodations arose several times among focus groups. A hard of hearing female summarized, “CART not only eases the burden of those for people like myself, it allows us to recruit more people who have hearing loss into the field. In fact we find foreign visitors or attendees whose mother tongue is not English are actually using the CART system because they gain a lot out of it too. If it’s good for a particular disability population, it’s actually good for everybody, not just that one particular population. So the complaint is it’s too expensive or too difficult. I think people [running businesses] are not aware of the positive impact of making these particular accommodations. And I think the legislature needs to understand the positive impact that is far beyond the community in question, it will have an impact.”

A cochlear implant user who uses primarily spoken language discussed his recent event at the Moda Center, “The customer service staff was not aware that FM systems were available and it was not until I insisted that I speak to supervisor that it was possible and made available. It made my whole night but that’s the kind of thing where the event planners are not being educated. They don’t educate them or their and volunteers or workforce to know what is truly available. ... Sometimes when you request FM systems [anywhere] and they don’t work or have missing parts.”

A Southern Oregon male with progressive hearing loss, as well as many other hard of hearing participants, reported on the value of CapTel (a telephone displaying a text screen).

Financial Barriers Related to Hearing Aids

A young hard of hearing woman who uses both ASL and spoken language in her employment setting reported wanting to buy an FM system to help block out unwanted environment noises but was told “money is not available right now.” This same person had to keep her hearing aids for 12 years because of financial barriers said, “I have to wait for 12 years to buy new hearing aids. 12 years I have had my old hearing aids because they are expensive. Then I finally got insurance coverage with hearing aids, but it was covered like 20% - the insurance benefit was $1500 while the cost of hearing aids was $5000, so I had to save about $3500.00.” Because of a financial barrier related to hearing aid cost she took many necessary steps to protect her new hearing aids from damage until, “I was running recently, the sweat was going into the hearing aids and broke the hearing aids. I bought the hearing aids 2 years ago with Kaiser Insurance but now because I don’t have that insurance anymore [because of a job change], I can’t go there for repairs. The warranty is not good anymore.”

A male cochlear implant user who works in medical setting and primarily uses spoken language reported, “I really do think the people, the population of people who benefit from hearing aids would have a greater use of hearing aids if there was some sort of mandates for insurance coverage for hearing aids and it’s not happening yet and not happening nationwide. The state of Oregon is a health leader in the nation and that would really improve the situation for those who would be willing to use hearing aids, if they didn’t have to pay out-of-pocket for them all of the time.”

Education

Although one in ten (9.8%; N=84) respondents indicated they did not finish high school, 61 of these individuals are under 18, and another 7 fall into the 18-24 category, and thus may be in the process of completing; another 12.7% (N=108) did finish their education with a high school diploma. Forty-two percent (N=319) graduated from an Oregon high school.

Nearly half (48.2%; N=411) achieved a 4-year or higher college degree. Among respondents who attended college, three-fourths (74.0%; N=490) completed their training/degree.

Table 8: Highest Level of Education

What is your highest level of education? (N=853)	Percent	Count
Currently in high school	7.0%	61
Did not complete high school	3.0%	23
Completed high school	12.7%	108
Currently in college	6.0%	49
Completed some college but not degree	14.0%	122
AA/AS or trade degree	9.3%	79
BA/BS (4 year college)	20.2%	172
MA/MS (Graduate)	22.2%	189
Terminal degree (e.g., Ed.D, Ph.D., JD, MD)	5.9%	50

Over one-third of respondents attended a regular hearing school without supports for K-6th grade (37.2%; N=194) and for 7th-12th grade (37.6%; N=196). Residential schools for the Deaf saw the largest increase from elementary to high school. While 111 (21.3%) attended a residential school for the Deaf for their early schooling; the number increases by 14% or 72 students for 7th-12th grade (35.4%; N=183). Of these students, 34 moved from mainstream programs with support, 23 moved from regular schools without support, 16 from self-contained classrooms, 8 from oral programs, and 2 from 'Other.' Only 8 students left residential programs, 7 moving to regular hearing programs and 1 moving to a self-contained classroom. This trend is common to the state. Oregon School for the Deaf reports their elementary program is very small, and they experience a large number of transfer students in the higher grades.

Education Barriers Related to Learning Needs Accommodations

A hard of hearing adult with a mild hearing loss who attended University of Oregon recalled the significant barrier to her education, “Most barriers [I experienced] are related to education barriers because I used ASL interpreters growing up but many people think that I do not need ASL interpreters because I can speak well.”

She further recalled her experience on how the Disability Service Center at the University took away her autonomy in determining her learning needs, “Being able to speak doesn’t mean how well you can hear. So, some can speak well, but still cannot hear well. For me, in classrooms, if there were noise in the background, I can’t follow the instructor’s voice or if the instructor talks and a student made a comment in the background, I would turn around and see who was talking and I would miss information and then need to catch up. Or if I want to write notes and I am looking down as I write notes and then I would look up and miss something or when I am writing notes and I would miss comments from a student in the background. So, an ASL interpreter will help me not miss as much information. Then they said no you do not need it. You should try closed caption services from distance [caption via remote].” Then they offered different services such as CART, “it was harder with CART to follow the conversation in the classroom. An ASL interpreter would be able to point out the people who is talking back and forth and I can understand who said this and that allows me to follow the conversation better.”

She continued to fight for two semesters to advocate for her needs, “When they finally provided interpreter, the interpreter they provided was hard of hearing and I thought that was strange. It seemed like that the interpreter was missing information as well, so I approached the interpreter and said, ‘Do you know that you are not interpreting everything that they are saying?’ She said, ‘Oh I am hard of hearing and I must have missed.’... That did not make sense to me so I went back to the disability services. That was before the certification for ASL interpreters, so they did not have any certified interpreters. They just found somebody who was a parent who could sign and happened to be hard of hearing to interpret my 300 level English Course!”

A young woman who identifies as both Deaf and Hard of Hearing shared her excitement related to starting college this fall in Oregon but experienced a familiar battle as many other Deaf and hard of hearing students related to advocating for their learning needs, “I will start at OSU this fall, so right now, I’m meeting with the disability services on campus and I requested different accommodations for me to succeed in class. I asked for interpreters, extended test times, FM access in the classroom. The woman worked in that department for 20 years with Deaf students. When I asked for the extended time in class, she said, ‘Why?’ I explained, but she still didn’t understand why I needed that. Yeah, so the college doesn’t really understand why I need all these different accommodations in classes.”

Barriers Related to Education Options and Information

A teacher who uses both ASL and spoken language remarked, “The key is communication in ASL. This access will improve communication, jobs, and education. The key is communication. They can communicate and speak, and write, and then in school they can understand. And then that will lead to future job opportunities. That will improve jobs, and the key is language. Where is the language? It’s missing [in this equation]. Hearing people are pushing it aside, and making it all about the ear. They say, ‘Speech will help,’ but no, no, they forget that the eyes come first for visual access. For example, if you give an apple and an orange to a blind person, either deaf-blind or blind, they’ll feel it and won’t be able to tell which fruit is which. You’d have to tell them, or they could smell the orange or taste it, yes. But with visual access, you immediately know which is the apple and which is the orange. Why shut out our visual access? It’s the same for Deaf and blind people. Visual access, signing. Deaf-blind people are more experienced in how to communicate using this system, which is known as ProTactile. That impressed me. The answer is right there. Why stop that access and remove it?”

The parent of a 6 year old oral child shared her frustration related to lack of options, “I want to get it there [in records] that Portland Public Schools does not have a truly oral option. They have total communication option and sign language option, they don’t have an oral education option, I find that to be breaking the law for Deaf and hard of hearing students where they don't have fully oral option if that is the communication mode that parent has chosen for that child."

A parent of 8 year old child asks: "In Portland Public School it is $25,000 per kid which is why they don't want to release that money [to pay for other options]. They want to keep it in the school and they feel that they can use the IEP and spend the money that way. I use that in quotation marks but 15 minutes of speech a week for an investment of $25,000 for ten months of the school year, what's my ROI?"

A parent of 8 year old daughter who goes to Oregon School for the Deaf expressed her struggle with the system at the school district, "There's no real happy medium. ...She can't go into two different programs or go half day to one school [OSD] and another half day at another [mainstream at hearing school], or different ways of combining them. At that young age, there is no way the parents are going to know what the best fit is yet for their child."

"We see a lot of Deaf children being very isolated. So they're in the neighborhood school but they're not really integrated into the community because of the language barrier and we're seeing a lot of mental health problems in the Deaf community because of their isolation," expressed a parent of a Deaf child who is also a teacher.

Many more concerns were expressed by parents of Deaf children, "There is a lot of training for hearing teachers. I don't know if you know that concept of 'you have to be Deaf to get it.' Takes one to know one kind of thing. As a Deaf person, I know what the Deaf experience is like and the same thing goes for any deaf teachers. So they understand what a Deaf child is experiencing...their world view and their world experience. It's so nuanced. It's so different from interaction with non-deaf people. And it's so easy for someone who is not Deaf to miss these very small subtle aspects in facial expression and body movements that are so meaningful."

An interesting point made by parents of Deaf children, "You know, we have all these policy makers, almost all of them are hearing and so they're making decisions that greatly impact Deaf people's lives without understanding their Deaf world and the Deaf experience."

"The way the system is currently designed forces parents to choose that school or this school, this whole idea of placement options. And parents have to gamble. Sometimes they just take a guess, pick a school randomly because they have no idea what's going to be best for their children yet. They haven't experienced any of these or certainly not all of them. It's like playing a game. It's taking a gamble with them. Resources and tools are not provided all in one place for a diversity of needs. And so a child gets pulled out of one school and thrown into another the next year. Instead of all these different approaches being allowed to be provided in one place."

The parent of an adopted 7 year old hard of hearing child with progressive vision loss in Southern Oregon shared, "My child was originally put in a program for children with severe delays or disability. I pulled him out after 2 days because he is not autistic and didn't fit in the category as a Deaf individual. The classroom was full of stimulation [meaning lots of adults and children talking at the same time] going on and the Deaf child will miss out all the information because the information is not being communicated to him directly." He was eventually put into a different school with self-contained classroom but did not have an audiologist coming in until the parent fought with the district, "He was receiving speech therapy via a computer which was obviously ineffective. After a lot of negotiating and pushing and pulling and documenting, I finally got a speech therapist to come in once a week to work with him at the school. I felt we like we lost six to eight weeks because of this. I also feel like here in this county I have to fight for everything. As a result, he doesn't know how to interact with hearing children because of his delay and isolation is a struggle. He's not able to do things that other kids get to do, like go to camp. Because they won't have an interpreter. Even doing Boys Scouts, you know, not having an interpreter for Boy Scouts [they have asked for one multiple times]...He watched his older brother [hearing] going to camps and Boys Scout all summer and it hurts."

A parent of 7 month old baby expressed her frustration with an early intervention program on communication, "The early intervention preschool right now, the only preschool I could get a hold of that had any sign support and with a hearing specialist, doesn't get it."

Another parent with a Deaf child who uses both ASL and spoken language who is involved with the Hand and Voice expressed frustration with a recent incident in Central Oregon, "I hear and see a lot of really, really confused parents. And depending where you are in the state, I'm so sad to hear, early intervention tells parents there [in central Oregon] they need to sit on their hands and not sign to their babies because their babies will never speak if they do that. And that's coming from early intervention and it's still happening. So part of the issue there is there are no certified Deaf and hard of hearing specialists in the early intervention program in many of the rural parts of the state. Huge barriers. So what we're talking about is these children growing up many times very frustrated."

The parent of an adult hard of hearing child who uses both ASL and spoken language shared, "There's this window in there, there's this problem where kids aren't getting language. And I'm not talking about sounds. Because what I'm seeing is they're not getting language. And when they finally get [the hearing aids] on, they're being told to not sign. And so there's just this big gap and for me that's a huge barrier as children go forward and I would just like to see, you know, the system to be able to support whatever it is that parents are dreaming of and wanting for their children. I'd like to see babies with lots of language." Another parent of a 5 year old hard of hearing child continued, "That sounds so crazy to me that they're not encouraging signing because even for kids without hearing loss now it's like baby signing, baby signing. They can communicate what they want to you instead of crying. It seems very odd that anyone would advocate the opposite."

The following flowchart and description was developed based on data from several Focus Group interviews with Parents of Deaf, deaf, and hard of hearing children. Comments from parents and teachers are interwoven in the description and italicized.

In Oregon, when a baby is born, a hearing screening takes place to determine if the newborn experiences any range of hearing loss. Once it is determined the baby potentially has a hearing loss, the newborn is referred to an audiologist for further testing. After an audiologist confirms the hearing loss, the audiologist will discuss assistive listening devices and communication options available to the newborn baby. Typically, families may choose to explore options that involve surgery, for example, cochlear implants, although this would not occur until the baby is older.

After the personal devices (e.g., hearing aids and cochlear implants) and communication options are considered for the baby, the family will be referred to the County Service Coordinator to open a new case. They will work with the family to explore the appropriateness of the nearest regional school program.

Many parents expressed frustration with limited information on communication options from ENTs and other professionals; as one parent of a 7 year old deaf boy who relies on an oral approach stated, “When you go to the doctor and the doctor tells you your child is deaf, you don’t hear anything about the next step, which is to choose a communication method. And the idea that there is an entire method that is oral wasn’t actually presented...I was presented with cued speech, which is dead. I mean nobody uses cued speech and there is nobody to even teach you that and I spent months and months researching cued speech on my own until I found other options.”

At age 6 months to 3 years, the family with a toddler living with hearing loss will work with a representative from the Regional School Program to determine the nearest possible program available to this family. If the parents wish to have a Parent Mentor to work with them, the County Service Coordinator will make another referral to a Parent Mentor through the program Guide By Your Side via Hands and Voices of Oregon. The parents will attend the Individual Family Service Plan (IFSP) meeting through the Regional Program. The IFSP is a plan for special service for young children with disabilities from birth to age three. After the age of three, an Individualized Education Program (IEP) is put into place. The IFSP plan is often carried out at the Deaf or hard of hearing child’s home.

An annual meeting for IFSP is hosted with the Regional School Program and the parents to discuss the education path. This IFSP evolves into an IEP once the child turns three until graduation or it is no longer needed. Parents expressed frustrations for not being provided the entire range of options related to education for the Deaf and hard of hearing individuals. For example, in the Metro Portland area during the child’s time at age of three to five years old, the Regional School Program allegedly withheld the information that there is a classroom for Deaf or hard of hearing students. Many parents reported not being aware of a Deaf classroom or other options for their child.

The parent of a 1 year old son who uses both ASL and spoken language observed: “There seems to be a rift down the middle; one is oral and one is ASL, and they are very much against one another but I want him to be able to speak and so he can hear and speak to other people, but I want him to be with his Deaf roots and be able to do sign language. I want him to be multifaceted. Why can’t we do that?”

The parent of a 5 year old Deaf boy complained: “When my son was diagnosed as Deaf, they [the early intervention team] looked at us and said ASL or oral, you need to pick one and you can’t do both. They said we will confuse him if we do both ASL and oral. You look at people who have hearing infants and they say teach them sign language for teaching them to eat and sleep but they are telling me I can’t do that with my Deaf child. You don’t know where to get information, but you feel like you are forced to have to make a decision for your child at that stage.”

The Regional School Program provides placement in a classroom. The placement includes coaching the teacher who works with the child in mainstreamed classrooms (i.e., the Deaf or hard of hearing child is placed in a hearing classroom with supports). The County Service Coordinator leads the meeting and makes the recommendation to place the child in a special class or mainstreamed program. (Note: if a child needs additional supports, classes for children with developmental disabilities or behavioral challenges are often not prepared to support a Deaf or hard of hearing child.) Many parents reported that they did not know about the possibility of an ASL and English classroom until much later in the child's education.

It is standard to have a Parent Mentor through Guide By Your Side to accommodate parents at every meeting that involves a County Service Coordinator and Regional School Programs. The Parent Mentor can advocate and ensure that parents of a Deaf or hard of hearing child receives all kinds of information, options, and resources that are made available to them.

Some parents expressed frustration that their child had to fail in other settings before the option of Oregon School for the Deaf was presented. This puts Deaf and hard of hearing child at risk for persistent language deprivation, and the lack of academic growth can be pronounced and severe in comparison to their hearing peers.

According to parents, the Oregon School for the Deaf is perceived as the last resource to work with the Deaf child over other academic programs. This results in information about this option being withheld until much later in the child's life.

A parent who is involved with the Hands and Voice organization with an adult Deaf child who uses both ASL and spoken language shared, "Even if you're getting the language in [auditorily], there are still holes. Even if you have really good hearing aids, it's that Swiss cheese effect. You're not always getting perfect language. Our kids are still going to need lots and lots of visual support as well. So these are barriers throughout their whole life."

Another parent of an adult hard of hearing student added, "I always hear the phrase hearing aids are not like eyeglasses. You know, they don't give you 20/20 hearing. Are you finding that the people you work with understand that? Do their teachers understand that? Even now, we still have to educate school districts on this. They [mainstream programs] do not understand. They don't get it. They still think that the [Deaf or hard of hearing] kids just don't listen. They're the ones not listening."

Financial Barriers to Education

A parent of 5 year old deaf daughter who choose the oral only option at Tucker-Maxon stated, "I live in Portland. Oregon City is paying for students who go to Tucker-Maxon. My daughter comes here. Portland Public Schools never paid, so I am out of luck. I had to apply for scholarships and go through this huge process to find a financial help."

Another parent of a Tucker-Maxon student, "That's why I came to this focus group. I want Portland Public to pay tuition as an option because I have seen what they do with children in Portland Public Schools system. Put all the deaf kids in one room and they 'integrate them at lunch.'" This parent reported she refinanced her house in order to pay for the tuition.

Another angry parent of a Deaf child stated, “I think that Portland Public Schools wants my daughter to fail and fail badly before I could look at another option before they were pushed hard enough to move.”

An angry parent requested to have this on record, “Tuition is $17,000 a year at Tucker-Maxon, 10 months and if you are a full time working parent, which you have to be to pay for that it’s another $400-600 a month, so it’s insane. We need support [reference to financial support].”

Postsecondary Educational Settings

The requirements of postsecondary settings are very different from secondary settings. In the public school system, children with disabilities are identified, have individualized education plans developed, and are provided accommodations based on this. In postsecondary settings, it is up to the individual to request an accommodation, which also entails knowing what accommodations might be most useful in this new setting and how to use them effectively. Students also must provide documentation of the need for the requested accommodation. Nearly half (46.3%; N=291) of respondents have requested ADA/504 accommodations while in school. Of these, just 22.3% (N=140) received all requested accommodations. Fewer received only some accommodations (14.6%; N= 92) or not their preferred ones (7.0%; N=44).

ASL interpreters (68.8%; N=185) and note takers (69.1%; N=186) are the most widely used accommodations in trade school or college by respondents who received accommodations. Note: The number of people who did not request accommodations is inflated by the number of people who lost their hearing post-college. Because we do not know at what age participants attended college, we did not remove any respondent age categories from this analysis.

Table 9: Accommodations used in Postsecondary Education Settings

Accommodations Used (Multiple Response) (N=269)	Percent	Count
Note takers	69.1%	186
ASL interpreters	68.8%	185
CART or other caption service	21.2%	57
Other (please specify)	19.0%	51
Personal listening devices (e.g. FM system)	13.8%	37
Oral interpreter	3.7%	10

Among those respondents who used accommodations while in school (N=269), a sizable portion state that these accommodations were not sufficient for their education or training (15.2%; N=41) or were unsure it helped them (13.8%); N=37). Thus, almost one-third of those attending postsecondary education programs felt they could have had more effective accommodations than they received.

Employment

Respondents were asked several questions about their employment status, if they were seeking work, and if they believed hearing loss has had any impact on their ability to get, keep, or be promoted on the job. Over one-third (36.0%; N=302) were employed for wages at the time of the study; with another 7.5% (N=63) self-employed. Eleven percent (N=95) were out of work at the time of the study. Nearly two in five (38.5%; N=323) were retired.

Table 10: Employment Status

Out of work for less than a year	2.7%	23
A homemaker	5.7%	48
A student	13.1%	110
Retired	38.5%	323

Four in ten (40.0%; N=342) were employed at the time of the survey. Another one in ten (10.0%; N=84) were out of work. Half (50.1%; N=428) were out of the labor market.

Table 11: Employment Status

Out of work/not looking	3.3%	28
Out of work/unspecified	0.2%	2
Out of labor market (e.g., retired, student, underage)	50.1%	428

Among respondents who are currently seeking work, just over one-fourth (27.3%; N=34) want a full-time position. Thirty-nine percent (N=34) are not looking for work at the moment.

Employment, household income, and housing are all closely related. Respondents who indicate they live alone are significantly more likely than others to report an annual income from all sources below $35,000.

Table 12: Annual Household Income by Number in Household

Annual Household Income from All Sources (N=769)	Live Alone (N=188)	Others in Household
Under $25,000	43.1% (81)	25.0% (145)
$25,000 - $34,999	20.7% (39)	11.0% (64)
$35,000 - $49,999	10.1% (19)	11.6% (67)
$50,000 - $74,999	12.8% (24)	19.5% (113)

$100,000 - $149,999	3.2% (6)	13.6% (79)
$150,000+	1.6% (3)	6.6% (38)

Over half of respondents who are currently employed for wages or self-employed work 40 or more hours per week (56.2%; N=190). A smaller portion (15.1%; N=51) works 20 or fewer hours, while about one in ten work a variable schedule (9.5%; N=32).

Figure 13: Hours Worked per Week at all Jobs

Half (49.4%; N=165) of employed respondents are hourly workers, while two in five (41.6%; N=139) are salaried. The remaining 9% are paid on commission or some other way.

Fully one in five respondents (21.5%; N=176) report that they have left employment previously because of their hearing loss. Among those, 17.8% (N=31) say they felt strongly encouraged to take early retirement due to their hearing loss. An equal portion (17.2%; N=138) of all respondents feel that they were previously laid off or fired due to their hearing loss.

Table 13: Perceived Impact of Hearing Loss on Employment

Impact of Hearing Loss on Employment	Percent	Count
Believe they were ever laid off/fired due to their hearing loss (N=803)	17.2%	138
Left employment because of Hearing Loss (N=819)	21.5%	176
Felt strongly encouraged to take early retirement due to their hearing loss (Base: left employment due to hearing loss) (N=176)	17.8%	31

Among those respondents who are currently out of a job (N = 91), 16.5% (N=15) have turned down a job in the past 12 months. While they included a number of reasons for this, five respondents cited reasons centered on their hearing loss, such as their inability to hear or the lack of accommodations at the job site.

Misconceptions about what Deaf and hard of hearing people can do is by far the most commonly cited reason for not finding a job among respondents (31.3%; N= 198). Another 21.3% (N=135) think it is because of their hearing loss.

Workplace situations can be difficult for people who are Deaf or hard of hearing. About three in five say department/staff meetings (62.3%; N=442) or socializing with co-workers (58.9%; N=418) can be difficult due to their hearing loss. In-service-training (47.6%; N=338) or working/communicating with the public (57.0%; N=405) are also viewed as difficult situations. Lack of ability to satisfy social norms are significant even if a person is doing their job well. It has a negative impact on the individual's self-esteem and on coworkers' desires to engage with the person on projects.

Treatment at Work

A hard of hearing woman shared her common frustration while at work during large meetings where she relies on induction loops or FM systems for communication access, “People don’t want to use the microphone... They can holler all they want but if it doesn’t come into the microphone you’re not going to hear it. So it’s either one or the other, and they’ll go, ‘I can talk loud enough’, and they’ll quit talking in the microphone.”

A hard of hearing male reported he quit working at a health care organization before anticipated, “Because it was difficult for me to hear under most circumstances, like in a conference room, and I could not get accommodations that worked for me.” He continued to share a common dilemma that many Deaf and hard of hearing individuals experience at the workplace, “I don’t know of any other organizations other than the Hearing Loss Association that can provide that sort of comprehensive information to individuals that are hard of hearing in terms of employers. But I think mostly it takes self-advocacy to get it happen and a lot of people are afraid to confront an employer and say I need special phone, I need this, I need that. Because they are afraid they’re going to get canned.”

Barriers Related to Employment

A hard of hearing woman who lives in the Northern Coast region, who relies solely on spoken language, shared her significant employment barriers, “The hearing aids that I bought in my late 30’s and early 40’s were getting more helpful. But I still had a lot of problems working. ...I have my Bachelor’s Degree in Sociology and my Master’s in Library Science, and I did fine in school. But to try to find a job was something else entirely. And I knew that I’m not going to be able to hear well, I’m not going to be able to answer the phone, because I wouldn’t be able to get even just phone numbers right or names spelled right. Just a simple message like that. And a couple of jobs I had, I had to fill in for the receptionist, but I couldn’t do it. I just fell apart. And so they, so they modified the job for me, but I still had problems. I used the services of rehabilitation, and my counselor thought to put me in a secretary job. And I didn’t do well at all. I worked about twice as hard as I had to, but the supervisor still told me that my performance is pretty bad.” Then, after she received her Library degree, she thought she had a new employment opportunity but continued to struggle, “I thought, well I can’t be sitting at the reference desk and saying, ‘What? What? What?’ or any kind of front desk. So they modified the job for me, like that, but I still, I just didn’t, I had a lot of problems. They had modified the job so much that they decided it just isn’t going to work out. I interviewed well, and so I could get jobs. But I couldn’t keep them.” As a result she took an early retirement at age of 47, “because I couldn’t take it anymore.”

A young Deaf ASL user shared her employment barrier in Southern Oregon, “I had a job interview with the Oregon Department of Transportation in Medford. They contacted me a week and half later before asking if I was still interested. Sure, so for the interview, I let them know I was Deaf. They hesitated; I asked for an interpreter to make everything more fluent for everyone. They said, ‘Okay.’ They actually asked if I could bring someone, like my friend or family, and I told them it wasn’t professional, and that my family and friends weren’t certified. I wanted to keep my personal and business lives separate. Their response was, ‘oh...’.” Upon her arrival, there was not an interpreter present, so she offered to communicate by typing on her iPad. She stated this was not as effective but the only option at that time. This person was not offered the job and experienced similar incidents with other State level jobs. Ultimately she was hired with the US Forest Department in Oregon, a Federal level job.

A Deaf engineer reported a barrier related to lack of qualified interpreters in employment setting, “I’m an engineer and I need someone who knows the jargon because that could cost me my job. If they are incompetent, they can make me look bad and people won’t realize that [it’s really the interpreter’s problem].”

A deaf-blind male with Usher syndrome who relies on spoken language shared his struggle on employment, “Because I made aggressive use of the assistive devices, I was able to complete my education and even get some employment, although it was very difficult getting employment.” He had a stable job until he had to retire early due to his hearing and vision difficulties, “I retired early because of my hearing and vision loss... it was definitely getting harder for me to read literature thoroughly and this slowed down my productivity, which I didn’t want to continue.”

Socioeconomic Indicators

Although this project was not able to collect data to construct a true socioeconomic status (SES) value for each respondent, information was collected on the number in the household and the household income. In addition, because they are closely related to SES, information on ability to obtain safe, affordable housing and transportation are included in this section.

Number in Household

Nearly one-fourth of respondents (23.9%; N=199) live alone. Over one in three (36.8%; N=306) have one other person in the household.

Table 16: Number Living in Household

Number in Household(N=831)	Percent	Count
Lives alone	23.9%	199
1	36.8%	306
2	16.2%	135
3	11.0%	91
4	4.8%	40
5 or more	7.2%	60

Household Income

Three in ten (29.4%; N=226) reported an annual household income from all sources of under $25,000. This category also had the largest proportion of respondents regardless of how many members there are in the household. Over half (54.0%; N=415) have an income under $50,000.

Table 17: Annual Household Income from All Sources

Annual Household Income from All Sources (N=769)	Percent	Count
Under $25,000	29.4%	226
$25,000 - $34,999	13.4%	103
$35,000 - $49,999	11.2%	86
$50,000 - $74,999	17.8%	137
$75,000 - $99,999	11.8%	91
$100,000 - $149,999	11.1%	85
$150,000+	5.3%	41

Another way of looking at this data is to compare the household income with how many people are living in the house. While only 7% (n=55) of those reporting their income are possibly living at the federal poverty level (our data are reported in ranges), fully 30% are earning under $25,000/year, many with three or more people in the household.

Housing

About half of respondents stated that they owned the home they live in (51.8%; N=423). Another 22.7% (N=185) rent their current home. One in seven (14.3%; N=117) live with family members.

Table 19: Current Living Situation

The majority of respondents have not moved in the past year (78.4%; N=633), and 13.5% (N=109) have moved once. A small portion 5.2% (N=42) has moved three or more times in the last year, indicating instability in their home lives.

While over two in five say they never worry or stress about having enough money to pay their rent or mortgage (46.15; N=371), a sizable portion (20.5%; N=165) say they worry or stress always or usually.

Forty-six respondents (5.6%) indicated they do not feel safe where they live. Safe affordable housing is out of reach for many as they are not employed (16.3%; N=87) or they do not get paid enough (24.7%; N=132). Another 22.6% (N=121) have too many debts or a bad credit score (16.3%; N=87). Even with low incomes, many say they do not qualify for affordable housing (20.6%; N=110).

Other Barriers Faced in Housing

A Deaf ASL user who has fostered Deaf and Hard of Hearing children shared, “With my foster kid, the DHS took care of the interpreting process. They’re [DHS] very strict [about regulations], which is good. We had one smoke alarm that wasn’t acceptable because we’re Deaf. She was right; it would just beep and we wouldn’t know if there were a fire, you know what I mean? So I had to change it to a visual alarm, so I was glad she knew that. The alarm also had to be with a carbon monoxide detector. It had to have a light. So, it’s sad that a regular smoke alarm is maybe $20, but for Deaf people, the detector is $179. Wow. I had to pay for that and we need several of these in the house. Luckily, our costs were covered [by DHS] so that helped us do it sooner, but that was interesting. I know this will be a financial barrier for many Deaf and hard of hearing people.”

A young hard of hearing male who wears hearing aids and uses ASL expressed his frustration, “I’m renting an apartment, and when I started the lease two years ago, I requested visual alerts for the doorbell and fire alarm. They said they’d provide it for me, but then the management said I had to pay for it myself. I thought they were obligated to provide it, but they said I had to pay for it.”

A Deaf parent relayed this about the cost of equipment: “I’m looking for a motion-sensing system for my child to alert us if needed during middle of the night. We might not know if he gets up during the night, so I’ve been looking for a motion-sensing thing, but there doesn’t seem to be one with a flashing light. If you buy something, you can connect it and transfer it to the clock, but it’s a small thing for sensing motion. And it’s costly, so it’s a long process. We’re not able to find that. There’s one company, Weitbrecht Communications, that has a kit for anything for your apartment like alarms, doorbells, everything. It’s $700!”

A deaf-blind male senior citizen shared his barrier as a homeowner, “I passionately love my yard. I work in my yard as much as I can but it is very hard doing that. And I can barely afford the amount of extra help that I pay for.”

Then he shared his frustration over a recent home repair. “When I had the ceiling repaired, it was a huge controversy. It was a huge battle with contractors ‘cause the contractors said, ‘Well, we think we fixed it good enough.’ And so I asked the neighbor and the neighbor said, ‘I don’t think that’s good enough. I couldn’t look and decide for myself [because of significant vision loss]. So, eventually I hired another contractor and he basically said, ‘It’s good enough. I think I can just put one coat of paint on it.’ There’s a big repair in the area and it could have certainly been done better but I can’t see it well enough. So it puts a lot of stress on me to know who to trust.” This same area leaked again during a recent downpour.

Transportation

By far, respondents rely mostly on cars for their transportation needs (74.0%; N=81). One in ten (10.0%; N=81) relies on friends or families for their needs.

Table 21: Transportation Most Frequently Used

Most often used Transportation (N=814)	Percent	Count
Car or other motorized vehicle	74.0%	602
Friend/Family	10.0%	81
Public Transportation – BUS	6.1%	50
Public Transportation – Light Rail	3.1%	25
Walking	2.6%	21
Bicycle	1.6%	13
Paid support service provider	1.6%	13
Public Transportation – Other	1.1%	9

The existing transportation system, including transit, bikes, or highway, seems to meet over half of respondents' needs extremely well (56.7%; N=441). A sizeable proportion (13.2%; N=103), however, does not get their needs met at all or not very well.

Figure 15: Does Transportation Meet Needs?

Among those who use public transportation (bus, light rail, or other) (N=83), just over two in four (43.4%; N=36) say the system serves them extremely well; with another 45.8% (N=38) stating it serves them somewhat well. Another 10.8% (N=9) do not believe the existing transportation system serves them adequately. Most responses about issues with transportation relate to being in a rural area where there is no public transportation or only limited times and stops, and not being able to get to the stops.

Transportation Barriers

A DeafBlind person shared her significant barrier in transportation living in a rural town, "Because of my hearing loss and my vision loss, my biggest barrier is transportation. I love this town and I would like to settle here if I can but the biggest problem is transportation. If I want to go food shopping, I have to find a friend who would be willing to drive me to the grocery store or hire a SSP to drive me.” She also discussed significant social isolation because of a transportation barrier by depending on the person’s schedule in order to plan any activities. “If I had an awful day or feel overwhelmed, I can’t [just] go out.” Limited bus schedule is a barrier for many who rely on public transportation and often feel isolated during evenings and weekends, “There is a bus but it is very, very limited. It only works Monday through Friday and for a limited time period per day. The last bus to [the bigger town] is 5:30PM. The first bus is in the morning and it runs every 50 minutes.”

Public Services

Respondents were asked about their use of 14 different public services over the past year. Overall, 39.8% (N=320) received services through social security, and another 19.0% (N=153) received services through OHP/Medicaid.

Of the 805 respondents who answered the questions about which of 14 public services they have applied to in the past year, 42.7% (N=344) did not apply to any service. Among the 430 respondents who did receive services, 44.9% (N=193) applied to and received one service. The average number of services received is 2.24.

Respondents were asked if they had applied for any of these services in the past year only, in order to ensure responses and any concerns that were brought up were current and relevant. In the chart below, the bars on the left indicate the percent who did not apply in the past year, and the bars to the right indicate the percent who did apply for the service in the past year. Note: they may already be using the service from an application in a previous year.

are those who have applied and did not receive services, and the far right segments are those who applied and were approved for services. Note the N, listed next to the agency, varies greatly for each program.

One-third (34.8%; N=247) of the total respondents to this item report having no difficulties when accessing public services. Of those who did face challenges, people impatient with communication (45.7%; N=196) or the lack of available interpreters (40.3%; N=173) are among the main reasons that make access to public services difficult for respondents.

Table 22: Difficulties in Accessing Public Services in the Past 12 Months

Difficulties in Accessing Public Services –Past 12 months (Multiple Response) (N=429)	Percent	Count
Person impatient with communication	45.7%	196

Vocational Rehabilitation Services

Oregon Vocational Rehabilitation Services provides services to Oregonians with disabilities to obtain and maintain employment. The only exceptions are legal or total blindness or deaf-blindness. Deaf-blind individuals are served by the Oregon Commission for the Blind. OVRs currently has Rehabilitation Counselors who have Masters Degrees in rehabilitation counseling with a focus on Deaf and hard of hearing services in 8 out of 30 offices. It is reported that FM systems are available in each of the 30 offices located in Oregon. They reported they provide accommodations when requested by the Deaf and hard of hearing individuals for meetings, but pointed out challenges related to finding qualified interpreters.

When asked about what desired changes they would like to see in OVRs, one Rehabilitation Counselor for the Deaf stated, "I'm hoping to be able to expand and do some targeted things with the Deaf students that are not necessarily in the school for the Deaf. We've got a really strong program for the Oregon School for the Deaf kids. But once they get out into the mainstream system we tend to lose them."

She continued, "Finding qualified partners to provide services at all is a challenge in most of the state, but for providing accommodations generally it's finding qualified interpreters. Generally for us, policy wise, that means certified. We want RID [Registry of Interpreters for the Deaf] certification or any certification. There's specific levels of certification that we consider acceptable. We do on occasion stray from that -- especially if the consumer says, 'I want this interpreter because this interpreter is the best match for my communication style.' We do not allow friends or family members to be interpreters -- that's just not okay. We work with clients when they are saying, 'Well, so and so could just interpret.' It's like, 'No. And here's why' and this is an opportunity to educate the Deaf or hard of hearing consumer who may not be aware of the issues or potential harm."

Barriers Related to Public Service Agencies

An organization that works closely with the DHS to provide services to the DeafPlus population shared both success stories and barriers related to accommodations and information access for their staff who are Deaf and hard of hearing: "Much of our training is very discriminatory against folks who are Deaf. Oregon Developmental Disabled Services contracts with a company called OTAC. Oregon Technical Advisory Committee or something like that. They do all our training. ... They provide specific training on autism or other characteristics, other developmental disabilities. They have a very comprehensive training program that they provide in English. They have webinars all the time. And they have refused [to make them accessible]. They have been asked in writing, verbally, we've asked them if there was any way to change that. We've tried to go through DHS to get some kind of accommodation [like the interpreter in the 'picture in picture' option on your webinar. Hey, at least have closed captioning--although that's really not the way to go because that's still English. And they have refused. So, I go to the training [because I am hearing] or I send my [hearing] assistant. We learn all the trainings and then we have to teach it to our [Deaf] staff." This requires additional resources and time for the organization.

First Responders

Respondents also experienced difficulties communicating with or receiving assistance from first responders in an emergency situation. Responses varied slightly from 806 to 821. The greatest number of respondents had interactions with emergency department doctors and nurses (60%). Respondents had the fewest interactions with fire departments (28%). Among those who used any of the services, over two in five stated they found it difficult to receive assistance from or communicate with first responders. Especially troubling are the percentages for situations involving emergency departments where over half had difficulties with either the doctors (54.0%; N=263) or the nurses (54.6%; N=271).

Text to 9-1-1

Several participants mentioned some incidents related to text to 9-1-1: “The truth of the matter is any Deaf person will tell you that when they try to call 9-1-1, and this is something that we’re currently changing and you may be very well aware of. But if you try to call 9-1-1 on TTY it hangs up on you. It hangs up on you again and again and again and again. Just because there’s the delay. They think that there’s nobody there anymore. So, text is the way to go. Talk to text. Text to talk is the way to go. Just within the last couple of weeks, Multnomah County, the north end of Oregon, and the southern end of Washington began a text to 9-1-1 system just within the last couple of weeks. We’ve been talking with both the city and the county for a very long time about text to 9-1-1. And as soon as I heard that they were doing it up there, I contacted Lane County here and they’re waiting to see how it goes up there. But we really need it down here. It’s just unbelievable that they don’t have it. Not only for my Deaf staff. I have Deaf staff in the community. When an emergency happens -- we have smart phones for when we go out in the community and there’s Sorenson on that phone so that they can make a videophone call from the cell phone. But that's still not as good as text to 9-1-1. So, we're looking forward to it."

A lieutenant paramedic who was interviewed stated, "Another thing that will help on the 9-1-1 side is direct texting with 9-1-1 for emergency calls rather than going through video relay. I think that would really speed up the emergency response, which I believe some counties are doing, texting 9-1-1, but not all of them."

A website was developed to share information related to the text to 9-1-1 call in Oregon: www.nwtext911.info. Several videos with closed captions are posted on this website, as well as an ASL version (with subtitles). In addition, NG9-1-1 (next generation 9-1-1) is coming, and should be explored for Oregon. It will have options that will provide multiple ways to contact 9-1-1 that will help people with a variety of disabilities.

Fire Alarm Devices

A Deputy Fire Marshal from Central Oregon was interviewed related to accommodations for the Deaf and hard of hearing. This Fire Marshal initiated a program in 2005 to provide smoke alarms with flashing lights to Deaf and hard of hearing individuals. During the past year, 10 devices were provided to Deaf and hard of hearing individuals in the region.

A lieutenant paramedic from the Lower Willamette Valley was interviewed and mentioned that his department provided the smoke detector with a flashing light for the Deaf and hard of hearing population few years ago, but it was just a one-time opportunity.

During 2016, Portland Fire and Rescue Service (PF&R) received a $95,239 grant from the Federal Emergency Management Administration (FEMA) and then PF&R contributed additional $4,761 to make the total project amount to $100,000 to purchase and install specialized smoke alarms for the city's Deaf and hard of hearing residents. (More information can be found at: <https://www.portlandoregon.gov/fire/article/570048>.)

Emergency Management

Several emergency management individuals were interviewed in Oregon. Many confirmed that they were not sure if the videos related to emergency were captioned, nor could they confirm if any videos were provided in ASL for individuals who rely on visual language.

Foster System Barriers

Although not specifically listed in the state agencies list, several focus group participants shared stories related to the current foster system:

A Deaf woman in her late thirties who uses ASL stated, "I have a barrier not for me, but for my foster child [who is Deaf]. We got a foster child who is six years old last June. We are his sixth family — he was with a different family each year. The number one barrier is probably communication. It's frustrating. He is Deaf and has a cochlear implant, but hasn't had an opportunity to learn how to use it. He doesn't know how. He's only six. With us, my husband was certified in 2012 [to take in foster children], and we specifically asked about Deaf children around Oregon. They said there was no way they could know if a child was Deaf, that they couldn't disclose that information. That means his life was almost ruined because he hopped from hearing family to hearing family who couldn't communicate with him. We're fortunate. Oh my God, I have a broken heart seeing what he's gone through and how he's become a product of that, his hopping from family to family. So we have a really tough time with him. He's signing, but he's making up signs that aren't decipherable. We can't understand him, and he makes faces in frustration, because he's trying so hard to speak and sign. — The point is, his barriers. Why didn't he get a Deaf family? I did ask the case worker if there were any other Deaf people interested in this, and she said there were three families: one hearing, a Deaf woman and hearing husband, and then a woman. The first family wasn't qualified because of the housing situation not fitting that child in terms of safety. So is it possible that your research [referring to this CNA report] could find a way through DHS to make sure that we in the Deaf community can know if Deaf foster kids are available out there. We could be the first to take those kids — often there aren't enough Deaf families, foster Deaf families.”

A young woman in her early twenties who uses both ASL and spoken language, and uses a cochlear implant, shared her personal story as a foster child for almost three years with four different families, “I went through the foster system, when I was a young kid. My mother was arrested, so the police had a few hours to place me and my brother, so they found the first family who was all hearing and didn't know sign. I didn't know how to communicate with them and all that. They couldn't find someone who knew sign, then a week later, they placed me with another family — it was two ladies, a mother and daughter. They didn't know sign. The daughter knew some signs, but it was still hard for me to communicate. We have a need for more qualified people who can sign in foster care. My barrier was that I didn't know what was going on in my case.” She was eventually placed with her relatives who did not sign and communicated mostly by writing. “I want to see more foster care parents who can sign, or they could be Deaf, either way.”

A hearing mother who uses both ASL and spoken language in Southern Oregon adopted a Deaf son from the foster system, “DHS never explained what happened [child's history]. When he came to me [at age of 3], he couldn't eat, he didn't know how to play, he couldn't hold his body yet. He was like a newborn baby...He had no body strength at all. Even when I would hold him, he'd just flop... I suspected he was in a crib for two years and was severely neglected. He did not have any language.”

Barriers to Housing Services for Individuals who Need Additional Services

People needing specialized housing for the Deaf who also have intellectual developmental disabilities expressed several frustrations with many barriers experienced in the state: “They [Deaf residents] live in group homes with speaking staff and speaking roommates and they're isolated. They either get frustrated or fight and then they get ostracized for fighting or they isolate themselves and hide. The service we provide is opening up the world to them in their own language. I guess the best way to put this is that if you can imagine a situation where someone spoke French or Portuguese and they were in a house that only spoke English. That makes no sense. Well, it makes no sense to have somebody that uses American Sign Language to be in a house that speaks English. It's useless. You can't provide services to them at the same level as the speaking peers.

“It's really a discrimination issue. Truly. There's no regulation or mandate for any of the providers to provide to folks who are developmentally disabled and deaf in their own language. They continue to only hire speaking folks and who don't know ASL. There are some exceptions to that where there's a person here and a person there knows some sign language.

“And it goes beyond that because Deaf culture is very different than the speaking culture. So, having Deaf-to-Deaf is really important. It also makes sense because a Deaf person can learn how to be a direct support person in three to four months and be pretty good at it. But if you have a speaking person who's going to learn ASL, it's going to take four to six years. But even then, that's better than nothing. There's no funding for these.

“Here at this site, we pay for it ourselves and we have interpreters for everything that they do. Medical places, doctors and dentists and things like that, through us, have learned that they need to have interpreters and we mandate that they have interpreters because that's all disabilities access. It's the law.

“I can tell you, for sure, that other agencies do not. DHS does not. ODDS does not. I have a case manager that comes into this house every few months to do monitoring. For either behavioral stuff or medical stuff or whatever and they don't bring an interpreter with them.

“I actually saw a case manager, now they call them service coordinators, but I've seen a case manager come and when I have a new resident move into my house, she had the paperwork for him to sign. She didn't show up with an interpreter. She didn't want me to interpret. She spoke to the Deaf gentleman in English and pointed at things for him to sign where there's no way he could understand. It's just absolutely frustrating and wrong. You know, I get angry.”

A 70 year old Deaf female who lives in Central Oregon who suffered from a stroke on her right side, expressed frustration with the Department of Human Services and believes that a lack of qualified DHS staff and ASL interpreter has been making it difficult for her to acquire an available bed at Chestnut Lane (a senior citizen housing that serves Deaf, hard of hearing, and deaf-blind in Gresham, OR), “DHS won't let me go to Chestnut Lane. They [DHS] rejected me. They came to my home and evaluated me. Then they said I can't go to Chestnut. I was shocked. I need it because I have many health issues and I must live in assisted living. Right now I live at home by myself. I fall a lot and no one can help me. DHS say no to everything I asked for. For example, I asked for a caregiver and a [fall alert button]. I said I needed it and they [DHS] said I didn't need one. What?! I live by myself but they said sorry, if you want one, you can rent one. That was an insult. They knew I can't afford it. I barely can walk to bathroom. I cannot feel anything on my right side from the stroke, and I'm also half-blind from macular degeneration.”

She continued her story and shared a recent incident when she fell and struggled to call for help, “A female manager of [the fire] department installed the alarm. She showed me how to use it. It was outstanding. She also put a lockbox outside that could store my house key. No one can access it except for the fire department in case of fire. That way they can use it if I'm inside and can't open the door. This is because I fell one time and had to use videophone. The video interpreter couldn't see my face but could see my hands. I said that I had fallen and needed someone to come to help me, but to not break in because it isn't my house. They said okay, but how do we come in? They asked if I could crawl to the door. I hurt my knee, but I did crawl to the door. I was hopeful I could reach the doorknob, and I did open it to the two men outside. They lifted me to a chair. I hurt my knee and they wanted me to go to the hospital, but I didn't want to because I had my dog in the house. I couldn't just leave the dog stuck in the house, so I insisted on staying. They thought I broke my knee. It's still tender today. This is why I need to live at Chestnut Lane."

The Court System

Respondents were asked about their ability to complete legal forms (such as contracts) on their own, and were asked about their experiences (if any) with the court system. A small portion of respondents (16.0%; N=120) say they have trouble completing legal forms; with another 15.6% (N=117) not sure that they can complete forms on their own. Of the 778 responding to this item, 22.2% (N=169) indicated they were involved in the court system within the past five years.

While over one-third (37.3%) of respondents who were involved with the court system were invited to jury duty in the past five years, almost one quarter (23.1%) appeared as defendants.

Table 23: Reasons Involved in Court System

What are the reasons you were in court? (Multiple Response) (N=169)	Percent	Count
I was invited to do jury duty	37.3%	63
I was a witness	14.8%	25
I was a defendant	23.1%	39
Other	50.3%	85

Other reasons for court involvement involved traffic court (9.5%; N=16), divorce (9.5%; N=16) or child custody or support (4.1%; N=7), and financial issues (4.7%; N=8) of various types. Nine (5.3%) went to support family members who had court dates.

Out of the 63 respondents who were invited to serve on a jury, 23.8% (N=15) served, while the majority (76.2%; N=48) were excused. Among these, one in three (34.0%; N=18) believe they were excused because they had requested accommodations for their hearing loss.

Half (49.0%; N=75) of the respondents indicated they had no accommodations provided while in court. Certified American Sign Language interpreters are the most widely available accommodation.

Table 24: Accommodations used in Court Settings

Did you have any of the Following Available when in Court? (Multiple Response) (N=153)	Percent	Count
No accommodations were requested	49.0%	75
American Sign Language Interpreter (certified)	36.6%	56
Assistive Listening Devices (e.g., FM or Loop Systems)	8.5%	13
American Sign Language Interpreter (not certified)	5.2%	8
Video remote interpreter (VRI)	5.2%	8
CART/caption software	4.6%	7
Certified Deaf Interpreter	2.0%	3

Even though the above requests were provided, they did not always work as they should have. Four of the thirteen using assistive listening systems in the courtroom complained they were provided but did not work. Among those respondents (N=8) who had a video remote interpreter (VRI) available in the court, the experience was mostly perceived as negative (N=6), with the monitor too far away to see or the image freezing.

Respondents are noticeably unsure about the policies and availability of interpreters and assistive technology in the court system in their county of residence. Respondents were asked if their counties have policies regarding how courts notify people about the availability of interpreters or accommodations like CART, FM system, loop; if they've been encouraged to bring their own interpreters or assistive technology to court; if they understand the need for interpreters and assistive technology; if there is a designated person to contact for access; if the county court has a courtroom that is looped; and if information about accommodations is posted in public spaces. Between 62 and 82% of respondents who had been in the court system and had requested accommodations responded they were not sure if their counties had these policies or requirements.

ADA in Court System

Court ADA coordinators were interviewed throughout the state. The current training model involves statewide ADA training once every four months for new employee orientation. ADA coordinators at each of the courts in the state are responsible to provide ADA accommodations for all individual with disabilities who submit a request. Currently there are approximately 40 State ADA coordinators in Oregon. "We have some information available. Website accessibility, accessibility, ADA. It describes on our internet page how to request an accommodation. Our policies aren't attached to this page, specifically. It guides them to how to request an accommodation, how to contact the ADA coordinator for each court and office of the State Court Administrator's office. And there's a request for an accommodation to use website information. And then we also provide an ADA complaint form and a court language access complaint form."

Barriers Related to Legal System

A Deaf woman who uses ASL shared her frustration related to meeting with a lawyer in Willamette Valley, "I'll share one topic, that I'm not sure about the lawyer knowing the ADA law. That law means you provide interpreters for any situation regardless of factors —court, everything, the lawyer provides it. So I met with a lawyer. I have two lawyers, and I met with one to discuss something, and I wasn't billed for the interpreter even though it was kind of a hidden fee. So I paid [the bill]. Everything was okay and worked out. But the different lawyer, I was asked if I needed an interpreter, and I said yes. They said they'd provide one, so I went ahead and met with him for a consultation. Later, I got the bill and saw that I had to pay for the interpreter! Hey! He gets the write-off, but I have to pay? I went to argue with the lawyer, but he said it wasn't in his hands, and I ended up having to pay. So what's really the law? It's supposed to be that we ask for interpreters and get them, without paying for them? That's my question."

A Deaf woman in her forties who uses ASL shared her experience with the police when her sense of agency was lost, "Two years ago, I was in a serious car accident, where the car was totaled. So at the site of the accident, the police showed up. Me and my best friend are both Deaf, so we didn't know what was going on. We requested an interpreter, but the cop said, 'No, well, sorry, we can't do that.' And it was hard for me to read his illegible handwriting, so we had to wait for my best friend's [hearing] parents to show up to be able to help by talking with the police and exchange information."

A Deaf mental health professional shared a concern related to incidents where Deaf individuals are not being properly evaluated for competency related to the court system, "There are a lot of barriers related to the legal and mental health system. You have to be 100% competent [to stand trial]. Because [culturally] Deaf people are one percent of the population, we should have that percentage [to evaluate]. But, if you think about it, a lot of the things causing deafness cause other things, so we should have more Deaf people showing up. They don't really understand the language or the court process, and things that cause deafness often cause mental health or other problems. We should have at least 1% but we don't. That means we know there are people out there in the world who are not identified and not competent to go to court. They're being swept under the rug in the system. ...Some Deaf people are a bit more complicated [to evaluate] because [their language dysfluencies are mistaken for] mental health issues. Sometimes we can be creative with labeling them, like saying 'communication disorders' if we need to help the person develop competency. But sometimes the lawyer doesn't realize that the Deaf person does not understand. Deaf people often will fake it, nodding and pretending, when in reality they're not understanding of what is happening. We need a proper specialist to evaluate their competency."

He continued: "So there are Deaf people who are breaking the law, and their lawyers either don't notice or don't understand that the Deaf person isn't competent for court. Basically, these Deaf people do not meet the requirement for legal proceedings without some help. Many are in prison, but should have been sent to the OSH. They do not have access to communication in prison."

A former inmate who is hard of hearing and relies on ASL for communication shared his incident at the Washington County jail, "I often attend classes and treatment in jail such as Alcoholics Anonymous (but I was never diagnosed with alcohol abuse). They wouldn't provide an interpreter. I just sit there and am lost because I was required to attend this 90 day in-patient treatment when I didn't have alcohol issue." His partner also shared stories of where she became his advocate because of the barriers he experienced while in jail, "I was a college student at that time. I remember how burned out I was, driving back and forth, fighting for him, taking care of my baby. I had no time for myself. I had postpartum depression, which deeply impacted me that summer. I couldn't take care of myself. I had to focus on the system, on him, fighting for him. The point is they didn't provide him with services he needed. They kept bluffing, and saying they couldn't give him a TTY but they would use him to interpret for other Deaf inmates. I was so pissed off. I got his hearing aids, he can't live without his hearing aids. There are current legal actions with the jail system in Oregon for similar issue."

A DeafBlind male with tunnel vision who relies on ASL from Southern Oregon shared his recent incident with a police officer, "The police came and arrested me July 2, and wrote me a citation, and I went to court. My communication barrier came when the police showed up. The police parked, and I told them I couldn't hear. I informed them I was Deaf, but the police kept commanding me to get down on the ground. I cooperated and put my hands behind me. They handcuffed me, and as I was on the ground, the police began asking me questions. I couldn't talk! I just shrugged and tried to verbalize that I'm Deaf, I'm Deaf, I'm Deaf. The police then asked, 'Can you read lips?' I shook my head no. They asked me questions on paper, and I shrugged because I couldn't write with my hands in handcuffs! They put me in the car and drove to the police station. They put me in a room, not a cell, but a room, where they removed the cuffs and explained what happened. They let me go with a citation. They also didn't read my Miranda rights."

Quality of Life

The final set of variables were grouped into the category 'Quality of Life.' This category includes questions related to health, mental health, bullying and harassment, freedom from abuse, and alcohol and drug use.

Overall Indicators

Three quarters of respondents describe their physical and mental health, as well as the quality of their life, as either excellent or good. Quality of life especially is seen as excellent or good by 79.0% (N=622), while 70.6% (N=558) feel their mental health is excellent or good. Just a small percentage feel that either their health or quality of life is poor or even grave.

Table 25: Overall Quality of Life Indicators

Description of Overall Health and Quality of Life	Excellent/ Good	Fair	Poor/ Grave
Your overall physical health (N=791)	76.4% (604)	19.3% (153)	4.3% (34)
Your overall mental health (N=790)	70.6% (558)	22.8% (180)	6.6% (52)
Overall quality of life (N=787)	79.0% (622)	17.7% (139)	3.3% (26)

Health

Over one in four (27.3%; N= 215) respondents say their poor physical or mental health kept them from doing their usual activities, such as self-care, work, or recreation. Another 80 (10.2%) were unsure of the impact of their health or mental health on their usual daily activities.

While the majority of respondents have medical coverage through Medicare (49.2%; N=383) or Medicaid (15.8%; N=123), over one-fourth (27.7%; N=216) buy their plan themselves or through a family member. One in five (21.2%; N=165) receive health insurance through their employer. Only 2.8% have no coverage.

Table 26: Type of Medical Coverage

Type of Medical Coverage (N=779)	Percent	Count
Medicare	49.20%	383
An individually purchased plan	27.70%	216
Plan through employment	21.20%	165
Medicaid / Oregon Health Plan	15.80%	123
Military/VA	6.70%	52
Affordable Care Act (ACA)	2.80%	22
No coverage	2.80%	22
Other	0.80%	6
Alaska Native, Indian or Tribal Health	0.50%	4

Even with insurance, out of 786 respondents, one in five (20.9%; N=164) delayed a doctor's visit at least once in the past twelve months because they could not afford the costs. Three-fourths (77.6%; N=611) have received a routine physical checkup within the past 12 months. However, a small portion have not received a checkup in over two years (9.5%; N=75), with 2.0% (N=16) stating they have never gone for a routine physical exam.

Respondents were also asked if they had experienced delays in medical treatment. While untimely appointments are the main reasons medical care was delayed (17.3%; N=121), respondents also mentioned interpreter availability or doctors not sensitive to their communication needs as reasons to not seek needed care (16.4%; N=115). Fifty-nine percent (N=413) did not experience delays in medical care or did not need any care.

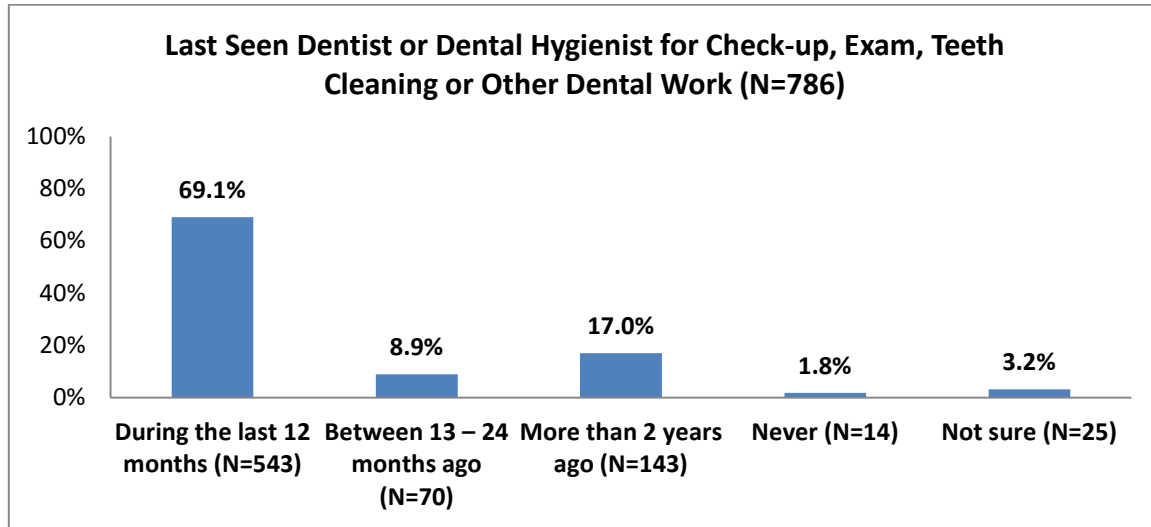

Almost half (46.9%; N=363) are very satisfied with the healthcare they have received in the past 12 months. Few (5.6%; N=43) express dissatisfaction overall.

While seven in ten (69.1%; N=543) respondents have visited a dentist in the past 12 months, a smaller portion has not done so in over two years (17.0%; N=143). A few (1.8%; N=14) have never visited a dental office for a checkup, cleaning, or other dental work.

Respondents are nearly split when it comes to their healthcare treatment and their hearing loss: While 9.1% (N=70) feel they were treated worse than others due to their hearing loss when they sought health care, nearly as many (6.9%; N=53) feel they were treated better. Overall, the majority feels they are treated the same as others (84.0%; N=646).

Table 27: Treatment in Healthcare Settings

Within the past 12 months, when seeking healthcare, do you feel you were treated worse than, the same as, or better than other people without hearing loss? (N=769)	Percent	Count
Worse than others	9.1%	70
The same as others	84.0%	646
Better than others	6.9%	53

It is unclear on what the participants based this valuation. They did not seem to relate it to communication. Of the respondents who use ASL, tactile ASL, or SimCom (N=334), only half (N=170) report their doctor provides an ASL interpreter. Another 2.4% (N=8) report direct communication with their doctors (i.e., their doctor uses ASL him or herself). In the open-ended responses (N=579), 124 (21.4%) take a family member or friend with them to assist in communication. The majority of these respondents are people who would identify as hard of hearing and who do not use ASL for communication. Only 5 (.9%) indicated they used assistive listening technology in the doctor's office, while 30 (5.2%) indicated they use writing.

Overall, two in five (40.6%; N=253) report they had a problem understanding a medical situation because the medical staff did not accommodate their communication needs. Among those who use ASL (N=332), over half (54.8%; N=182) had a problem because the situation was not explained in ASL.

A sizable portion of all respondents also state their doctor has asked them to bring their own interpreter or a family member to help with their communication needs (17.0%; N=130). Nearly three in four (72.6%; N=599) say their doctor accommodates them by speaking slower or making sure he or she speaks directly to them face to face.

*Note: the base for the top item is people who mainly use spoken English (N=623) and the base for the lower item is respondents who communicate via American Sign Language, Total Communication, or Tactile American Sign Language (N=332)

A hard of hearing male in his sixties shared his frustration and negative experience with the medical profession, “The medical profession is really not good at providing assistive listening devices. We [HLAA] worked heavily with medical health and got them at least in the hospital to make some things available to hard of hearing people. But if you go to see a doctor and he’s talking about what he’s going to prescribe for you or what you should do for this condition or that condition and you don’t understand but you think you’ve understood, it can be dangerous. They don’t provide assistive devices.”

Further, when asked if they have experienced confusion about the use of prescription medicines, one-third (N=232) agree that they have been confused about how to use a prescription because of communication problems with their doctor or the pharmacist. In addition, 9.1% (N=71) say they have gotten sick or had a bad reaction to a prescription medicine because they did not understand the instructions.

Communication Barriers in Medical Settings

A Deaf ASL user who grew up oral [spoken language methodology] and currently lives in Southern Oregon shared a situation that happened to her frequently when attending doctor's appointments, "I call ahead of time and request for sign language interpreter. 'Sure, okay, we'll get one' and then I say 'Thank you.' Then I would show up [at the doctor's office] and ask 'Where is the interpreter? And they would respond, 'Oh there is no interpreter.' They act like they didn't know anything about my request but they do. They've seen me from before but they also know that I can talk. 'You can talk. You don't need an interpreter.' I would tell them that my mouth is not broken but my ears are."

This same woman shared her frustration related to her speaking ability, "People have told me that my speaking ability is awesome and is like a hearing person's ability and I say 'thank you' but really, it is a curse because they don't give me an interpreter because I've been told many times that I speak fine, and that I don't need an interpreter. My mouth does not need an interpreter, my ears do!"

A senior citizen ASL user in Willamette Valley shared her medical setting barrier, "I had a doctor perform surgery on my foot. I asked for an interpreter, and was told they would take care of everything. I showed up, and there was no interpreter. The nurse said, 'Oh, we don't need to. We can write back and forth.' The woman knew a bit of sign, and I was caught off guard. It was okay, better than nothing. ...But for more details, she couldn't understand. I had to repeat myself over and over. I didn't like that, no. I wanted to emphasize certain things, and she couldn't understand. I preferred an interpreter, but they said we didn't need one. I wonder if they were trying to save money by using this woman who worked at the doctor's clinic."

Several participants expressed their struggle using Video Remote Interpreting (VRI). A few expressed that this can be a helpful resource when a live interpreter is not available, however, it should not be used in many medical settings. Several stories were shared:

A Deaf woman who uses ASL from Southern Oregon shared situations where the doctor's office uses the VRI equipment for Spanish-language users and reported that Spanish-speaking patients often get priority: "I went in [doctor's reception] and signed in. I asked where the interpreter was. The interpreter should have arrived by now. 'Oh, we didn't get one.' I told her, 'I called in advance and requested one.' The person goes to speak to someone else then comes back and says, 'We don't, ah, we have to wait until you're in the back. We can get you VRI from the back, not from the front.' I said, 'Well, you gave me a lot of paperwork to fill out.' And she said, 'You can do that here in the waiting room.' Well, there were a lot of questions on these papers. I go ahead and fill out the paperwork but didn't get it all done in time. Then I go in to the back and there is no VRI. They said, 'We couldn't get it. There is another Spanish family using it.' I notice with VRI, they use it a lot with Spanish families... Spanish-speaking patients... than with Deaf. They get priority over Deaf people. I notice that has happened a number of times. And even in the middle of my using the VRI, someone came in and took away the device saying, 'We have to use this for a Spanish-speaking patient.' They took it away from me. I was left feeling helpless. It has happened to me several times."

A Deaf woman from Southern Oregon who uses ASL wanted to share her story on VRI barriers: "My primary doctor was wonderful. I had her for many years. She used to allow live interpreters. Awesome. Until one year ago, Asante made the decision that they would no longer use live interpreters for Deaf patients. Only VRI. Which is hard because sometimes VRI freezes, freezes, freezes. And, sometimes, it's not available which means having to cancel appointments. [A friend told me] this story: They brought the VRI into the room and told the Deaf person to hold the monitor close to his face. They passed it around and then told the Deaf person to hold it. They did not include the stand to hold the monitor. It was a laptop. So, the Deaf person had to struggle with holding the laptop in one hand and signing using the other one hand. It was so ridiculous!"

Another ASL user reported her struggle with using VRI in an emergency room, "We need live interpreters. An example is in the ER. I know VRI is a backup for the ER. We need it. That's fine when no live interpreters are available. But, sometimes, it is not convenient. Like, one time, two or three months ago, I went to the ER. I was hit with a terrible migraine. It was a mini-stroke. At that time, I was bent over with my fists clenched. I could not use VRI. I wish at that time, I had a live interpreter to be able to get down to my eye level and sign to me. It would have been perfect. But it was impossible. There were no interpreters."

A Deaf person shared an emotional story related to her frustration at the hospital with her family member who is Deaf with vision loss issues. "My Deaf mother was in hospital and the hospital staff said the VRI must stay at the end of the bed. My mom was sitting up in bed with her legs outstretched. They wanted to put the VRI at the end of the bed just past her feet. She can't see. She can't see. She is blind in her left eye. Her right eye was blurry. She'd just had a stroke. That is why she was in the hospital. My dad...my dad's Deaf. So he told them to adjust the VRI so that it was facing him so that he could sign and could talk for my mom. They said 'No. No.' They said my dad could not touch the screen. They said he would have to direct his comments to my mom. My dad then yelled and said. 'SHE CAN'T SEE! She can't — she's relying on me!' They ignored him and started speaking. The interpreter on the screen is continuing to sign. My dad becomes frustrated. My mom was just sitting there staring at the screen blankly. It just so happened my sister — she's from the area — she came in and saw what was going on. She started telling them how it needed to be done, that the screen needed to be turned to face my dad. They said, 'We can't. It's our policy. We can't turn the screen for others to see. The screen must be facing the patient only.' My dad — oh, he was so angry. We had to appease my dad and tell him, 'We're in the hospital, calm down, calm down.' Then we turned to my mom: 'You need to watch the screen. Do you understand?' Then my hearing sister just started interpreting. She basically just took over."

Mental Health

Respondents were asked several questions about their mental health and their use of mental health service providers. Over one-third (37.5%; N=251) of respondents say they were not able to receive services with a mental health provider to help them deal with stress or mental health issues. Among those who were able to (62.5%, N=418), just 60% (N=233) say their provider accommodates their communication needs.

Figure 28. Able to Receive Mental Health Services

Over half of respondents (55.1%; N=468) say they have felt emotionally upset over their treatment due to their hearing loss or deafness in the past year. Another 14.5% (N=123) are unsure if they have felt upset for this reason.

Over half (55.8%; N=467) think about their hearing loss or deafness at least daily. Only 17.3% (N=145) say they never think about it. Nearly as many (16.7%; N=140) say they constantly think about their hearing loss.

Table 28: How Much Thought given to Hearing Loss

How Often Think about Hearing Loss or Deafness (N=836)	Percent	Count

Once a month	8.6%	72
Once a week	9.9%	83
Once a day	11.4%	95

Availability of Mental Health Services

A state employer reported, “The mental health services here in the state are abysmal. There literally are four private practice counselors that I know of who are either CODA’s [children of Deaf adults] or Deaf themselves, culturally Deaf themselves and, most of those, you know, are full up or they only serve a certain part of the state or they can’t take insurance or they don’t take Oregon Health Plan which is the insurance that most folks who are receiving social security are on. Addiction treatment is nonexistent accessibly. There’s still frustrations with employers and even some training institutions not being willing to provide interpreters because they think it's an undue hardship, which generally it's not, but they -- they don't want to provide the interpreters because of the cost."

Isolation as a Mental Health Issue

A deaf-blind male who relies on spoken language expressed grave concern related to research that indicated individuals with combination of hearing and vision loss are considered at a higher risk for depression, "I can definitely understand that now... The loss of independence."

A hard of hearing female who lives in the North Coast region expressed her social isolation like this: "Trying to make friends with people...nobody understood me, or they just didn't want to bond with me. ...going to a movie and not being able to make out what they're saying or what the movie is about. Sometimes announcements in public places, I couldn't make them out. Lectures, if I go to anything like that, I couldn't hear anything they're saying. Maybe if I sit way in the front. That's how I got through school, just sitting in the front and studying. But I wasn't developing social skills, which I didn't realize until much, much later in my life. Because I kind of stayed away from people, and they stayed away from me. I missed out on social opportunities, business opportunities, and professional opportunities. Opportunities to have fun, like going to a movie. Hearing loss affects my whole life. It isolates you. Hearing loss is very isolating."

A hard of hearing senior citizen with a unilateral hearing loss [hearing loss in one ear] who lives in urban setting stated, "The mental health system [is where most barriers exist] primarily because most mental health professionals are not used to working with individuals with hearing loss, and the impact of hearing loss or whatever the mental health issue is. One obvious one is that hearing loss itself is causing isolation and depression because of the lack of human contact, or the person is being isolated for another reason and hearing loss is making it worse because they don't know how to reach out."

A male cochlear implant user who uses primarily spoken language explained, "Self-advocacy is really important. Effective self-advocacy is very much dependent on self-confidence. Having a disability or just generally not fitting in any way erodes self-confidence and make it so much harder to be able to participate fully in society."

A Southern Oregon male in his forties with progressive hearing loss echoed a familiar statement, "Hard of hearing people have a tendency to withdraw and isolate themselves," mainly to avoid stress, "When my wife wants to go to something and I know I'm not going to understand it, I drag my feet if I am not able to get myself out of the situation."

Mental Health System Barriers

Currently there is a significant shortage of mental health providers with specialized training to work with the Deaf and hard of hearing population, and who are considered fluent in ASL.

A Deaf professional with mental health training discussed the current significant shortage of mental health providers who specialize in working with the Deaf and hard of hearing population, "Compared with other providers of living and training, services here are nonexistent. We have three licensed mental health providers here in Oregon, and one doesn't really do clinical work anymore. One provides services [to Deaf and hard of hearing individuals] who receive Medicaid, but the other two cannot because of not being set up for Medicaid with Oregon Health Plan. With the current establishment here, private employers can't work with that system unless they want to provide services for free.”

A Deaf woman who lives in an urban setting and uses ASL expressed anger with the shortage of Deaf counselors or mental health workers who uses ASL. “A serious barrier for me is not being able to get the mental health services I need because of insurance limitations. I don't want to see a hearing counselor.”

Substance Use and Treatment

Respondents were asked to indicate which substances they had used and how often they used them, ranging from 'never' to 'daily.' With the exception of alcohol, the majority of respondents indicated they had never used the listed substances (e.g., 96.3% never use 'other drugs').

Nearly one in three (30.6%; N=230) use alcohol at least once a week; 6.8% (N=51) smoke at least once a week; and 8.7% (N=65) use marijuana/hashish at least once a week.

Among respondents who indicated any substance use and replied to the follow-up questions (N = 469), 6.2% (N=29) have considered treatment services or have been counseled to do so. Among these respondents, 59.4% (N=19) have used treatment services for alcohol or drug issues.

Of those 19 respondents who have used treatment services for their alcohol or drug issues, half (52.9%: N=9) received interpreters or other communication accommodations. The majority received ASL interpreters.

Harassment, Bullying, and Abuse

Participants were next asked a series of questions regarding harassment and bullying they had experienced, including where it had occurred, if they had contacted the police, and if they had received mental health services after the experience. Ten different harassment and bullying situations were described. Thirty percent (N=224) of respondents (N=750) indicate that they have never experienced harassment or bullying, and 35.8% (N=316) have experienced it in the past year. Twenty-two (3.0%) indicated that they had experienced all 10 at some point in their lives.

Over half (56.3%; N=419) of respondents have experienced taunts about their hearing loss or how they communicate during their lives. Nearly half (47.2%; N=348) have been belittled or taunted over their looks or speech. Another 46.8% (N=347) have been the subject of rumors or lies.

Nearly half of 503 respondents (47.9%; N=241) have experienced situations involving harassment or taunts at school. Forty-three percent (N=216) also experienced such events in their own neighborhood.

Among respondents who have experienced harassment or bullying about their hearing loss or the way they communicate (N=419), 47.3% (N=198) said the harassment occurred at school, while 44.2% (N=185) stated it happened in their neighborhood.

Among those respondents who attended a mainstream school (with or without support) during K-6th grade and who have experienced harassment or bullying about their hearing loss or the way they communicate (N=243), 47.3% (N=115) said it occurred at school, while 43.6% (N=106) stated it happened in their neighborhood.

Respondents were also asked about their experiences of being harmed, threatened or abused. Forty-four respondents indicated they had contacted the police for assistance because of this. Thirty-seven people (84%) responded to the follow-up question asking if the communication experience with the police was positive or negative. Of these, 21 indicated positive experiences and 16 indicated negative experiences. The experiences tended to be described as positive when interpreters were provided, officers were understanding and made the effort to communicate, and were respectful. The negative experiences can be summed up by these three comments: “I struggled to understand what they were saying.” “They seemed irritated with the communication issues, and I was treated very dismissively.” “They talked to the hearing people instead of me!”

While 2.0% (N=15) say they have been physically forced to have sexual activity when they did not want to, 5.7% (N=43) responded they did not want to answer this question. Another 2.2% (N=17) were intentionally hit or physically hurt by their spouse/partner during the past 12 months; of these, only one person was encouraged to go to a shelter as a consequence. When these experiences are added to those that resulted in the respondent contacting the police, a total of 61 unduplicated responses related to harm, abuse, and threats were reported.

Among those who had been forced into sexual activity or who have been hit or physically hurt by their spouse/partner, just 48.4% (N=15) say they are able to receive services with a mental health provider to help them with violence, harassment, or abuse. Among these, 80.0% (N=12) say their mental health provider accommodates their communication preferences. Among those without access, a lack of insurance coverage or lack of interpreters are cited as reasons.

Limitations of the Study

While several excellent outcomes were a product of this research, the extremely short time frame impacted the project in several ways:

- In the development of the survey, the cognitive interview step was skipped. If time had allowed the inclusion of this step, some of the questions that caused people confusion could have been avoided. These were discussed in the report.
- The CAB had limited opportunity to review surveys and data. Many of them were also on vacations over the summer. This was mostly handled by requesting assistance from individual CAB members through email.
- Because it was summer, it was difficult to recruit individuals for focus groups, especially related to school programs. Even consumer organizations reduce the number of meetings they have over the summer.
- While social media was used heavily, which leaves out those without computers, large segments of the population were still reached through setting up community meetings.
- Building community trust takes time. For weeks after the survey had closed and focus groups were completed, people continued to request the opportunity to participate.
- The language level of the training program to educate researchers about protecting human rights (CITI) was challenging for most CAB members who do not use English as their first language. Although a graduate student was in the process of translating the materials into ASL, the project was not completed in time for this study.
- Because of the scope of the project and the timelines, there was insufficient time to compare data with secondary data sets, which would be helpful to the interpretation.

Findings and Recommendations

The Regional Resource Center on Deafness has appreciated the opportunity to conduct this important needs assessment for the State of Oregon. After reviewing the data, the research staff summarized a number of findings that led to recommendations for the State's consideration to improve services to Oregon's Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities.

- 1. Newborn infant hearing screening has made a huge impact on the lives of children with hearing loss.
  - a. Information for parents about services is not consistently provided.
  - b. Language input from birth is vital. Oral and ASL methods used together will help the child develop Theory of Mind, agency, and understanding consequences, among others.
  - c. Oregon requires insurance companies to cover bilateral cochlear implants for children if they qualify for them.
  - d. Insurance companies do not cover hearing aids in the same way. As children grow, they need their hearing aids to grow with them. This is extremely expensive for parents, at a time when language input to children will have the most impact on the trajectory of their lives.
- 2. Education of Deaf and hard of hearing children is complicated by both historical issues and state policy and law.
  - a. Until recently, there was no law on the books requiring teachers of the Deaf to be fluent in ASL.
  - b. Oregon has just one program training teachers of the Deaf, and there is a severe shortage of qualified teachers in the state.
  - c. Oregon has numerous public high school programs to teach ASL, but no requirements for those teachers to demonstrate mastery as other world languages do. College ASL programs often find incoming students have learned individual signs to match with English, but not the grammatical features of ASL.
  - d. Finding skilled educational interpreters is a challenge for mainstream programs, especially in rural areas.
  - e. Deaf and hard of hearing role models are vital to the child's identity development.
  - f. The Oregon School for the Deaf is prevented by law from holding a preschool program there, something that is vital to Deaf and hard of hearing children's development.
  - g. Although there is screening at birth, there may be complications to delivering early intervention services, sometimes because the services are not available, and sometimes because parents do not have the resources to follow through.
- 3. Identity, critical mass, and access to community are challenges individuals and communities face.
  - a. Deaf, hard of hearing, deaf-blind, and deaf with additional disabilities adult role models can provide children a better understanding of how they might naturally approach the world with a visual or tactile mindset.
  - b. Deaf, hard of hearing, deaf-blind, and deaf with additional disabilities adult role models can provide hearing teachers a better understanding of how to teach children taking advantage of their visual or tactile mindsets.

- c. Because deafness, deaf-blindness, and hearing loss with additional conditions are low-incidence disabilities, it is a challenge for many families to find peer groups for their children.
  - d. Parents find it difficult to find ASL classes, to afford them when they are available, and to fit them into their schedules, especially if they have multiple children or jobs that don't allow flexible schedules.
  - e. Although mainstream programs are popular and a good fit for some children, they are not the best fit for all children. Notably, many children move from mainstream settings to residential settings between elementary and high school. Better systems need to be in place to either improve support for children in mainstream settings or to identify at the earliest point possible when the setting is not a good fit so the child does not lose valuable educational years.
  - f. Many children do not find their way to a Deaf community (referring to a culturally defined community) until after high school. This is often when they learn sign language and begin to develop a Deaf identity. This also applies to many children coming out of oral only programs.
  - g. As one teacher of the Deaf pointed out, “Apparently teaching hearing babies ASL improves their cognitive development, but parents are warned against teaching their Deaf or hard of hearing babies ASL. It’s obscene, really.” Reviews of research show that children are not less likely to learn to speak if they also use sign language.
- 4. Hearing aids, cochlear implants, and assistive technology can be extremely helpful or extremely confusing and frustrating.
- a. If there isn't audibility, there is not a good fit. If the audiologist hasn't tested audibility, there is no proof that it has been achieved through the hearing aids. This means the hearing aids are not providing the benefit they could, the individual is not hearing as well as they could, and that thousands of dollars have been wasted.
  - b. Hearing aids and cochlear implants cannot overcome noisy environments alone. Other (additional) assistive technology can be extremely helpful in these situations.
  - c. The general public, including those with hearing loss, often do not recognize the benefits and limitations of hearing aids and cochlear implants. There is a pervasive attitude of 'there's not much that can be done' to improve the individual's situation.
  - d. Hearing aids, cochlear implants, and other assistive technology can be very expensive, especially recognizing the equipment may need to be replaced every five years. Individuals with hearing loss need assistance in locating support for purchasing this equipment.
  - e. The vast majority of individuals with hearing loss are not aware of other types of assistive technology which can be used with or without hearing aids and cochlear implants. The one specialist that individuals with hearing loss may see (e.g., hearing aid dispenser; audiologist; ear, nose, and throat specialists) are typically not providing information about other assistive listening equipment. This information is found through consumer groups and internet searches.
  - f. Video remote interpreting (VRI) can be a powerful tool, but it is not appropriate for all settings. It is often difficult to see the screen, the screen is smaller than having a live person there, and the image may freeze, causing communication interruptions. In legal settings, disrupting the flow of the courtroom causes some judges to pull the accommodation. In healthcare, even when it is working properly, it is a challenge for a patient laying in a bed to see or focus on the screen, much less hold the screen in a position where it is viewable. Additionally, holding the screen would interfere with the Deaf patient responding. This is not necessarily as much of an issue if the patient is able to sit up and if the screen is on a stand.

- 5. Access to higher education is often at risk because of early years of experimentation with educational settings and communication modes.
  - a. The early education merry-go-round of seeking the right educational environment for a child often means that they end up having challenges obtaining a regular diploma. English language skills may be below grade level and places students at risk of not completing.
  - b. Entrance exams that have not been standardized on this population (or on any other minority population) can prevent capable students from entering bachelors and masters level program, thus limiting their ability to earn a living and become the role models for other Deaf, hard of hearing, deaf-blind, and individuals who have additional disabilities.
- 6. Access to the labor market is often at risk as it is more difficult for Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities members to get the education they need for some jobs, as well as employment training and on-the-job training.
  - a. Numerous transition programs have indicated the importance of work experience in high school as a gateway to early adult employment opportunities and later earning ability.
  - b. Many members of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities face the limiting stereotypes of the public and experience underemployment and unemployment.
  - c. Hard of hearing individuals exit the labor force earlier than they would like because of challenges functioning in groups (e.g., staff meetings), using the phone, and social/interpersonal challenges. The labor market is losing talented, experienced people because of a lack of knowledge about assistive technology.
- 7. Public services definitely play a major role in the lives of members of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities, but they often face challenges with paperwork, legalese, complex rules, and workers who do not know how best to communicate with them.
  - a. Mental Health services are vital as isolation can cause depression. Coupled with the link between not using amplification and dementia, this sets up the population for challenges.
  - b. Programs supporting substance abuse treatment, domestic violence and abuse, and mental illness are rarely accessible to members of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities. Counselors who can provide treatment via direct communication or who understand the impact of disabilities on an individual are extremely rare.
- 8. Impacting public attitudes is one of the most important issues that needs to be addressed.
  - a. While newborn hearing infant screening has produced impressive results for babies, hearing loss often occurs after birth, and often not until later adulthood. Adults tend to put off having their hearing tested for seven years before seeking assistance.
  - b. Many participants referenced the challenges of communicating with the general public, which is especially problematic when seeking services or medical or emergency assistance.
  - c. Myths the public holds regarding the ability of hearing aids or cochlear implants to restore normal hearing, that all people with hearing loss speech read, that people with hearing loss are less intelligent or less able have a profoundly negative impact on the self-esteem, self-image, sense of agency, and the ability to successfully compete in higher education and employment.

- d. Members of the general public become members with hearing loss, hearing and vision loss, and hearing, vision, and physical function loss. They also become family members of others with these losses. The better they understand the challenges and how to deal with them, the longer they can remain active in their lives and assist other family members to remain active and connected in theirs.
  - e. People who are at the front desks of many of the services members of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities seek, are the gatekeepers to those services. They should be well trained to interact with members of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities and ensure that their communication needs are being met.
- 9. Communication access is vital to the success of individuals at home, work, school, or play.
- a. Self-advocacy must be taught, along with what the law requires and what the responsibilities of the individual are.
  - b. In order to have an educated populace, access must be provided to all.
  - c. Communication access, such as open captioning and freely available assistive listening technology, benefits everyone (e.g., English language learners, people needing to search the text of a speech on video, people unfamiliar with the technology can easily try it out).
  - d. Many, many focus group respondents, when asked what services could be provided to improve communication access responded: “Get them to enforce the ADA!”
- 10. Individuals who are DeafBlind or deaf-blind or who have additional disabilities are in severe need of support service providers (SSPs).
- a. Most of these individuals do not have the funding to pay for assistance to go to the grocery store or be driven to the doctor. Some states provide funding for a few hours each month, rarely enough for these individuals to lead anything close to a normal life.
  - b. Being able to go for a walk, have mail read to you, or simply not be in fear that because you are by yourself you are vulnerable to a random accident or violence is something that most of us don’t face.
  - c. Oregon does not currently provide funding for SSPs. SSPs help the individual both with communication and with what is happening in the environment...the kind of feedback the rest of us take in with our eyes.
- 11. Deaf children in foster care need a way to be connected to families who have the language skills to help them grow to their full potential. Time is always of the essence with children.

The research team believes that the most efficacious way to address these findings would be a Commission for the Deaf, Hard of Hearing, and Deaf-Blind. This center (or preferably a main center with satellite centers located around the state, or some other way to reach the rural parts of the state in person) would function with an advisory board of stakeholders to inform the staff and the State of the current events in the numerous areas that impact members of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities’ lives. The employees would be individuals who, for the most part, experience hearing loss themselves and who can use the variety of communication modes they will face as the State's citizens seek assistance. The Center should be able to advocate and lobby as needed for changes in Oregon's laws and standard practices. For example:

1. Early Childhood Intervention and Education: Develop a committee comprised of teachers of the Deaf, university faculty, parents, state agencies, and consumer organizations to evaluate the laws, policies, and standard operating procedures that are interfering with getting the best services to identified children at the earliest stage. This is one of the most important actions that can have an impact on children's futures to prevent them from becoming at risk of dropping out, not completing with a regular diploma, and their future earnings abilities. Explore the LEAD-K model for Oregon (e.g., <https://www.facebook.com/LANGUAGEEQUALITY/>), and explore changing the law so that Oregon School for the Deaf can house preschool and early intervention programs on campus.
2. Review policies in general that impact members of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities: Another example worth studying is how Deaf and hard of hearing foster children are matched with families. Currently, there does not seem to be any way to connect Deaf children with families who sign. These kinds of policies stay on the books until someone is able to recognize that a change is needed.
3. Support Families and Children: The sooner both families and children have Deaf role models in their lives, the sooner they will learn how to learn visually along with amplification. Provide a center where families can learn from experts and from each other, and children can meet peers who have the same life experiences they have.
4. Assistive Technology: Provide an assistive technology center and satellite centers where people can check out assistive technology and see what will work for them. The impact of hearing loss is different for everyone, and some devices work better than others. Because of the expense of the equipment, and some people's difficulties in learning new technology, these centers should be staffed with people who experience hearing loss and vision loss to ensure functionally relevant equipment is recommended.
5. Ensure that the ADA is enforced: There are laws in place, but there is much confusion among consumers about what their rights and responsibilities are. Technical assistance should be provided to agencies, businesses, and consumers. This center can also provide technical assistance in the labor market to ensure that employers are aware of their responsibilities under the law.
6. Ensure access to higher education and thereby the labor market: Again, a committee of stakeholders should evaluate entrance requirements at universities and community colleges to determine if their policies unfairly prevent individuals who are Deaf or hard of hearing from obtaining an advanced degree when they are otherwise qualified.
7. Ensure availability of affordable hearing aids and assistive technology for all. The impact of hearing loss can be devastating: To children because of the impact on language learning and education, to adults because it can reduce their employability and upward mobility on the job, and to seniors because a recently worsening loss can further isolate them from family and loved ones unnecessarily. In addition, recent research has shown there to be a connection between untreated hearing loss and dementia. For those who do not identify with the Deaf community and use ASL, hearing loss is not just an inconvenience, it is a health hazard.

8. Ensure the affordability and availability of support services providers to people who are deaf and have additional disabilities. This is an area where the State is behind other states in providing these life-affirming services.
9. Provide outreach to positively impact public perceptions on living with hearing loss and to help people understand the options that are available.
10. Provide a community center where people can come to learn sign language, and other supports can be provided, such as reading mail to individuals with low vision. The community center can showcase Deaf adult role models, and in general, provide a gathering place where people can come to feel a part of a community of people who are like themselves.

Currently the state has a system of service providers who face a challenge providing services to this low incidence population. Because attitudes about hearing loss, especially in people who are gatekeepers to services, are a major problem for members of Oregon's Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities, the State faces a challenge keeping everyone trained who will interface with a Deaf, hard of hearing, or deaf-blind person infrequently. And because of communication challenges, the State may not even know how many people have given up before they even try to obtain services.

The final recommendation is for the State to review The National Association of the State Agencies for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing's (NASADHH) most recent survey of state agencies for the Deaf and hard of hearing. Here it can find out how other states have funded such centers, how other states are combining services into these centers (e.g., telecommunications device access programs, grants for assistive technology libraries, interpreter referral and certification). This report is included here in Appendix B. There are a myriad of community partners, such as Western Oregon University, EHDI, Hands and Voices, RSPF, OVRS (to name just a few) who could help make this happen and who could assist in providing innovative services that would make Oregon a model for providing services and preventing its Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities from falling into any of the possible at-risk outcomes they face.

Dr. Davis was responsible for ensuring that the tasks were carried out on time and within budget, and served as a reviewer of the research methods as the study was carried out.

Denise Thew Hackett, Ph.D., MSCI, Principal Investigator: Dr. Denise Thew Hackett is bilingually fluent in American Sign Language (ASL) and written English. She identifies as Deaf and has worked as a psychologist and researcher in the marginalized community for most of her professional career to address mental health and health disparities faced among Deaf and hard of hearing individuals. Dr. Thew Hackett experienced working with the Community Based Participatory Research (CBPR) model during her 7-year career at the University of Rochester Medical Center, which included her 3-year Postdoctoral Training in Preventive Cardiology. She co-authored peer-reviewed articles on CBPR and ethical issues.

Relevant to research experiences in mixed methods framework with marginalized communities, Dr. Thew Hackett was an assistant to the PI in a NIH-funded project "Informed Consent for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Population" (quantitative method) and a CDC-funded project "Factors Influencing Partner Violence Perpetration Affecting Deaf Individuals" (mixed methods using KII, FG and survey). During her Postdoctoral training, Dr. Thew Hackett led the "Tailoring a Healthy Living Intervention to Deaf Adults: Sociocultural Data from the Target Group." ## Appendix A: Definitions

Note: Definitions with numbers in front of them are from RFP# DHS-4131-16: Community-based Needs Assessment (CNA).

2.2.2.1 “Assistive Communication Devices (ACD)” means technology that allows people experiencing communication barriers to communicate with the public at large.

2.2.2.2 “Assistive Listening Devices (ALD)” means a system of using amplifiers that bring sound directly into the ear via hearing aid telecoils or personal amplifying units.

2.2.2.3 “Computer Assisted Real-Time (CART)” means a form of instant translation of the spoken word into English text using a stenotype machine, computer, and real-time software which can be produced and delivered in-person or over the Internet.

2.2.2.4 “Culturally Competent” or “Cultural Competence” means the process by which individuals and systems respond respectfully and effectively to people of all cultures, languages, classes, races, ethnic backgrounds, abilities, religions, genders, sexual orientations and other diverse backgrounds in a manner that recognizes, affirms and values the worth of individuals, families and communities, while protecting and preserving the dignity of each. Operationally defined, it is the integration and transformation of knowledge about individuals and groups of people into specific standards, policies, practices, and attitudes that create cultural settings in which quality of services produce better outcomes.

2.2.2.5 “Deaf Community”, for purposes of this RFP, means the entire diverse Deaf population, including people who are culturally D/deaf, DeafBlind, Deaf Plus, Hard of Hearing, Late-deafened, hearing aid or cochlear implant users and those experiencing hearing loss. This term may be used throughout the RFP for the purpose of brevity rather than restating each category and is not intended to exclude any group or population within the Deaf Community.

2.2.2.6 “Demographics” means age, county of residence, race, gender, education level completed, socioeconomic status, preferred identification within the Deaf Community, and primary or preferred means of communication.

2.2.2.7 “Focus Group” means a component of qualitative research in which a group of people are asked about their perceptions, opinions, beliefs and attitudes towards a product, service, concept, advertisement or idea.

2.2.2.8 “Interpretive services” means services provided by a qualified individual or firm to provide communication access to individuals belonging to the Deaf Community via assistive technology including, but not limited to ALDs, CART, and qualified sign language interpreters.

2.2.2.9 “Qualified interpreter”, for purposes of this RFP, means “someone who is able to interpret effectively, accurately, and impartially, both receptively and expressively, using any specialized vocabulary.” (RID) will serve as documentation of qualification. Interpreters lacking NAD or RID certification may be deemed qualified if they have other certification (i.e., certification from another state or Educational Interpreter Performance Assessment (EIPA) for school settings).

American Sign Language (ASL): American Sign Language (ASL) is a visual language. With signing, the brain processes linguistic information through the eyes. The shape, placement, and movement of the hands, as well as facial expressions and body movements, all play important parts in conveying information. Like any spoken language, ASL is a language with its own unique rules of grammar and syntax. Source:

<https://nad.org/issues/american-sign-language/what-is-asl>

ASL Interpreter: A sign language interpreter is a person trained in transferring meaning between a spoken and a signed language. This usually means someone who interprets what is being said and signs it for someone who can't hear, but understands sign.

Assistive listening device: a term applied to devices that transmit, process, and amplify sound. They may be used in conjunction with hearing aids, cochlear implants, or simply headphones or ear buds. The term is not used to refer to hearing aids or cochlear implants.

Braille: a form of written language for blind people, in which characters are represented by patterns of raised dots that are felt with the fingertips. Source:

<http://www.dictionary.com/browse/braille>

CapTel: CapTel is a captioned phone. It looks like a regular desk phone, but has a large digital readout so the individual can read what the other party says. A CapTel operator, automatically patched into the phone call on outgoing calls and (if you've got two phone lines) can be automatically patched into the call on incoming calls, too, creates the captions in real time. <http://www.nchearingloss.org/captel.htm?fromncshhh>.

Certified Deaf Interpreter: A Deaf Interpreter is a specialist who provides interpreting, translation, and transliteration services in American Sign Language and other visual and tactual communication forms used by individuals who are Deaf, hard-of-hearing, and Deaf-Blind. Source: <http://www.interpretereducation.org/specialization/deaf-interpreter/>

Close vision interpreter: used by deaf-blind individuals with low vision or tunnel vision. The interpreter works within the deaf-blind individual's range of vision, usually from a distance of about five feet or less.

Cochlear Implant: an electronic device that partially restores hearing in people who have severe hearing loss due to damage of the inner ear and who receive limited benefit from hearing aids. Source: <http://www.mayoclinic.org/tests-procedures/cochlear-implants/basics/definition/prc-20021470>

Cued Speech: a visual mode of communication that uses handshapes and placements in combination with the mouth movements of speech to make the phonemes of a spoken language look different from each other. Source: <http://www.cuedspeech.org/cued-speech-definition.php>

Culturally Deaf: refers to an individual with little or no functional hearing, who uses American Sign Language to communicate, and considers themselves to be members of the Deaf Culture. Source: <https://www.deaftec.org/content/deaf-definitions>.

Deaf and Hard of Hearing Communities: the term used in this report over Deaf Community (see 2.2.2.5 above) to refer the entire diverse population with hearing loss, including people who are culturally Deaf, deaf, deaf-blind, DeafBlind, Deaf Plus, Hard of Hearing, Late-deafened, hearing aid or cochlear implant users and those experiencing hearing loss.

deaf (not culturally): "small d" deaf do not tend to associate with members of the Deaf community, identify themselves more as hearing, and tend to regard their hearing loss in medical terms. Source: <https://www.verywell.com/deaf-culture-big-d-small-d-1046233>

Deaf-Blind (with hyphen): is a combination of vision and hearing loss.

DeafBlind (without hyphen): DeafBlind people identify themselves as culturally Deaf and blind, and have a strong Deaf identity.

DeafPlus: refers to the individual hearing status combined with additional conditions. (idea borrowed from <http://www.handsandvoices.org/comcon/articles/deafplus.htm>)

Haptics: developed in Norway during the early 90's in an effort to standardize a method of communication that was already evolving organically within the deaf-blind community. Haptic communication is a fixed set of signals performed in a specific way and in a defined order to provide visual and environmental information as well as social feedback to an individual who is deaf-blind. <https://nationaldb.org/library/page/2588>

Hard of Hearing: refers to an individual who has a hearing loss who may only use oral aural language and amplification, and may or may not use sign language. Source: <https://www.deaftec.org/content/deaf-definitions>

I. Purpose and Method

The purpose of this survey is to report the current functions, budget, staffing, demographic, and services of state agencies serving deaf and hard of hearing people in the United States. This will help agency administrators and their board members to gain understanding of how each commission, division, and council are structured as well as how their services and programs are delivered within their statutes and means in their respective states.

The Michigan Division on Deaf and Hard of Hearing volunteered to gather information and put it into a report back in 2002 and 2004. The last survey conducted was done in 2004. The Rhode Island Commission on the Deaf and Hard of Hearing stepped up and volunteered to gather information for this 2009 Survey Report. This report is developed primarily for the agency administrators and board members only.

A questionnaire was copied from the 2004 Survey Report with revisions including a section on demographics and a question on agency's change added. The 2009 Survey was created online through www.surveymonkey.com so everyone would be able to participate and respond more quickly and conveniently. The e-mail with url links to surveymoney.com was sent to 39 known states (including 2 in Minnesota) that have a commission, division, council, or office serving Deaf and Hard of Hearing persons. The respondents were asked to fill the questionnaire if they meet the definition below.

Definition of State Agency: A state government agency established and funded by the state legislature to serve deaf and hard of hearing people exclusively. Staff members are employees of the state civil service. This agency provides statewide services including but not limited to, information and referral, interpreter referral, interpreter classification or qualification or licensing, advocacy, and technical assistance. This state agency may have a commission, council, or board of appointees to give guidance to the agency.

The questionnaire asked for at least 85 informational items. Microsoft Excel 2003 was used to tabulate the responses. The tables were created to give the readers a clear picture of selected topics and a clear comparison eliminating the need for a lengthy written report. These responses were put together into a Microsoft Publisher 2003 format to create a final 2009 Survey Report. Frequent reminders were sent to the respondents after the deadline through e-mails and videophones (direct or via video relay service).

This 2009 Survey Report is distributed only to the agency administrators and/or board chairpersons of known states that are listed in the report electronically.

I am truly pleased to report that 100% participation in the 2009 survey has occurred and I want to thank all respondents for taking their time to participate in the survey. I am confident that anyone who reads this report will find the 2009 Survey Report informative and useful.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have questions or concerns about the 2009 Survey Report, I can be reached at 401-354-7651 either via point-to-point or video relay service or by e-mailing to me at

II. Executive Summary

The findings of the survey are summarized as follows:

- 1) Number of Respondents: All 39 state agencies including 2 in Minnesota responded to the questionnaire. This represents 100% participation of known state agencies or 76% of the states in United States of America.
- 2) Deaf and Hard of Hearing Terms: 85% of the agency names including the theme, “Deaf and Hard of Hearing” .
- 3) Communication: 100% of the agencies who participated have a website on the internet. (Only 88% in 2004). 79% of the agencies now have videophone access. (No source back in 2004 but we can safely assume it was under 50% in 2004.)
- 4) Administrator: 39% of the administrator positions are state civil service classified and 26% of the positions are Governor-appointed. 59% of the administrators are either deaf or hard of hearing.
- 5) Administrator Salary: The salaries of the agency administrators in the survey range from $35,000 to $85,000 per year. 59% of the administrators are in the vicinity of $45,000 to $85,000, and 26% are $85,000 and up.
- 6) Department: 28% (11) of the agencies are independent, followed by 23% (9) under Rehabilitative Services, Two 13% (5 each of two) fall under Human Rights/Services and Social/Health Services.
- 7) Board Composition: The size of respondents’ boards range from 7 to 27 members. Four (4) respondents do not have a board. The board members in 28 (72%) states are appointed by the Governor. Board terms vary from 2 to 4 years. An overwhelming majority of the boards meet at least 4 times a year. 19 (49%) state commissions have a law requiring a majority of deaf and hard of hearing persons on the board. 100% of the state boards reimburse their members travel expenses, only one with a certain criteria (reimbursed if more than 50 miles travelled.).
- 8) Fiscal Year: All but five (5) states follow the July 1 through June 30 fiscal year.
- 9) Authorized Budget: Virginia has the largest budget (2004: North Carolina) and New Mexico has the highest dollar amount per capita (2004: North Carolina). Total of all 39 state agencies' budgets is $86,992,065.00.
- 10) Staff Size: The number of employees on staff range from 1 to 72. (2004: 55) The average number of agency employees is 13 (2004: 12)

II. Executive Summary (Continued)

11) Services: The most common services that the agencies provide are Information and Referral (95%), Advocacy (90%), Deaf Awareness/Orientation (79%), Technical Assistance (77%), and Interpreter Referral (72%). Over half (1/2) of the agencies provide Assistive Technology, Interpreter Directory, CART Referral, Services to Hard of Hearing, Client Assistance, and Adult/Community Education. 13% (N = 5) of the state commissions provide or manage the telecommunication relay services.

12) Interpreter Services: 72% of the state agencies provide the Interpreter Referral service. 41% (N = 16) of the state commissions qualify or license interpreters within their state. The data sources used to compute the figures of Deaf and Hard of Hearing population among the state agencies are varied.

13) Demographic: California has a large general and deaf/hard of hearing population. The average percentage used to compute the Deaf and Hard of Hearing figures against the data source is 10%.

14) Agencies Affected since 2004: The most significant changes or impacts on the state agencies occurred in Texas (2004) and Washington (2009). Two newly established state agencies since 2004 are Florida (2004) and New York (2008). And since the 2004 survey, Vermont has been eliminated (2009).

1.0 AGENCY

1.1 Survey Participation

Thirty nine (39) state commissions, divisions, councils, and offices serving Deaf and Hard of Hearing persons from thirty eight (38) states responded to the questionnaire. That is fantastic because this is 100% participation. This is the first time that the report includes all state commissions, divisions, councils, and offices. There are a few states that do not have state agencies including commission, divisions, councils, and offices that can be founded under 1.2 List of States that do not have an agency serving Deaf and Hard of Hearing persons. 1.3 Communication and Technology

This section indicates how the public to contact representatives at the agency for any reason on any questions they may have. TTY was eliminated because it is clearly on the decline. However, the videophone has dramatically increased since 2004. As you can see, seventy-nine percent (79%) of all agencies have videophone available for the public to use to reach the agency. Also, in 2004, only 88% (n=26) of agencies have their websites available for the public. Today, 100% of state agencies have websites.

1.4 State Commissions, Councils, Divisions, and Offices Established

Michigan was the 1st state to pass legislation to create a state program or a state service for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing on October 29, 1937. The only time they were inactive was 1975 to 1979. Virginia was the first state to establish an independent state department (commission, council, division, and office) serving the Deaf and Hard of Hearing.

- Indiana - Legislation was passed in 1988. The office opened in 1989.
- Nevada - Relay and equipment distribution started in 1990. The advocacy component was added in 2002.
- New York - Legislation was passed in July 2007. New York State Interagency Coordinating Council for Services to Persons who are Deaf, Deaf-Blind, or Hard of Hearing was officially established on January 1, 2008.
- Pennsylvania - Legislation was passed in 1986. The office opened in 1988.
- Rhode Island - Legislation was passed in 1977. The office opened on May 9, 1978. It was restructured on July 13, 1992 with its current name, RI CDHH.
- Wisconsin - Legislation was passed in 1939 to set a state appropriation for Wisconsin Association of the Deaf (WAD)'s Service Bureau of the Deaf. According to the March 1979 final report of the Governor's Committee on Problems of Deaf & Hard of Hearing People, the Service Bureau initially was a private non-profit agency (unconfirmed) operated by the WAD. Apparently as a result of the final report, which had a list of recommendations, the Bureau became a state entity---by 1981, under the auspices of the then-named Department of Health and Social Services. The agency was formerly called, the Bureau of the Hearing Impaired.

1.5 History of the First State Agency Established in the United States of America.

Michigan's Act 72 of 1937 was passed to establish the Division on Deafness on October 29, 1937. The original language of the bill is below:

DIVISION ON DEAFNESS ACT

Act 72 of 1937

AN ACT to establish the division on deafness and the advisory council on deafness within the department of labor; to prescribe the powers and duties of the department, the division, the council, and certain state officers; to establish a fund and provide for expenditures from that fund; and to provide for an appropriation.

History: 1937, ACT 72, Eff. Oct. 29, 1937.

HISTORY/MILESTONES

- 1921 - Michigan Association of the Deaf (MAD) began first effort to establish the Division of Deaf and Deafened (DDD).
- 1937 - The legislature passed P.A. 72 that established the DDD in the Department of Labor and Industry to assist deaf persons with employment.
- 1938 - First deaf person was hired as the first director.
- 1958 - DDD was transferred to Michigan Employment Security Commission.
- 1975 - DDD ceased activity after the director resigned.
- 1979 - DDD was revitalized by Governor William Milliken and transferred to Michigan Department of Labor, Bureau of Commission on Handicapper Concerns.
- 1980 - DDD reopened its doors with Christopher Hunter as its director. It has new services: advocacy, information and referral, interpreter referral, and technical assistance. It has staff of 4 persons: State Interpreter Coordinator, Rights Representative and Secretary.
- 1988 - The legislature amended the law (P.A. 434), changing name to Division on Deafness and revising responsibilities to protect and assist all hearing impaired persons, with special emphasis on deaf persons", forming 13 member Governor appointed Advisory Council.
- 1993 - Hard of Hearing Specialist position was added to serve hard of hearing Michigan citizens.
- 1996 - DDD and Michigan Commission on Disability Concerns were eventually transferred to the Michigan Independence Agency after the Department of Labor was abolished.
- 1997 - Hard of Hearing Specialist position was eliminated through the department downsizing affected by the early retirement program.
- 1998 - Hard of Hearing Specialist position was restored through public contacts to the legislature and department. Today DOD has four staff members: Director, State Interpreter Coordinator, Hard of Hearing Specialist, and Secretary.
- 2002 - Executive Order #2002-10 DOD renamed Division on Deaf and Hard of Hearing (DODHH)

1.6 Has Your Agency Changed Since 2004?

- California - Our Deaf Access Program has undergone budget cuts since 2004.
- Colorado - 3.3 FTEs added in February 2010.
- Connecticut - In 2005, the agency's Business/Human Resources Department was transferred to the Department of Administrative Services. This was done through legislation, 23 agency's Business/HR Departments were merged. This has been positive for the agency, more resources are available especially with the tight fiscal constraints. It has not increased restrictions or had an effect on the challenges that confront the agency.
- Indiana - Yes, we are more connected to Vocational Rehabilitation Services and Bureau of Blind and Visually Impaired. Some ways, it has helped working closer with the Rehabilitation Counselors for the Deaf but it has become more challenging too as not everyone understands the challenges faced by deafness.
- Kansas - Downsized by losing one part-time support staff. Our agency is now 100% State General Funds.
- Maryland - No - there were legislative attempts to merge us with the Department of Disabilities but they did not pass.
- Massachusetts - Through interagency agreements, we administer, coordinate, and provide communication access to other agencies; funding for providing these services increased from $300K to over $900K. Budget reductions have reduced funding for both administrative support and direct services. We shared Information Technology, Human Services, and Legal Counsel staff with other agencies within EOHHS in effort to stretch resources.
- Minnesota (Comm.) - No, in fact, our budget has gone from $95,000 in 2004 to $600,000 this year.
- Minnesota (DHHSD) - The agency has gradually reduced level of services over the past few years due to budget reduction/unallotment decisions.
- Missouri - In FY2010, the commission received an 18% budget reduction in Personnel money. This resulted in the loss of 1 full-time position, and reduced a second position to part-time.
- Nebraska - Downsized one staff due to budget cuts. Minimal impact.
- Nevada - Under DHHS, we were an offshoot of the Departments' Director's. Last year, the Legislature decided to merge us with Aging Services changing the name. Our prior agency was The Office of Disability Services.

Has your agency changed since 2004? (Continued)

- New York - Legislation was passed in July 2007. New York State Interagency Coordinating Council for Services to Persons who are Deaf, Deaf-Blind, or Hard of Hearing was officially established on January 1, 2008. This is part of New York State Commission on Quality of Care and Advocacy for Persons with Disabilities. NYS Commission on Quality of Care and Advocacy for Persons with Disabilities was originally established on January 1, 1978 under different name and is with its current name starting on April 15, 2005. In 2005, the Commission on Quality Care of the Mentally Disabled and the Office of Advocate for Persons with Disabilities merged by statute to avoid duplication and to improve service delivery and advocacy for persons with disabilities.
- North Carolina - In SFY2008-2009, the Governor and the NC General Assembly, in two separate actions, transferred a total of $9.5M from the Telecommunications Trust Fund into the General Fund to address NC's budgetary shortfall. Legislative action mandated that DSDHH's Community Resources Program (seven regional centers) be funded by the Telecommunications Relay Service receipts instead of general appropriations, giving the State of NC $2M per year. Due to the large cash balance in the Telecommunications Trust Fund, these actions did not significantly impact DSDHH's programs and services. However, DSDHH must comply with certain restrictions on travel and expenditures in order to ensure a balanced budget at the end of SFY2010.
- Oregon - In 2005, our program was moved from the Oregon Disabilities Commission and placed within the Department of Human Services. The effect was to downsize this program while we are under a hiring freeze.
- Rhode Island - In 2007, the Legislature attempted to consolidate RICDHH into a Department of Advocacy with 4 of the small agencies but failed. In 2008, Governor attempted to consolidate RICDHH into the Department of Elderly Affairs with two other small agencies in response to the legislature's request but failed.
- Texas - In 2004 the state legislature undertook a major reorganization by consolidating 3 agencies into 4 new departments. The former Texas Commission for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing is now the Office for Deaf and Hard of Hearing Services (DHHS) under the Dept of Assistive and Rehabilitative Services. All staff and programs have remained intact and services remain unchanged but with increased funds. In the organization DHHS is under the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation and thus able to use agency funds for matching purposes to draw down federal funds. This has resulted in roughly $1.2 million increase in service funds which has a very positive impact. A troublesome restriction is that we cannot be involved with the legislature. Much more policy and paperwork are involved with the new structure and we have not gotten additional staff to handle the paperwork. Overall the changes have been helpful.

Has your agency changed since 2004? (Continued)

- Utah - No but we have had to lay off a few employees that has affected the services we provide.
- Washington - The previous and current Secretary has reorganized and retained ODHH reporting to the Office of the Secretary. This reorganization is at the discretion of Secretary, not law or executive order. This is positive as ODHH visibility is heightened, opportunities to access executive management is available, etc..
- West Virginia - In 2004 the positions of Staff Interpreter and Deputy Director were consolidated into one position - Deputy Director (who is also an interpreter). This has not had a significant impact other than in amount of manpower to complete projects.

4.0 Board Composition

4.1 Size

For the purpose of this section, the term, “board” is defined as a board, commission, or advisory council. Only 4 state agencies (California, Delaware, Texas, and Washington) do not have a board/advisory function. Washington’s Advisory Committee was abolished by the Governor’s Executive Order this year (2009).

The largest number of seats is 27 in North Carolina and the smallest number of seats is 7 in 4 states (Colorado, Indiana, Iowa, and New Mexico).

49% (N = 19) of State Agencies have a law requiring a majority of deaf and hard of hearing persons on the board.

4.3 Representatives on the Board

4.4 Meeting

74% (N = 29) of the state boards are required to meet at least 4 times a year. Utah is required to meet at least 10 times a year. Massachusetts is required to meet at least 8 times a year. Only two states (Mississippi and New York) are required to meet at least 3 times. Also, only two states (Oregon and Nevada) do not have any law requiring a certain number of meetings a year. Utah allows the members to participate in the meeting by video conferencing.

4.5 Communication Access at the Meeting.

All State Agencies' boards arranged various communication access services for their meetings without requiring a request of communication access in advance.

5.0 Funding

5.1 Fiscal Year

Only 5 states have different fiscal years than the rest of state agencies. 33 states follow the July 1st through June 30th fiscal year. 3 of 5 states (Michigan, New Hampshire, and Wisconsin) start their fiscal year on October 1st and end on September 30th, similar to the Federal Government's fiscal year. One of 5 states, Texas, starts on September 1st and ends on August 31st. And one of 5 states, New York, starts on April 1st and ends on March 31st.

5.2 Authorized Budget

The respondents were asked for their total authorized annual budget for their agencies. It is difficult to compare state budgets when no two state agencies providing the same services and programs. Some states manage or provide telecommunications relay service (TRS) and/or Telecommunication Distribution and others do not. TRS and Telecommunication Distribution services account for a large portion of the budgets.

For your own assessment needs, various data formats are provided as follows:

- 1) Budget by Per Capita
- 2) Annual Gross Amount
- 3) Rank by State Funds
- 4) Rank by "Surcharge" Funds
- 5) Rank by General Population including Gross Amount and State Funds

By per capita, New Mexico is leading in per capita, $2.07 per person, to provide services for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing. Florida is the lowest with $0.01 per capita based on 18,881,445 people living in Florida and are used to services provided for Deaf and Hard of Hearing people by the Florida government. New York is the 2nd lowest with $0.02 per capita. Please see Table 5.1 for per capita of all states next page.

Table 5.4 Rank by “Surcharge” Funds

The definition, “Surcharge”, refers to a charge against the telephone on landlines, wireless, and internet known as VOIP paid by the consumers in these respective states to cover various services and programs provided. Some states have different names for it such as Disabled Telephone Users Fund, Excise Tax, Universal Service Fund, and TRS fund. Most of them are set up by the State Public Utilities Commission or the similar.

Department of Human Services Gender Equity Report

The Department of Human Services (DHS) submits this report as required by ORS 417.270 (Equal Access to Appropriate Services for Girls and Boys) to report on our progress and plans in achieving equal access to appropriate services for males and females under age 18.

The Department of Human Services supports equal access to appropriate services for females and males under 18 years of age.

Budgetary information supporting this program is provided below:

Gender Equity Report 17-19 Child Welfare Budget

During the last biennium, Programs worked to implement the policy by taking the following steps:

- Office of Contracts and Procurement (OC&P) gender equity within DHS contracts, including, when applicable, DHS requests for proposals:
  - Requests include services to children and youth, with specific guidance surrounding gender-specific expectations. Program staff requests continue to include language regarding gender-specific service expectations.
  - Proposers are asked to describe their strategies to implement culturally appropriate and gender-specific services.
  - RFP template includes language, “Services provided under any contract awarded as a result of this RFP shall consider equal access for both males and females under 18 years of age. ‘Equal access’ means access to appropriate facilities, services and treatment, to comply with ORS 417.270.”
  - DHS contracts include the condition that: Contractors must provide services to DHS clients without regard to race, religion, national origin, sex, age, marital status, sexual orientation or disability (as defined under the Americans with Disabilities Act). Contracted services must reasonably accommodate the cultural, language and other special needs of clients.
- The standard language in DHS personal services contracts has been updated to read: “Contractor shall provide equal access to covered services for both males and females under 18 years of age, including access to appropriate facilities, services and treatment to achieve the policy in ORS 417.270.”
- Providing training to new contracts’ staff and updating the rest of the staff on contracts and solicitations into which gender-specific services provisions were incorporated.
- Continuing to review and provide feedback to contracted Behavioral Rehabilitation Services (BRS) shelter or residential treatment programs regarding their ability to provide services that are gender specific.
- Continuing to raise awareness with staff and providers through meetings to discuss and understand what gender-specific services mean.

- Tracking current male/female ratios in all licensed child facilities and encouraging providers to participate in the Licensed Child Placing Agencies program review for assessment and monitoring.
- Program participation in the National Youth in Transition Database tracking program.
- Child Welfare continues to be engaged with the Coalition of Advocates for Equal Access for Girls by:
  - Refer staff, community programs and inquiries to explore the website for Coalition of Advocates for Equal Access for Girls <http://equalaccessforgirls.org>.

Child Permanency Program

In compliance with ORS 417.270, the Child Permanency Program in the Office of Child Welfare Programs includes in all service contracts the requirement that the contractor shall provide equal access to covered services for both males and females under 18 years of age, including access to appropriate facilities, services and treatment. In addition, all contracts include a nondiscrimination clause that states the Contractor must provide services to DHS clients without regard to race, religion, national origin, sex, age, marital status, sexual orientation, or disability. The Child Permanency Program has, on occasion, denied a contract based on the inability of the contractor to agree to these terms.

In addition, program staff is committed to providing gender-equal services on how to support LGBTQ youth in foster care or who is entering into adoption or guardianship by identifying and addressing their specific needs with a prospective family. Furthermore, the Child Permanency Program embraces placement of children with prospective adoptive parents regardless of sexual orientation.

Post Adoption Services

In compliance with ORS 417.270, the Post Adoption Services Program provides equal access to services and supports for both male and female children and youth. Monthly subsidies and medical coverage are provided on behalf of the children to their adoptive parents and guardians. The purpose is to promote the achievement of permanency for special needs children and the ongoing stability of the children in their adoptive and guardian homes.

By contract, Oregon Post Adoptive Resource Center OPARC is required to provide equal access to serve both males and females under age 18, including access to appropriate facilities, services, and treatment. OPARC is also required to abide by a non-discrimination clause regarding race, religion, national origin, sex, age, marital status, sexual orientation, or disability, and must provide reasonable accommodations to meet the cultural, language, and other special needs of clients.

ORPARC also operates a lending library which offers a wealth of literature and resource packets, free of charge, to adoptive parents, guardians, and other professionals serving special needs adopted and guardian children. The materials cover a breadth of topics, and include books specific to gender-specific development and identity formation of children and youth. The goal being to ensure children of all genders have informed adults parenting and providing them support to meet their unique needs.

Child Welfare Training Opportunities

During the 2015-17 biennium, the following trainings were offered to child welfare staff:

- Classroom Training: Positively Impacting Child and Youth Well-Being: Sexual Orientation, Gender Identity and Expression
- Netlink Training: Working with Sexual and Gender Minority Youth in the Child Welfare System
- Netlink Training: Caring for Sexual and Gender Minority Youth
- Classroom Training: Ask Diversity: An Introduction to P.A.U.S.E

Child Well-Being Program

The services provided to children who are in Child Welfare programs remains fairly consistent over time in terms of gender equity. The population of children in out-of-home care during the past five federal fiscal years remains consistent.

FFY 2012-2016 Gender of Children Served in Foster Care
Gender	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016

Value Based Practice:

- Gender-responsive approach integrates those things that intentionally allow gender identity and development to affect and guide services and service delivery, create an environment (physical, social, emotional) that reflects and understands the reality of youth lives, and is responsive to the issues and needs of the youth being served.
- Gender-responsive approach integrates those things that intentionally allow gender identity and development to affect and guide services and service delivery, create an environment (physical, social, emotional) that reflects and understand the reality youth lives, and is responsive to the issues and needs of the youth being served. It values the individual gender identity perspective, celebrates and honors their experiences, respects and takes into account gender development and empowers youth to reach their full potential. A gender-responsive approach also clearly recognizes that there are unique differences between genders and includes an understanding and knowledge of these differences including sociological, biological and brain differences that are specifically reflected in how services are provided, how staff interact with the individual youth, in staff training, programming, service planning and behavioral management.

Strategies in place to continue a focus on gender equity:

- DHS - Office of Child Welfare Program has and will continue to encourage the Residential Services Programs in Oregon to utilize the Gender-Responsive Standards and Assessment Tool for Girls Programs and Services (G-SAT). The G-SAT is a great resource for enhancing a program's gender-responsive approach and by integrating these empirically-based standards. This should improve the outcomes for girls.
- The department ensures staff access to the training conference in Oregon, which is sponsored by the Coalition of Advocates for Equal Access for Girls <http://equalaccessforgirls.org>.
- The department will continue to recruit private agencies to develop programs for higher levels of care for girls in Oregon.
- DHS Equity and Inclusion Statewide Collaboration Team: The team engages in advocacy, not only for clients, but for workers in order to ensure a safe, supportive and respectful workplace for all. This group focuses on gender equity with a special emphasis on LGBTQ individuals.
- The Champions Academy is a six-week summer program designed to support the year-long investments of teachers, coaches and mentors by holistically preparing student athletes for academic promotion and post-high school transitions. Because this program was a big attraction to male student/athletes the department provided additional scholarships for 15 female and 5 male children in foster care to ensure female access.

2017-19 Intellectual & Developmental Disabilities (I/DD) Community Housing Fund Report

The I/DD Community Housing Program assists persons with developmental disabilities to live successfully in community housing that is affordable and safe and contributes to their independence and quality of life. I/DD Community Housing supports services to persons with developmental disabilities in the following ways:

- Oversees the property management of homes developed for the former Fairview State Training Center residents.
- Develops and manages and funds eligible home modification projects for In-Home and Crisis Services for children and adults with developmental disabilities.
- Coordinates the operation of the Fairview Community Housing Trust that was established with revenue from the sale of Fairview. The Trust funds small grants for home modifications to Oregonians with developmental disabilities living in their own or family home.
- Provides technical assistance to individuals, families, brokerages, and counties regarding housing issues faced by persons with developmental disabilities and best practices to implement solutions.

Funding for the program is maintained in three separate Treasury Fund accounts. Two of those accounts contain the proceeds from the sale of the Fairview State Training Center and the third is for the operating fund for maintenance, development, technical assistance, etc.

Fairview Community Housing Trust Accounts

The two accounts containing proceeds from the sale of the Fairview State Training Center are designated in statute as follows:

\* Per ORS 427.340 "The Department of Human Services may expend, for the purposes of ORS 427.330 to 427.345, any earnings credited to the account, including any income from the lease of surplus property and any interest earned on monies deposited in the account, and up to five percent of any sale or transfer proceeds* initially credited to the account by the Oregon Department of Administrative Services. At least 95 percent of all sale or transfer proceeds shall remain in the account in perpetuity."

Historically the funding from the five percent of sale proceeds account as well as the accrued interest on both accounts has been used to provide grant funding to children and adults with developmental disabilities to allow for them to continue living in their own home or family home. There is a Fairview Trust Advisory Committee which oversees the grant awards and other policies governing the operation of the Trust. The committee membership includes former Fairview clients, family member of former Fairview clients, client advocates and others. Clients submit grant applications which are reviewed for eligibility and funding.

As part of the budget development process for 2011-2013 a reduction action was put forward to expend the balances out of the two Fairview Community Housing Trust Accounts. The action that was taken was to leave $6,000,000 in the corpus or 95% sale proceeds account and to use $5,970,375 from that account combined with the projected remaining balance in the 5% Fairview Grant account of $979,759 for a total of $6,950,134. This action was taken in year two of the biennium and the grant fund program suspended.

A Policy Option Package for 2013-15 would have restored the corpus account to pre 2011-2013 balance, adding back $6,950,134 GF; however, the Policy Option package was not selected as part of the Legislatively Adopted Budget.

In 2015-17, a legislative action added $92,500, EOTC sale proceeds, to the Trust. This action resulted in a combined account balance of $6,079,941 as of April 30, 2016.

After 2016 Legislative Session, a Fairview Housing Trust Workgroup was formed to develop and propose strategies for the use of the Fairview Housing Trust funds. Per recommendation of the group, 95% of the funds ($5,112,741) were invested in the state's intermediate term fund on September 1, 2016. Five percent of the funds ($941,988) remains in a Treasury account for easier distribution, if needed. Fairview Housing Trust Workgroup is currently developing proposals on use of the 5%.

I/DD Community Housing Operating Account

When Fairview was downsized and eventually closed, the I/DD Community Housing Section in partnership with private non-profit housing developers constructed or remodeled 200 homes to provide housing for those residents and persons misplaced in nursing homes. It was called the Community Integration Project (CIP). The homes were funded by general obligation bonds sold by Oregon Housing and Community Service Department (OHCDS) and incorporate many specialized features. Per an agreement with OHCDS a reserve amount of $500,000 is required for this account to assure maintenance of an asset purchased with GO bonds.

The I/DD Community Housing Section allocates funds and provides oversight and technical assistance in order to develop, adapt and maintain safe and appropriate housing for children and adults with developmental disabilities that receive services funded and/or licensed by the Department of Human Services. The persons receiving services in Oregon live in a variety of settings. These include, among others, services to children living in family homes, adults and children in 24-hour licensed out of home services, foster care, and adults in apartments or private homes. Often, providing these services requires that housing be constructed, modified or adapted in order to meet the needs of persons and to assure that homes are safe and adapted to the unique needs of the persons who live there. In carrying out its responsibilities, the I/DD Community Housing Section:

- Manages the maintenance and repair program for 200 bond funded homes that provide housing for persons with developmental disabilities receiving 24 hour support;
- Provides technical assistance to families and support agencies regarding specialized home adaptations;
- Develops homes to meet critical client needs;
- Manages and allocates funding for housing adaptations for adults and children with developmental disabilities receiving funded services;
- Provides fiscal oversight of expenditures from the Housing Fund, and within the Fund, the Fairview Housing Trust Account.

Aging and People with Disabilities - Oregon Adult Abuse Prevention and Investigations	DHS	Implementing Centralized Abuse Management (CAM) System	The purpose of this project is to develop and implement a comprehensive multi-program centralized abuse management system to capture abuse allegations and investigations from intake and screening through investigation, case closure and referrals, documentation, and to support abuse management oversight and inquiries. House Bill 4151 requires the state of Oregon and DHS as its agent, to standardize its processes and technology related to abuse of vulnerable adults. Oregon's current environment for tracking, reporting, analyzing and investigating incidents of adult abuse relies on accessing information from nine (9) distinct systems or data sources. Additionally, local offices have created their own one-off mechanisms for supporting the abuse investigation processes, further complicating and decentralizing information. Existing systems limitations include the inability to search across program populations, inhibiting the ability to track perpetrators and/or victims over time and between populations. This heightens the risk of not capturing all abuse allegations.	Jul-15	Dec-17	$ 550,142	$ 4,010,290	$ 5,237,494	POP	P	Y, 2	U	APD/OAAPI

1. Executive Summary

Oregon's Department of Human Services (DHS) and Oregon Health Authority (OHA) are committed to ensuring the safety of vulnerable Oregonians. This business case outlines the purpose and proposed approach to better serve this population, by implementing an integrated solution to investigate, track, and report on incidents of adult abuse

The Office of Adult Abuse Prevention & Investigations (OAAPI) is a DHS/OHA Shared Service that provides abuse-related services to the Aging & People with Physical Disabilities (APD), Intellectual/Developmental Disabilities Services (I/DD) and Child Welfare (CW) programs at DHS, and the Addictions & Mental Health (AMH) program at OHA.

Together with its program partners, OAAPI serves some of Oregon's most vulnerable residents, in their own homes or in licensed care facilities. The approximate numbers served include:

- 500,000 older adults and people with physical disabilities;
- 16,000 adults enrolled in Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities (I/DD) programs;
- 55,000 adults receiving Community Mental Health Services or residing in the Oregon State Hospital (OSH); and
- 3,600 children residing in licensed facilities that provide therapeutic treatment, or children enrolled in I/DD services.

Establishing a centralized abuse management system is of paramount importance to DHS and OHA (herein referred to as "The Agencies".) The Agencies seek to eliminate manual processes as well as the need to utilize legacy systems in order to standardize and centralize adult abuse data collection for The Agencies.

The objective of this effort is to develop and implement a comprehensive web-based multi-program abuse management system. This system will reduce or eliminate manual input/processes, replace legacy systems, standardize and centralize adult abuse data collection across Oregon, and provide a web-based tool for reporting and analyzing adult abuse. This system will capture abuse allegations and investigations from intake and screening through investigation, case closure and referrals, documentation, and will support abuse management oversight and inquiries. A centralized system will enhance DHS and OHA's ability to protect vulnerable Oregonians, by replacing existing manual and disparate processes and systems across the state with a fully integrated system that improves visibility.

1.1 Background

Oregonians will be better served with a centralized adult abuse management system replacing the existing collection of manual process and disparate systems currently used across the state. Currently, State Agencies, partner organizations and local office workers<sup>1</sup>, interpret Oregon Administrative rules differently regarding which allegations of abuse to screen in. Most offices lack a consistent, automated mechanism to screen in, investigate, document and report or track the full life cycle of an abuse incident and the parties involved. Implementing a single stable, rules based solution will improve consistency, streamline workflow, increase efficiencies at local offices and reduce gaps in the availability of timely, pertinent information to support abuse investigations throughout the state. The Agencies' goal is to increase awareness of patterns of abuse in licensed settings and in the community.

---

<sup>1</sup> Local office workers include screeners, investigators and supervisors in the offices across the state that are performing the work for any of the programs included in the scope of this project.

1.2 Opportunity Definition

The Agencies' are championing this initiative to improve services and support for vulnerable Oregonians through implementation of consistent processes and robust systems.

The outcomes this project will achieve are responsive to challenges identified by multiple studies and legislation including House Bill 4151 (HB4151) and Senate Bill 1515 (SB1515). HB4151 requires DHS to standardize resources and technologies related to abuse investigations. SB1515 requires DHS and OHA to improve communications about abuse investigations with certifying, licensing and authorizing organizations. A centralized abuse management system will also address DHS Elder Abuse Prevention Audit findings, Adult Safety and Protection Team Report recommendations and the Resident Safety Review Council Report from February 2013.

The high-level business objectives driving this effort are to:

- Better protect the individuals we serve.
- Increase productivity and efficiency through automation.
  - Document reports of abuse, screening decisions and investigations centrally and in real-time so local staff, local management, Central Office, OAAPI and others with a need to know have immediate access to information.
  - Reduce duplicate data entry and manual work.
  - Allow mandatory reporters and other reporters of abuse to submit their reports online via the Internet.
- Support program variation and frequent changes.
- Support the growing abuse management workload.
- Identify and track abuse across the lifespan of a person (victim and/or perpetrator).
- Identify and track abuse and abuse history at DHS-licensed facilities across programs.
- Produce standardized information for auditing and analysis.
- Implement an easy-to-use, web-based, system.

The Agencies' vision is to have at least a minimally viable solution of core functionality across all programs in scope implemented in a first release with a second release to follow with the remaining requirements and enhancements. Core functionality is currently defined as the functionality to support intake and screening through investigation, case closure and referrals, documentation and reporting processes. However, the Agencies intend to enlist the assistance of a System Integrator (SI), to propose implementation options for the Agencies' consideration that will include the suggested scope, functionality, programs included and release dates for the implementation of the CAM system. Therefore, success criteria for the project's planned releases will be determined in the execution phase in collaboration with the System Integrator.

1.3 Alternatives Analysis

After a preliminary business case proposed the development of a custom solution, the Agencies

Department invested significant efforts to assess other alternatives. A team comprised of program and technology members conducted in-depth market research. The market research included in-depth interviews with 18 states to discover their abuse management solutions. This market research yielded two viable solutions utilized by other states and two used in Oregon. The team did further in-depth analysis of capabilities of these four options against functional and technical requirements, and conducted customer demos and on-site visits. The Agencies concluded that building a custom Centralized Abuse Management System introduced much higher risk and cost compared to pursuing a different alternative.. Detailed information from the in-depth analysis and site visits are in the Alternatives Analysis, Section 5.0, of this document and in the supplemental documents. Information gained during customer demos and site visits eliminated some alternatives under consideration identified from the project's initial market research. These eliminated options include Commercial off the Shelf (COTS) solutions and transfer solutions used by other entities resulting in the following remaining alternatives.

Alternative 1: Purchase Software as a Service Solution; leverage another state's use of that SaaS

Under this alternative, a Software as a Solution (SaaS) CRM solution would be purchased, configured and customized to meet the CAM Project's detailed requirements. This approach allows relatively quick design, build and implementation plus ongoing flexibility to meet the continuously changing business/regulatory environment at a reasonable cost.

Oregon has the opportunity to leverage requirements for Colorado's Adult Protective Services (CAPS) solution implemented in June 2015 as a starting point for a SaaS solution. Colorado implemented CAPS in June 2015 using Salesforce, a Customer Relationship Management (CRM) SaaS solution. Oregon can leverage CAPS' foundational capabilities, substantially reducing the time to deliver, the cost of implementation, and the exposure to risk for Oregon. DHS and OHA Executive Leadership believe this synthesized approach represents the best fit for Oregon's needs. More details regarding Colorado's solution and the proposed implementation approach are outlined later in sections 5.1.1 and 6.2 of this document.

Under this alternative, Oregon will leverage Colorado's solution as foundational requirements for Oregon's abuse management toolset, using the services of a Systems Integrator to configure and/or customize the software to meet Oregon's needs. The estimated cost of this alternative through implementation is ~4.7 million dollars with at total estimated cost through 2023 of approximately ~8.4 million dollars.

Alternative 2: Implement a Custom Build System

Under this alternative, the Agencies would design, develop, test and deploy a custom solution for The Agencies' Centralized Abuse Management needs. This alternative would allow a tailor-made solution that would meet all of the functional, technical, and organization requirements. The cost, risks, and timeline to implement are substantially higher than implementing a SaaS solution leveraging Colorado's foundational requirements. The total estimated cost for this alternative through implementation is ~11.9 million dollars with a total estimated cost through 2023 of approximately ~$17.0 million dollars.

Alternative 3: Maintain the Status Quo

Under this alternative Oregon would maintain the current status quo with disparate, disconnected systems and highly manual processes and there would be no additional investment in abuse tracking system automation. The requirements and recommendations made by HB4151, SB1515, and various reports and audits would not be met in the foreseeable future. The Agencies' fragmented approach would continue and improvements to current processes would be limited to those that arise naturally through the Agencies' continuous improvement program. The Agencies would continue with ineffective, disconnected, automated and manual systems, which are increasingly difficult to oversee and analyze. The total estimated cost of this alternative through 2023 of approximately ~$5.2 million dollars.

In light of the settlement that was reached with Oracle in September of 2016, the Agencies were asked to evaluate the appropriateness and feasibility of implementing the CAM solution using Oracle products contained in the negotiated User License Agreement (ULA). The settlement offers Oracle's catalog of products free of charge for the next 5 years and 10 months. However, use of Oracle products would not allow the Agencies to leverage the foundational capabilities of the Colorado CAPS solution due to the fact that Colorado's code is specific to the Salesforce platform. The Colorado solution is the only proven implementation of an Abuse Management System on a CRM platform. An approach using Oracle products would substantially increase the time to deliver a solution, and expose Oregon to additional risk as the Agencies would be unable to leverage the work done in Colorado and would be required to develop a solution on an unproven platform from the ground up. Implementation costs would increase to support additional requirements, design and development efforts. A transfer approach of Colorado's solution will establish a collaborative relationship with Colorado and enable Oregon to continue to benefit from any new developments that Colorado makes to their solution. This continuous collaboration, allowing Oregon the option to use those enhancements free of charge, is dependent on the transfer and use of the CAPS code on the Salesforce platform and could not be utilized with an approach including Oracle products.

1.4 Conclusions and Recommendations

Based on the analysis of the alternatives, DHS and OHA intend to pursue Alternative 1: Implement a SaaS Solution and leverage another state's capabilities with that SaaS. This strategy will help accelerate Oregon's implementation efforts, while reducing risk and shortening the implementation timeline.

Section 6.2, Table 5 (5) of this document sets out a preliminary schedule to implement the Centralized Abuse Management system in two releases. To support the commitments made to the Legislature of an implemented solution within the 2015-2017 biennia and in response to HB4151 and SB1515, the project's scope will be implemented in two releases. A first release is projected to complete by June 2017 and the second release by December 2017. The high-level estimated cost of implementing the system and operating it through December 2017 for both releases is approximately $4.7 million. The project has been funded for a total of $5,632,037 which includes $1,437,494 of general funds, $3,300,000 of Q bonds and $894,543 for Qbond issue and debt service for a total of usable project funds of $4,737,494. Funds for issue and debt service will not be reported in the funding. Ongoing operating costs post-implementation through June 2023 are estimated at another $3.0 million, for a total 7-year investment of approximately $8.4 million. Actual costs may differ depending on per user licensing costs and vendor responses to the planned Request for Proposal (RFP) for System Integrator (SI) services.

2. Background & Purpose

2.1 Current State of Abuse Management Operations

The Office of Adult Abuse Prevention & Investigations (OAAPI) is a DHS/OHA Shared Service that provides abuse-related services to the populations served by The Agencies and provides services for some of Oregon's most vulnerable residents, in their own homes or in licensed care facilities.

Many different methods are used by The Agencies to support screening, investigations, referrals, and other abuse management processes. At their core, these processes have very similar steps. They vary depending on: 1) The population served; 2) If the intake/screening/investigating organization is a state organization or contracted party and; 3) Which computer applications and end user tools they have available for their use. There are seven (7) key systems, six (6) of which are state owned and one (1) owned by a local county, and more than 120 local databases and Microsoft (MS) Excel spreadsheets in use at this time. These systems are not integrated nor do they provide all the essential information required for local workers, local managers, and Central Office oversight.

In 2014, almost 750,000 Oregonians were in one of the nine populations supported by the Agencies. During that same year, the Agencies received over 38,000<sup>2</sup> allegations of abuse of these individuals, resulting in 18,185<sup>1</sup> investigations of which 4,544 were substantiated. This number does not account for an unknown number of allegations screened out at the local office level due to the lack of visibility caused by disconnected processes and systems.

According to the 2014 OAAPI Annual Report dated July 2015, "In 2014, there was a 10% overall increase in the number of investigations conducted (compared to 2013)." Over the next ten years, the number of allegations received and screened by The Agencies is expected to increase nearly 60%. This assessment increases the projected 50,414 allegations in 2015 to over 78,500 allegations in 2024, due to predicted growth of vulnerable populations. OAAPI is projecting 30,800 investigations by 2024, a nearly 63% increase from the 2015 level of 19,000 investigations.

In 2014, the Oregon State Legislature passed House Bill 4151 (HB4151). Section 4 of HB4151 mandates that for adults 65 and older and for residents of Office of Licensing and Regulatory Oversight (OLRO) licensed facilities, DHS "shall adopt policies and guidelines to plan for the development and standardization of resources and technologies" related to abuse. In summary it mandates the following: 1) Capture of key adult abuse incident and management data; 2) Standardization of procedures and protocols for making and responding to reports of abuse; 3) Standardization of procedures and protocols for investigations of reports of abuse and; 4) Promoting and coordinating communication and information sharing with law enforcement agencies regarding reports and investigations of abuse.

There are five main program areas involved in this project: 1) DHS' Aging & People with Disabilities (APD) Adult Protective Services (APS); 2) OHA's Health Systems (HS) Division; 3) DHS' Developmental Disabilities (DD); 4) DHS' Child Welfare (CW) and; 5) OHA's Oregon State Hospital (OSH) Division. For a comprehensive list of stakeholders, see the Business Case Supplemental Documents Package.

There is a long list of Oregon Revised Statutes (ORSs) and Oregon Administrative Rules (OARs)

for the program areas and populations served by this project.<sup>3</sup> Some overarching statutes drive consistent rules for multiple populations and program partners. However, there are also specialized rules depending on the population served. A full analysis of the similarities and differences in these rules has not been performed. It is important to note that many factors impact these ORSs/OARs resulting in frequent changes. In the future, there will be one standard process for all populations served. This standard process will allow for the nuances between the ORSs/OARs in place today.

Federal and State legislation, program rules, processes, terminology, reporting and coding requirements are evolving at a quick pace. The different agencies within the US Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) are working toward more standardization in the adult abuse discipline.<sup>4,5</sup> The disconnected tools in use by DHS and OHA are not modern, sophisticated, or flexible enough to evolve with the changing regulatory environment within the state or across the nation.

2.2 Current State of DHS Aging and People with Disabilities Abuse Management Operations

The DHS Aging & People with Disabilities APS program serves two Oregon population groups: APS Community and APS Facility.

- APS Community consists of approximately 620,000 adults age 65 and older and adults 18-24 with a physical disability who live in their own homes in the community.
- APS Facility consists of approximately 46,000 individuals living in DHS-licensed facilities.

Screening and investigation of these reports of abuse are performed by Aging and People with Disabilities (APD) Field Offices and certain Area Agencies on Aging (AAAs).

In 2014, there were approximately:

- 12,100 allegations of APS Community abuse resulting in approximately 3,300 substantiated abuse cases.
- 4,400 allegations of APS Facility abuse resulting in approximately 950 substantiated abuse cases.

<sup>4</sup> In September 2013, recognizing the lack of consistent national data on adult maltreatment, HHS, the Administration for Community Living (ACL), in partnership with the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Planning and Evaluation (ASPE), began a 2-year effort to design and pilot test a national reporting system based on data from state adult protective services (APS) agency information systems. The project is currently designated as the National Adult Maltreatment Reporting System (NAMRS).

<sup>5</sup> The CDC's National Center for Injury Prevention and Control, Division of Violence Prevention has published "Elder Abuse Surveillance: Uniform Definitions and Recommended Core Data Elements" in January 2016. They indicate in their paper "Longstanding divergences in the definitions and data elements used to collect information on Elder Abuse (EA) make it difficult to measure EA nationally, compare the problem across states, counties, and cities, and establish trends and patterns in the occurrence and experience of EA."

The number of allegations supported is difficult to ascertain because the two APS systems in use lack screening capabilities.

The major computer systems used by APS are: 1) Oregon ACCESS, which is a case management system for APS Community Clients, and; 2) Web723, which is a tool for documenting an APS Facility abuse investigation report. These two systems have poor search capabilities making it difficult for workers to find historical abuse information. As a result, offices must resort to tracking key information on spreadsheets and in Microsoft (MS) Access databases.

Other than Oregon Access and Web 723 for Lane Council of Governments (LCOG), there is no key system screening functionality. This means local screeners and investigators are not able to see statewide abuse screening information, and central program management is unable to monitor local screening activity or track historical screening trends. Additionally, the search capability in these systems does not support the sophisticated and time-sensitive needs of the program to respond to queries about specific allegations or overall trends. All notices are manually created in MS Word resulting in considerable duplicate data entry and the potential for human error. LCOG has their own MS Access computer system, which allows for LCOG-wide documentation of intake, screening decisions, investigations and the generation of notices.

2.3 Current State of OHA Health Systems Abuse Management Operations

The OHA Health Systems Division serves two abuse population groups (within the scope of this project). They are: 1) Individuals in State Operated Secure Residential Treatment Facilities and; 2) Individuals receiving Community Mental Health services.

- State Operated Secure Residential Treatment Facilities serve approximately 120 people.
- Community Mental Health Programs (CMHP) are County based and serve approximately 57,200 people.

Screening and investigations involving adults receiving CMHP services are performed by County CMHP staff, with technical assistance and consultation provided by OAAPI. Exceptions include when the alleged abuse involves CMHP staff or occurs in a state-operated Secure Residential Treatment facility; in those cases, OAAPI staff perform the screening and investigation.

In 2014, there were approximately:

- 15 allegations of abuse for individuals in State Operated Secure Residential Treatment Facilities resulting in about seven substantiated abuse cases.
- 395 allegations of abuse for individuals receiving Community Mental Health services of which approximately 134 were substantiated.

Allegations and investigations for State Operated Secure Residential Treatment Facilities and Community Mental Health that are received by OAAPI, are entered into the OAAPI Abuse Database. Not all Community Mental Health allegations that are screened out (not needing investigation), are tracked as there is not a centralized database supporting these programs. Technology tools depend on what tools a particular County CMHP has in place. The key computer system used is the OAAPI Abuse Database, which is MS Access and is not accessible to the Oregon Counties. All data entered into the OAAPI Abuse Database is after the fact, duplicate data entry, and currently used to capture the investigation data electronically for future analysis.

Investigations for these populations are all performed manually and then typed into MS Word. All notices are manually created in MS Word resulting in considerable duplicate data entry and the potential for human error.

2.4 Current State of DHS Office of Developmental Disabilities Services Abuse Management Operations

The DHS Office of Developmental Disabilities Services (DD) program serves two Oregon abuse population groups directly: Community DD Program individuals and In Home Program individuals.

- County-based Community DD Programs (CDDP) and the Stabilization and Crisis Unit (SACU) serve approximately 5,800 adults enrolled in (or previously eligible for) CDDP services. These adults live and receive services in either DHS-licensed settings such as provider group homes, state run group homes or private foster homes. CDDP (County) staff perform screenings and investigations of allegations involving CDDP clients. Screening and investigation of allegations in SACU facilities are performed by OAAPI investigators.
- The Community DD Programs (CDDP) and Brokerage Operations serve approximately 13,000 adult individuals with Intellectual/Developmental Disabilities (I/DD) living in their own homes or family homes, or DHS-licensed residential facilities. CDDP (County) staff perform screenings and investigations of allegations involving CDDP clients.

Allegations involving individuals with I/DD living in non-DD licensed facilities are screened by either DD or APS, and are generally investigated by APS as indicated above in APS Facility.

In 2014, there were approximately:

- 1,400 allegations of abuse for Community DD individuals resulting in about 675 substantiated abuse cases.
- 70 allegations of abuse for individuals in Stabilization and Crisis Unit facilities of which approximately 20 were substantiated.

Investigations for these populations are all performed manually and then typed into MS Word. Additionally, all notices are manually created in MS Word, resulting in considerable duplicate data entry. The number of reports of abuse that are reported and subsequently screened in for investigation can only be estimated as they are not all tracked in a key computer system. The key computer systems used are Serious Event Review Team (SERT), Combined On-call Intake (COIN) and the OAAPI Abuse Database. SERT is old and ineffective. COIN is used by OAAPI for tracking allegations, and the OAAPI Abuse Database is used by OAAPI for all SERT allegations referred to OAAPI for investigation. The number of reports that are screened out for further investigation are also unknown as these are tracked only at each individual CDDP.

2.5 Current State of DHS Child Welfare Abuse Management Operations with OAAPI Oversight

The Child Welfare (CW) program serves children with intellectual/developmental disabilities living in DHS-licensed 24-hour residential settings and children in DHS-licensed 24-hour residential facilities that are part of the Child Caring Agencies (CCAs). These Oregon abuse population groups are included within the scope of this project.

County Child Welfare staff at the various CW hotlines perform initial screening of all child abuse referrals. When children identified in an allegation live in a licensed setting, the referral is sent to OAAPI (using OR-Kids) for additional screening. After screening, investigations for both of these populations are performed by OAAPI.

In 2014, there were approximately:

- 85 allegations of abuse for children with intellectual/developmental disabilities living in DHS-licensed 24-hour residential settings resulting in about 46 substantiated abuse cases.
- 131 allegations of abuse of children in DHS-licensed Children's Care Provider Programs with approximately 24 substantiated.

Investigations for these populations are all documented manually and then typed into MS Word. Key information is entered into OR-Kids when the investigation is completed. All notices are manually created in MS Word resulting in considerable duplicate data entry. The computer systems used to process these cases are OR-Kids and the OAAPI Abuse Database. All allegations for CW are initially captured in OR-Kids and then entered into the OAAPI Abuse Database after the fact. The OAAPI Abuse Database is MS Access, therefore it is not available to the County CW screeners across the state.

In 2016, the Oregon State Legislature passed Senate Bill 1515 (SB1515). SB1515 adds young adults aged 18 to 21 years old in Child-Caring Agencies (CCAs) to be included in the age definition of "child in care" and expands the definition of CCA. This additional young adult group is estimated to be less than 250 individuals at this time and are included in the CAM Project as part of the population of children in DHS-licensed Children's Care Provider Programs.

The requirements of SB1515 will also likely lead to a much higher percentage of allegations of abuse in CCAs resulting in an investigation, doubling or tripling the number of CCA-related investigations conducted and documented by OAAPI.

2.6 Current State of OHA's Oregon State Hospital Abuse Management Operations

The OHA Oregon State Hospital (OSH) serves one abuse population group (within the scope of this project). Approximately 1,220 individuals live at the Oregon State Hospital.

When alleged abuse occurs in the Oregon State Hospital, OAAPI staff perform the screening and investigation.

In 2014 there were approximately 78 allegations of abuse for individuals living at the Oregon State Hospital, of which approximately 19 were substantiated.

Allegations and investigation outcomes for the Oregon State Hospital are entered into the key computer system, OAAPI Abuse Database, which is an MS Access application. All data entered into the OAAPI Abuse Database is after the fact, duplicative data entry, used to capture the investigation data electronically for future analysis.

Investigations for this population are performed manually and then typed into MS Word. All notices are manually created in MS Word resulting in considerable duplicate data entry.

2.7 Current Business Process

In 2014, seven (7) abuse management processes were documented. At a high level, all seven processes involve screening, investigating, referring, and closing allegations, with associated documentation and notifications. Each of these processes are based on a particular program or group of programs, as well as the individual program OARs, which define and guide them. Detailed information about these current processes can be found in the Business Case Supplemental Documents Package, Document F.

Table 1 – Key Current Business Processes

The Agencies’ have identified and drafted a standardized future state business process with the assistance of the user community across all in scope programs. This process will be used in the fit gap analysis performed by the SI during execution.

3. Problem or Opportunity Definition

3.1 The Business Problem

The lack of a centralized abuse system in place today creates obstacles and challenges for The Agencies’ work efforts to support vulnerable Oregonians.

The Agencies are committed to the protection of vulnerable Oregonians and are hampered by abuse data that is often fragmented, incomplete, and/or inaccessible. Additionally staff are required to utilize multiple disparate systems to make determinations about allegations of abuse slowing response and increasing risk of error. A centralized system that provides cross program abuse information and supports intake, screening, and investigation activities is critical to increase the efficiency and effectiveness of the staff performing those functions and to further protect Oregon citizens. The limitations of the current environment; lack of coordinated systems and data, gaps in visibility and the lack of a unified tracking and reporting process all lead to the imperative for The Agencies to address this situation by implementing a centralized abuse system to establish a clear and complete picture of abuse.

APS receives staff based on workload and the calculations to determine staff needs depend on forecasting future workload projections. The tools and information available today are challenging, requiring APS to use a workload calculation from four (4) years ago. This means the additional workload to support the increase in population over that time is not being reflected today's calculation. There was an increase in population of approximately 10% last year alone. Lack of up to date information and the inability to forecast have resulted in a lower than necessary staff count, negatively affecting the APS key performance metrics. Visibility in to the activity and movements of alleged and substantiated perpetrators across programs or counties is limited. This lack of information across the state opens the door for potential risk to persons served by the DHS and OHA.

Lack of unified processes has resulted in potential risk of clients falling "through the cracks" as local offices follow inconsistent screening practices and vary in their interpretation of Oregon rules and statues. Further complicating the challenges, for staff that are performing intake, screening, and investigations is that they lack systems to help them perform their jobs effectively and efficiently. Information such as addresses, screening and investigation data is cut and pasted into: 1) Multiple systems; 2) Multiple MS Word letters and; 3) MS Excel spreadsheets and; 4) MS Access databases.

The current intake process may be documented in one of many different systems around the state, and referrals that do not result in investigation are not always tracked with automated tools. As a result, it is difficult to review these referrals for quality control, screening related trends and workload trends. Law enforcement agencies send police reports to field offices in such a volume that staff find it hard to review and screen in/out all of the reports in a timely manner. When intakes and referrals are not all documented it's difficult to measure if there are sufficient staff to cover the workload and to measure the true quality of the work being performed including that all reports of abuse are being processed properly without falling "through the cracks".

Recent legislation has increased the number of mandatory reporters and hence the workload for intake and screening of reports of abuse. HB4151, passed in 2014, requires that DHS/OHA send a copy of its letter of determination and investigation report to the state agency responsible for certifying/licensing a substantiated perpetrator in a health occupation. The consistency with which this is done is not known since the processes and systems do not allow for tracking of this information. This increases the workload of the already overloaded investigators doing the work today.

As Oregon's population ages, DHS and OHA are seeing an increased interweaving of clients in community and facility settings. This means clients of one program are often placed in facilities licensed by other programs, or clients are transitioned from one system to another as they age and their health conditions or behavioral needs change. Establishing a centralized abuse management system enables DHS and OHA to integrate abuse data across programs, ensuring critical information in one system is retained helping keep clients safe by providing access to a client's history of abuse.

3.2 Current Technology Limitations

There are seven (7) primary data systems<sup>6</sup> used in Oregon today to collect reports of abuse and/or generate investigation reports. There are three (3) key data systems<sup>7</sup> used to analyze investigations and create data analysis reports related to protective services and abuse investigations with OAAPI oversight. These systems run on different software, collect different data points, and do not provide a comprehensive centralized data repository for abuse data. Investigation reports for seven of the nine populations are written using MS Word. In addition, more than 120 simple applications and spreadsheets are used in local offices to support abuse processes and manage workload, from receipt of an allegation through completion of an investigation.

The mix of old legacy systems and desktop software makes it difficult for employees and management to ensure all allegations are documented and processed appropriately. In most local offices, physical paper files are the only source of complete information about an investigation. This creates the potential for an allegation to go uninvestigated because there is no tool for unassigned referrals.

Following is a summary of the key systems used to collect, report or analyze abuse or generate investigative reports. Each system has limitations, which make them poor candidates for modifying to meet centralized abuse investigation or reporting. The limitations in many cases are due to the technology platforms lacking the robustness necessary to support large-scale use or they are an aging technology with limited ability to sustain and support. For example, MS Access lacks a robust structured query language, all information is saved into one file, which limits options, slows down reports, queries and forms and security controls are limited. As the volume of user's increases, performance degrades rapidly. Although technically, a MS Access system can support 255 concurrent users, the real world limit is 10-80 concurrent users.

The Oregon Access (OR Access) system's APS module for abuse tracking contains the largest number of investigations (~36,000) of all the systems listed above. It does not have intake or screening functionality and has poor search capabilities making it difficult or impossible to determine if a person has an in-progress or past investigation. This results in duplicate information as many allegations/investigations are entered multiple times. The system is capable of collecting information that helps support unique identification of people such as Social Security Number, birth date and client master identifier. Less than seven percent of alleged and substantiated perpetrators are uniquely identified with a Social Security Number or date of birth. None has a reference to a person or client master identifier. This makes it impossible to find repeat offenders of abuse. End-users cannot attach documents and/or evidence to the investigations in OR Access. Investigation reports cannot be sent electronically from the system and must be printed, scanned and attached to an email to send notices. The system does not provide statistics, trends, or other tracking data to local office management to help assess and manage to target quality outcomes. OR Access is not web-based, so it is not available away from the office unless it is downloaded to the investigator's computer or the investigator remotely accesses the system using emulation software (Citrix). OR Access is written in PowerBuilder and has a Sybase backend. PowerBuilder is an older development environment with a very small population of users. This makes it very difficult to find PowerBuilder developers, so supporting OR Access requires in-house training on the technology by OIS. Due to the aging nature of this technology and the current issues it carries, OR Access is not a good candidate for future central abuse management use or extensibility.

Web723 contains the next largest number of investigations (approximately 32,000). It does not have intake or screening functionality. As with OR Access, DHS is not documenting all the reports of abuse in this system; only the reports of abuse assigned to investigate are entered. There is a high level of frustration by local office staff with this system as it frequently “crashes” or times out while documenting an investigation and all the data entered is lost. This system does not have the ability to locate past/historical information so all information has to be manually entered for each investigation. Many hours of re-entry of information are required due to the instability of this system. End-users cannot attach documents or evidence to the investigations. Only at the conclusion of an investigation, after a supervisor has reviewed the report and all notices have been sent out, an electronic notice is sent to the APD Central Office of Licensing and Regulatory Oversight (OLRO) in Salem confirming that the investigation is complete. Considerable time is spent manually preparing and mailing documents to all the appropriate parties. There are no statistics, trends, or other tracking data available to local office management to help ensure desired quality outcomes are achieved. This application is written in Cold Fusion, an aging technology, and has a DB2 backend. Due to Web723’s instability issues, old technology and limited functionality, it is not a good candidate to extend.

Lane Council of Government’s (LCOG) Client Tracking System (CTS) is used for all LCOG APS reports of abuse (~12,700) and investigations (~7,200). LCOG transfers files of information to DHS that are then loaded into the DHS Data Warehouse. Due to periodic issues with these imports, the DHS Data Warehouse does not contain a full set of LCOG data for analysis. LCOGs CTS has relatively good APS functionality but, being designed for a single AAA office, it does not provide for the statewide 360-degree view of a person needed by DHS and OHA. It has an MS Access front end with a MS SQL Server backend and hence is not extensible or scalable.

Serious Event Review Team (SERT) is used by the DHS Office of Developmental Disabilities Services Community DD programs to notify OAAPI that an investigation is needed (approximately 57,000 serious events are stored in the system some of which are reports of abuse). CDDPs use this system to analyze trends such as type of abuse, providers and clients with high numbers of incidents. The County Investigator fills out the form and it is transferred to OAAPI. Data from this system is manually re-entered into the OAAPI Abuse Database. Known issues with this system include: It is not user friendly; not searchable or search criteria/results are inconsistent and; the database model is out of date, as it has not been updated in over three years. Because of the complexities of using this system, not all CDDPs are inputting data here. SERT is currently supported by the Office of Business Intelligence (OBI). It has a ColdFusion frontend and a MS SQL Server backend. It is not extensible or scalable.

OR-Kids is used by DHS Child Welfare to notify the OAAPI Investigations Unit of allegations of child abuse initially screened by Child Welfare workers that require OAAPI screening and investigation (~88 in 2014). This system has substantial functionality. It is a complex system that is not end-user friendly, partially due to the significant level of pop-ups, which frustrate the end-users. The search feature does not work well; standard searches for a person can return hundreds of names resulting in staff not finding the person they really need or want. The online user interface and data relationships between case, abuse report, people, assessments, allegations and associated notes are not intuitive from an abuse management perspective. The OAAPI investigation process for children in licensed settings is handled outside of OR-Kids and final information is posted back in OR-Kids upon completion of the investigation. The investigation itself is written independently in MS Word. The front-end application primarily uses JBoss, Java and COBOL. The backend uses MS SQL Server. This system architecture is designed specifically to manage child protective services cases, it does an inadequate job displaying information about abuse incidents related to OAAPI investigations. This system is not a good candidate to extend for centralized abuse management. With a core focus on child protective services, modifications to accommodate the requirements of the Agencies would require significant and expensive modification and could negatively impact the core functionality and purpose of existing system.

Combined On-Call Intake (COIN) is used to track reports of abuse made directly to OAAPI (~5,000) and screening decisions for many of the populations investigated by the OAAPI Investigations Unit. It does not support the investigation process. This system was created internally with MS Access and is not extensible or scalable.

The OAAPI Abuse Database is used to track key information about investigations (~23,368) for Community DD, Community MH, and OAAPI investigators. These investigators use a separate MS Word template to write their investigation reports. Although OAAPI offers a recommended format, reports vary somewhat from county to county. CDDP and CMHP investigators send their reports to OAAPI via e-mail, where they are reviewed, approved and “data-mined” manually by OAAPI staff to populate by re-entering information into OAAPI’s Abuse Database. All OAAPI-led investigations are also data-mined manually and entered into this database. This system is filled with duplicated data from other systems and tools (MS Word). This system does not have role-based security, allowing anyone to change any data in the system. The OAAPI Abuse Database is a Microsoft Access database developed internally in 2001. This system is not extensible or scalable for statewide use.

Currently, the Agencies rely on these disconnected data systems to store abuse-related data and to produce reports. Challenges and risks are pervasive because these systems are often unable to provide the critical information being asked for by internal and external partners, including: accurate metrics for Quarterly Business Reviews (QBR), requests for statewide abuse data from media, and sufficiently granulated data reports for the Legislature. The table below illustrates the distribution of the systems by the population served that are used to support abuse management by the Agencies.

Consultants and Task Forces have looked numerous times at the abuse management technology issues for the populations served by The Agencies. The many challenges associated with the current systems are evident not only to individuals within DHS, OHA and OAAPI, but have been brought to the attention of the Agencies by external entities as well, most notably in the following instances:

- DHS Consultant Public Knowledge report dated 2005.
- McKinsey Study Recommendation dated 2008.
- Oregonian Article dated March 26, 2011.
- Adult Safety and Protection Team Report dated August 4, 2011.
- Resident Safety Review Council Report to Legislature dated February 2013.
- DHS Elder Abuse Prevention Audit (12-013).

3.3 The Opportunity

DHS and OHA share an imperative of keeping vulnerable adults safe by investigating allegations of abuse in a timely manner and remediating as needed. Implementing a centralized web-based data system to collect all reports of abuse; screen, refer and investigate those reports of abuse; and ensure all appropriate agencies/parties are notified of the investigation outcome directly supports DHS's commitment to "improve systems, processes and culture to ensure that safety is our number one priority.”<sup>9</sup> This will significantly improve DHS’ ability to achieve its mission to assist Oregonians in achieving safety, health and independence.

3.3.1 Alignment with 2014’s Oregon House Bill 4151 (HB4151)

Development of this system is in direct alignment with HB4151 which states “The Department of Human Services shall adopt policies and guidelines to plan for the development and standardization of resources and technologies” related to abuse of vulnerable adults age 65 and above or living in an DHS-licensed facility. The CAM Project will address HB4151 through the following capabilities:

- 1) Create a centralized system that standardizes data for the nine (9) population groups served by OAAPI and its program partners called out in HB4151.
- 2) Create a centralized database of reports of abuse.
- 3) Provide storage of photographs for purposes of preserving evidence of the condition of the resident at the time of the investigation.
- 4) Create a centralized method of notice management (sending and receiving notices) to improve communications with law enforcement.
- 5) Create a centralized and standardized method of sending notices to health care licensing/certifying agencies.
- 6) Create a centralized and standardized method for the DHS Background Check Unit (BCU) to augment their background checks by viewing information in the new system for persons who present a risk of harm to another person.
- 7) Create a centralized and standardized method for DHS and OHA organizations that do not utilize the Background Check Unit (BCU) to view information in the new system for persons who present a risk of harm to another person.

3.3.2 Alignment with 2016’s Oregon Senate Bill 1515 (SB1515)

Development of this system is in direct alignment with SB1515. This Senate Bill specifies approximately 16 types of abuse related notices, some of which result in multiple notices depending on the situation. A robust notice management system will support generation, tracking, storage, management and quality control of notices. The planned system’s flexibility will support screeners and investigators to comply with changing mandatory requirements more efficiently.

3.3.4 Alignment with the Strategic Technology Plan

The DHS/OHA Strategic Technology Plan (STP) includes a number of strategies that the Centralized Abuse Management Project will support.

The table below summarizes the various components of the STP that a centralized abuse system will satisfy.

3.4 Project Objectives

High-Level Goals of the new system are to:

- 1) Reduce abuse risk to vulnerable Oregonians and reduce liability abuse exposure for the State: Improve DHS, OHA, and OAAPI visibility into all cases for which they have oversight regardless of program, facility, population, policy or location thus reducing risk to Oregonians, who may have otherwise fallen through the cracks. Provide a 360-degree view of a person so trends in victims and/or perpetrators can be found and uniquely identified statewide across programs. Improve victim safety by improving communications between stakeholders<sup>10</sup> including Oregon State health certification/licensing agencies.

- 2) Increase abuse case investigations productivity and efficiency: Increase staff productivity through improved processes that minimize duplication of data entry. Move away from the need for paper files to a new paperless system, which allows information sharing with the right people at the right time. Provide staff tools for proactive self-management of workload and outcomes by staff and management in local offices and each program's central office. Provide abuse reporters the ability to enter their allegations of abuse through the Internet.
- 3) Support program variation and frequent changes: Accommodate similarities and differences in programs and respond quickly to frequent legal and policy changes.
- 4) Develop capacity for projected increases in abuse-related workload: Improve the ability to handle and support the anticipated high volume of abuse allegations, referrals, investigations, notices and related data over the next ten years.
- 5) Identify and track abuse across a person's lifespan: Identify abuse statewide across programs, connect abuse across the lifespan of a person regardless of their role in the incident (victim, perpetrator, witness etc.), and ensure that protective services are informed by a client's past history of abuse.
- 6) Implement a web based and easy-to-use technology system: Implement a system that will: 1) Support and integrate the screening, investigation, review, reporting and notice processes regardless of the DHS/OHA program that is being administered and; 2) Function well regardless of the supported desktop browser technologies used by the state and their program partners (counties, AAAs, brokerages etc.).
- 7) Produce standardized auditing and analysis information: Standardize the collection of all abuse-related data for purposes of auditing, analysis, reporting and forecasting. This will be achieved through use of common terminology and definitions that will be determined through a cooperative effort of OAAPI and its partners and aligned with developing national abuse data collection methodologies.
- 8) Provide accurate data and reporting: Create the ability to report on core data and metrics in order to provide effective services and measurable outcomes to program partners, and to assure that abuse investigations are being conducted effectively and prevention efforts are being targeted appropriately.
- 9) Enable mobile technology: Enable the use of mobile technology in the investigation process to improve efficiencies, especially related to safety and response times when investigators are in the field.

3.4.1 Key Benefits of the Centralized Abuse Management System

Key benefits of the new system include:

- Provides The Agencies with one comprehensive multi-program system for abuse management documentation and inquiries so that risk to the safety of Oregonians and liability to the State are reduced.

- Real-time, online documentation of initial reports of abuse and the resulting screening decisions to ensure all reports of abuse that need investigation are screened in and the rationale and other steps taken (such as referring to others) can be supervised and monitored.
- Real-time, online documentation of all investigations including notices, and storage for that information in a centralized database so that the information is safe and accessible by local office staff and management, program Central Office, OAAPI and the DHS Background Check Unit.
- Increases productivity and efficiency through reduction in duplicate data entry, manual work, and by allowing reporters of abuse the ability to submit reports online through the Internet 24 hours a day 7 days a week.
- Improves decision making and preventive actions because, over time there is one place to find a:
  - Perpetrator and their history of abuse for one or more programs across the entire state of Oregon.
  - Victim and their history of abuse for one or more programs across the entire state of Oregon.
  - DHS-Licensed Facility and the history of abuse at that facility for one or more programs across the entire state of Oregon.
- Standardizes methods and data allowing for improved oversight and analysis.

Key functionality of the new system includes:

- Dashboards for workers that enhance their ability to self-manage their work within mandated response times.
- A business rules engine that allows for easy modifications by The Agencies for specific needs and new mandates.
- Evidence, photos and other document attachments.
- Integration with the ONE's Master Client Index.
- Mailing address validation.
- Automated notice generation.
- Public online report of abuse submittal.
- Role based security.
- Single sign-on with OHA's Active Directory.

4. High Level Requirements and Key Assumptions

Following is a brief overview of the high-level requirements and some key assumptions for this initiative.

4.1 High Level Requirements

Following are the most critical requirements for a centralized abused management solution:

Online Abuse Complaint: Provide the public - including mandatory reporters - an Internet page to submit complaints 24 hours a day – seven (7) days a week.

Worker Dashboard: Provide screeners, investigators, supervisors and reviewers dashboards listing incidents and investigations that can be filtered and sorted to fit their needs. For example: to filter by the incidents needing response today or to sort for the last incident that the worker updated.

Comprehensive Search: Provide users of the system sophisticated, comprehensive search, filter and sort capability to assist in finding past victims, perpetrators and/or incidents. For example: searches for people across program by name and/or address and/or social security number.

Portals: for Screeners, Investigators, Supervisors and Reviewers. Provide screeners the ability to accept online abuse complaints and route them to the appropriate location, enter abuse complaints received in other manners (phone, email, mail...), update complaints, which could not be completed in a contiguous timeframe. Provide investigators the ability to enter and track required information for an investigation. Provide Supervisors and Reviewers the ability to review and comment on screening decisions and draft investigation reports.

Business Rules Maintenance: Provide System Administrator(s) the capability to maintain business rules separate from system code. For example: allow the System Administrator to update Oregon Administrative Rules and definitions viewed and selected by workers along with field selection values.

Interfaces: Integrate with the existing Master Client Index including inbound Interfaces from OLRO-licensed facilities; provider demographics from the APD provider database and a regularly scheduled data export to the DHS data warehouse and QMDB/Q2.

Historical Data: Load Historical Abuse Management Data into the new solution from multiple feeder systems including OR Access, Web723, LCOG CTS and OAAPI Abuse Database.

Data Warehouse: Provide a data warehouse for running queries, mandated reports, and performing data analysis without impacting performance of end users. Provide a full set of data for running extracts to be used by others systems such as QMDB for DHS.

Workload Management: Support for monitoring and projecting workload by worker, by program, by local office, and by program within an office. Support for assigning, pausing, and restarting work on individual and groups of reports of abuse and/or investigations.

Document Management: Support for capturing, storing and retrieving images and other electronic documents related to reports of abuse and investigations. Support for scanning paper documents. Support for uploading of documents through the online abuse complaint and the worker portals. Support the use of template documents for communications.

Notice Management: Support for worker-driven and system-driven notices to Complainants, Perpetrators, Providers, Various Law Enforcement Agencies, Oregon State Health Occupation licensing/certifying/authorizing organizations, and referral partners. Support the use of templates for notices that can be sent via secure email, fax and/or the United States Postal Service.

Reporting: Support for the creation of reports required for investigation reporting, protection and intervention process measures, and analysis of service equity in abuse investigations.

Identity and Access Management: Support for the integration with DHS's Active Directory for authenticating workers who are state employees or program partners such as Area Agency on Aging staff and Counties who access the system on the behalf of a DHS program.

Data Security: Protection of data, whether at rest, in transmission, in display, or in reports consistent with federal, state and agency data privacy, security and retention laws, rules and policies.

Disaster Recovery: Ensuring that no data is lost is critical to the safety of our clients. The Recovery Point Objective (RPO) for this project is zero data loss in the event of a disaster. The Recovery Time Objective (RTO) is a maximum of 24 hours that the system can be unavailable in the event of a disaster or system problem.

4.2 Detailed Requirements

The project team developed both high-level business requirements and detailed business requirements. These two requirements documents will provide a Systems Integrator (SI) sufficient context regarding Oregon's business needs to respond to Oregon's planned Request for Proposal (RFP) for a SI. The selected SI's expertise will be leveraged to help refine Oregon's preliminary detailed business requirements, which will increase the probability of project success. Oregon will align requirements as closely as possible to Colorado's design while still addressing Oregon's unique, mission-critical business needs. The detailed business requirements will be reviewed with subject matter experts including DHS/OHA field staff to ensure they are complete and correct.

The Systems Integrator will use Oregon's detailed requirements to conduct a Fit-Gap Assessment with the potential solution to establish additional functional and technical design specifications. This approach leverages the proven model implemented in Colorado to guide Oregon's efforts.

4.3 Fit-Gap Analysis

Fit-Gap analysis will compare Oregon's rules, policies and procedures to the Colorado System and identify how the Colorado System meets respective functionality for Oregon out of the box. The goal of analysis is to identify how the Colorado Solution meets the respective needs of the Agencies. Gaps where system functionality is not present and cannot be resolved through a change to process or policy will be prioritized along with a defined approach to address them. This fit-gap effort identifies the gaps that will identify the need for process changes, software configuration changes and/or customizations required.

The following diagram describes the activities to be conducted during the Fit-Gap Analysis. This information is more fully documented in the planned RFP.

4.4 Assumptions and Constraints

The following constraints are factors in the Alternatives Analysis:

- Project funding was approved in SB5507A Enrolled comprised of:
  - $1,437,494 in General Funds (GF);
  - $3.3 million in Q Bonds;
  - $894,543 for Q Bond issuance and debt service.
- Core functionality for adult abuse report intake, screening and investigation must be implemented by June 30, 2017. The initial release of the Centralized Abuse Management solution will not automate all tasks, so duplicate data entry will not be resolved until Release 2.
- HB4151 requires Oregon have one central statewide solution for APS.

- The Oregon Legislature, which approved dollars in SB5507A for this project, will un-schedule funds to proceed with this project.
- Population growth is expected to average 10% per year for the populations served in this project.
- The solution will meet 80% or more of agency functional requirements and 90% of non-functional (technical and security) requirements.
- The solution must be easily adaptable to satisfy ongoing process and requirement changes such as those driven by HB4151 and SB1515.
- The selected alternative must support the DHS/OHA Strategic Technology Plan.
- Historic abuse information will be accessible to the DHS data warehouse sometime after the core system is implemented.
- The project will issue a competitive bid Request for Proposal (RFP) for a Systems Integrator (SI) to plan, design, implement and maintain the new system.
- Training will be provided by the System Integrator (SI) to OAAPI Program area trainers who will then train staff statewide.

- Solution implementation and ongoing maintenance and operations will be provided by a 3rd party vendor with oversight from state employees.
- Risk tolerance for this project is moderate based on the timeline, volume of work, and funding available.
- The system can be used and supported in all required locations including but not limited to:
  - DHS and OHA programs, offices, county and local partners.
  - DHS's Background Check Unit.
  - Long-Term Care Ombudsman (LTCO).
  - The Public.

5. Alternatives Analysis

5.1 Alternatives Identification

After a preliminary business case proposed development of a customized solution, the Agencies invested significant efforts to assess other alternatives to compare against custom development. A team comprised of program and technology members conducted in-depth market research. The market research included detailed interviews with 18 states to discover their abuse management solutions. This market research yielded two potentially viable solutions utilized by other states and two used in Oregon. The team did further in-depth analysis of capabilities of these four options against functional and technical requirements, and conducted customer demos and on-site visits. Detailed information from the in-depth analysis and site visits can be found in the Business Case Supplemental Documents.

Information gained during customer demos and site visits eliminated some alternatives under early consideration identified from the project's initial market research including Commercial off the Shelf (COTS) solutions and transfer solutions used by other entities.

COTS solutions available in the marketplace such as Harmony, which could address Oregon's requirements primarily, accommodate only one program - Adult Protective Services. The relevant vendor supported COTS solutions require significant customization, including underlying architecture modification, in order to meet the Agencies' needs. A primary benefit of COTS solutions is that the licensing vendor provides regular regulatory and business functionality updates/upgrades to meet changing needs. The extent and complexity of Oregon's level of required modifications to a COTS negates those benefits, as each release would require re-customization for Oregon. The viable COTS solutions reviewed were only supported by the vendor that owns and licenses the software. In this situation, if the state were not satisfied with the licensing vendor, there would not be options to utilize an alternate vendor to support the system. Many states reported issues getting modifications made to their vendor-licensed software that involved many months of delay to get vendors to address their legal, regulatory and efficiency improvements. Oregon must be able to respond to effectively to the rapidly changing regulatory and business environment. This makes the use of the relevant COTS solutions high risk for Oregon.

Transfer solutions used by other states consist primarily of large, monolithic systems such as the Statewide Automated Child Welfare Information Systems (SACWIS), outdated home grown state systems used for Adult Protective Services over the last 10-20+ years, or small County/AAA applications that cannot accommodate the number of statewide users required by the CAM Project. SACWIS systems have high implementation costs - $50 million and up, with ongoing annual support costs of $20 million or more. Abuse tracking and management is a small piece of functionality in the SACWIS systems. Removing this functionality represents significant expense, leaving it in makes modifications and maintenance cost prohibitive. The general architecture of SACWIS reviewed by the team is old and focuses on the family rather than the abused person. For these reasons, SACWIS transfer solutions were removed from consideration.

Smaller, custom developed solutions such as the Lane County (LCOG) solution were determined not to be viable options for Oregon to consider transferring as a starting point for its statewide solution as they lacked the scalability and functionality necessary to meet Oregon's functional and technical requirements. Most are built using MS Access or other software that is not designed to support the level security or the number of concurrent users that Oregon requires.

As part of Oregon's due diligence, alternate CRM solutions, including MS Dynamics were considered at the request of the Agencies. MS Dynamics was a late emerging option brought forward after robust analysis of other solutions had already been completed. After consideration, the project team did not find MS Dynamics offered substantial capabilities beyond those in more thoroughly assessed alternatives and the cost model was not as viable as other options. Ultimately, The Agencies' Executive Leadership determined Salesforce to be the preferred CRM alternative over MS Dynamics as it enables Oregon to build upon existing foundational capabilities established by Colorado's adult protective services system.

The following alternatives emerged from the analysis completed by the project team and based off the recommendations of The Agencies' Executive Leadership.

1. Purchase a Software as a Service Solution; leverage another state's use of the SaaS.
2. Implement a Custom Build Solution.
3. Maintain the Status Quo.

Project analysis of these alternatives are as follows:

Alternative 1: Purchase Software as a Service Solution; leverage another state's use of that SaaS

Under this alternative, a SaaS CRM solution would be implemented, configured and customized to meet the CAM Project's detailed requirements. This approach allows relatively quick design, build and implementation plus ongoing flexibility to meet the continuously changing business/regulatory environment at a reasonable cost.

Oregon investigated two CRM options – Microsoft Dynamics and Salesforce. While each of these CRM solutions have capabilities that can meet Oregon's needs; Salesforce is considered the front-runner option as it provides Oregon the opportunity to leverage Colorado's proven Adult Protective Services (CAPS) which was configured using the Salesforce SaaS solution and implemented in June 2015. The Colorado capabilities can be utilized by Oregon as a foundational requirements reducing implementation time substantially. This strategy, in concert with procuring a SaaS and services of a Systems Integrator will help accelerate Oregon's implementation efforts, while reducing risk and shortening the implementation timeline. DHS and OHA Executive Leadership believe this synthesized approach represents the best fit for Oregon's needs. More details regarding Colorado's solution and the proposed implementation approach are outlined later in this document.

Alternative 2: Implement a Custom Build System

Under this alternative, the Agencies would design, develop, test and deploy a custom solution built from the ground up for APS, HS, DD, CW and OSH Centralized Abuse Management needs. This alternative would allow a tailor-made solution that would meet all the functional, technical and organization requirements. The costs to develop a custom system are substantially higher than procuring a SaaS solution and carry significantly higher risks and a much longer timeline to implement compared to Alternative 1.

Alternative 3: Maintain the Status Quo

Under this alternative Oregon would maintain the current status quo with disparate, disconnected systems and highly manual processes and there would be no additional investment in abuse tracking system automation. Improvements to current processes would be limited to those that arise naturally through the Agencies' continuous improvement program. The Agencies would continue with ineffective, disconnected automated and manual systems, which are difficult to oversee and analyze. The centralized abuse tracking needs of HB 4151 would not be met.

The chart below outlines the estimated Total Cost of Ownership for alternatives:

5.1.1 Alternative 1 – Implement a Software as a Service Solution and leverage another state’s proven capabilities with that SaaS

Cost

The total cost of implementing and supporting this alternative and operating it the proposed solution starting July 2016 through June 2023 is estimated to be ~$8.4 million. (See details of this estimate in Appendix A.) Compared to the Custom Build alternative, this alternative minimizes costs of Fit-Gap analysis, design, configuration, customization, testing, training, and rollout by using a Customer Relationship Management platform based on the successful Colorado APS abuse management solution. This alternative requires a per-person and/or per device Salesforce licensing cost over the life of the solution.

Alternative 1 - Salesforce CRM

	%	55.0%	45.0%		100.0%

Benefits

Alternative 1 supports the functional and non-functional requirements associated with Centralized Abuse Management for the Agencies. The system will implement much faster, with lower risk and less cost than building a custom solution. This is demonstrated Colorado, who implemented their initial release of the Salesforce SaaS within 6 months. Colorado's current system provides a proven APS model for Oregon to leverage as a starting point for the centralized abuse management solution. Oregon's plan is to pursue procurement of Salesforce as the SaaS as its capabilities and the ability to leverage Colorado's requirements will accelerate Oregon's initiative.

Salesforce provides an easy-to-use capability for the business to administer templates, list values, and perform ad hoc reporting. This SaaS allows for program-specific uniqueness through configuration of program specific data integrity rules. Configuration capability of Salesforce will allow program variations when necessary and the ability to make frequent changes quickly to accommodate the rapidly changing regulatory environment. Configuration supports the use of templates and rules for distribution of notices making it easier to generate and distribute notices. Salesforce has interface/integration tools, which will quickly and easily interface the new system with legacy extracts and systems such as the Agencies' provider information and client master index.

All reports of abuse, response times and screening decisions will be entered in real-time into the system. Reporters of abuse will be able to submit their reports on-line via the Internet. Screeners, investigators and others with a need to know will be able to research past screenings and investigations (including historical system investigation data created prior to implementation) to assess if ongoing or past reports of abuse and investigation outcomes play a role in the current situation. Screeners, investigators, supervisors, reviewers and others will have dashboards to assist them in managing their work/workload. All data about an investigation will be kept online rather than in field office files making management, oversight and prevention planning more effective.

In "Magic Quadrant for the CRM Customer Engagement Center" May 2016, Gartner reports Salesforce to be the leader in both their Ability to Execute and Completeness of Vision for their CRM.<sup>11</sup> They also said that Salesforce "appeared as the leading vendor on shortlists for Business to Business (B2B) customer service and support solutions seen by Gartner six times as often as the nearest rival." "Salesforce's enormous influence in the market has attracted a global list of key system integrators and over 600 complementary software providers."

Risks

The top risks of this alternative are:

- 1) Implementing an enterprise information technology solution within a relatively short timeline that spans multiple programs and agencies located across the state.
- 2) Significant policy and procedure changes will be required for the Agencies as more standardization is put in place.
- 3) Integration may be more difficult between Salesforce and legacy systems than anticipated.
- 4) Acquisition of funding to ensure reductions in manual work arounds and duplicate data entry beyond the 2015-17 biennium may be a challenge.
- 5) System will need to adhere to security requirements for Level 3 data. Project will need to ensure that all these requirements are met utilizing a SaaS solution.

<sup>11</sup> Critical capabilities and features included: "Case management/problem/service resolution (and control of customer master data); A knowledge management solution; a full customer self-service suite, with support for Web and mobile channels; Real-time decision-making and predictive analytics support for agents; an adaptive business rule engine; Enterprise feedback management."

6) This alternative is dependent on the acquisition of the code/configuration of Colorado's system.

Cost

The total cost of implementing this alternative and operating it through June 2023 is estimated to be ~$17 million. (See Appendix A for details.) This alternative incurs the full cost of analysis, design, development, testing, training, and rollout. The cost is unknown for Enterprise Technology Services/State Data Center (ETS/SDC) to develop and implement a process to ensure no data loss in the event of a disaster or event causing the production server/system to go down. This alternative will typically require only server-based software and developer tool licensing as opposed to user or end user device licensing costs.

Alternative 2 - Build

Totals include FY 2016-17 through FY 2022-23

		Through June 2019 Project and Implementation	July 2019 through June 2023 Operations, Maintenance, Ongoing Support	Total	%
Personal Services	Salaries & Benefits	$3,326,881	$258,998	$3,585,879	21.2%
	State Data Center	$139,056	$86,400	$225,456	1.3%
Services & Supplies & Capital Outlay	Software	$70,000	$10,000	$80,000	0.5%
	Hardware	$20,000	$0	$20,000	0.1%
	IT Professional Services	$5,056,789	$4,052,172	$9,108,961	53.7%
	Contingency	$1,722,545	$0	$1,722,545	10.2%
	Indirect	$1,550,291	$661,135	$2,211,426	13%
	Total	$11,885,562	$5,068,705	$16,954,267

Benefits

This alternative could achieve all of the Agencies functional, technical and organizational requirements.

Risks

The top risks of Alternative 2 - Build are:

- 1) Implementing an enterprise information technology solution that spans multiple programs and agencies located across the state in a longer timeframe than suits the State's sense of urgency. This alternative is estimated to be designed and implemented in a 2 ¼ to 2 ½ year timeline.
- 2) Significant policy and procedure changes will be required for the Agencies as more standardization is put in place.
- 3) Availability of funding at the level required to support completion of the project.
- 4) Creation of a new ETS/SDC custom process/design/implementation to ensure there would not be any loss of data during a disaster or event causing the production server/system to go down. This is not a proven ETS/SDC capability for non-mainframe applications so the costs to establish are unknown and the desired results could take longer than expected.

5) Setup disaster recovery for zero data loss with an outside vendor, then test for potential cut over to should a disaster occur at ETS/SDC.

5.1.3 Alternative 3 – Maintain the Status Quo

Cost

Maintaining the status quo and not implementing an integrated solution will cause DHS and OHA to incur additional expenses over time. That estimated total cost through June 2023 is approximately ~$5.2 million (see Appendix A for details). This additional cost will be driven by increasing workloads due to aging populations and increased regulatory requirements leading to the need to add more staff to manage the demand in the field and meet key performance measure goals.

Alternative 3 - Do Nothing

		Through Dec 2017 Project and Implementation	Jan 2018 through June 2023 Operations, Maintenance, Ongoing Support	Total	%
Personal Services	Salaries & Benefits	$1,047,589	$4,136,675	$5,184,264	100.0%
	Total	$1,047,589	$4,136,675	$5,184,264
		%	20.2%	79.8%	100.0%

Benefits

There is no up-front investment required to continue maintaining the status quo.

Risks

The top risks of Alternative 4 – Maintain the Status Quo are the continuation of current state risks:

- 1) Safety risks to Oregonians that are reported as abused. The reports of abuse may be hand written (if documented at all) and stored in paper/personal computer files in 140 or more locations across the state. This fragmentation of data makes it difficult to oversee the quality of screening decisions regarding reports of abuse and hence leaves Oregonians at risk.
- 2) Safety risks to Oregonians when an alleged or substantiated perpetrator applies for certification, licensing or authorization from an Oregon state, DHS or OHA organization. Communications from investigators to the certification, licensing and authorization organizations are inconsistent so the certification, licensing or authorization organization may not be aware they are approving an alleged or substantiated perpetrator.
- 3) Safety risks to Oregonians when an alleged or substantiated perpetrator requests employment from a DHS, OHA, and program partner or provider organization. Communications from investigators to the Background Check Unit (BCU) are inconsistent across all the programs and program partners so BCU may not be aware they are approving an alleged or substantiated perpetrator to work with Oregonians.

- 4) Risks that field staff are unable to effectively manage their own workload and for staff/management to prevent cases from being lost or potentially left unresolved due to insufficient tools for tracking work.
- 5) Risk of increasing field staff frustration as they spend more time on duplicate data entry, manual creation and distribution of notices instead of performing actual investigations because both population sizes and requirements for additional notices increase the workload.
- 6) Risk of expensive lawsuits resulting from the risks to Oregonians.

5.2 Cost Comparison

The Oregon Legislature has approved the use of ~$1.4 million in General Funds and ~$3.3 million in Q Bonds (plus issuance and debt service) to be used during the 2015-17 biennium.

The following Table summarizes the cost information from the preceding section.

5.4 Risk Comparison

Below is a high-level risk comparison table. Please see “CAM Project Risk Assessment – Stage Gate 2” for a more detailed description of the principal risks facing the project.

Risk Area	Alternative 1 Salesforce	Alternative 2 Build	Alternative 3 Status Quo
Technology	Low	High	Medium
Policy	Low	Medium	High
Operational	Low-Medium	High	High
People	Medium	Medium	High
Overall	Low-Medium	High	High

Each of the active alternatives has the risks associated with multi-Program (enterprise) information technology projects involving complex state program and partner relationships.

- Alternative 1 (SaaS) is the least risky because it leverages Colorado’s APS system built using Salesforce, and utilizes a platform which allows for rapid configuration and customization as needed.
- Alternative 2 (Build) is a larger project with inherently higher risks than Alternative 1. Risk is driven in part by the significantly longer duration and the higher demand over that duration on Program participation than Alternative 1.
- Alternative 3 (Status Quo) has the highest risk of all the alternatives. It continues the current state where statewide centralized oversight is very difficult and workers continue with paper files and severely inadequate or no application system to support their needs.

6. Conclusions and Recommendations

6.1 Conclusions

Both Alternative 1 and 2 would address the opportunity described in Section 3.2 above and they fulfill the objectives listed in Section 3.3. The cost to implement Alternative 1 is less than half of Alternative 2 with significantly lower risks and a much shorter implementation timeline.

Table 4 – Cost, Benefits, Risks Summary

	Project Cost	Project Benefits	Overall Risk
Alternative 1 SaaS	~$ 8.4 Million	All requirements, quick to implement	Low - Medium
Alternative 2 Build	~$17.0 Million	All requirements	High
Alternative 3 Status Quo	~$ 5.2 Million		High

6.2 Recommended Action and Schedule

The Agencies recommend Alternative 1 – Purchase Software as a Service Solution; leverage another state’s use of that SaaS. This approach will procure Salesforce, a SaaS CRM solution and leverage Colorado’s APS solution’s capabilities as the basis for Oregon’s solution. Colorado’s solution is built on the Salesforce platform.

To support this approach, the state will need to ensure that security standards adhere to Oregon’s SaaS Cloud Policy requirements and the terms and conditions contract will reflect those standards.

The recommended approach is significantly lower risk and approximately half the cost of Alternative 2 – Build, while still providing equivalent benefits.

The recommended alternative aligns well with the DHS/OHA Strategic Technology Plan including progress in pursuit of automating workflows, decision-making, and business rules while reducing manual, paper-based processes. It moves the state closer to the “360 degree view of a person” goal.

DHS requests Stage Gate 2 approval. Stage gate and legislative approval was received by DHS in 2014 for project initiation. In 2015, DHS received approval for additional research on solutions currently in use by other States for abuse management. DHS plans to seek approval to move to the detailed project planning phase (Stage Gate 3) in order to procure the Systems Integrator for implementation of the selected SaaS.

Funding for this initiative is provided by the legislatively approved use of ~$1.4 million in General Funds and ~$3.3 million in Q Bonds (plus issuance and debt service) to be used during the 2015-17 biennium. DHS is pursuing several funding options to close the financing gap between currently earmarked funds and the total expected cost. These include 1) Obtaining grant funding through ACL12; 2) Obtaining approval for a Policy Option Package (POP) for future

<sup>12</sup> APD has applied for but not received approval for grant funding. The US Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) Administration for Community Learning (ACL) released a Funding Opportunity Announcement for grants to states to strengthen their Adult Protective Services (APS) systems statewide. Due date for applications is 05/31/2016 and APD intends (pending approval) to enhancements and to also cover the first two years of licensing for maintenance and operations of the new system.

The table below reflects the high level proposed project schedule for Alternative 1 – a SaaS including the reuse of Colorado’s Salesforce code set and functionality. If Alternative #1 is approved, all core requirements are planned to implement by December 2017.

Table 5 – Tentative Project Schedule

The following chart lays out a preliminary schedule for the project. A more detailed project schedule will be prepared during the project planning phase and the project schedule will require re-baselining after the Fit/Gap Analysis. The chart is duplicated in Appendix B, where it is more legible.

6.3 Consequences of Failure to Act

Given the current degree of manual processing and the projected growth in work, failure to act will result in continued poor program performance with regard to key performance measures including timeliness of screening decisions and response times for investigations. Doing nothing will continue to grow the problems that impact the safety of Oregonians, including: 1) Workloads of screeners and investigators in the field; 2) Communications between investigators and certifying, licensing and authorizing organizations; 3) Client and other interested party discontent, and; 4) The potential for new lawsuits.

Failure to act on this effort means that the eventual satisfaction of the needs of the Programs and OAAPI will come at higher risk to Oregonians and liability to the State.

apply for the full amount of this grant to support the costs of this project. This grant opportunity is for approximately $412,000 over two years.

7. Business Case Checklist

7.1 Checklist for the Completed Business Case

- Has the case clearly defined what the case is about, the purpose for the proposed solution, what business problems the proposed solution attempts to solve, and the scope of the proposal?
- Has the cash flow, the flow expenditures, and the intake of financial benefits been presented over a common time period for the case, for each alternative action considered (including the “status quo”/current state alternative).
- Are the assumptions and methods for assessing the proposal’s impacts clearly defined, understandable, and acceptable? Do not forget risk impacts!
- Does the business case include the non-financial costs and benefits?
- Are the factors critical to the success of the proposal clearly defined?
- Are there critical success factors that can be managed? Is there a risk analysis that identifies and measures the relevant risks to the proposal?
- Are recommendations and conclusions based on a clear comparison of alternatives in terms of contributions to business objectives, problems solved, financial outcomes, and risks?
- Does the case clearly identify the estimated timeframes, costs, and implementation strategy required to successfully deliver the recommended solution?
- Does the case clearly express to consequences of failure to act on the recommended alternative?

1 Business Case Summary

1.1 Overview

Oregon's Department of Human Services (DHS) is preparing this business case as the foundation for determining whether and how to extend the OregOne eligibility, or ONE system to include eligibility determinations for the Non-Modified Adjusted Gross Income (Non-MAGI) Medicaid, Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF), and Employment Related Day Care (ERDC) programs.

This version of this business case is being prepared for consideration by the Office of the State CIO (OSCIO) and the Legislative Fiscal Office (LFO) in advance of their authorization to proceed from the planning phase of the project to project execution (Stage Gate 3). An earlier version of this business case (version 1.1, 12/15/2015) was reviewed and approved by OSCIO and LFO as they authorized the project to move from the initiation phase to the planning phase.

1.2 Background

Oregonians do not currently have the ability to apply for Non-MAGI Medicaid through a self-service portal via an on-line application. Additionally, while individuals currently may use an on-line application for Oregon's Supplemental Nutritional Assistance Program or with manual process supplementation for Temporary Assistance to Needy Families or Employment Related Day Care, the system supporting the application does not link to a benefit authorization system. DHS eligibility workers must engage in manual application processing activities, with little to no automation. Changes to regulations from federal agencies present challenges for eligibility workers when applying those regulations to each applicant's unique situation. DHS seeks to eliminate manual processing and the need to use legacy systems in support of Non-MAGI Medicaid, SNAP, TANF and ERDC eligibility determinations.

1.3 Opportunity Definition

The Oregon Health Authority (OHA), the state's designated Medicaid agency, recently implemented a new system for MAGI Medicaid eligibility determinations. That system is called OregOne eligibility, or ONE, and is the result of transferring the State of Kentucky's Affordable Care Act compliant state-based marketplace solution (kynect) for use in Oregon.

In early 2016, Kentucky rolled out an extension to the system that OHA has transferred to Oregon. That extension will support eligibility determinations for the following programs:

- Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP)
- Temporary Assistance to Need Families (TANF)
- Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP)
- Medicaid Waiver Management Applications
- Kentucky's Child Care Program

Given those system implementations, and given that the federal Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) has directed Oregon that it will only provide a 90/10 federal funding match for extending the ONE system, the time is clearly right to pursue extending ONE to support Non-MAGI Medicaid eligibility determinations and eligibility determinations for other DHS Human Service programs too.

The high-level business objectives driving this effort are:

- Allowing applicants to apply for benefits on-line, reducing the need to travel to local offices and reducing the need to provide duplicate information when applying for benefits from more than one program
- Automating manual processes in order to:
  - Reduce the amount of time that elapses between completing an application and making an eligibility determination
  - Reduce the amount of time that staff must spend creating, reviewing, and acting on each application
  - Reduce the rates of errors in making eligibility determinations
- Allowing for seamless sharing of information and transfer of cases among program staff
- Compliance with federal funding program requirements to support programmatic operations.

On August 10, 2011, three federal agencies (Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS), Food and Nutrition Services (FNS) and the Administration for Children & Families (ACF)) announced a time-limited, specific exception to the cost allocation requirements set forth in Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-87. These provisions generally require the costs associated with building shared state-based information technology systems to be allocated across all benefitting programs. The exception reflected a federal focus on streamlining enrollment in health and human services programs while leveraging funding efficiencies at the state-level. On July 20, 2015, the three agencies extended the exception for an additional 3 years, through December 31, 2018, and provided additional guidance on how states may take advantage of it to leverage these investments to better serve consumers' multiple programs and needs.

1.4 Alternatives Analysis

An earlier version of the business case for this project, which was prepared in advance of the state's Stage Gate 2 review, explored four broad alternative project approaches. They were:

1. Implement Non-MAGI Medicaid Eligibility Determination into the ONE System
Under this alternative, the ONE system would have been extended to support Non-MAGI Medicaid eligibility determinations and service authorization to community-based care programs only.
2. Implement Integrated Eligibility Determination into the ONE System
Under this alternative, the ONE system would be extended to support Non-MAGI Medicaid eligibility determinations and SNAP, TANF, and ERDC determinations, as well as service authorizations for community-based care programs.
3. Acquire External Eligibility Determination Services from another State
Just like Alternative #1, this alternative would have extended ONE to support Non-MAGI Medicaid eligibility determinations only. Like Alternative #2, it would have supported eligibility determinations for the SNAP, TANF, and ERDC programs. However unlike Alternative #2, that support would have been outside of ONE. In this alternative, DHS would have contracted with another state to support SNAP, TANF, and ERDC eligibility decisions.

4. Do Nothing

Under this alternative, there would be no additional investment in the ONE system and no acquisition of eligibility services from another state. Improvements to current processes would be limited to those that arise naturally through the DHS's continuous improvement program.

A full analysis and comparison of the costs, benefits, and risks of those alternative approaches is contained in that older version of the business case. Based on that analysis, DHS's executives selected Alternative #2.

This newer business case contains updated information about the costs and risks of the selected alternative, focusing specifically on developing a more complete and accurate estimate of the costs of designing, developing, implementing, maintaining, and operating the proposed system and the business processes that will depend on it. Those costs, benefits, and risks are compared only against the Do Nothing alternative.

The four-year total cost of ownership is estimated at $177.1 million, which includes $14.1 in maintenance and operations costs and a $163.0 million project cost. That project number includes certain additional operations costs that will occur between the time that the project begins rolling out the system to users and the end of warranty period. When these operations costs are characterized as part of the project, they become eligible for a more attractive federal funding match rate.

This version of the business case explores alternative strategies for support of post-project maintenance and operations activities and recommends pursuit of a model wherein the system is initially supported primarily by vendor staff with a subsequent transition to a shared support model.

1.5 Conclusions and Recommendations

Development of an Integrated Eligibility Determination system continues to appear to be a desirable investment for Oregonians, for DHS and OHA, and for eligibility workers, particularly in light of the looming expiration of the OMB Circular A-87 cost allocation exception and the active support of our CMS and FNS partners.

Between December 2015 and July 2016, project planning activities and the Fit/Gap Analysis work has:

- Completed the identification and documentation of a complete set of system requirements to support the work of DHS's administration of Non-MAGI Medicaid, SNAP, TANF, and ERDC eligibility and OHA's administration of MAGI Medicaid eligibility.
- Documented the architecture, infrastructure, and security changes that will be required to extend ONE to support eligibility determination for Non-MAGI Medicaid, SNAP, TANF, and ERDC
- Developed a Business Transition Plan that establishes a roadmap for the policy, process, procedure, and organizational change that will be required to implement and operate the new system.

- Negotiated a tentative statement of work with the system integrator for design, development, and implementation services at a fixed price.
- Identified a post-project maintenance and operations strategy and developed cost estimates for that work.
- Developed a tentative work plan and schedule integrating both vendor and state tasks.

With those things in place, DHS has a more fully developed understanding of the scope, costs, benefits, and risks of undertaking the project. The project team continues to support extending ONE to support eligibility determinations made by DHS for its major programs. And it supports the model for Maintenance and Operations proposed in Section 4. The DHS leadership team concurs.

2 Background

2.1 Current State of DHS Eligibility Work

Most of the systems supporting DHS eligibility determination processes were designed and built in the 1970s and early 1980s. Many of these systems have been modified repeatedly to address the vast number of eligibility, service authorization, and payment rule and policy changes that have occurred since then.

One of the most common complaints from both clients and workers is the lack of integration between and across DHS systems, resulting in the need for the same information to be provided and entered into multiple DHS systems. Even though DHS offices are committed operationally to the overarching theme of “No Wrong Door,” that vision is difficult to realize due to the lack of system interoperability. Clients are frequently frustrated with having to provide the same demographic and financial information over and over when applying for different program benefits. Caseworkers are frustrated by the lack of client and case visibility across programs. That forces them to open many systems and juggle many views into those systems simultaneously as they interview clients and process cases. Oftentimes, they don’t have access to systems or parts of systems that are needed to support clients effectively.

2.2 Non-MAGI Medicaid Eligibility Operations

Department of Human Services (DHS) and Area Agencies on Aging (AAA) staff make more than 150,000 Non-MAGI Medicaid eligibility determinations every year. The Oregon Health Authority’s (OHA’s) Spring 2016 Forecast for the 2017-2019 Biennium forecasts these caseloads:

- Clients of Aged, Blind, and Disabled programs (83,738 cases during 2017-2019)
- Clients of the Old Age Assistance program (45,522 cases during 2017-2019)
- Clients of the Qualified Medicare Beneficiaries program (24,784 cases in December 2016)

Roughly half of those determinations are made by DHS staff in local offices of the department’s Aging and People with Disabilities (APD) program. The remainder are made by AAA staff in Marion, Polk, Yamhill, Tillamook, Clatsop, Multnomah, Lane, Linn, Lincoln and Benton counties. (Area Agencies on Aging are typically county-chartered organizations that provide assistance and services for people over the age of 65 and people with disabilities who need assistance. In the Oregon counties listed above, the AAA delivers DHS's APD Medicaid program under contract with the department, including making initial and ongoing financial eligibility determinations.)

The Non-MAGI Medicaid eligibility caseload is projected to grow about 9 percent over the next four years. Without any improved efficiency in making eligibility determinations, the added case load will require at least 25 more eligibility workers to be hired, trained, and deployed across the state.

The process of taking applications, reviewing them, and making Non-MAGI Medicaid eligibility determinations is often expensive, slow, and error-prone. For example, recent measures of Non-MAGI Medicaid cases found workers spending an average of 28 minutes screening each application and taking another 110 minutes to make the eligibility decision. The department's 2013-2015 Statewide Review found error rates ranging from 4 percent to 44 percent for these cases.

2.3 Integrated Eligibility (SNAP, TANF, ERDC) Operations

DHS and AAA staff make approximately 130,000 Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) eligibility determinations every year for APD program clients. (Those 130,000 households include roughly 155,000 individuals.)

DHS's Self-Sufficiency Program (SSP) staff make the remainder of the eligibility determinations for SNAP, and also make eligibility determinations for the Temporary Assistance to Needy Families program (TANF) and the Employment-Related Day Care program (ERDC). The SSP caseload for those programs is:

- SNAP: ~305,000 households (~620,000 individuals)
- TANF: ~30,000 cases
- ERDC: ~7,700 cases

The Spring 2015 DHS | OHA Caseload Forecast predicts a modest decline in SNAP cases for 2015 to 2017 (from roughly 435,000 households to 420,000 cases). It notes continuing growth in the proportion of SNAP cases that are managed in APD/AAA offices. It projects a similar rate of decline in the number of TANF cases and small increase in the number of ERDC recipients.

Errors occur in these programs, too. The most recently available internal quality control review data for the SNAP program found that in a sample of cases where applicants were determined to be ineligible, that decision was wrong more than 19 percent of the time. In a sample of SNAP-eligible cases, the difference between the benefit amount awarded and the correct amount averaged a little less than 3 percent of the benefit amount. (Some errors were overpayments. Others were underpayments.) In the TANF program, the difference between the amount awarded and the correct amount exceeded 28 percent of the benefit amount.

2.4 Technology Limitations

The DHS technology environment is laden with risks due to the age of these systems, their limited interoperability, and the difficulty of maintaining them to keep up with federal policy changes. Eligibility data are often duplicated in multiple, unintegrated systems and are not readily shared among the many programs and systems that process service authorizations and provider payments resulting in additional errors or delays in case processing. A good example of this is cases where a worker in an APD/AAA office evaluates a client's eligibility for medical assistance and SNAP and determines the client is SNAP-eligible only. This case will be referred from the APD/AAA office to an SSP office for ongoing case management. The information system used in the APD office (OregonAccess) does not have an interface to the system used in the SSP office (TRACS) so data must either be transferred with a cut-and-paste operation, re-entered from a paper application, or collected from the client all over again.

Case transfers in the opposite direction (from an SSP office to an APD or AAA office) are also problematic. Anecdotal reports include times where these transferred cases went unnoticed for three to six months. Other reports noted that the likelihood of fraud increases when a household is split between an SSP branch and an APD/AAA branch due to the absence of connections between the systems.

Similar, and often more complicated, coordination problems arise for clients of the Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities (IDD) program. The case managers who provide case coordination for long term care or support in the IDD program are predominantly employees of local county-run Community Developmental Disabilities Programs (CDDP) and Adult Support Service Brokerages. While these offices are under contract with the Department to provide case coordination for IDD services, they do not manage the Medicaid financial eligibility case for their clients. This leaves clients and their families in a position of having to contact and work with the APD or AAA branch closest to their home location. Because service cases are managed in multiple legacy systems, which differ from the systems in which the medical eligibility cases are managed, complex and time-consuming human intervention is required to assure both medical and long-term service benefits are maintained and managed correctly.

Additionally, the retirement age of legacy system staff is nearing or has past, and the ability to recruit qualified resources to replace them is quite difficult. This resource constraint makes it difficult to maintain legacy systems on a go-forward basis and increases the risk of inability to recover from a catastrophic failure of the legacy system.

2.5 Lessons Learned from Previous Attempts at Integrated Eligibility Determination System Development

In recent years, DHS tried more than once to develop an on-line, automated eligibility system. The approach in those attempts included purchasing technology for a rules-based eligibility system, and building that system from the ground up, specific to Oregon's unique eligibility and business process requirements. Those attempts were unsuccessful.

Through those failed attempts and through the successful experience at the current OHA MAGI Medicaid Transfer Project, DHS has learned that transferring a system that is already working in another state, and making only mandatory functionality changes will significantly increase the likelihood of project success. The process being proposed for the Integrated Eligibility Determination Project will capitalize on the lessons learned from successful and unsuccessful eligibility determination automation projects, including, but not limited to, the following:

- Establish clear, defined governance process

- Ensure appropriate information is available for Executive Leadership decision making
- Define a process for collaborative decision making inside of DHS (APD vs SSP) and define an issue escalation process
- Define a process for overall system governance in collaboration with OHA
- Define a governance process between business program areas and IT
- Ensure right people are at the table for project – from decision makers down to project staff (best people for project are vital resources to other parts of the agency)
- Spend sufficient time planning in support of project objectives
  - Define a shared vision of the project's objectives from Agency Leadership
  - Remember to focus on customer needs; when choice exists between meeting an agency need and providing a customer benefit, choose the customer
  - Balance the number of voices for initial decisions with buy-in by others later; keep the requirements definition group lean and establish vetting sessions with broader audiences
- Architecture & Technology
  - Use technology already in place whenever possible
  - Limit the number of technical changes to base system in a transfer project
- Change Management
  - Follow a defined methodology for organizational change management; use experts to supplement business expertise and experience
  - Ensure business leaders own change management and act as translator between project, IT, and operations, focusing on getting users ready for system
- Communication Management
  - Dedicate communication professionals to the project
- Financial Management
  - Develop accounting procedures that align with the cost allocation methodology
- Scope Management
  - Minimize changes to the transfer system; be willing to change policy & business process before making technology change
  - Set scope & stick to it; use a defined scope management process for changes
- Schedule Management
  - Balance timely decision making with substantive analysis
  - Set realistic expectations for project staff workloads; the project should be a marathon, not a sprint
- Vendor Management
  - Define partnership between vendor & business in order to get project accomplished using defined roles & responsibilities
  - Remember the business has ultimate authority in places of conflict with the vendor

3 Opportunity Definition

3.1 OHA's MAGI Medicaid Eligibility System

3.1.1 Transfer System from Kentucky

The Oregon Health Authority (OHA), the state's designated Medicaid agency, recently implemented a new system for MAGI Medicaid eligibility determinations. That system is called OregONE eligibility, or ONE, and is the result of transferring the State of Kentucky's Affordable Care Act compliant state-based marketplace solution (kynect) for use in Oregon. Originally built in Kentucky by Deloitte Consulting, kynect operated as the MAGI Medicaid eligibility determination system of record for more than a year before OHA signed an agreement with the Kentucky Cabinet for Health & Family Services to transfer the code and associated documentation to Oregon. The code has been installed on servers at Oregon's State Data Center and is operated as a production system from that location. The ONE system will be used by OHA to make approximately 900,000 individual MAGI Medicaid eligibility determinations and redeterminations each year.

OHA accepted the kynect production system as meeting the bulk of its business needs and therefore made very few technical changes to the system, instead focusing on making policy and process changes to its business wherever feasible in order to minimize the risk with the initial system implementation in Oregon.

3.1.2 Phased Implementation

OHA implemented the ONE system in phases. First, in December 2015, it enabled the Worker Portal for use by eligibility workers to determine MAGI Medicaid eligibility for applicants who submit an application by mail, fax, phone, or through the Federally Facilitated Marketplace (FFM) at the federal Healthcare.gov.

In February 2016, it implemented a customer facing Applicant Portal, initially limiting access to certain community partners that help Oregonians for MAGI Medicaid benefits and report changes in circumstance. The Applicant Portal will be made broadly accessible to Oregonians late in the summer of 2016. The Applicant Portal allows Oregonians and community partner assistors to enter and update income, family composition, address and other eligibility-related information, upload documents, communicate with workers assigned to their cases, and participate in re-certification activities, all without having to fill out paper forms, visit a field office, or contact a call center.

3.1.3 ONE Benefits & System Functionality

Key benefits of the ONE System include:

- Better coordination of care for mixed household families because applicants complete a single application through the HealthCare.gov website or within the ONE system to receive an eligibility determination for MAGI Medicaid/CHIP or private health insurance
- Oregonians can set-up an account, report changes and receive real-time eligibility determinations via the user-friendly Applicant Portal
- Simplified OHA eligibility workload via an automated process that generates tasks for case management

- Centralized and verified enrollment data available for Coordinated Care Organizations
- Consistent high quality data source for reporting CMS-mandated operational statistics

ONE System Functionality includes:

- Workflow automation using task queues inside the Worker Portal
- Automated business rules using Corticon Rules Engine – including real time eligibility determination to support the Applicant Portal
- Automated notice generation using HP ExStream
- Address validation service using Melissa Data
- Automated verification interfaces with the Federal Data Services Hub, the state Medicaid Enrollment System (MMIS), and the Oregon Employment Department
- Automated Bi-Directional Account Transfer with the FFM & Minimum Essential Coverage check for Medicaid benefits
- Integration with the existing document management service provided by DHS Imaging and Records Management System
- Integration of Computer Associates Identity & Access Management Solution to provide single sign-on integration with OHA's Active Directory

3.2 Federal Partnership

3.2.1 A-87 Cost Allocation Exception

On August 10, 2011, three federal agencies (Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS), Food and Nutrition Services (FNS) and the Administration for Children & Families (ACF)) announced a time-limited, specific exception to the cost allocation requirements set forth in Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-87 (Section C.3) and Section 200.405 of the superseding "Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards" (2 CFR 200 issued December 19, 2014). These provisions generally require the costs associated with building shared state-based information technology systems to be allocated across all benefitting programs. The exception reflected a federal focus on streamlining enrollment in health and human services programs while leveraging funding efficiencies at the state-level.

3.2.2 Timeline Extension

The original timeline allowed human services programs to benefit from investments in the design and development of state eligibility-determination systems for state-operated Marketplaces, Medicaid, and the Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP), through December 31, 2015. On July 20, 2015, the three agencies extended that timeline for an additional 3 years, through December 31, 2018, and provided additional guidance on how states may take advantage of the exception and the extended timeframe to leverage these investments to better serve consumers' multiple programs and needs.

The underlying premise for the waiver remains the same: to maintain the progress states have made, and to promote further integration. This will enable states like Oregon that experienced unanticipated delays with the development of the Medicaid Modified Adjusted Gross Income (MAGI) functionality in their eligibility systems, procurement challenges, and other unforeseen barriers to complete that work and then effectively use the waiver extension to streamline their eligibility systems, improve access to health and human service programs, and maximize efficiency.

The extension of the exception to certain OMB cost allocation requirements, along with a proposed indefinite extension of enhanced Federal funding for Medicaid systems, will enable states to fund the initial development costs needed to retire their legacy eligibility determination systems and integrate their functionalities into improved systems. Moreover, the extension will provide states more time to develop, refine, or test integrated systems to fully comply with Affordable Care Act requirements.

3.2.3 Oregon's Discussion with Federal Partners

In 2015, CMS approved moving ahead with the development of automated Non-MAGI Medicaid eligibility determination capability. In that approval, CMS directed DHS to extend the ONE system, saying CMS would not provide enhanced funding for the development of more than one eligibility determination system.

Since that time, DHS has held discussions with all three federal partners. Each has indicated that it is on board supporting the development of a fully integrated eligibility determination system. In support of DHS' Integrated Eligibility Determination Project, CMS will fund all system components necessary for Medicaid eligibility determinations, including those components that also serve other programs, at its 90/10 match rate. FNS will fund SNAP-only components at its 50/50 match rate, and ACF will allow the state to devote TANF and ERDC funds to support the development of components that were confined to those programs.

CMS and FNS approved federal fiscal year 2016 funding for project planning work and the beginning of design, development, and implementation work. CMS and FNS also approved contracts associated with a Fit/Gap Analysis on which project planning depended. DHS has begun monthly status reports and status meetings with its federal partners.

3.3 Kentucky's Integrated Eligibility/Service Delivery System

3.3.1 Overview

Kentucky's Cabinet for Health & Family Services (CHFS) embarked on an ambitious Information Technology modernization program to replace a collection of legacy systems that supported Health and Human Services programs. The cabinet's goal was to modernize Information Technology (IT) solutions to improve delivery of services and increase worker productivity, through maximizing the funding opportunities available from Affordable Care Act and CMS 90/10 funding. The modernization program included implementation of a state-based Health Insurance Market place, an integrated eligibility and enrollment system, and several other enterprise IT capabilities. The cabinet is poised to achieve the following as a direct result of the modernization program:

- Streamlined Field Operations– Increased worker productivity, simplified process steps, reduced case processing cycle times, and reduction in total administrative costs of delivering benefits.

- Transformed Service Delivery – Transformed service delivery, providing multiple channels of access (walk-in, online, mail, call centers, fax, mobile, imaging, etc.), and interactive processing across geographic units.
- Program Compliance and Monitoring of Fraud and Error – Flexibility for worker performance while maintaining strict adherence to program mandated compliance through checkpoints and controls for measurement and proactive response.

3.3.3 kynect becomes benefind

The Kentucky state-based marketplace preferred to have kynect have the look and feel of searching for private insurance rather than state programs, so it developed a separate applicant portal for other human service programs and called it benefind. Key application components in the kynect/benefind system for integrated eligibility determination are described in the following table.

Title	Description
Worker Portal	Module used by the State Agency workers to collect individual/family information to process SNAP, TANF, and/or Medicaid applications. Individuals can apply for one or more programs in a single application, and the module has a capability to interactively ask questions during the interview process based on the programs applied. Throughout the interview process, the modules call interfaces to verify information, as needed.
Eligibility Determination (Rules engine)	Rules base eligibility determination module to determine eligibility for main program and the sub programs to provide best possible benefits for the applicants. For example, when an individual applies for Medicaid, the rules engine cascade down through the Medicaid program hierarchy to provide best Medicaid coverage for the individual.
Benefit Issuance	This module manages daily or monthly issuances for SNAP/TANF/ERDC programs that are issued to individuals/vendors to support initial, monthly or supplemental payments.

Benefit Recovery	This module provides end to end management of SNAP, TANF, ERDC claims. It computes discrepancy, establish claim and start recoupment either through the benefit reduction process or other processes such as tax intercept.
Correspondence	This module manages generation of consolidated correspondences that are issued to the applicants and other stakeholders like vendors.
Task Management	A comprehensive task management module that supports key business processes. The module allows management of human services case management functions as a coordinated set of tasks.
Quality Assurance and Quality Control (QA/QC)	Module to create Random/Targeted sample universes for worker to review SNAP, TANF and Medicaid cases

3.4 Oregon's Department of Human Services' Opportunity

Given the implementation of Kentucky's benefind system and Oregon's ONE system, and given that CMS has directed Oregon that it will only provide a 90/10 funding match for extending the ONE system, the time is clearly right to pursue extending ONE to support Non-MAGI Medicaid eligibility determinations and eligibility determinations for other DHS Human Service programs too.

3.4.1 Citizen Expectations

Today's consumers increasingly communicate in real time via web-based services accessed from virtually anywhere. Technological advances and experiences in consumer marketplaces have resulted in DHS customer expectations that are much higher than they were just a few years ago. Citizens expect to be able to access information about government programs simply and quickly. They expect to be able to find information and connect with programs without needing to first figure out which programs and benefits are administered by which agencies and levels of government. Some are beginning to demand virtual "one stop shops" where they can connect with government programs from all of the agencies that serve people in circumstances like theirs. They expect to access benefits and services without having to report physically to a field office or having to fill out paper forms. And they expect on-line government services to set and meet the highest possible standards for security, confidentiality, and data privacy.

In a 2013 survey, 88 percent of DHS customers indicated they would apply for services on-line if that option were available. Another 10 percent said they were somewhat likely to apply on line. In the same survey, respondents rated accuracy and clear communications as high priorities, and did not prioritize talking with a specific worker or another worker who knew their specific case.

Recent DHS surveys of customer satisfaction reveal that DHS customers are satisfied with the services they receive 83 percent of the time. This satisfaction score could increase by providing DHS customers with an on-line, one stop portal for access to DHS services. Additionally, this project will result in the ability for customers to self-serve not only in the initial application process, but also for information updates throughout their certification period and at re-certification. Customers will be provided with an alternate way to communicate with their eligibility case workers without having to stand in line at a field office, or wait on-hold on the phone.

3.4.2 Human Service Eligibility Program Comparison – Kentucky to Oregon

As part of evaluating the feasibility of transferring an integrated eligibility system, DHS compared Kentucky's and Oregon's SNAP, TANF, and ERDC programs. As evident in the tables below, the programs are similar in their overall business requirements.

3.4.3 HB 2219 – Single Streamlined Application for Human Service Programs

HB 2219 requires DHS to convene a work group consisting of “human service agencies” to study how to create a consolidated application process. This consolidated application will allow people to apply for and obtain assistance in accessing food, housing, medical care, education, employment services, child care and other social services. A consolidated application process is expected to: 1) decrease the time an applicant spends filling out similar paperwork for different programs, 2) decrease the time agency staff spends processing paperwork, and 3) reduce the burden on applicants to navigate their own way through an often complex system of programs.

HB 2219 names these agencies as “human service agencies”:

- Department of Human Services
- Housing and Community Services
- Oregon Health Authority
- Department of Education
- Office of Child Care
- Higher Education Coordinating Commission

The bill goes on to say that DHS will convene a work group with staff from these agencies, the Office of the State Chief Information Officer, and others whom the department deems necessary to study how to create a consolidated application process. HB 2219 also directs the work group to submit recommendations to the Legislative Assembly. The recommendations must include proposals ensuring that all human service agencies have necessary access to client records, while ensuring that the information is used only by authorized persons and only for the purpose of facilitating the client’s access to needed services. The report to the Legislature is under development and due by September 15th, 2016.

An integrated eligibility system will better position DHS for the likely recommendations of that work group.

3.4.4 DHS Field Operations Efficiencies

A fully integrated eligibility system will extend gains in efficiency and accuracy to the SNAP, TANF, and ERDC programs. It will improve integration between DHS’s Non-MAGI Medicaid program and OHA’s MAGI Medicaid program, and it will improve integration and the case transfer process among DHS programs. Simplifying these handoffs will help to maintain continuity of benefits and prevent client needs from slipping through the cracks.

Eligibility decisions will occur in a more timely fashion with the delivery of an integrated eligibility system. Workers will not be downloading paper applications, manually entering information into multiple screens from paper, and performing manual verification checks in multiple systems, resulting in fewer processing errors and greater integrity of the data in the system. Accuracy of eligibility decisions and benefit amounts will also increase with automation of these activities.

A new system will better meet client expectations about speed, accuracy, and ease of use, based on their experiences with other on-line services. The system will give Oregonians the flexibility to apply for benefits in the manner most appealing to them, and they will be able to make immediate, real-time changes to information about their circumstances, completing these actions either on-line, via telephone, or in person in a field office in their local community. They will have 24-hour access to information about the status of their eligibility cases. The ability for customers to update their own personal information, with automated processing of those updates, will save worker time in the DHS offices. It will also allow for more efficient communications between workers and their assigned customers, with the ability for customers to email their worker at any time a day with information or questions about their case. Staff in DHS and AAA offices will be able to get back to spending more time with people, assisting them with their needs, and less time with paper processes and files. Additionally, DHS staff who are serving customer needs in their own homes, or places of residence, will be able to access information from those locations and update information. This allows for the worker to save time once they are back in the office, as the updates will already be complete. They will no longer have to upload and update information upon returning to the office.

3.4.5 Alignment with DHS/OHA Strategic Technology Plan

The DHS/OHA Strategic Technology Plan (STP) includes a number of strategies that the Integrated Eligibility Determination Project will support. Strategy #1 in that plan is titled Business Automation and calls for the automation of workflows, decision-making, and business rules while reducing manual, paper-based processes. This project will automate workflows and the application of business rules in each of the programs within its scope. Strategy #2, Dynamic Needs Supported by Seamless Services, is well supported if the project includes a number of programs in its “one stop shop” for citizens. Similarly, an integrated eligibility system will advance us in pursuit of Strategy #5, which calls for assembling a “comprehensive view of clients.” Finally, the STP calls for enabling connectivity “anytime, anywhere,” encouraging the development of on-line self-service capabilities for clients and mobile virtual workplaces for agency staff. An integrated eligibility determination system will do just that. The table below summarizes the various components of the STP that an integrated eligibility system will satisfy.

Comprehensive View of Clients	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ Supports use of a master client record</li> <li>○ Single location for verified client data (e.g. financial, eligibility, benefit etc.)</li> <li>○ Facilitate future view of an integrated case and payments through integration with legacy case management and payment systems</li> </ul>
Trusted Sources for Health & Human Service Data	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ Reduce data duplication and entry into multiple systems through single application for various programs.</li> <li>○ Reduce data inconsistencies and inaccuracies through workflow automation</li> <li>○ Trusted source for verified client data (e.g. financial, eligibility, benefit etc.)</li> <li>○ Improve data access and data share across programs through integration with other DHS systems.</li> <li>○ Role based data access and security improves data protection and compliance.</li> </ul>

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ Consistent and accurate data reporting and analysis</li> <li>○ Field-level audit and reporting capabilities</li> </ul>
Business Automation	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ Automated workflows using task queues inside the Worker Portal</li> <li>○ Automated decision making and business rules using the business rules engine</li> <li>○ Reduced manual and paper based processes</li> <li>○ Real time determination of eligibility and benefit amount</li> <li>○ Automated verification of client information</li> <li>○ Interface with legacy systems</li> </ul>
Connectivity Anytime, Anywhere, in Multiple Ways	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ Applicant and worker portal allows real-time, 24/7 access to application, eligibility, and benefit information.</li> <li>○ Clients can apply, update information, report change in circumstances, and communicate with their assigned case workers through multiple channels.</li> <li>○ Multiple device and browser agnostic capability supports connectivity from anywhere</li> </ul>
Dynamic Needs Supported by Seamless Services	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ Industry best practices and standards based modular architecture and design (e.g., Service Oriented Architecture (SOA), Enterprise Service Bus (ESB) etc.) enables to leverage existing functionality and also expose functionality through web services</li> </ul>

3.5 Project Objectives

DHS believes pursuing an Integrated Eligibility Determination Project makes sense. The high-level business objectives driving this effort are:

- Allowing applicants to apply for benefits on-line, reducing the need to travel to local offices and reducing the need to provide duplicate information when applying for benefits from more than one program
- Automating manual processes in order to:
  - Reduce the amount of time that elapses between completing an application and making an eligibility determination
  - Reduce the amount of time that staff must spend creating, reviewing, and acting on each application
  - Reduce the rates of errors in making eligibility determinations
- Allowing for seamless sharing of information and transfer of cases among program staff
- Compliance with federal funding program requirements to support programmatic operations.

3.6 Success Criteria

Project success will be measured both in terms of the improvements it provides to Oregonians, to DHS, and to eligibility workers, and in terms of the degree to which the project establishes scope, quality, budget, and schedule expectations and then delivers on those expectations.

3.6.1 Integrated ONE Benefits & System Functionality

Key benefits of the Integrated ONE System include:

- Oregonians can set-up an account, apply for and receive real-time eligibility determinations for Medicaid (both MAGI and Non-MAGI), SNAP, TANF, and ERDC using a single application via the user-friendly Applicant Portal
- Coordination of eligibility determination work between OHA and DHS for mixed households
- Electronic verification information sources minimize documentation that the client will be required to provide
- Operational reports that will allow for workload management across eligibility determination caseloads
- Single system for eligibility determination data for accurate reporting to federal partners
- Centralized and verified enrollment data available for Coordinated Care Organizations for MAGI & Non-MAGI clients
- Consistent high quality data source for reporting CMS-mandated operational statistics

Integrated ONE System Functionality includes:

- Workflow automation inside the Worker Portal
- Automated business rules using Corticon Rules Engine – including real time eligibility determination to support the Applicant Portal
- Automated notice generation using HP ExStream
- Address validation service using Melissa Data
- Automated verification interfaces with the Federal Data Services Hub, the state Medicaid Enrollment System (MMIS), and the Oregon Employment Department
- Automated Bi-Directional Account Transfer with the FFM & Minimum Essential Coverage check for Medicaid benefits
- Integration with the existing document management service provided by DHS Imaging and Records Management System
- Integration of Computer Associates Identity & Access Management Solution to provide single sign-on integration with OHA's Active Directory

3.6.2 Key Performance Indicators: Measures of Business Success

The following Key Performance Measures are routinely collected by DHS's Performance Excellence Office. Implementation of a new Integrated Eligibility system is expected to "move the needle" on these indicators in the desirable direction:

- Customer Satisfaction: % of DHS Customers that rank the quality of DHS Service as good or excellent
- Employee Engagement: % of DHS staff that report medium-high or high level of engagement
- Accuracy:
  - % of SNAP PER QC reviews for SSP branch offices where accuracy measures 95% or better
  - % of TANF QC reviews for SSP branch offices where accuracy measures 95% or better
  - % of ERDC QC reviews for SSP branch offices where accuracy measures 95% or better
  - % of APD QC and QA reviews for APD branch offices where accuracy measures 95% or better
- Timeliness:

- % of new SNAP Expedited and Non-Expedited applications meeting processing timelines
- % of new SNAP Benefits issued within 0-1 days
- % of APD cases with a redetermination date that is current or less than 1 month overdue compared to the total cases with a review date

3.6.3 Measures of Project Success and Completion

Project Success Measures

- Project is completed on time in comparison to the latest approved baseline schedule.
- The last approved baseline schedule does not deviate by more than 10% from the schedule projected at Stage Gate 3.
- Project is completed within budget in comparison to the latest approved baseline budget.
- The latest approved baseline budget does not deviate by more than 10% from the budget projected at Stage Gate 3.
- The system satisfies all of the requirements in the Requirements Traceability Matrix at Stage Gate 3 as subsequently modified through the project's change management criteria.
- At the close of the warranty period, there are no Critical or Major defects remaining and the ratio of Minor defects remaining to the size of the system is below industry averages.

Project Completion Criteria

The project will be complete when all of the following are true:

- System has been in production through a six-month warranty period
- All contracted work has been completed and accepted, and final payments have been made to all vendors
- The Office of the State Chief Information Officer and the Legislative Fiscal Office have approved the project's Stage Gate 4 submission
- A steward for Operations and Maintenance is identified and has formally accepted handoff of the system
- The position responsible for post-project monitoring and reporting on measures of success has been identified and its occupant has formally accepted the handoff
- Final reports required by funders of the system, if any, have been delivered and accepted
- Project documentation has been assembled and archived consistent with agency and state records retention policies

4 Alternatives Analysis

In the Stage Gate 2 version of this business case, DHS identified and evaluated four alternatives approaches to the project. They were:

- Implement Non-MAGI Medicaid Eligibility Determination into the ONE system
- Implement Integrated Eligibility Determination into the ONE system
- Acquire External Eligibility Services from Another State
- Do Nothing

A full analysis of the costs, benefits, and risks of those alternative approaches is contained in that older version of the business case. Based on that analysis, DHS's executives selected the second alternative, Implement Integrated Eligibility Determination in the ONE system.

This newer business case contains updated information about the costs, benefits, and risks of the selected alternative focusing specifically on developing a more complete and accurate estimate of the costs of designing, developing, implementing, maintaining, and operating the proposed system and the business processes that will depend on it. The purpose is to determine whether new information discovered or developed during the project planning phase should be cause for reconsidering the decision to pursue the selected alternative.

4.1 Assumptions and Constraints

The project is subject to these constraints:

- CMS will not support enhanced funding for a Non-MAGI Medicaid solution that is separate from ONE.
- The exception to the OMB Circular A-87 cost allocation requirements to support integration of other human service programs into the ONE system will expire at the end of calendar 2018.
- Total spending in federal fiscal year 2016 has approval by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services and by the Food and Nutrition Service. It is limited to $11,406,585, of which $1,673,188 is state funds.
- Total spending in the 2015-2017 biennium has legislative approval and is limited to $55,962,563, of which $8,340,000 is state funds.
- Of the approved state funding, $7,500,000 in bonding is approved by the legislature. Funds from bonds will likely not be available until March 2017.
- 35 limited duration positions are authorized for the project during the 2015-2017 biennium.

These assumptions are factors in the Alternatives Analysis below:

- CMS and FNS, which have already approved FFY 2016 funds for the project will approve DHS's plans for Integrated Eligibility system development during FFYs 2017, 2018, and 2019.
- The legislature—which has already approved funding for the project in the current biennium—will approve the state's share of development and operations costs for the 2017-2019 biennium during its 2017 session, releasing funding at appropriate points in the implementation process
- OHA's new MAGI eligibility system, ONE, will become fully operational 2016 and OHA's use of the system will stabilize by the end of 2017.
- Maintenance & operations of the ONE System will be performed by Deloitte Consulting continuously through December 2018.
- MAGI Medicaid-related enhancements to the ONE System will be performed by Deloitte Consulting and no other vendors will perform work directly on the ONE system before December 2018.
- Project oversight, operations oversight, and contract management efforts will sufficiently orchestrate OHA's ONE operations and maintenance work, OHA's ONE MAGI enhancement efforts, and this project so that none prevents the others from being successful.

- DHS will plan and execute in coordination with this project, a separate project that plans and carries out the decommissioning, partial decommissioning, or other modification of DHS legacy systems where Integrated Eligibility work is not strictly dependent on that legacy system work. (Legacy system-related tasks on which Integrated Eligibility tasks depend directly are considered in the scope of this project.)
- DHS leaders, acting in a fashion similar to OHA’s leaders on the ONE project, will support a strategy of minimizing the amount of customization required when transferring Kentucky’s solution to Oregon (This requires a willingness to change policies, procedures and administrative rules, rather than changing the system when the system doesn’t support some current Oregon practices.)
- Business staff (business leaders, program and policy experts, field/operations representatives, and other stakeholders) will be made available in sufficient numbers to the project when they are needed
- Technical staff will be made available to the project when they are needed

These are the planned system’s high-level functions.

Pre-screening – Pre-screening module in Applicant Portal enables prospective applicants to provide a minimal set of information to the system anonymously to see the programs for which they may qualify. The module will include assessment capabilities for all programs offered by Integrated ONE, including MAGI (Medicaid & Non-MAGI), SNAP, TANF, and ERDC. It is important to note that the pre-screening process is not an official eligibility determination and individuals must formally submit an application in Applicant Portal or by contacting a DHS or an OHA office. The data collected during Pre-screening will be saved.

Applicant Portal (AP) – The Applicant Portal enables the registered users’ access to the system to apply for benefits as well as enable them to take action on their ongoing benefits. The applicant portal allows users to apply for Medicaid (MAGI & Non-MAGI), SNAP, TANF, and ERDC as a part of an Integrated ONE application. The citizens will be able to take actions on their ongoing applications or cases including to report a change, recertification of an ongoing program, withdrawal of ongoing application or request to discontinue an ongoing program, upload documents, view Request for Information (RFI) notices, and start a new application. It will also include additional functionalities such as the ability to request an appeal/ hearing/, request an EBT/ Medicaid Card, view claims/ disqualification / TANF summary and submit a SNAP short application. The applicant portal will have role based dashboards. The applicant portal will incorporate the user account creation process that is currently established in the MAGI Medicaid ONE system Applicant Portal.

Worker Portal (WP) – Worker Portal allows case workers to manage the lifecycle of an application/case by providing functionality to perform intake on new applications, determine eligibility and benefit amounts based on the data provided during intake, disburse benefits and process case changes. It also contains modules for support-functions like appointment, task management, hearing and appeal, and complaints to help the users perform daily activities.

Eligibility Determination and Benefit Calculation (EDBC) – As the central repository for business rules defined by policy and administrative procedure, EDBC is the module where the Integrated ONE system determines each person’s eligibility and benefit level based on the information collected through the worker or applicant portal and verification status of key data elements that affect eligibility (income, resources, citizenship, etc.) For Medicaid programs, eligibility determination is limited to financial eligibility for Medicaid. Service eligibility determination and authorization for Medicaid and other SSP case management services is not in scope for the initial implementation. For the purposes of determining financial eligibility, the eligibility rules engine will evaluate individuals and households through multiple modules to confirm their compliance with both state and federal program rules. All eligible individuals will be included in the benefit group which will be used to determine the benefit amount or ERDC days of care the individual may receive.

Correspondence – The correspondence module generates the notices required to support a case life cycle. Integrated ONE system generates the notices automatically and notices are automatically forwarded to State’s centralized print center for printing and mailing. Case Workers will have the ability to review the notices and determine the accuracy before the notices are mailed out daily during the nightly batch cycle.

Interfaces – Interfaces are a critical component for the implementation of Integrated ONE system and it will interface with federal agencies, State agencies, and other Trusted Data Sources (TDS) to support critical business processes such as verification, fraud detection, federal reporting, benefit issuance, and recovery. Interfaces are also required to share data with other state systems to support their business processes such as provider payments and referrals. The system will use both batch and real-time interfaces to meet the business needs.

Benefit Management – The Benefit Management module supports two key functions – benefit issuance and benefit recovery. The benefit issuance function allows for automatic benefit issuance through Electronic Benefit Transfer (EBT) card, Checks and Direct Deposit through Electronic Fund Transfer (EFT). The function also allows authorized users the ability to issue benefits manually outside the constraints of eligibility, if necessary.

The Benefit Recovery function determines overpayments against issued benefits because of case changes. Overpayments are referred to ICM (Claims management) System for establishing and maintaining claims. Certain portion of benefit amount is recouped from future benefits based on the outstanding claims amount received from ICM

Reports – This module focuses on generating Operational, federal and State reports necessary for the administration of the APD and SSP programs. The operational reports span across reports generated from key business processes that include:

- New Applications
- Report-A-Change and
- Redeterminations
- Task Management
- Reports required for audits, quality assurance
- Interface activity reports

Federal reports span across mandated reports required by federal and State government for DHS and OHA programs. These include reports specifically for SNAP, TANF and ERDC programs as well as reports for Medicaid (MAGI and Non-MAGI) program.

4.2.2 Detailed Requirements

Detailed requirements for the system are found in the Requirements Traceability Matrix, one of the key deliverables of the Fit-Gap phase of the project.

Those requirements were developed by comparing the functionality of the Transfer Solution to DHS's business needs, determining where there were gaps, and determining whether to close those gaps with policy, process, or procedure changes, with changes to the Transfer Solution, or with a combination. The Fit-Gap phase of the project include thorough requirements vetting with a cross-section of DHS subject matter experts.

The requirements list also includes OHA's requirements that were developed for the MAGI Medicaid project in order to ensure the eventual implementation of the Integrated Eligibility systems satisfies the needs of both OHA and DHS.

4.3 Alternatives Identification

In 2014, DHS, in consultation with the Office of the State CIO and the Legislative Fiscal Office, concluded that from-scratch, custom development of a Non-MAGI Medicaid eligibility system was too costly and too risky compared to an approach that relied on transferring a system already in successful operation in another state. The CMS policy to fund only a single financial eligibility system per state and the fact that Medicaid Title XIX will provide 90 percent of the funds needed for the system further constrains the alternatives available to DHS.

Consequently, Oregon's only viable alternative to the status quo must include enhancement of the ONE system to support Non-MAGI Medicaid eligibility determinations. In its Stage Gate 2 business case, DHS explored four possible courses of action, including continuing in the current state. These were the alternatives:

Alternative #1: Implement Non-MAGI Medicaid Eligibility Determination into the ONE System

Under this alternative, the ONE system would have been extended to support Non-MAGI Medicaid eligibility determinations and service authorization to community-based care programs only. This approach limits the scope of DHS programs that would be affected. It requires transfer of the Kentucky system, removal or disabling of the functionality in that system supporting programs like SNAP and TANF, and customization for Oregon's Non-MAGI Medicaid program. Use opportunity for 90/10/federal funding to improve IT system.

Alternative #2: Implement Integrated Eligibility Determination into the ONE System

Under this alternative, the ONE system would have been extended to support Non-MAGI Medicaid eligibility determinations and SNAP, TANF, and ERDC determinations, as well as service authorizations for community-based care programs. This approach involves a wider range of DHS programs. It avoids the risk and expense of removing functionality for these programs from the Kentucky system. It requires potential customization for a larger number of Oregon programs. This alternative could be rolled out all at once or it could be phased-in program-by-program. Use Medicaid 90/10 federal funding to the benefit of other programs.

Alternative #3: Acquire External Eligibility Determination Services from another State

Just like Alternative #1, this alternative would have extended ONE to support Non-MAGI Medicaid eligibility determinations only. Like Alternative #2, it would have supported eligibility determinations for the SNAP, TANF, and ERDC programs. However unlike Alternative #2, that support would have been outside of ONE. In this alternative, DHS would have contracted with another state to support SNAP, TANF, and ERDC eligibility decisions. At a minimum, that would have involved modifying the partner state's system for those programs to accept applications from Oregonians and make eligibility determinations based on Oregon's rules. Limiting factors included lack of integration of Non-MAGI Medicaid program eligibility with MAGI program eligibility and recording of Oregon-specific MAGI, CHIP, and CAWEM rules. The project team was unable to identify a state where this approach is being used. Therefore, cost estimates for this alternative were unattainable.

Alternative #4: Do Nothing

Under this alternative, there would be no additional investment in the ONE system and no acquisition of eligibility services from another state. Improvements to current processes would be limited to those that arise naturally through the DHS's continuous improvement program. This alternative means losing the opportunity for enhanced federal funding to improve IT systems and thus results in greater cost in state funding for future enhancements.

4.4 Alternatives Analysis—Integrated Eligibility Determination vs. Do Nothing

Because "Implement Integrated Eligibility Determination into the ONE System" was the alternative selected at Stage Gate 2, this version of the business case, which was developed for consideration at Stage Gate 3, explores only that alternative and the Do Nothing option. See the earlier business case for a more complete description of the costs, benefits, and risks of the rejected alternatives.

4.4.1 Alternative #2 – Implement Integrated Eligibility Determination

Cost

We estimate the total four-year cost of implementing this alternative and operating it through the end of June 2019 at $177.1 million. (See Appendix A.) This alternative incurs the full cost of Fit-Gap analysis, design, configuration, customization, testing, and training for the SNAP, TANF, and ERDC programs in addition to Non-MAGI Medicaid. It includes costs for OHA to upgrade to the Integrated ONE system. It also includes operating the system during the phased roll out starting in May 2018, through the end of the warranty period in March 2019, and through the end of state fiscal year June 30, 2019.

Between the time the phased roll out begins in May 2018 and the warranty ends in March of 2019, there will be systems operations work and systems development work happening simultaneously. Our federal partners allow states to classify maintenance and operations costs incurred while a system is under development as part of the cost of the project, making them eligible for a more attractive federal/state funding ratio. Consequently, DHS will define all system development costs incurred through March 2019 and all system maintenance and operations costs incurred through December 2018 as part of the project's total cost and define maintenance and operations costs incurred after December 2018 as standard maintenance and operations. That allows the state to take advantage of the OMB circular A-87 exception until its expiration December 31, 2018.

Consequently, the $177.1 million total cost consists of $163.0 million in project costs and $14.1 million in operations costs. The project cost estimate in the Stage Gate 2 business case estimated the project at $126.1 million. The new estimate, $163.0 million, is 29% higher than the old one, with nearly 40% of that difference due to the decision to characterize certain operations costs as project costs and the rest due to discoveries during the Fit/Gap analysis and project planning.

Benefits

This approach was selected at Stage Gate 2, and it will achieve all of the high-level requirements. Benefits of this approach include:

- Clients seeking Medicaid eligibility (either MAGI or Non-MAGI) and clients seeking SNAP, TANF, and ERDC eligibility will be able to apply on-line and they will receive faster eligibility determinations.
- Clients applying for medical assistance and for one or more of SNAP, TANF, and ERDC will make a single application regardless of programs they are applying for.
- Eligibility workers in APD and AAA offices will be more productive and make fewer eligibility determination errors in both the Medicaid and SNAP programs.
- Workers in SSP offices may be more productive and will make fewer eligibility determination errors in the SNAP, TANF, and ERDC programs.
- Problems associated with the handoff of cases between OHA and DHS will be reduced, as will problems associated with handoffs among APD/AAA offices and SSP offices. This alternative avoids the $2 million annual cost of maintaining 25 additional Non-MAGI Medicaid eligibility workers who will be required because of a growing caseload.
- More importantly, this alternative is expected to result in eliminating more than $25 million per year in errors in the SNAP, TANF, and ERDC programs. Consolidating financial eligibility information for all programs in a single system will better support cross-program case coordination and service eligibility determinations. Consequently, subsequent needs assessments, service authorizations, and provider payments will be facilitated in a more timely fashion.

- This approach allows for the full or partial retirement of several existing systems including Client Maintenance, Client Index, CAPI, and FSMIS. Estimates of savings from no longer having to support those systems are not available and are not included in the cost analysis.

Risk

This project has the risks associated with large information technology projects involving complex requirements and a lengthy schedule. It involves a large number of stakeholders. It will impose substantial policy and procedure changes on Non-MAGI Medicaid eligibility workers in APD/AAA offices and on SNAP, TANF, and ERDC eligibility workers in SSP offices. By eliminating some old information systems and reducing the scope of others, this approach reduces long-term risks that system failures will interrupt the delivery of DHS programs, but it puts additional short-run demands on the staff who support those systems.

During the planning phase, the project implemented a management process for identifying and evaluating risks and for developing and carrying out risk response plans. At this writing, project leadership is tracking nine risks, five of which have been judged to both have a high probability of occurring and to threaten a high impact to the project. They are summarized here:

- Our focus on preferring policy and process change before technology change reduces technical risk but substantially increases the amount of process change that must be undertaken.
- The Fit/Gap analysis has given us a clear understanding of the scope of the Integrated Eligibility project, but we don't yet have a full understanding of the scope of the project's effects on legacy information systems and a related project that will be required to address those effects.
- The Office of Information Services, which supports many affected legacy information systems, may not have capacity to simultaneously participate in this project, participate in the related legacy system change project, and support on-going operations, maintenance, and enhancement of legacy systems that will remain after the Integrated Eligibility project.
- OHA was not fully engaged during the Fit/Gap Analysis, increasing the risk of delays and unexpected costs ensuring that new system will satisfy DHS's requirements and continue to satisfy OHA's requirements already supported by the ONE system.
- The project's Technology Management Plan would impose security requirements on DHS/OHA's directory services that it might not be prepared to support.

Four additional risks whose probability of occurrence or impact to the project are thought to be lower are under active management by project leadership. They are:

- Limited time capacity of business leaders to accommodate the volume of decisions required during Fit/Gap analysis.
- Delays in filling key leadership positions might cause project delays or reduce the quality of project decisions and deliverables.
- The review cycle for oversight bodies might delay the start of DDI work.

- Data quality in legacy systems might make it difficult to cleanse and populate data from legacy systems into the new system threatening to interrupt service to Oregonians.

Response plans are in place for all nine risks and each seems to be controlled.

During the planning phase, the project's independent quality assurance vendor drafted an initial independent assessment of risks facing the project. That assessment is under review and has not been finalized. Two of the four risks it highlighted are similar to risks already receiving attention from project leadership. The remaining ones are concerns about ensuring sufficient DHS and OHA staffing during the execution phase of the project and improving planning for state tasks and resources during execution.

Cost

The Do Nothing alternative requires the addition of state staff to process the increasing eligibility caseloads without automation. A rough estimate of additional APD/AAA eligibility staff needs over the next four years, based upon projected caseload increases, is 25, costing the state approximately $2.0 million annually by the end of four years.

There are potential CMS sanctions for not providing on-line capability for Non-MAGI Medicaid applicants, as there is an expectation that states provide this functionality for all Medicaid applicants, not just MAGI applicants. In addition, the state could face sanctions or penalties from the federal Food and Nutrition Services agency (FNS) if SNAP error rates continue to grow beyond the national average. Since the majority of states now have automated eligibility systems, their error rates are dropping where Oregon's error rate is staying the same, or in some areas, growing.

Benefits

Business process and policy changes for staff are limited to new or emerging policy changes.

Risk

This alternative is not sustainable in the long run in the face of increasing case loads and technological risks.

Automating eligibility determinations and providing an applicant portal for Non-MAGI Medicaid clients are expectations set by CMS and failure to provide those things will jeopardize the relationship DHS has with CMS.

DHS systems would continue to operate under an antiquated, siloed business model, lacking the agility and infrastructure to support the current DHS growth trajectory. Two primary legacy systems Family Service Management Information System (FSMIS) and Client Maintenance System (CMS) and over 35 additional subsystems are used to provide, track and maintain client/caseworker interaction information for SNAP, TANF, ERDC and Non-MAGI Medicaid benefits. These systems have over 100 interfaces to other systems within DHS and OHA and with other external entities. Current ACA regulations and federal IT funding policies require a level of interoperability and integration across medical benefits and human services programs that the existing DHS legacy systems simply cannot support.

4.5 Alternatives Analysis – Maintenance and Operations Support Strategy

An information system of this scope and complexity will require substantial resources to maintain and operate. Those costs must be estimated and considered in determining the advisability of investing in the system. Leaders of DHS|OHA's Office of Information Services and project leaders considered maintenance and operations support strategies across the spectrum ranging from permanent reliance on the system's developer for all maintenance and operations activities all the way to bringing every aspect of maintenance and operations in house immediately upon completion of the warranty period.

Maintenance and operations activities generally cover a broad range of activities and can require resources with a broad range of operational and technical knowledge, skills and abilities. On one end of that range are basic operations monitoring functions. On the other end are highly-specialized and deeply technical functions that integrate and configure COTS components of the system such as its business rules engine. In between are functions such as triggering and monitoring batch processes, installing new versions of component software, tuning database performance, deploying new builds of custom components, and writing, testing, and debugging application code.

A strategy that would bring all maintenance and operations in house was rejected, even as a vision for the long term, as fiscally infeasible. Support for some of the COTS components (e.g., the Corticon rules engine and the CA identity and access management suite) requires knowledge and skills that are so specialized and high-priced that it is unrealistic to imagine the state ever able to hire and retain employees able to do this work.

On the other hand, DHS and OHA do not want to find themselves in a situation where they are too reliant on a sole source for all maintenance and operations support forever. However, at the conclusion of the development and warranty period, DHS and OHA expect to have accumulated a substantial collection of system enhancement requests and only the development contractor will be well-positioned to provide those services.

The strategy proposed is this:

- Negotiate two post-development statements of work with the systems integrator. One will cover basic maintenance and operations services and the other will cover system enhancements. Each will have a term of at least 12 and no more than 36 months.
- The basic maintenance and operations agreement will include provisions for knowledge transfer that will enable the state to begin to perform those operations tasks that are consistent with its IT staffing model, both in terms of the skills the state can hire and retain and in terms of the degree to which the state chooses to staff for nighttime and weekend operations.
- At the conclusion of those agreements, new ones will be required and will be developed through an open, competitive procurement process in which the systems integrator will be permitted to compete.

5 Conclusions and Recommendations

5.1 Conclusions

Development of an Integrated Eligibility Determination system continues to appear to be a desirable investment for Oregonians, for DHS and OHA, and for eligibility workers, particularly in light of the looming expiration of the OMB Circular A-87 cost allocation exception and the active support of our CMS and FNS partners.

Between December 2015 and July 2016, project planning activities and the Fit/Gap Analysis work has:

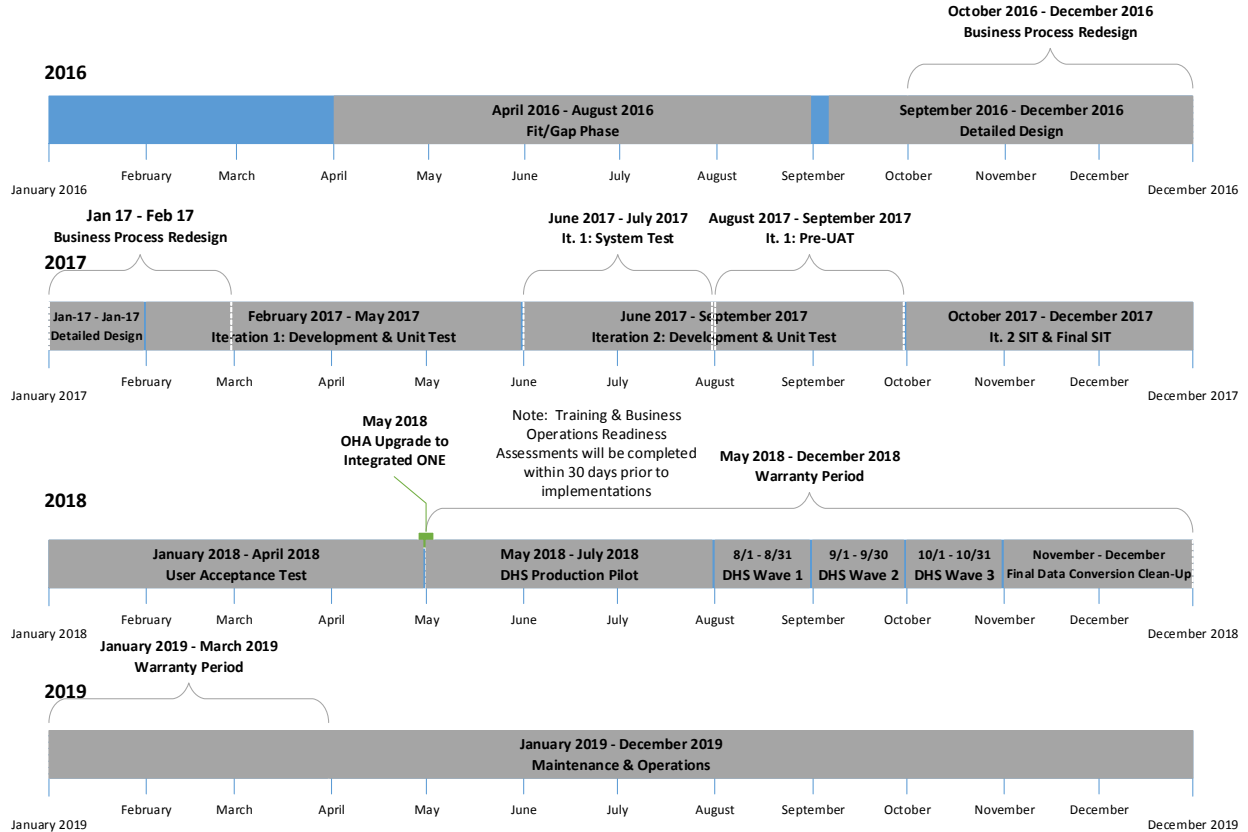

- Completed the identification and documentation of a complete set of system requirements to support the work of DHS's administration of Non-MAGI Medicaid, SNAP, TANF, and ERDC eligibility and OHA's administration of MAGI Medicaid eligibility.
- Documented the architecture, infrastructure, and security changes that will be required to extend ONE to support eligibility determination for Non-MAGI Medicaid, SNAP, TANF, and ERDC
- Developed a Business Transition Plan that establishes a roadmap for the policy, process, procedure, and organizational change that will be required to implement and operate the new system.
- Negotiated a tentative statement of work with the system integrator for design, development, and implementation services at a fixed price.
- Identified a post-project maintenance and operations strategy and developed cost estimates for that work.
- Developed a tentative work plan and schedule integrating both vendor and state tasks.

With those things in place, DHS has a more fully developed understanding of the scope, costs, benefits, and risks of undertaking the project. The project team continues to support extending ONE to support eligibility determinations made by DHS for its major programs. And it supports the model for Maintenance and Operations proposed in Section 4. The DHS leadership team concurs.

The sections that follow offer a high-level schedule for action and a description of the potential consequences of not acting.

5.2 Schedule

The following chart lays out a high-level schedule for the project.

DRAFT

A more detailed project schedule, fully elaborated for the first months of design work, is part of the Preliminary Work Plan and Schedule for DDI, a separate Stage Gate #3 submission. A high-level chart describing the schedule is in Appendix B.

5.3 Consequences of Failure to Act

Given the current degree of manual processing and the projected growth in caseload, failure to act will result in delays in eligibility determinations, delays in access and payment for services, continuing and growing customer and provider discontent, and potential lawsuits. An increase in the number of workers throughout the state will be required to complete the manual eligibility assessment and determination procedures and make the system coding entries that are needed to support service authorizations and payments.

CMS expects Oregon to implement a Non-MAGI Medicaid eligibility system and has extended 90/10 funding for eligibility system development for a limited time, through December 2018. Failure to act now could result in a funding match decrease to a 50/50 rate for the eventual implementation of a Non-MAGI Medicaid solution, costing the State of Oregon considerably more in general funds.

The approach recommended has the additional benefit of supporting the eligibility determination needs of the SNAP, TANF, and ERDC programs with a system paid for primarily with federal Medicaid funds under the A-87 exemption that also runs through 2018 only.

Failure to act on this opportunity means that the eventual satisfaction of the needs of those programs will come at higher state expense and, for the TANF program, the use of federal funds for an eligibility system will come directly out funds that would otherwise be available for benefits to clients. The Stage Gate 2 version of this business case estimated that added state cost in the neighborhood of $40 million.

How Are We Doing

We have consistently missed this target since Federal Fiscal Year 2003

Factors Affecting Results

When we conducted a Boosted Logistic Regression on the Factors that impacted a client closing as a rehabilitation, there were eleven primary factors sorted below in order of importance:

- Desired Plan Occupation
- Number of months in plan
- Counselor
- Wages earned during the four quarters prior to application
- Total cost of services purchased for the client
- Unemployment Rate
- Work Status at application
- Primary Source of Income at Application
- Eligibility Priority
- Primary Disability

Generally, the higher the wages earned during the four quarters prior to application, the higher the rehabilitation rate. This generally, though not entirely reflects OVRS providing accommodations to clients currently employed when they apply to the program. Those clients who had worked for 4 quarters during the year prior to application on the average had $20,873 per year annual earnings (based on Unemployment Insurance Wages reported) had a percent rehabilitated of 77% versus 56% for those clients who did not work during the year prior to application.

Correspondingly, those clients whose work status at application is that they are currently employed, have a higher rehabilitation rate than those who are unemployed. The percent rehabilitated is 57% for those clients who were unemployed at application versus 83% who were employed at application.

Similarly those clients who report at application that their primary source of income at application is personal income have higher rehabilitation rates (67%) than those who report Public Assistance as their primary source of income (55%).

The rehabilitation rates for clients by their primary disability range from a low of 46% for clients with a primary disability of other mental impairments to 93% for clients whose primary disability is hearing loss, communication auditory (primarily providing hearing aids to clients employed at application). The largest percentage of the clients closing from plan (29%) are clients with a cognitive disability (such as intellectual developmentally disability) who have a rehabilitation rate of 65%. The three largest disability groups help lower the rehabilitation rate below the desired target of 66% (Cognitive Disability-65.7%, Psychosocial Impairments-55% and Other Mental Impairments-52%).

The effect of the unemployment rate is a little more ambiguous. Given that one can have a high rehabilitation rate in an area of high unemployment if the number of clients closing from a plan is small, there is not a consistent trend.

When looking at the occupational categories in which we are able to place clients into employment, the Office and administration and the Health Care Practitioners occupations are what lower than the overall rehabilitation rate. Roughly 16% of our clients are closed from a plan with occupational goals in these categories but only 55% are rehabilitated. Unfortunately, our data at this time does not allow us to identify to what degree the lower rehabilitation rate for these occupations is related to the percent not successfully completing occupational skills training in these occupations.

Generally, when the total cost of services purchased for the client increases, the percent rehabilitated increases. At less than $1,034.82, only 42% were rehabilitated versus 73% when $4,864 or greater is spent on the client.

KPM #2	TANF FAMILY STABILITY - The percentage of children receiving TANF who entered foster care.
	Data Collection Period: Jul 01 - Jun 30

Report Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016
TANF Family Stability
Actual	No Data	No Data	0.62%	0.60%	0.67%
Target	TBD	TBD	0.50%	0.50%	0.50%

How Are We Doing

This measure tracks children living in extreme poverty who are receiving TANF and have child welfare involvement in the final month of a three-month timeframe. Our objective is to decrease the percentage of child TANF recipients needing to be placed in foster care. In State Fiscal Year (SFY) 2014, .60 percent of child TANF recipients had been receiving TANF cash assistance prior to entering foster care. In SFY 2015 there was an increase to .67 percent.

Factors Affecting Results

The factors affecting results include: multiple child abuse risk factors present in families such as, domestic violence, alcohol or drug abuse, parental involvement with law enforcement, homelessness, previous child welfare involvement and unemployment. Often there are several of these factors in families of child abuse/neglect victims. While Oregon’s overall economy is improving, the economy is recovering inconsistently across the state with certain areas of the state still experiencing high rates of unemployment and poverty.

KPM #3	TANF RE-ENTRY - The percentage of Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) cases who have not returned within 18 months after exit due to employment.
	Data Collection Period: Jan 01 - Dec 31

Report Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016
TANF RE-ENTRY
Actual	64.20%	62%	61.40%	68.10%	65.10%
Target	72%	65%	65%	65%	65%

How Are We Doing

Our objective with this KPM measure is to increase the number of former TANF participants who do not require future TANF cash assistance after leaving the program due to employment. In State Fiscal Year (SFY) 2016, 65.1 percent of TANF participants did not return to TANF 18 months after leaving TANF due to employment. This represents a decrease from SFY 2015.

Factors Affecting Results

This measure may be affected by several things, including the status of the economy, the availability of jobs, and industry factors. It can also be affected by the structure of the Job Opportunity and Basic Skills (JOBS) program and the effectiveness of other agency and community partnerships that help connect TANF recipients into jobs. The effects of the TANF program reinvestment in 2015 likely also impact this measure's goals. The recent data show the agency is meeting its target which may be due in part by an improving economy. While Oregon's overall economy is improving, the economy is recovering inconsistently across the state with certain areas of the state still experiencing high rates of unemployment and poverty.

KPM #4	SNAP (Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program) UTILIZATION - The ratio of Oregonians served by SNAP to the number of low-income Oregonians.
	Data Collection Period: Jan 01 - Dec 31

Report Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016
SNAP UTILIZATION
Actual	91.70%	92.50%	96.40%	93.20%	94.20%
Target	80%	90%	90%	90%	85%

How Are We Doing

SNAP participation has increased in the past however has remained steady for the past three years. During July 2015, 757,824 people received SNAP benefits in Oregon. During July 2016, 703,552 people received SNAP benefits. The decline is likely due to increased economic recovery in Oregon (1 in 5 state residents are SNAP participants). The DHS SNAP program has received federal participation bonuses for the past ten federal fiscal years for ranking in the top states nation-wide in participation rate.

In 2013 (the most recent federal data available), Oregon was ranked number 7 in the nation in participation according to the PAI. In 2008, 2012 and 2009, Oregon was ranked second in the nation in SNAP participation based on the PAI and has remained one of the highest ranked states for participation. FNS ranking is based on the number of potentially eligible people compared to the number receiving benefits. Oregon consistently has a high participation rate and consistently regularly ranks at the top.

Factors Affecting Results

Oregon has had great success in easing access to SNAP benefits. One effort has been encouraging use of the on-line application. Another has been serving clients the same day or the next work day after they apply for benefits. Oregon has also been working to expand outreach efforts to identify and remove barriers to the SNAP program in all populations. Oregon's outreach partners have been educating clients to complete reports timely preventing eligible people from losing benefits.

The recession created critical need for basic necessities such as food in households which never expected to ask for help. During the recession we saw a rise in our caseload. As the economy has been improving the number of people receiving SNAP benefits has decreased to 86% of the highest number in 2012. The number of people receiving SNAP benefits continues to be more than before the recession hit. The number of people receiving benefits during July 2016 is 160% of the number during July 2007.

KPM #5	SNAP (Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program) ACCURACY - The percentage of accurate SNAP payments
	Data Collection Period: Oct 01 - Sep 30

Report Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016
SNAP Accuracy
Actual	96.01%	95.50%	95.83%	94.89%	0%

How Are We Doing

The latest data available is FY 2014, Oregon's accuracy rate was 95.83% and the national average was 96.34%. State reported data for FY 2015 showed an accuracy rate of 96.56%, but Federal data has been delayed.

Factors Affecting Results

Data for Federal Fiscal Year 2015 is not yet available for KPM #5. Due to ongoing federal integrity reviews of each state's quality control activities the publication of final regressed error rates has been postponed. This information is expected to become available no later than 12/31/2016. Oregon's reported accuracy rate for Federal Fiscal Year 2015 is 96.56%.

The final regressed error rate differs from the state reported error rate based on the number of reviews completed, and the extent to which discrepancies are found in federal subsample of quality control reviews.

KPM #6	ENHANCED CHILD CARE - The percentage of children receiving care from providers who are receiving the enhanced or licensed rate for child care subsidized by DHS
	Data Collection Period: Oct 01 - Oct 31

Report Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016
Enhanced Child Care
Actual	54.40%	57.70%	61.80%	64.70%	63.70%
Target	60%	64%	60%	60%	65%

How Are We Doing

There was a steady increase in the percentage of children receiving care either from a license-exempt provider receiving the enhanced rate or from a licensed provider from 2009 through present. Policy changes have had a direct impact on the percentage of children in licensed care. In April 2013 DHS stopped paying for any child care that was done prior to the provider passing a background check, or back paying, this resulted in two percent more children in licensed care within one month.

Our strategy is to improve the quality of care available to subsidized families, DHS subsidy rates for providers were increased to the 75th percentile of the current Child Care Market Price Study or higher in January 2016. The 2016 Child Care Market Price Study found the percent of slots that could be purchased with the value of DHS payment rates increased from 69% to 76% between 2014 and 2016 giving families access to higher quality care. Beginning April 2016, DHS provided an incentive payment to providers on the Quality Rating Improvement System (QRIS) and in September 2016, a lower copay for families that chose a provider on the QRIS. DHS license exempt providers can complete additional trainings to receive the enhanced rate that is 6 - 17% above the standard rate.

DHS partners with 211Info, Child Care Resource & Referral Agencies (CCR&R), Service Employees International Union Local 503 (SEIU), American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Local 132 (AFSCME) and the Oregon Registry. 211Info provides consumer education and helps parents find quality child care. The CCR&R's assist with provider training that is required to qualify for the DHS enhanced rate and to help meet licensing and QRIS standards. The Oregon Registry documents provider training and encourages trained providers to care for families on the DHS subsidy. DHS, 211Info, the CCR&Rs, SEIU, AFSCME and the Oregon Registry team together to publicize training and resources available.

A Child Care Orientation class is required for all new license-exempt providers. The Orientation class includes information on resources available including no-cost training on First Aid/CPR, Recognizing and Reporting Child Abuse and Neglect, and Food Handlers to publicize the enhanced rate as well as the USDA Food Program. Registered and new license-exempt providers are also required to complete a pre-service Health and Safety training.

DHS is working with the Early Learning Division on the Early Head Start Child Care Partnerships to build stronger collaborations with other agencies and partners to integrate our ERDC program with the state's early learning system. Guiding more of our providers through the Oregon's Quality Rating Improvement system (QRIS) is a priority.

DHS will continue to work with the Office of Child Care to promote innovations in subsidy intake and consumer education to increase access to high quality child care.

What needs to be done: Efforts to inform parents and providers of the importance of high quality child care and training continue to be improved. Exempt family providers are represented by SEIU. DHS, 211Info, Child Care Resource and Referral agencies and SEIU will continue to work together to promote provider training and the professional development continuum for exempt providers to access the training required to earn the enhanced rate, qualify for licensing and the QRIS. The Early Learning Division (ELD) has a position dedicated to identifying and implementing supports to improve the quality of exempt family providers caring for subsidy children. DHS is also partnering with the Early Learning Division to promote Vroom. Vroom is a set of tools and messages that empower parents and providers to be brain builders. It elevates what parents and providers are already doing right and enables them to make the most out of their time with their children. Vroom toolkits were dispersed to the DHS field offices in August 2016. The kits included flyers and posters to promote Vroom, tip cards and stickers for parents to utilize each day to promote learning with their children.

Factors Affecting Results

The 2007 Legislature authorized significant rate increases that took effect October 1, 2007. This gave parents increased access to licensed providers. In addition the Legislature authorized significant funding for outreach and training for license-exempt providers. The combination of more parents selecting licensed providers and increased investment in exempt provider training resulted in a steady increase in the percentage of children receiving care from providers earning the enhanced rate or the licensed rate. In July 2010, a Child Care Orientation class became required for all new license-exempt providers.

An analysis of Subsidy Employment by Industry Sector was completed by the DHS Forecasting Unit in April 2010. The majority of ERDC clients work in industries that constrain child care options. Many subsidy parents work evening or night shifts, weekend shift or have a week or less advance notice of work schedule. A recent study confirmed that the majority of subsidy participants have two or more constraints on child care options. Most regulated child care facilities only operate during the day, and many require the parent pay for a part-time or full-time slot, so this limits subsidy parents

A new federal strategic framework from the Administration for Children and Families was made available in June of 2013. The Office of Child Care recognizes the importance of access to high quality child care that supports parental employment in stable jobs that help parents provide for their families. This leads to healthy, happy and competent children who are ready for school with the necessary pre-academic skills; and high functioning CCDF grantees that use program dollars effectively, efficiently and with integrity, to the benefit of eligible children and families. The goal for DHS which aligns with federal ideals is to build a child care subsidy system that is child-focused, family friendly and fair to providers.

The Race to the Top Early Learning Challenge Grant is a four year federal grant recognizing Oregon's early learning work, and strengthening a statewide early care and education system. State recipients were chosen based on their ability to implement coherent, compelling, and comprehensive early learning education reform. This funding is designed to spur broad system improvement over four years to ensure Oregon children enter school ready to learn and succeed. The Early Learning Council prioritized the activities below through determining the greatest impact on young children, and that fit grant scope and requirements:

- Quality Rating Improvement System

Race to the Top resources will engage providers with more training, mentorship, and professional development.

- Early Childhood Workforce

Race to the Top resources will provide professional development to support career pathways for early childhood educators to develop expertise in quality early learning and best practices.

- Family and Community Access

Race to the Top resources will provide dedicated outreach to build an informed, engaged public around quality early learning environments.

- Enhance the QRIS Data System

Race to the Top resources will enhance and connect data systems to capture quality information to deliver service providers, policy makers, and funders information needed to ensure better outcomes for children.

- Kindergarten Assessment

Race to the Top resources will allow Oregon to align statewide early learning with K-12 Common Core standards, launch the statewide rollout of the assessment, and gauge where children are at when they enter school.

Activities connecting early learning programs and the K-12 system are a priority throughout. Grant funding provides Oregon an opportunity to execute the system, making historic progress. There are sustainability concerns as this funding ends December 2016.

HB 2015 and Federal Reauthorization:

HB 2015 and Federal Child Care Development Fund Reauthorization includes several fundamental changes to the DHS Employment Related Day Care (ERDC) program. These substantial program enhancements provide parents access to high quality child care that supports their employment as well as fostering healthy child development and school success including:

- Twelve month eligibility
- Priority child care processing for homeless families or families applying for child care for a foster
- Working student child care
- Self-Employment coverage reinstated

Higher exit income limit of about 250% of the federal poverty level:

- DHS subsidy rates for all providers increased to the 75th percentile of the current Child Care Market Price Study or higher
- An incentive payment for QRIS Child Care Providers who accept subsidy families.
- Lower copay for families that choose a provider who is part of the Quality Rating and Improvement System (QRIS).

EARLY LEARNING DIVISION/DHS PARTNERSHIP

- Monitoring visits by the Office of Child Care (OCC) for license-exempt child care providers who care for subsidy children. Compliance by 11/19/2016.
- Increased Health and Safety Requirements – pre service first aid, CPR, recognizing and reporting child abuse and neglect and emergency preparedness on-line training. Compliance by 11/19/2016.
- Fingerprinting requirement for all background checks. Compliance by 1/1/2017

The targets were set based on an anticipated - and desired - increase in the numbers of children receiving care from providers who meet the training standards required to become licensed. These training standards and the QRIS promote child safety and well-being. This enhances the quality of child care which encourages a more stable provider base. Stability in care arrangements promotes healthy child development, continuity of care and helps parents remain employed.

Reporting cycle - point in time, October of each year. This measure is reported as a percentage. The data are taken from the DHS Provider Pay system and compares the number of children in care with providers earning the enhanced and licensed rate to the total number of active providers in the system. As a result, the number is very reliable. Any variance caused by possible coding errors would be too small to be statistically significant. The data includes all contracted child care.

KPM #7	ABSENCE OF REPEAT MALTREATMENT - The percentage of abused/neglected children who were not subsequently victimized within 6 months of prior victimization.
	Data Collection Period: Oct 01 - Sep 30

Report Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016
ABSENCE OF REPEAT CHILD MALTREATMENT
Actual	95%	95.90%	95.50%	95%	94.60%
Target	94.10%	94.10%	96%	96%	96%

How Are We Doing

From 2014 to 2015 Oregon had a small decrease in this performance measure of .4%. After further analysis the decrease appears to be less than what was originally thought. This was based on the inclusion of pended reports which are not in fact founded dispositions and do support the conclusion that a child suffered a second incident of abuse within a six month period. Removing pended reports from the calculation means the decrease, .2%, is slight better than the original number. Even though Oregon has essentially maintained the numbers from the year before, 94.8% still falls short of the 96% target. Oregon continues its commitment to not only ensure the number remains consistent moving forward, but to make continued efforts to improve.

Factors Affecting Results

The major factors affecting families of abused and neglected children continue to be drug/alcohol abuse, mental illness, parental involvement with law enforcement, domestic violence and poverty. Often times, there are several of these factors co-occurring in families of child abuse/neglect victims and a pattern of generational occurrence. While the comprehensive nature of child protective services assessments is designed to culminate into effective sustainable intervention this takes significant resources and workload demand.

KPM #8	TIMELY REUNIFICATION - The percentage of foster children exiting to reunification within 12 months of foster care entry.
	Data Collection Period: Oct 01 - Sep 30

Report Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016
Timely Reunification
Actual	No Data	No Data	66%	62.90%	66.10%
Target	TBD	TBD	TBD	66%	70.60%

How Are We Doing

Oregon saw a decrease in this performance measure of 3.1 percentage points between federal fiscal years 2013 and 2014, but increased in the measure between FFY 2014 and 2015 by 3.2 percentage points. Oregon beat its stated target for last year, but is 4.5 percentage points short of the increased target goal we set for ourselves for this year. We are 3.8 percentage points below the national goal (which is based on the 75th percentile of all states) so Oregon still has work to do in this area.

Factors Affecting Results

The family dynamics that contribute to child safety issues are long standing and some of the most prevalent continue to be drug and alcohol abuse, domestic violence, parental involvement with law enforcement, mental illness, and unemployment. Availability of prevention strategies, targeted services, and community resources are factors that impact whether children enter foster care or remain in foster care. Differential response which is now implemented in half of Oregon’s counties is intended to reduce the number of children entering care and thereby reduce the number of children requiring reunification. However, if differential response has the intended impact, the children who do enter foster care may have experienced more severe abuse or neglect, or have more acute needs. A factor that also affects results of this measurement is the fact that a child is not defined as having reunified until the DHS custody case is dismissed. Children who are returned home but remain under DHS custody and supervision are considered to still be in foster care for the first six months of the return. Some jurisdictions keep the DHS case open longer than others once a child returns in home.

KPM #9	TIMELINESS OF ADOPTION ONCE LEGALLY FREE - Percent of Legally free children adopted in less than 12 months
	Data Collection Period: Oct 01 - Sep 30

Report Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016
Timeliness of Adoption Once Legally Free
Actual	No Data	No Data	42.60%	44.30%	46.10%
Target	TBD	TBD	TBD	42.70%	48.20%

How Are We Doing

Oregon saw an increase in this performance measure of 1.7 percentage points between federal fiscal years 2013 and 2014, then increased in the measure again between FFY 2014 and 2015 by another 1.8 percentage points. While meeting last year's target, Oregon aggressively increased its target and fell short of reaching it by 2.1 percentage points this year. The national target for percent of legally free children adopted in less than 12 months is 45.8%, so Oregon is performing just over the national goal (which is based on the 75th percentile of all states)

Factors Affecting Results

Multiple factors affect the results of this measure, but the primary issue is the sheer volume of paperwork associated with the adoption process, and lack of concurrent work being done in the field while the case is being prepared for termination of parental rights. Ongoing casework is often crisis driven and once a child is legally free and especially if living in their adoptive environment, the paperwork to finalize the adoption can become less of a priority on individual caseloads. There are other factors that impact this measure including the length of recruitment time for high needs children, additional time associated with children placed out of state, the required six month supervision period, mediation between adoptive parents and birth parents, adoptive parent applications for adoption assistance not submitted timely, to name a few. But the primary factor appears to be volume of paperwork that must be prepared and submitted to central office before the consent to finalize an adoption can be prepared.

How Are We Doing

In 2015, only 3.09% of Oregonians 65 or older needed assistance with publicly funded long term care. This is a slight uptick from 2015, but remains well below the goals established by the Legislative Assembly.

Factors Affecting Results

Oregon has adopted the Community First Choice Model, also known as the K Plan. This is a big driver in these results as the K Plan has numerous tools that are designed to keep people independent. Additionally, the success of the AAA network administering Oregon Project Independence, Older Americans Act programs and the Aging and Disability Resource Connection contribute towards keeping seniors independent.

KPM #11	LTC RECIPIENTS LIVING OUTSIDE OF NURSING FACILITIES - The percentage of Oregonians accessing publicly-funded long-term care services who are living outside of nursing facilities.

How Are We Doing

APD continues to make steady, continued progress at serving seniors and people with disabilities in settings less restrictive than nursing facilities. APD is pleased it is exceeding targets established by the Legislative Assembly.

Factors Affecting Results

Hospitals continue to discharge patients “sicker and quicker”. In many cases, hospital preference on discharge of a senior who needs additional care is a nursing facility. While institutional care may be appropriate for certain individuals for short periods of time, DHS must continue to aggressively ensure that seniors are appropriately discharged from nursing facilities.

KPM #12	DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITY SUPPORT SERVICES - The percentage of eligible adults who are receiving adult support services within 90 days of request.

How Are We Doing

The Office of Developmental Disabilities Services continues to add people to services as a result of the state moving to the Community First Choice Option or K plan.

Factors Affecting Results

Moving to the K plan has increased the number of people accessing services which has caused delays in processing at all levels. This is impacting the ability of people to start services within 90 days of request.

KPM #13	PEOPLE WITH DISABILITIES LIVING AT HOME - The percentage of individuals enrolled in the Intellectual/Developmental disabilities program who are receiving services in their own home.

KPM #14	SUPPORTED EMPLOYMENT - Increase the number of individuals who receive developmental disability services in supported employment.

How Are We Doing

For Fiscal Year 2016 we provided employment services to 2,971 individuals and are in compliance with both the Executive Order and Lane Settlement.

Factors Affecting Results

Executive Order 15-01 and the Lane v. Brown Settlement Agreement require DHS to provide employment services to at least 7,000 individuals by 2022. This means that by 2017 at least 3,000 individuals should have received an employment service; by 2018 3,800; 2019 4,600; 2020 5,400; 2021 6,200; and 2022 7,000.

KPM #15	ABUSE OF PEOPLE WITH DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITIES - The percentage of people with developmental disabilities experiencing abuse.

How Are We Doing

As seen in the reporting table above, the abuse rate of adults with intellectual/developmental disabilities enrolled in services has declined slowly over the last four years. In 2015 it was below 2% for the first time, indicating that the current target (2.2%) may be able to be lowered in the future.

The types of services being received by over 15,000 individuals with intellectual/developmental disabilities, as well as the definitions of abuse applied to this population, have changed significantly over the last ten years. Because of these changes, as well as the lack of standardized national abuse data for comparison, it is challenging to develop a target. The approach instead has been to establish a baseline based on historical data, and then pursue a series of incrementally decreasing targets. At this time the target is at 2.2%, based on prior data.

Our strategies for improvement include:

- A renewed focus on monitoring and safety in licensed settings for adults with intellectual/developmental disabilities, including greater coordination between licensing, abuse investigation and program staff to respond more quickly and effectively to areas of concern.
- Development and implementation of a Centralized Abuse Management information system in 2017, to allow for enhanced centralized tracking and monitoring of abuse referrals, outcomes and trends statewide.
- Ongoing outreach to increase public awareness of abuse issues facing individuals with intellectual/developmental disabilities.
- Ongoing collaboration with community partners, including brokerages serving people with intellectual/developmental disabilities living in their own homes.

Enhanced training to abuse investigators, service coordinators, personal agents, direct service providers and facility staff.

Factors Affecting Results

Abuse rates for adults with intellectual/developmental disabilities can be affected by many factors, including:

- High turnover of staff in licensed and certified programs.
- An increase in the number of higher-acuity residents being served in community-based care settings.
- An adult's right to make decisions about their living situation, companions, etc.
- Barriers to the reporting of abuse by cognitively impaired clients.
- Lack of resources available to respond and support adults with intellectual/developmental disabilities who are abused (e.g. domestic violence shelters, counseling resources).

What needs to be done in this area includes:

- Ongoing training in recognizing, reporting, and preventing abuse for service coordinators, personal agents, direct service providers and facility staff.
- Research and collaboration with community response system and resources, including domestic violence and sexual assault response services.
- Increased investigator access to experts such as forensic nurses and psychologists.

Improved outreach to clients, their families and the community at large to increase awareness of abuse issues.

KPM #16	ABUSE OF SENIORS AND PEOPLE WITH DISABILITIES - The percentage of seniors and adults with physical disabilities experiencing abuse.

How Are We Doing

Since our Department currently is below the preliminary target of 2.2% for the percentage of older adults and people with disabilities who are abused, it appears that we are meeting the goals of our intervention model described above. However, there are concerns about the accuracy and reliability of the data that we are attempting to resolve. Abuse in the community can be difficult to lower due to the individual's right to make decisions about their own life and the course of action. Additionally, as public awareness of the signs of abuse increases so do the number of abuse reports received by the department resulting in more investigations and interventions. The department wants to encourage individuals to report all suspected abuse.

Strategies to improve the department's performance include:

- On-going Adult Protective Service training including fundamentals of and advanced training for experienced APS workers.
- Continuation of public education efforts;
- Technical Assistance to field offices;

Factors Affecting Results

Performance to target comparison could be affected by a number of variables. This includes but is not limited to the following for Older Adults and People with Disabilities:

- Right to self-determination;
- Limited resources including state, federal, and community-type(s);
- Additional training and development needed for APS Specialist's;
- Response of the criminal justice system;

- Development and understanding of intra-agency functions;

How Are We Doing

From 2014 to 2015, Oregon saw a slight decrease in this performance measure of 0.6 percent. Then a larger decrease from 2015 to 2016 of 1.3%. There are several strategies still in process of implementation during this time. Differential Response has not yet been fully implemented. The state child welfare program has been working toward the vision of Safe Equitable Foster Care Reduction. One way to achieve this vision is through serving children safely in their own home. Several strategies have been involved in helping to achieve this vision.

- Focus on the Oregon Safety Model, which includes child safety assessment, actions and decisions through the life of a case, so DHS Child Welfare staff are making safety decisions consistent with the model across the state, serving children in their homes when safe. Oregon Safety Model fidelity work continues across the state.
- Strengthening, Preserving and Reunifying Families services have been established in every county in the state. These services specifically address needs of children and families who come to the attention of child welfare through a report of abuse or neglect. These services are designed to address gaps in the service array in local communities --specifically, those services aimed at maintaining children safely in the home, reducing the lengths of stay in foster care and addressing re-abuse of children. Performance-Based Contracting is a results-oriented contracting method that focuses on the outputs, quality, or outcomes that may tie at least a portion of a contractor's payment, contract extensions, or contract renewals to the achievement of specific, measurable performance standards and requirements. Each county regularly assesses their Strengthening, Preserving and Reunifying Families service array, to determine gaps in service provision and use of current services. In an effort to understand outcomes associated with implementation of the SPRF program, DHS has implemented the first step toward a system of Performance-Based Contracting, in collaboration with our SPRF contractors. Current SPRF contracts now include performance-based contract language and outcomes. Upon execution of the contracts, the contractor began submitting reports through the invoicing process which identifies one of three outcomes for each client:

- 1) Achieved
- 2) Partially Achieved
- 3) Not Achieved

Differential Response provides the route for families to connect to their community and needed services. The families involved with child welfare receive a comprehensive child safety assessment by child welfare staff. However, just as every family is unique, the department's approach needs to be flexible enough to serve the family's needs. Oregon's DR design includes the specific screening criteria to determine the best response to assess families and increase our success in keeping children safely parented at home while the family receives services. Families can more successfully resolve issues when they are viewed as part of the solution and where they partner with child welfare and their community in problem solving and the identification of services and supports needed. Differential Response began in Oregon in May 2014 in 3 counties. It is now being practiced in 12 counties (totaling nearly half the state's child welfare workforce). A 3 year evaluation of Differential Response is being conducted by the University of Illinois.

Factors Affecting Results

The comprehensiveness of child abuse/neglect assessments takes significant resources and workload demand and urgency. The major factors affecting families of abused and neglected children are drug/alcohol abuse, domestic violence, parental involvement with law enforcement, and poverty. Often there are several of these factors co-occurring in families of child abuse/neglect victims.

KPM #20	TANF JOBS PLACEMENTS - The percentage of clients who achieve job placement each month compared to those anticipated to achieve placement.
	Data Collection Period: Jan 01 - Dec 31

Report Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016
TANF JOBS PLACEMENTS
Actual	No Data	No Data	No Data	126.50%	122.40%
Target	TBD	TBD	TBD	100%	100%

How Are We Doing

Our objective is to increase the percent of TANF participants successfully obtaining employment. Oregon's economy has been recovering, however the recovery has been inconsistent across the state. The results for State Fiscal Year (SFY 2016) show that the agency has surpassed its goal by 22.4 percent.

Factors Affecting Results

This measure may be affected by several things, including the status of the economy, the availability of jobs and other industry factors. It may also be affected by the structure of the Job Opportunity and Basic Skills (JOBS) program and the effectiveness of community and agency partnerships to help TANF participants obtain employment. The effects of the TANF program reinvestment in 2015 likely also impact this measure's goals.

2. TANF FAMILY STABILITY - The percentage of children receiving TANF who entered foster care.		0.67%	0.50%	Red	The Self-Sufficiency programs are intended to provide a safety net, family stability, and a connection to careers that guide Oregonians out of poverty. Part of the TANF service array includes Family Support and Connections which provides supports to prevent children in at-risk TANF families from entering the child welfare system. Home and community based services are used to guide interventions that build on family strengths and address family functioning issues. The services are designed to strengthen and support families by increasing parental protective factors and addressing risk factors related to child abuse. Temporary Assistance for Domestic Violence Survivors (TA-DVS) provides temporary financial assistance and support services to families with children who need to flee and stay free from domestic violence.

6. ENHANCED CHILD CARE - The percentage of children receiving care from providers who are receiving the enhanced or licensed rate for child care subsidized by DHS		63.70%	65%	Green	There has been a steady increase in the percentage of children receiving care from providers who are receiving the enhanced or licensed rate for child care subsidized by DHS. Though we did not quite achieve our targets for past years our numbers continue to increase. Rate increases for all subsidy providers were implemented in the fall of 2013. As a result of HB 2015, provider rates were increased again to the 75th percentile or higher of the 2014 Child Care Market Price Study on January 1, 2016. This brings provider rates more in line with current market rate studies and the continuing goal toward a child care subsidy system that is child-focused, family friendly and fair to providers. The 2016 Oregon Child Care Market Price Study analysis showed rates at the 76th percentile. The Administration for Children and Families, Office of Child Care and HB2015 recommended rates be set at the 75th percentile in order to allow subsidy families sufficient access to care. QRIS provider incentives and reduced copays for families using QRIS providers were implemented in 2016 to help promote subsidy access to high quality care. Other ERDC program enhancements from HB2014 and CCDF Reauthorization will improve access and duration of child care situations. DHS and the Office of Child Care currently track the number of subsidy children being cared for by providers on the QRIS. In the future this KPM may be changed to provide the same measure. This will align with the four priority areas of the Child Care Development Block Grant (CCDBG) Act of 2014: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Improving health and safety in child care</li> <li>Improving quality of child care</li> <li>Establishing family-friendly policies</li> <li>Strengthening program integrity</li> </ul>
7. ABSENCE OF REPEAT MALTREATMENT - The percentage of abused/neglected children who were not subsequently victimized within 6 months of prior victimization.		94.60%	96%	Green	Oregon continues to train staff in the Oregon Safety Model and has even taken steps to halt other initiatives to ensure successful understanding and implementation of the safety model. When practice is consistent with the model, the information gathering, decision making and planning requires focus not only on the immediate safety needs of the child, but on the underlying factors that contributed to the abuse or neglect and could continue to result in abuse or neglect in the near future.

KPM	Metrics	Actual	Target	Status	Management Comments
8. TIMELY REUNIFICATION - The percentage of foster children exiting to reunification within 12 months of foster care entry.		66.10%	70.60%	Yellow	The continued and consistent use of the practice of the Oregon Safety Model, embedded in administrative rules, procedure, and reinforced by the permanency consultant staff should result in continued progress in this measure. Oregon has just completed updated curriculum on the Oregon Safety Model post assessment, referring to the Safety Model throughout the life of an open case once it is determined that safety threats exist in the family. This training, which is expected to be completed by the end of this calendar year and is mandatory for permanency workers and their supervisors, solidifies practice in several areas including protective capacity assessments and identifying conditions for return. These two elements of the Safety Model are key in identifying the increased and diminished protective capacities of the parents, delivering the appropriate services that impact these capacities, and being able to know when a family might be reunited on an in-home safety plan. Along with classroom training, workers are receiving group supervision on real cases in order to see the model in practice. Although Oregon's Safety Model can no longer be considered new, working the model throughout the life of an open case can be an ongoing struggle when workloads are high and case management becomes crisis oriented. Keeping the work systematic is a key to knowing when a child or children can be safely returned home. In addition to training, a quality assurance tool that focuses on the practice elements of the Safety Model in ongoing casework has been developed and will be used to assess branch practice and guide consultants in where their technical assistance and training should be focused in each individual branch. In addition to the continued focus on the Oregon Safety Model, Oregon is also using DHS and Juvenile Court data to develop branch improvement plans in the area of timely reunification when a branch is performing below the state average. These written plans summarize the branch's analyzed data, sets goals, specific strategies, measurements for the strategies, accountability to the plan, and what supports are needed to affect the plan. Assigned consultants work with branch leadership in both developing the strategic plans and monitoring their follow through and results. This effort and the continued fidelity to the Oregon Safety Model should continue to impact this key performance measure in a positive direction.
9. TIMELINESS OF ADOPTION ONCE LEGALLY FREE - Percent of Legally free children adopted in less than 12 months		46.10%	48.20%	Green	The child permanency program continues its efforts to use individual branch plans to pinpoint and address insufficiencies in the adoption finalization process. Permanency consultants are in branch offices lending their technical assistance and training and helping with branch processes to keep the cases moving.

15. In 2015 it was below 2% for the first time, indicating that the current target (2.2%) may be able to be lowered in the future.
16. ABUSE OF SENIORS AND PEOPLE WITH DISABILITIES - The percentage of seniors and adults with physical disabilities experiencing abuse.		0.73%	2.20%	Green
