ISSUES DISCUSSED:

EFFECT OF AMENDMENT:

-1 Replaces measure. Requires peace officer in law enforcement facility to electronically record custodial interview of minor in connection with investigation into person felony, or an allegation that the person being interviewed committed act that, if committed by an adult, would constitute a person felony. Requires recording of these interviews even when law enforcement agency employs five or fewer peace officers. Allows court in juvenile delinquency proceeding to consider violation of this provision, when no exceptions apply, when determining whether to admit statement into evidence and, if admitted, the evidentiary value of the statement.

BACKGROUND:

In 2009, the legislature passed Senate Bill 309. SB 309 required peace officers to electronically record custodial interviews that occur in a law enforcement facility if the interview is in connection with investigations into aggravated murder and certain felonies. House Bill 3242 requires peace officers to electronically record interviews with youth when the interview is in connection to investigation of a crime, or an allegation that the youth committed an act that if committed by an adult would constitute a crime. It also requires the law enforcement agency that created the recording to preserve it until the youth has been adjudicated or convicted and has exhausted all appeals or the offense is no longer actionable. HB 3242 mandates that this recording be provided in discovery to the youth's attorney. Finally, HB 3242 exempts these recordings from the prohibition against recording a conversation without informing all participants that they are being recorded.
