

Walter M. Weber received his A.B. degree from Princeton University in 1981 and his J.D. from the Yale Law School in 1984. He has specialized in constitutional law for over 32 years, has assisted with numerous abortion cases, and has written over 130 briefs for U.S. Supreme Court cases. When in law school, Weber worked as a summer intern with Americans United for Life (1982) and the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (1983). After law school, Weber worked for the Catholic League for Religious and Civil Rights (then headquartered in Milwaukee, Wis.) and Free Speech Advocates (based in New Hope, Ky.) prior to joining the American Center for Law & Justice (ACLJ). In addition to his work at the ACLJ, Weber taught First Amendment Law from 2004 to 2011 as an adjunct law professor in the Washington, D.C. program of the Regent University Law School.
