No amendment.

BACKGROUND:

According to the National Human Trafficking Hotline, over 300 calls relating to reports of human trafficking in Oregon were received by the Hotline in 2016. Trafficking can include domestic services, such as housekeeping or child care, food-service trafficking, or sex trafficking.

Senate Bill 375 provides statutory authority for the creation of a public-private partnership to distribute information on human trafficking within Oregon's rest areas. Nonprofit organizations may supply information to agencies with oversight of rest areas, so long as the information is objectively verifiable and includes one toll free telephone hotline and one text messaging hotline. The agencies can refuse to display or distribute the information if it deems it is offensive or inappropriate. SB 375 creates a fund for the implementing the program, but does not bring the program into effect until the affected agencies determine that they have received sufficient appropriations to begin the program.
