BACKGROUND:

Currently, it is a Class A misdemeanor to give false information to a peace officer in connection with issuance or service of a citation or for arrest on a warrant. The false information consists of a person knowingly using or giving a false name, address or date of birth. In 2012, the Court of Appeals of Oregon ruled that this offense does not apply when an officer requests a person's identification to ascertain whether a warrant exists, as opposed to requesting identification for the purpose of arresting the person on a warrant. State v. Moresco. House Bill 2987 addresses this issue by expanding this crime to include providing false information to a peace officer when there is an outstanding warrant for the person's arrest. It also renames this offense as giving false information to a peace officer in connection with a citation or warrant.
