REVENUE: May have revenue impact, but no statement yet issued

FISCAL: May have fiscal impact, but no statement yet issued

ISSUES DISCUSSED:

- Need to limit scope
- Requirements of the bill are not mandatory

EFFECT OF AMENDMENT:

-2 Replaces the bill. Allows the Department of Transportation to assign certain duties to a third party for the purposes of carrying out vehicle-related transactions for which the department is responsible and the processing of fees or taxes for vehicle-related transactions.

BACKGROUND:

An “integrator” means an entity who enters into a contract with the Department of Transportation to provide information and transact business for the Department. For example, an integrator may facilitate and complete titling and license plate transactions for a car dealership. Currently, integrators are limited to the electronic issuance of vehicle titles, immediate issuance of title and registration, and written and skills testing for driver licenses and permits, including commercial driver licenses. Additional activities could include processing junk and salvage titles, out-of-state dealer transactions, and registration renewals.
