BACKGROUND:

In Oregon, various medical and non-medical professionals are expected to care for people that are at risk of suicide and everyone may not have thorough or up-to-date suicide prevention before coming into contact with people who are at risk of suicide.

Senate Bill 48 directs state licensing boards for certain medical and non-medical professions to require regular continuing education in suicide risk assessment, treatment, and management. Certain non-medical professions are required to have suicide prevention training every six years, while certain medical professionals are required to complete such training at intervals determined by the relevant licensing board. The measure requires the Oregon Health Authority (OHA) to develop a list of continuing education opportunities for suicide prevention and approve each board's training. Senate Bill 48 also directs the relevant licensing boards to document completion of suicide
