BACKGROUND:

In November 2016, Oregon voters passed Ballot Measure 100, which prohibits the purchase, sale, or possession with intent to sell of parts or products from elephant, rhinoceros, whale, tiger, lion, leopard, cheetah, jaguar, pangolin, sea turtle, shark, or ray, subject to civil penalties. The measure created exceptions to the prohibition, including law enforcement activities; activities authorized by federal law; certain antiques over 100 years old; certain musical instruments; noncommercial transfers through estates, trusts, gifts; and possession by tribal members. An exception was also made for donations for scientific or educational purposes.

House Bill 2576A would clarify the exemption from Measure 100 provisions for a bona fide scientific or educational institution for scientific or educational purposes. The measure would exempt such a sale if it included a written gift agreement or similar instrument that was entered into before July 1, 2017. The measure would also allow the Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife (ODFW) to permit such an institution to engage in the purchase, sale or donation of a lawfully acquired covered animal species part or product on or after July 1, 2017, and requires the institution to keep documentation of the transaction and provide a copy to ODFW.
