

It is about time that Monsanto and their ilk take responsibility for their corrupted seeds and pollen from these seeds contaminating neighboring farms. I find it an outrage that because Monsanto has become so powerful that they can sue others who have become victims of this kind of contamination.

It is time to exercise good and just judgement in favor of farmers who have become contaminated without their knowing or permission! I for one, will never knowingly consume GMO foods because they are suspect on several levels. Besides the obvious problems of consuming foods that have been genetically altered there is the added issue of the toxic chemicals that are used on these crops and that are now being revealed to be probable carcinogens!

It is our representative's responsibility to protect our rights and the rights of hard working American farm families... not just Big Ag!

Sincerely,

Judie Maron-Friend
