

Rules Committee,

The interstate compact doesn't come into effect until there are enough electoral votes in it to determine the outcome of an election. There is no risk that democratic states will participate in popular vote and republican states won't. We need to push this ball forward so that it can achieve some momentum or else we can expect more Trumps.

Angela Zehava
angela.zehava@stanfordalumni.org
1579 SE Nehalem St.
Portland, Oregon 97202