

Rules Committee,

We are now downgraded to a "flawed democracy." In a democracy, officials are elected by the people, not by an electoral college.

Our current sitting president was only elected by 26 or 27% of the people. Sadly, many did not bother to vote.

The real frustrating thing about our last election, a tragedy and a travesty of democracy, is that the candidate who won the people's vote was beat out by someone who is neither qualified, nor intelligent enough to hold the high office of president. This, because of the "electoral college".
