

Rules Committee,

I've lived in Oregon most of my life, which means when I have voted for president, my vote had not counted. Before the count for Oregon happened, the presidency was already decided. Each voice needs to be heard. With a national popular vote for president, gerrymandering won't be a viable option to alter how electoral votes are counted. Every vote needs to be counted, not just those the politicians want to be heard.

Kim Lawler

ksnazy@comcast.net

16675, Sw Heceta Ct

Beaverton, Oregon 97007