

Rules Committee,

Dear Senators,

The primary reason for setting up the Electoral College was the speed of communications at that time (The other issues were peripheral and not all that significant). After a couple centuries of communication speed improvement, it's time to adapt to this change. With today's communication speeds we can more closely reflect in the election results the people's wishes. Let's elect the President using the National Popular Vote.

This should not be seen as a partisan issue since all parties will be affected equally over time.

Best Regards,
