BACKGROUND:

Oregon currently allows marriages to be solemnized by a judicial officer, county clerk, religious organization or congregation, or clergy person authorized by a religious congregation or organization to solemnize marriages. There is no provision currently in Oregon law for a secular organization or officiant of a secular organization to solemnize marriages.

House Bill 2113 adds secular organizations and a celebrant or officiant of any secular organization to the list of persons and entities authorized to solemnize marriages. It also defines secular organization. Finally, the measure provides conforming language for related Oregon statutes.
