BACKGROUND:

Oregon law creates the Emergency Housing Account administered by the Oregon Housing Stability Council (OHSC) to fund programs assisting individuals who are homeless and those at risk of becoming homeless. Funds are used to pay for programs related to outreach, shelter, transitional housing and rapid re-housing, homelessness prevention, data collection, in-home services and community-based services and capacity. The use of the Emergency Housing Account also qualifies the state to receive certain federal matching funds for antipoverty programs if certain criteria are met.

The Community Action Partnership of Oregon (CAPO) is the nonprofit association for federally authorized social service agencies in Oregon that currently works with the state to deliver federal antipoverty programs and advise state agencies.

Senate Bill 821 directs OHSC to develop policy in consultation with CAPO for awarding grants to organizations through the Emergency Housing Account, including developing policies that align with federal homelessness prevention strategies and resources.
