

I am astonished that law makers think by these kinds of laws that people who are bent to hurt another party will be stopped. The criminal doesn't care about a law, the mentally ill or vindictive person doesn't care about a law. Their only agenda is to injure. I know of a case that has a restraining order on an estranged husband. But when he over steps the order has no help at all to apply measures in the order.

Laws like these don't protect the innocent. In many cases it will disarm the innocent so the perpetrator can have it easy.

Don't make more laws, give us more enforcement of the laws we already have. Put more law officers on duty so they can cover citizens needs.
