150 YEARS OF TRANSFORMATION

Presented in partnership with the OSU Foundation

150 Years of Creativity. 150 Years of Science. 150 Years of Transformation.

Join us in marking Oregon State University's milestone anniversary.

On October 27, 1868, Corvallis College became the state's official land grant institution. Since then, the university has grown from its first graduating class of three to over 31,800 students.

Over the past 150 years, OSU's name has changed, its programs have multiplied and its facilities have expanded. But our mission to conduct world-leading research and to provide the highest quality education for the people of our state and beyond remains steadfast. Our impact resounds across Oregon and around the globe because we are OUT THERE, solving the world's most pressing challenges.

We invite you to celebrate with us. Look back at everything we've done together and look to the future to see where we will go.

OSU150 showcases Oregon State's past, present and future contributions to Oregon, the nation and the world.

Celebrate: We are gathering together many generations of Beavers to commemorate Oregon's statewide university and its unique mission.

Demonstrate: Oregon State is a forward-thinking, global and transformative institution, and we are proud to share our history with the world.

Distinguish: We love to talk about what makes us unique.

- Oregon State is one of only two universities in the U.S. that have been honored with land, sea, space and sun grant designations.
- $441 million in 2017 research funding. More than all other Oregon public universities combined.
- A presence in all 36 Oregon counties and on all seven continents. We research, teach, serve and study everywhere.
