

OREGON OFFICE OF EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT

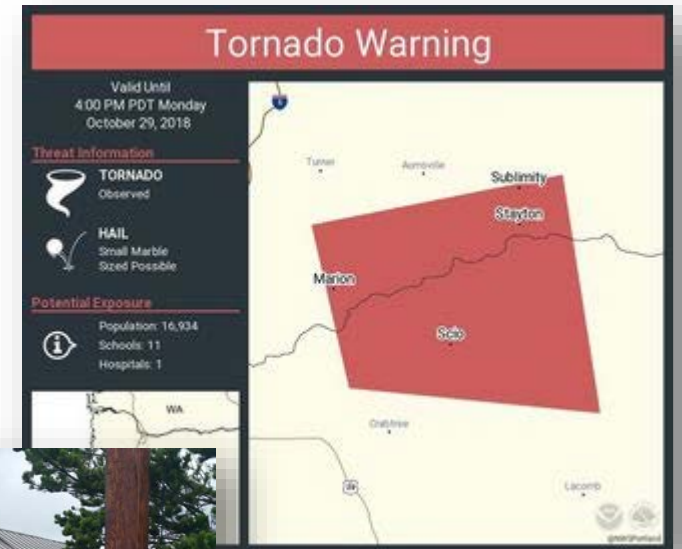

Every Second Counts: The importance of Earthquake Early Warning to Oregon

Andrew Phelps
Director

What We've Got

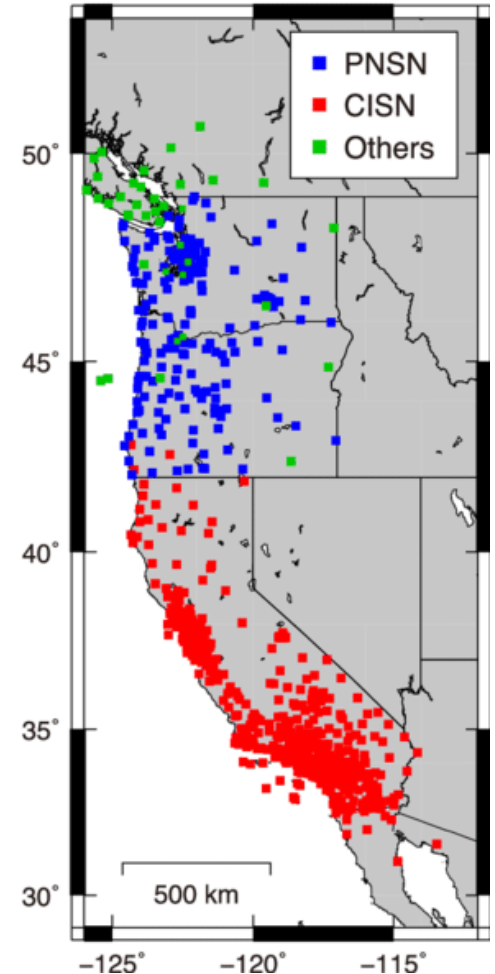

- Capacity to warn of nearly ALL natural hazards
 - Primarily National Weather Service
 - Local/State Alerting Authorities
- Success Stories
 - Manzanita Tornado (October 14, 2016)
 - California's Kincadee Fire

What We Need

- Ability to provide up to a minute of warning
- Unified west coast system
- Meet Public Expectations

Why We Need It

- Allows Oregonians to Get a Jump on Immediate Actions
- Benefit Cost Analysis Shows High Return
- Helps Build a Culture of Preparedness
