Memorandum

To: Representative Paul Holvey
Senator Arnie Roblan
Co-Chairs, Interim Special Joint Committee on Coronavirus Response

From: Marshall Coba MC

RE: K12, Inc. Offer of Assistance for Online Learning in Oregon

My client, K12 Inc., is a national leader in online learning. K12 is recognized as a key innovator over the past decade and currently serves online public schools in over 30 states with more than 120,000 students, most of whom are full time students. K12 also works with over 5,000 teachers – the largest network of K-12 online teachers in the U.S.

We are writing these comments in order to formally offer the Interim Special Joint Committee on Coronavirus Response our expertise in online learning, and to assist Oregon's policymakers and educators during this crisis.

We fully understand the dire situation Oregon and all other states find themselves in with the Covid-19 uncertainty. We applaud legislative leadership for appointing this special joint committee and believe that affirmative actions such as this committee have the potential to find resolutions to the many important issues that have arisen in such a short timeframe.

My client already offers high quality curriculum, technology, and school services to the Oregon Virtual Academy, a nonprofit online charter school authorized by the North Bend School District, and Insight Schools of Oregon Painted Hills chartered through the Mitchell School District. These online public charter schools and the other online schools in Oregon remain open and continue to educate students as we were doing prior to the Covid-19 situation.

In addition, K12 provides curriculum, technology, teacher training and more to thousands of school districts across the U.S., including school districts in Oregon, through its K12 Learning Solutions offerings, also known as Fuel Education (one-page summary attached).

In response to this crisis, K12 is stepping up to offer access to its curriculum, technology platform, along with teacher training and support to help serve school districts in a time of need.

We stand ready to be an asset to Oregon policy leaders, school districts, students and parents to help Oregon in the short and long term. With the Governor appropriately closing schools until April 28, K12 Inc. stands ready to help Oregon's families and education community during this trying period.

Please contact me at your convenience. We are ready to engage with policy leaders in Oregon.
