

Hello

I am an artist, I do ceramics and paintings, as an artist is not easy even in regular times. My real support is my family, but at least to keep working and be able to buy my supplies I work every day doing my art, I have a home studio and I work in a cooperative gallery; this gallery is closing temporary same as many business and that is my primary art source of income, I always try to sell on line, but that doesn't always works.

I have some important art show where I participate during the year, and the most important so far, is cancel.

I have an alimony from my divorce and we can live out of that for now, but probably at some point if the situation keeps as today, I will not be able to afford working on my art any more.

Thank you for reading
